The idea of the act requiring all heavy trucks to equip with a mirror is to do away with what drivers of passenger cars call "hogging the road." It is their contention that the drivers of slow moving trucks have the habit of getting in the middle of the road and staying there. The noise and rumble of the trucks, they declare, prevents their drivers from hearing horns or warning signals, and the result has been that drivers of pleasure cars have been forced to trail trucks. Sponsors of the new law pointed out that it would be obviously wrong to increase the speed limit without taking some step toward removing the prohibition on speed placed on the road by trucks.

CO-OPS BUY CHAR- LEVOIX ELEVATOR CO.

Plan to Greatly Enlarge Their Local Operations

A deal which has been pending for some time was closed on Monday of this week, whereby the members of the Charlevoix Co-operative association have acquired the building and business of the Charlevoix Elevator Co., operated here by the Chatterton interests of Mt. Pleasant and will take possession next week.

The deal was financed by the Co-operative association membership, and not only will the newly purchased plant be operated by them but their present holdings will be continued.

This association, composed of farmers in and around Charlevoix, has for some time been cramped for space in the building where they have been doing business, and with the newly added building, machinery and equipment, will greatly enlarge their operations.

It is a consummation of plans which have been smoldering for several years, and will give them room to handle a greater amount of farm products, grown locally, also give added storage room for potatoes, apples and root crops.

The handling of products needed on the farm such as feeds, fertilizers, etc., will be enlarged, earload lot purchases being one of the aims of the association.

SIX INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

SIX OF PARTY MOWED DOWN BY ANOTHER CAR

Ellsworth Business Men Hurt While on Way to Petoskey Boxing Match Friday Night

An automobile wreck in which the escape of any one of the six in the party was nothing short of a miracle occurred on the Charlevoix-Petoskey road a short distance east of the county line last Friday night.

The party, six in all, were all residents of Ellsworth and were on their way to Petoskey to take in the boxing match scheduled for that evening. Shortly after leaving Bay Shore they noticed one of the tires on their car going flat, and pulled to the side of the road to repair it.

Before they had changed the tire, they noticed a car coming from the east, also one from the rear, going east. The west bound car was equipped with extremely strong lights, and the driver failed to use his dimmers. The car going east dimmed its lights, and failed to see the car driven by the Ellsworth boys standing by the side of the road.

Several of the party of six were engaged in changing the tire, while the other stood about, looking on. The east bound car, failing to see them, on account of the strong lights of the west bound car, crashed into them at a speed estimated at at least twenty miles an hour.

The injured are:
F. O. Gillett, driver, crippled about the knees and back, body and head badly bruised and eyes blackened.

Ed Ross, ribs and collar bone broken and badly bruised.
Wm. J. Ross, a brother to Ed., ribs broken and now in a serious condition from internal injuries.

Will Patterson, formerly of Ellsworth and now employed in Flint, badly bruised and cut, but was able to return to Ellsworth Saturday.

George Hunter, former manager of the Ellsworth Drug Co., now employed as a druggist in Detroit, leg broken and numerous bad cuts and bruises.

Don Patterson, formerly of Ellsworth, and now a resident of northern Canada, badly shaken up but the least injured of any of the six. Was able to return to Ellsworth Saturday.

The six injured men were immediately taken to Petoskey hospital

*SPECIAL ELECTION TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6th, WHEN CITIZENS WILL DECIDE WHETHER TO MEET CONDITIONS OR STAY IN 'RUT THEY NOW FIND THEMSELVES IN

On Tuesday, September 6th, the voters of Charlevoix will vote on the proposition to borrow the necessary money to build an auxiliary steam plant for producing electric current. Out on the street we hear on every side the anxious question, "Will the proposition carry?"

Without exception, this is the most vital and important question the people of this city have had before them in many years. It is so vital that any failure at this time will spell disaster which will be beyond remedy. While we have no doubt of the result, it is a fact that in every election a large number of voters do not take the time and trouble to get the true facts. Others are against every improvement that may mean extra taxation, and still another class for one reason or another remains away from the polls entirely. This is a matter in which every man, woman and child in the city is vitally interested.

We have a water plant at Bellaire. Up to its capacity it furnishes a cheap source of current and under normal load it will supply our wants, but we knew when it was purchased that an auxiliary power plant must be provided to take care of the peak load of the summer season. Such auxiliary is necessary with every such plant unless a head of water is assured. We purchased with that plant a steam plant which Mr. Richard used as an auxiliary. It was intended to eventually move that steam plant to the city, and it was only the high cost of building and installing the necessary machinery that hindered its removal. We took a long chance and it came mighty near being disastrous. The demands for current have increased rapidly during the past year or two. Remember, that on the average two electricians have been employed by a local firm twelve months of the year running electric wiring. New electrical devices such as heating and cooking stoves, electric irons, laundry machines and dozens of other contrivances, have been invented and installed, all of which call for increased supply of current. Our citizens are demanding better street lighting and MUST have it. In short, our city has grown steadily and our municipal utilities must keep pace with that growth.

To those who are afraid of increased taxes, we wish to say that the proposed bonds will not affect taxes in any way. The issue will be so arranged that the income from the plant will take care of the bonds and interest. An electrical plant is just an ordinary commercial business to be run just the same as any other business. To make a success of his business, a merchant must have something to sell. To make a success of an electric lighting plant the owner must manufacture current and sell all of it he can. That is just the situation we are in regarding our electric plant—we haven't enough current on hand to meet the demands. Therefore, the proposition before us resolves itself into the simple question of whether we are going ahead with our business or stand still.

In addition to this, the question affects the welfare of every class and kind of business and occupation. The summer resort business has become one of our most important industries, if we may call it an industry. Hosts of people come here to secure the benefits of better living conditions in summer and they have taken practical possession of our city. We welcome them. They bring increased business and business is what we want. To hold that business and to increase it, good judgment demands that we take care of it and provide the necessary inducements. Nature has generously provided most of the inducements, but we must provide our share. We must have good order, good markets, good roads, good water and GOOD LIGHTS. We cannot conduct our business in the dark, and we don't wish to go prowling around in the dark even though we have no business.

Now comes the question; can we afford the bond issue? The answer is given above, but from a purely financial standpoint we can say that we CAN afford it. We have been meeting the Richard bonds promptly and have paid off $27,000 of them. In addition, we have made over $30,000 of improvements in that plant, all paid out of the earnings. The increased earnings of a fully equipped plant resulting in larger sales will take care of the additional outlay. There can be little doubt on that score.

We have examined the proposed plans of the Council and are convinced that matters are being well handled and that the new plant will be built as economically as possible consistent with efficiency. Provision is being made for future expansion so that we will be prepared for the future.

In a later issue we will go into further details in an effort to perform our duty to the public by furnishing information. Meanwhile we hope every citizen and every person who has the interest of Charlevoix at heart, will constitute himself or herself a committee of one to boost the project at every turn so that when the votes are counted September 6th, not a single dissenting vote will be found in the ballot box.

And there came a voice saying, "Let there be Light, and there WAS Light."

where their injuries were taken care of and all possible accomplished to alleviate their suffering.

SILO FILLING TIME IS HERE

FARMERS WILL BE BUSY MEN
DURING SEASON

Inspect Carefully and Tighten Hoops of Wooden Silos—Low-down Wagons Save Labor

With the approach of the time for filling the silo, experts in the United States department of agriculture call attention to the desirability of putting silos in shape and making plans for filling which will save valuable time in the rush of work. Silos are a comparatively new feature of farm management and in many cases have been built less substantially than some of the older forms of farm structures.

Even the best constructed silo will need some attention occasionally. Concrete silos, which are among the most expensive of construction, require the least attention as a general rule but they will give better service if the inside is given a coat of special paint about once in three years. Paint for treating the interiors of silos is easily made of raw coal tar mixed with gasoline and applied with a tar brush. The roof should be inspected to see if it is water tight and the doors may well be looked over. They need to fit tight.

Wooden silos, either stave or board construction, require additional attention. The hoops of stave silos should be tightened and any defective pieces of wood replaced. In wood silos, particularly the cheaper ones and those of home make there is always the likelihood of inlets for air, which will spoil the silage. If the silo is so built as to require guy wires, these should be tightened to keep the building plumb and well braced to withstand winds.

Careful attention should be paid to seeing that the machinery to be used in harvesting and storing the silage is in working condition. Corn harvesters and silo-filling machinery are frequently owned in partnership by several farmers and, of course, arrangements should be made in advance to see that all the owners get their corn in at the season when it is in best shape. In using the corn harvester the bundles should be made rather small. While this takes more time, the extra expense is more than offset by the ease in handling the bundles and feeding them into the silage cutter.

The corn ordinarily is hauled to the cutter on common, flat hay racks. The low-wheeled wagon is much preferable to the high one. An underslung rack can be constructed with comparative ease and will save much labor. The rack consists of two 4x8 inch bed pieces, 18 or 20 feet in length bolted together at the end to form a V. On top of these timbers is built a rack 6 feet in width. The bottom of this rack is about 8 feet long. The end boards are 4 feet high, built flaring so that they do not quite touch the wheels.

The apex of the V is suspended below the front axle of an ordinary farm wagon by means of a long kingbolt. The other ends are attached below the hind axle by U-shaped clevises. The materials needed in its construction are 80 board feet of 4x6 inch plank, 96 feet of boards 1x12 inches, 22 feet of lumber 2x4 inches, one long kingbolt, two stirrup rods, and bolts and nails.

If the silage cutter and lifting machinery have not been selected, every effort should be made to get machinery which has sufficient or excess capacity. The mistake is often made of getting an outfit that is too small, thus making the operation of filling the silo slow and interfering with the continuous employment of the entire force of men. A number of the satisfactory silage cutters are on the market. The chief features to be considered in a cutter are that it be strongly made and will cut fine.

Opinions differ as to the fineness to which silage should be cut. The length varies from 1-4 inch to 1 inch. The latter is a little too long, as the pieces do not pack so closely in the silo, and they are not so completely consumed in feeding as the shorter lengths. On the other hand, the longer the pieces, the more rapidly the corn can be run through the cutter. Fine cutting and thorough tramping are needed if it is desired to make the best quality of silage and fill the silo to its greatest capacity.

Two types of elevators are in use—the old style chain carrier and the blower. The chain carrier requires less power but is harder to set up and makes more litter especially in windy weather, though some chain carriers are so inclosed as to keep the corn from blowing out. In using the blower type the blower should be placed as nearly perpendicular as possible.

Ordinarily corn should be harvested for the silo about a week or 10 days before it would be cut for silage; that is, when about 90 per cent of the kernels are dented and at least 75 per cent of the kernels are hardened so that no milk can be squeezed out. At this time the lower leaves on the stalk are turning yellow and the green corn fodder contains 65 or 70 per cent of moisture, which is sufficient for silage. Silage made from corn containing moisture enough for proper preservation is more palatable than that made from corn so mature as to require the addition of water.

You'll need a new traveling bag when you go on that vacation. Benji Brow has a choice assortment to select from. 33tf

THRIFTY TOURISTS

Europe is frankly disappointed in American tourists this summer. They were expected to bring a flood of gold and scatter it with a lavish hand, as they used to in the care-free, antebellum days. They have not appeared in the numbers anticipated, and they have been actually stingy.

London complains that whereas Americans used to spend perhaps $50,000,000 in England every summer, they have not spent a tenth of that in the present season. France has been treated somewhat more liberally. There is something about Paris that just naturally inspires an American to "loosen up." Still even Paris feels slighted and hurt, and does not hesitate to express its disappointment and disapproval.

For much of this the European hotel keepers and merchants have themselves to blame. They have always regarded Americans as "easy," and exploited them accordingly. This year they have overreached themselves. The tourists, learning that there was one price for natives and another for travelers in general, and still another, far higher, for American travelers, have refused to stand for it, and as a correspondent says, have "tried to give a cent the purchasing power of a sixpence."

Their unwonted frugality is also a reflection of the new spirit of thrift prevailing back home. Knowing how scarce ready money is in America, and how dubious is the prospect of replacing easily what they squander, they are less inclined to squander, even in the presence of Old World temptations.

This is good for America, and better for Europe. It sets a good example. It also tends to get Europe out of the notion that America is easy picking, and cultivates among our foreign friends a spirit of self-reliance that has been lacking lately.

RELIEF AT LAST

It begins to look as if the movement toward the relief of the disabled soldiers is actually under way. A definite hospital program has been announced by Col. Forbes, director of the veterans' bureau. The plan involves the immediate expenditure of over $6,000,000 out of funds now available, and it is estimated that by January 1, hospital facilities of 6,800 new beds will be ready.

This is only a beginning. More hospitals are to be erected as rapidly as may be, while arrangements are also being completed with existing institutions to take immediate care of cases in pressing need of attention.

For years to come the man either directly or indirectly disabled from army service will be one of the big problems of the country. It will be harder to handle the matter because there has been so much bungling and red tape. But order is coming out of confusion. The consolidation of offices for the work is proving helpful already. Then, too, time enough has elapsed to allow a chance to study the problem. No such tremendous thing suddenly precipitated could be got into smooth running order without many mistakes and delays.

It is hoped these are over, and that every man who needs it will soon have the best of care in comfortable surroundings.

Read the Advertisements and Go to the Store With Your Mind Made Up

Sit in your easy-chair and read the advertisements—leisurely. Find out what the merchants have to offer. Make up a list of the things you want to look at or buy.

This will save hours of standing around stores, asking questions of the clerks—MAYBE getting what you want and maybe NOT.

The advertisements are a panorama of dealers' shelves passed before your eye, with the Fire which destroyed the smokehouse at the County Farm at East Jordan last Saturday for a time threatened the home and adjacent buildings until the local fire department made a record run and extinguished the fast spreading blaze. Several hams in the consumed building are a total loss.—East Jordan Herald.

Elwood, four years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Scott, accompanied his mother on a berry picking expedition last Friday. Elwood was left to guard the horse and buggy while his elders gathered the dark, luscious fruit, but becoming restless he wandered away and his mother returning became alarmed and sent a phone call to the city for her husband, who was at the Tannery and Deputy Sheriff Houghton. These gentlemen with others, organized a searching party and the lad was found quietly picking berries himself, about one and one-half miles from where he had been left.—Boyer Citizen.

Thieves secured considerable booty early Sunday morning of last week when they gained entrance through the rear window of the B. F. McCumber store in North Boyne and made away with a large quantity of groceries, meat, tobacco and cigars.

Department of Conservation Lansing, Michigan
Order Fixing the Time and Place for Public Hearing
State of Michigan, County of Ingham, ss.

A petition having been filed with this department, signed by a majority of the members of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix, Michigan, asking that a time and place be fixed for a public hearing to determine the advisability of suspending, abridging or otherwise regulating the open season now fixed by law on the following animals, to-wit: deer, because of the threatened depletion or extermination of such animals in said county.

Therefore, I John Baird, Director, Department of Conservation, do hereby designate and fix the said time and place for the said public hearing as follows, to-wit: The said hearing will be held at the Court House, in the city of Charlevoix, on the 13th day of September, 1921, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, which hearing may be continued or adjourned for such time as may be deemed advisable by the said Director to afford all persons interested an opportunity to be heard in regard to the petition to suspend, abridge or regulate the open season on said game animals.
Given under my hand and seal this 11th day of August, 1921.
Seal. John Baird, Director. 3413

HOPE TO HALT LAKE POLLUTION

STATE BOARD TO CENTER EFFORTS ON SEWAGE DISPOSAL

W. C. Brockway, with Resort Sanitation Unit, Asks That Law Be Enforced

"By the disposal of wastes in lakes and streams, communities turn attractive natural resources into objectionable and dangerous nuisances," said W. C. Brockway, assistant state sanitary engineer in charge of the resort sanitation unit which was here for two weeks.

"Such pollution may seriously affect the purity of water supplies. Bathing beaches may also become seriously contaminated by such practice so as to be a menace to public health. Serious and offensive nuisances may be caused which are objectionable for aesthetic reasons, and such reasons are well founded. Fish life may be injured from excessive pollution of our lakes and streams which results in the ruin of one of the features that makes the Michigan summer resorts so attractive.

"Recent legislation amending the water and sewage law, in effect August 17, makes it unlawful for either public or private corporations to discharge into any state waters wastes or filth of any description which will tend to injure, kill or stupefy any fish. The amendment provides that such wastes must not be discharged into these waters unless they are treated by filtration.

"This new provision of the law is not particularly startling because the Grand Rapids stream pollution decision handed down by the Michigan supreme court in 1913 affords ample proof that such practice is not justified. The decision emphatically states that there can be no prescriptive right to pollute a stream in such manner or to such an extent as to create a public nuisance or to be injurious to the public health."

ARCHIE BELDING TO FILL VACANCY

Caused by Resignation of Commissioner May L. Stewart

On Thursday of last week, Archie Belding, former Walloon Lake resident and at one time commissioner of schools in Antrim county, was appointed commissioner of the Charlevoix school to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of May L. Stewart.

Miss Stewart has become a member of the forces of the state department of education, and during the terms of office served has been considered the most successful commissioner of schools in the state. An outstanding feature of her work was that of making the rural school the social and community center of the district. In this she not only succeeded to a marked degree, but carried her work in the grange and other rural organizations.

Mr. Belding is well qualified to fill this most important position and will without doubt carry on the work in the same manner as during the past years. The appointment was made by a committee composed of the judge of probate, county clerk and county treasurer.

CO-OPS TO MEET AT COURT HOUSE

Special Meeting Called for Tuesday Night of Next Week

Under the auspices of the Charlevoix Co-Operative association, a meeting will be held at the court house on Wednesday evening, August 31.

They expect to have Mr. Cribbs of the U. S. Bureau of Markets as chief speaker of the evening, besides Mr. Wing, county agent and others. The subject of Mr. Cribbs' topic will be "The Relation of the Michigan Farm Bureau and the Potato Grower's Exchange."

Every member of the association is asked to be present as well as all interested in the welfare and future prosperity of agriculture.

EMMET FARMER SHOT BY STEP-SON

Sheriff and posse Seizing Woods for Man Responsible

Charles St. Peter, farmer living near Alanson, Emmet county, is in the Petoskey hospital suffering from gun-shot wounds inflicted by his step-son, Marvin King.

The shooting occurred at the St. Peter home Thursday following a quarrel between the two men over the possession of a revolver.

Following the shooting King ran into the woods nearby, and the sheriff is out with a posse of men trying to capture the would-be murderer.

BANQUET ON EVE OF LEGION DAY

Picnic During Day at the North Side Ball Park

The stage is all set for the American Legion picnic which is being given by the Charlevoix Post, Thursday, August 25th, at the north side ball park. Posters and hand bills announcing the various events of the day have been distributed throughout the county.

One of the most interesting events of the day will be the baseball game in the afternoon between the league teams of Charlevoix and Boyne City. Ex-Vice-President Marshall who is also slated for a talk during the day will pitch the first ball.

A banquet will be held in the evening at Hallett's Inn at which time Mrs. Sangster, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Michigan will speak and will aid in the organization of a women's auxiliary in Charlevoix also Boyne City. All women eligible for membership are urgently requested to be present as well as the public at large. Judge Frederick H. Mayne will deliver the address of the evening.

The American Legion boys of this city have been working mighty hard to put this thing across and it is the duty of the people of this city to give them every bit of support to make the picnic a success that they can.

FAIR TO BE ATTRACTION SOON

To Be Held At East Jordan September 12th to 16th

Now that the month of September is drawing near we must not forget the dates set for the Charlevoix County Fair is close at hand the fair beginning on September 12th and closing the 16th.

Next week we will have the proper information on hand to give our readers a detailed description of this year's fair complete with the premium list and each day's program of events.

The fair officials have been working hard on this year's fair and state that it will be better than ever. A number of improvements have been made, including additions to the grounds and everything will be in first-class shape and ready on the opening day of the fair.

BOYNE CITY DEFEATED HOME TEAM

Winning of Game Determined the League Leadership

Boyne City took the lead of the Northern Michigan baseball league by defeating the Charlevoix team on their home grounds in a very fast game the score being 6-0.

The work of Saffron, the Boyne City pitcher was the feature of the day. Loomis of Charlevoix also pitched good baseball but poor playing by the entire team behind him lost the game. The Charlevoix boys expect to wipe out this defeat and regain the lead in the game to be played at the American Legion picnic Thursday.

CAR OVERTURNS ON BAD CORNER

F. W. Fincher Pinned Underneath Car and Injured

A seven passenger touring car driven by F. N. Fincher of East Jordan turned completely over at the sharp turn at the Eveline Orchards on the East Jordan road Thursday afternoon, spilling out its occupants and pinning Mr. Fincher underneath the car.

While Mr. Fincher's injuries are not of a serious nature, they will lay him up for several days. The other occupants of the car escaped without injury.

76th Birthday Celebrated

The 76th birthday of one of Charlevoix's oldest residents was celebrated Monday at the city park in the form of a family reunion. The subject of this occasion was Mrs. Daniel Pierce who came to this section of the state in 1858 and has made Charlevoix her home since that time. Relatives of Mrs. Pierce from distant points were in attendance and a fine time was experienced by all who heartily wished Mrs. Pierce many more birthdays.

USE KNIFE TO MAKE CANCER PAINLESS

U. of M. Surgeons Give Relief in Hopeless Cases

Special to the Free Press.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 20—Admittedly one of the most terrifying things about cancer is the pain that accompanies it, especially in its last stages.

In two instances lately, surgeons in the University hospital here have successfully relieved this pain by an operation known to the medical profession as chordotomy, which, while it does not attempt to cure the disease and is only performed where there is no hope of ultimate cure, does relieve the patient of practically all pain.

The operation has been performed ten times in the history of medicine, it is said, the two most recent attempts being operations performed here.

The operation consists of opening the spinal canal at a point just below the line of the shoulders, and cutting the "tracts," which carry the pain sensation. These "tracts" are so small that they can only be seen through a microscope. The spinal cord also carries other nerve "tracts" which are vitally necessary to the life of the body, and the danger lies in the fact that if the knife varies a minute fraction the patient would be paralyzed or weakened vitally.—Detroit Free Press, Sunday, August 21, 1921.

BOY DROWNED AT BOYNE CITY

Lads Tried to Put Sail on a Canoe—Three Rescued

One death and three narrow escapes was the total of an attempt to put a sail on a canoe at Boyne City last Sunday.

Eugene Dorenburg, aged 10 was drowned while the other three boys who were in the boat were rescued. Carl Vincent was saved only through the heroic efforts of Mrs. Wm. Summers who, upon hearing the boy's cry for help, plunged into the lake and brought him ashore after he was exhausted.

The body of the Dorenburg boy was recovered two hours later.

following resolution:

Resolution

West Lincoln avenue sewer district No. 26.
Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix that that part of the cost of construction of a sewer in that part of West Lincoln avenue lying between Bridge street and the east line of Lot 14 of Block 3 of Mason's addition to the City of Charlevoix being heretofore designated as west Lincoln avenue sewer district No. 26 and being a part of the so-called south side sewer system, be paid out of the general sewer fund of said city and heretofore fixed in the sum of one hundred fourteen and thirty-eight hundredths dollars, be paid by the issuance of one time order in said sum of one hundred fourteen and thirty-eight hundredths dollars to be due and payable on the 25th day of August,
A. D. 1922 at the office of the treasurer of said city, upon presentation and surrender of said order, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum payable at the maturity of said order.

Resolved further, that the City Clerk be and hereby is instructed to sign and deliver said order issued as herein authorized and charge the same to the general sewer fund of said city. Said order to bear date of the 23rd of August, 1921, and be payable out of any moneys in said fund at the date of maturity thereof.

Resolved further, that said time
Order when so issued shall have priority over any and all orders issued by direction of the council of said city after date of said order, as to time of payment and security of said fund.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the Common Council held in the Council rooms in said city the 22nd day of August, 1921, by aye and nay vote as follows: Ayes, Bergeon, Genett, Hamilton, Levinson, Miller and Wood. Nays, none.
Archie Livingston, City Clerk.

Moved by Ald. Wood seconded by Ald. Levinson the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolution

Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, that Whereas, the Common Council has by resolution heretofore adopted, declared it expedient and necessary to construct a steam power plant for the manufacture of electric current to supply electric light, power and heat to the city and its inhabitants, and

Whereas, pursuant to said resolution, the Committee on Electric Lights has presented and filed in the office of the City Clerk a report of plans, specifications and an estimate of the cost of construction of such a plant together with the necessary estimate of the cost of having been found in the sum of fifty thousand dollars.

Therefore he it resolved, that the said plans, specifications and the estimate of the cost of construction of said plant, be and the same are hereby approved and adopted, and the report of said committee recorded in the minutes of the Common Council.

Resolved further, that to construct said power plant it is necessary to raise by loan the said sum of fifty thousand dollars and to provide for the issuance of the bonds of said city in said sum not in excess of the amount which the said city may borrow as provided by law.

Resolved further, that the proposition to issue the bonds of the City of Charlevoix, in the County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan in the sum of fifty thousand dollars to bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable annually, and to mature at not to exceed twenty years from the date of issue, said bonds to be in denominations of not less than one thousand dollars each, for the purpose of constructing said power plant and installing the necessary machinery and equipment according to the plans and specifications therefore on file in the office of the City Clerk, be submitted to the electors of said city of Charlevoix at a special election to be held therein on Tuesday, the sixth day of September, A. D. 1921, for approval or rejection.

Resolved further, that a special election of the electors of said city be and hereby is called to be held on Tuesday, the sixth day of September,
A. D. 1921, in the office of the City
Clerk in the basement of Carnegie Library in said city, as a Central Polling place for the several wards of said city for the purpose of voting on the said proposition. That the polls of said election shall be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon

FAT HORSES ARE PREFERRED Farmer Makes Mistake in Disposing of Animals When They Are Somewhat Run Down.

It is better for the farmer who has horses to sell not to dispose of them when they are somewhat run down, following a hard summer's work, but to fatten them up. A fat horse always brings a much better price even though he be an inferior horse.

BROOD SOWS DURING WINTER
Should Be Maintained as Cheaply as Possible and Yet Farrow Healthy Litters.

During the winter the brood sows should be maintained as cheaply as possible, but at the same time they must be properly fed in order to farrow a large number of healthy, well-grown pigs in the spring.

Mortgage Foreclosure
Default having been made in the condition of a certain Real Estate Mortgage whereby the power of sale therein contained has become operative, which mortgage was given by Earl A. Young and Irene E. Young jointly, husband and wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to James A. Hawkins of Charlevoix, Michigan, on the 5th day of July 1918, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the 5th day of July 1918, in Liber 54 of Mortgages on page 406; and whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of four hundred eighty-five and seventy-eight one hundredths dollars together with an additional fee of thirty dollars as provided for in said mortgage and whereas the tax required by the statute to be paid on said mortgage was duly paid prior to the recording thereof;

Now therefore, notice is given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statutes made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of premises therein described, or so much as is necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon of the principal and interest, together with the amounts paid for taxes, costs and expenses of the foreclosure including the attorney fee provided by statute, at public auction to the highest bidder thereof at the front door of the Court House in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix is held, on the 12th day of November, A. D. 1921 at ten o'clock in the forenoon on that day.

The premises described in said mortgage being herein described as follows, to-wit: The southwest quarter of section twenty-one (21) in town thirty-three (33) north, range eight
(8) west, thence south on the west boundary line of said description forty rods to the southwest corner thereof, thence east ten rods; thence northwesterly to place of beginning, being part of the said northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of said section 21 in town 33 north, range 8 west. Also the following description, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) in town thirty-three (33) north, of range eight (8) west, as per the U. S. survey thereof, excepting therefrom a parcel of land in the northeast corner thereof described as follows: Commencing on the east line of the said northwest quarter of said northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) addressed at a point forty rods south of the northeast corner of said description; thence north along the east line thereof forty rods to the northeast corner thereof; thence west ten rods thence in a southeasterly direction to the starting point.

Boss are at the same hospital, the former with three broken ribs and a broken collar bone and the latter with a broken and dislocated shoulder all three of whom are also suffering minor cuts and bruises about the face and body on several of which the surgeons were obliged to use the needle.

In addition to the above injured men, F. O. Gillett and Wm. Patterson were so badly bruised as to require surgical aid, the former of whom was obliged to remain at the hospital from Friday night until Monday noon, while the latter only spent the night there. Donald Patterson, Jr., the sixth member of the party and the least injured was the only one not requiring medical treatment.

The above casualty list is the result of an accident which occurred on Friday evening of last week about six miles south of Petoskey on the Charlevoix-Petoskey road. The six men left Ellsworth in Mr. Gillett's car to attend the boxing show and according to their statement had pulled to the south side of the road and stopped to repair a flat tire. The entire party were on the right hand side of the car and clustered about the wheel when a large machine belonging to the Bain Taxi Co., of Petoskey in charge of one of their employees, turned out to meet a car coming towards Charlevoix. The driver of the taxi evidently did not see the Ellsworth car until it was too late to stop and made an effort to avoid a collision by passing it on the right. In so doing he ran his machine directly into the party with the aforementioned result.

Every member of the Ellsworth party were knocked unconscious temporarily. E. H. Boss being the first to recover sufficiently to realize what had happened, while Wm. Patterson remained unconscious until the following morning. The rear wheel of the taxi had to be lifted from Wm. Boss' body and William Patterson was also pulled from beneath the machine.

It was thought as first that Wm. Boss had suffered internal injuries in addition to those already listed but luckily such was not the case.

It seems almost a miracle that someone was not killed, but as it is even those who have been able to leave the hospital are in a deplorable condition due to cuts and bruises.

AT THE MOVIES

Ever since the first light which helped make "The Spoilers" famous some six years ago, screen directors have tried to stage a fistie battle to eclipse that gladiatorial combat, and according to report, this feat now has been accomplished.

The principals in this terrific struggle are Elmo Lincoln, Universal star, who is known to all movie fans as Elmo the Mighty, and Noble Johnson, a towering giant of superb strength. The fight occurs in "Under Crimson Skies," a big special feature filmed by Universal and to be seen at the Majestic Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

What makes this struggle unusual is the fact that it is fought in the raging surf of the Pacific, both men standing waist deep in the water, battling the mighty waves while waging their mortal combat.

From a photoplay standpoint, greater variety will be offered in Mary Pickford's next production, entitled "Through the Back Door" than in anything this star has ever offered to theatre patrons. This production will be featured at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

The story opens with colorful scenes at the pleasure resort of Ostend as it was in the gala days of 1903. Then farm scenes in Belgium are shown, wherein are featured the picturesque peasant costumes, the pastoral scenes and the quaint architecture that have made this kingdom famed for its "rural beauty." The scene then shifts to the modern castles of the rich on Long Island, and here we glimpse modern architecture in all its magnificence both in exterior and interior views. We see marvelous furnishings, and beautiful women in all the elegance of fine feathers prescribed by the world's greatest modists.

"An Unwilling Hero" is based upon an O. Henry story, "Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking," and possesses all the humor, unexpectedness and charm which O. Henry put into that tale. At the Palace Theatre next Monday.

MAINTAIN QUALITY OF EGGS

Handling and Treatment Given After Being Laid Have Much Influence on Worth.

An egg is never any better in quality than just at the moment it is laid in a clean nest. What happens to it after it has been well borne is what gives it character and reputation. For instance, an egg that has been harvested and placed in a hot kitchen near decaying vegetable matter will soon "take on" deterioration, while a good quality egg placed in cold storage for several months will possess quality, though far from being freshly laid. It is the handling and treatment of eggs after being laid that has everything to do with the maintenance of quality. As matters average, March or April laid eggs, properly stored, possess a quality equal to many so-called fresh eggs produced during the hot days of summer, and particularly if the latter are not handled just right. Environment is of quite as much importance as age. More depends on the human factor than the hen. Birds well fed and in sanitary surroundings lay good eggs; it is the care and attention given them while in transit to the ultimate consumer that largely influences quality.

TURKEYS BEST AS SIDE LINE

Most Profitable for Those Who Are Favorably Situated—Ample Range Is Essential.

Turkey raising as ordinarily engaged in is a side line upon the general farm. For those who are favorably situated for raising turkeys, a more profitable side line can hardly be found. Plenty of range is essential to success.

Engineer Sloan's Progress Report.

August 15, 1921.

Hon. Mayor and Members of the Common Council, City of Charlevoix:

Gentlemen—Pursuant to authority delegated to me by you and approved by Assistant State Sanitary Engineer W. C. Brockway, on Sunday, July 31st, I have, with the full assistance and co-operation of the state laboratory in charge of Mr. Stuckey, Mr. Brockway and Major Rich, made investigation of your water supply and made such corrections and improvements as were necessary and possible in this length of time, and now wish to report progress to you.

We found your water supply contaminated to the extent that it was unsafe to drink unless boiled. This contamination we have determined is of local origin, due to broken and unsanitary sewers, not shown on our approved sewer maps, from the transformer house, attendant's house and the five cottages occupied by the coast guards. This, together with leakage of fuel and lubricating oils into the filter gallery from the auxiliary power plant, built directly over the gallery, had produced a very bad and unsafe condition.

In the working out of the plans to furnish a quick and safe remedy I encountered a very serious power condition, viz:

1st. The Semi-Diesel engine is an absolute failure as a dependable auxiliary.

2nd. The steam boiler is unsafe and not capable of supplying steam power sufficient to successfully operate the steam pumps.

3rd. Storage of the water at Bellaire will not furnish more than one-half the power necessary for lighting only.

4th. Both the suction and discharge lines in pumping plant deficient in that no valves are in working order and I understand have not been for a period of time.

5th. The Worthington pumps, only one of which was running, were in very bad repair.

6th. The main filter gallery has for a long time been entirely deprived of ventilation by the covering up of the manholes in building the power plant directly over it and the pump well covering is in unsafe and unsightly condition.

We have put forth all our energy to make correction of the most dangerous of these conditions first and have to this time accomplished the following corrections:

1st. The construction of new sewer system of 530 feet of 6-inch and 220 feet of 4 inch cast iron pipe with leaded joints which removes from the plant the danger of further contamination from this source. All of the contaminated sand, gravel and earth which have been in contact with or adjacent to the old sewers have been removed and replaced with clean washed sand, and a large area around the wells disinfected.

The new sewer system takes care of the power plant, attendant's house and five cottages occupied by members of the coast guard and flows directly away from the plant in the opposite direction from the well. The system is equipped with approved manholes and flush tanks and I believe more efficient than any other sewer in the city.

2nd. Partial chlorination of the water was begun within 24 hours after inspection and continued until the afternoon of the 8th at which time the steam boiler failed and due to the fact that the proper valves were not working on the centrifugal pump, it was found that the chlorinator could not be successfully operated on this pump. Therefore, the attempt at complete chlorination was suspended awaiting the arrival of the larger machine, which we installed Saturday, August 14. Now we have operating the small machine furnished by the state department on the steam pumps and on the larger machine, purchased by us, on the large centrifugal pump. Both machines are fast approaching proper regulation and it is only a matter of hours until we hope to have the state department of health approve our water supply.

3rd. A vast amount of oil-soaked gravel has been removed from the vicinity of the filter gallery and replaced with clean sand the old oil house has been removed and the ground thereunder thoroughly disinfected. Ventilators have been constructed on filter gallery and are working very satisfactorily. The source of the oil contamination has been found and removed; however, its effect may continue for some time, but persistently decrease until not noticeable. We understand this is in no way injurious to health.

4th. Plans have been made and construction commenced to prevent the surface drainage from Grant and Palmer streets discharging across the filter beds and into the power plant, ultimately reaching our water supply.

5th. The necessary valves have been received and we are now installing them to prevent leakage from the system into the wells of an unknown quantity of water. I am convinced this will greatly reduce the amount of power required for pumping and thereby improve our lighting condition.

For permanent betterment I recommend for immediate action:

The covering of the pump well with concrete and glass; the repairing and proper connection of the third well which has been out of service for several years; the construction of an efficient auxiliary steam plant at a place removed from the present location and the removal from the water plant of all power generating buildings and machinery, thereby dedicating the present site to a water and transforming station which can, at small cost, be made an efficient and well kept station. For the present at least I will not recommend any change whatsoever in the location of the water plant.

There are attached drawings showing all changes now being made and a layout of the plant which I understand has not heretofore been available.

This is presented to you as a progress report only, and should not be taken as final and complete.

Respectfully submitted,

R. F. Sloan, Engineer.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Dr. Musser of Detroit will speak at the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday evening at 7:30. Dr. Musser was for several years a missionary in India. During the past few years he has been a member of Bishop Henderson's staff. He is well known through Michigan and is exceedingly popular with the people.

Miss Luna Wellman, granddaughter of Mrs. Maggie Washburn of this city, will render several selections on the piano next Sunday morning. Miss Wellman is an instructor at the Southern California College of Music and is enroute to New York City where she is to play before the celebrated musical artist and critic, Mr. Harold Bauer.

A special offering will be taken next Sunday in behalf of the retired preachers of the Michigan conference. All those having special envelopes for this purpose will kindly turn them in with a generous offering. We have many old preachers who have been compelled to retire on account of age or sickness. These men were the pioneers of Methodism in Michigan and receive little compensation for their labors now in their old age is our sacred duty and high privilege to minister to their needs. This church has been asked to contribute $200.00 for this purpose.

SEPTEMBER WEDDINGS ARE BECOMING FASHIONABLE

Four Charming Charlevoix Young Ladies Married During the Past Few Days

September weddings are becoming the rage in Charlevoix. At least one would come to this conclusion from the number who have succumbed to Cupid's darts during the first days of the month. Those from Charlevoix whom we have seen grow from childhood to budding womanhood, who have to date been united in holy wedlock are as follows:

Saunders-Adams
Saturday, September third at one p. m. a quiet but pretty wedding was held at the home of J. M. Saunders on Belvedere avenue when Miss Marian E. Saunders of Charlevoix was united in marriage to Mr. Harry A. Adams of Los Angeles, Calif., the ceremony being conducted by Rev. Smith of this city.

Attending the bride and groom were Mrs. Chester Robinson, formerly Miss Helen Parsons, and the brother of the bride. The ring service was used and the bride was given away by her father.

The bride was dressed in a pretty navy blue satin crepe gown and the groom wore summer formal.

Immediately following the ceremony a bridal lunch was served at the Linda Vista, after which, Mr. and Mrs. Adams left for a short camping trip.

Parsons-Robinson
Promptly at high noon yesterday, September 6th, Miss Helen Parsons, of this city was united in marriage to Mr. Chester Robinson of Alma. The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parsons on Belvedere avenue, and was conducted by Rev. Smith of Charlevoix.

Miss Marian Parsons, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Mr. Frederick W. Thurnau of Pittsburgh acted as best man.

The bride was prettily dressed in gray tulle and was given away by her father.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. The table was perfectly appointed and decorated with pink and white cosmos and candles to match. The dinner was served by Miss Helen Mason of this city.

After dinner was served Mr. and Mrs. Robinson accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thurnau left for Douglas Lake amid a shower of rice and good wishes.

Guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Markham, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parsons, Miss Marian Parsons, and Miss Helen Mason of Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thurnau of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. A. McCormick, mother of Mr. Thurnau.

Markham-Thurnau
Another pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of J. A. Markham on Belvedere avenue, Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, when their daughter, Pauline, became the bride of Frederick Thurnau of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. A. McCormick of Bay City mother of the groom, was the only out-of-town guest. A wedding breakfast was served after which the young couple left for a short stay at Douglas Lake.

Driggett-Bennett
At 8:00 o'clock Friday night of last week, Miss Annis Driggett of this city, was united in marriage to George Bennett, at the home of the groom in Flint, by the pastor of the Christian Ordain church.

A delightful wedding supper was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left on a short honeymoon trip through the southern part of the state.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Driggett, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Driggett, Jr., and family, and Miss Cora Driggett, all of Charlevoix.

WIN FIRST OF 3 GAME SERIES

LOEB FARMS DEFEAT BOYNE CITY BY SCORE 10-2

Tubbs Had the Northern Michigan Champs at His Mercy Through Entire Nine Innings

Fielding a fast, snappy game and clouting the old pill in a style reminiscent of sluggers of the old days before the lively ball was introduced to swell the averages, the Loeb Farms aggregation of athletes decisively defeated the champions of the Northern Michigan League, Boyne City, in a well-played exhibition on the latter's ball lot Monday afternoon. It was a holiday crowd of record numbers that witnessed the fray, the first of a three-game series to determine the championship of Northern Michigan.

With the exception of one inning, the first, the league champions never had a look-in. Tubbs and Foster were at their best, Tubbs' fast straight and sharp breaking curves proving too much for Boyne City.

The "Aggies" piled up nine tallies in the second, third and fourth innings, this putting the old game safely away before the fifth session.

For the Farms, a spectacular catch by Ransom and the batting of Tubbs, Boak and Ransom featured, though there was little to stand out in a general high average of play. Boyne City's pitching ace, Harold Sniffon, was in a prodigious mood for once, yielding 11 hits against five by his rival from across the lake. Tubbs whiffed 16, while Harold sent a paltry seven grumbling to the bench.

The return game, second of the series, will be played at Loeb Farms Sunday next, September 11th, at 2:30 p. m. promptly. It should be very close.

Monday's score—
Loeb's 10 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Boyne City 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2

MARRIED THURSDAY AT EAST JORDAN

By Same Minister That Married the Groom's Father and Mother

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Rev. John Hackett, near East Jordan, on Thursday afternoon of last week, when Miss Christine Krulik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krulik of this city became the bride of Lyle Kownski of East Jordan. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Hackett, who officiated at the wedding of the groom's father and mother on the same date, September 1, thirty years ago.

Mrs. Kownski has been a resident of Charlevoix practically all of her life, and at present is supervisor of the local exchange of the Michigan State Telephone company. The groom is well known in East Jordan, and friends of both join in extending congratulations.

After the wedding supper, served at the home of the groom's grandmother, Mrs. James Evans, they left on a short motor trip.

BOND ISSUE CARRIES ALMOST WITHOUT A DISSENTING VOTE

Out of Four Hundred Forty-seven Votes Cast, Four Hundred Thirty-nine Voted Yes, Four No, and Four Ballots Spoiled in Marking

By an almost unanimous vote, the proposition to bond the city for $50,000.00, to be expended on a new electric lighting plant carried at the special election held on Tuesday of this week. In all 447 votes were cast, 439 of these being in favor of the proposition, four against, and four were spoiled in marking.

The result of the special election is most gratifying. It shows that citizens of Charlevoix are alive to the situation and realize that if something is not done at once, to remedy the existing conditions, they will lose not only the resort business, but stand a heavy loss in property values, rentals, etc., and suffer a set-back that will take years to regain.

The carrying of the bond issue places at the disposal of the city council sufficient funds for the erection of a steam auxiliary electric plant of a capacity that will care for the electric needs of Charlevoix for the next twenty-five years or more.

It will produce sufficient current to enable us to—Pump every gallon of water needed the year around;
Furnish electricity for every manufacturing industry;
Keep the street lights burning where installed;
Enable the city to properly light every street and alley;
Furnish our summer visitors with all of the electricity they want to use for electric stoves, heaters, or any device that may need its use.

The city council and electric committee did not wait for the result of the special election before laying their plans for the erection of the new auxiliary plant. They are ready RIGHT NOW. There will be no hold-up. Work on the erection of the plant and the installation of necessary equipment will be started at once and we hope before cold weather sets in to see the new building erected and at least part of the machinery installed. We have confidence in the ability of the men in charge of this work, and believe they will do all within their power to accomplish the task confronting them.

R. F. D. CARRIERS MEET LABOR DAY

Semi-Annual Meeting Held Here in I. O. O. F. Hall

The Tri-County convention of Rural Letter Carriers of Charlevoix, Antrim and Kalkaska counties was held in this city Monday, in the I. O. O. F. hall, and was well attended by members of the association from each town in the district.

The meeting was called to order in the forenoon by President Ben Gardner of Boyne City, who after a few words of welcome, appointed working committees. The convention was then adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

During the afternoon session several excellent musical numbers were rendered which were greatly enjoyed. "Uncle" Geo. H. VanPelt, an honorary member of the association gave a lengthy talk on good roads emphasizing the importance of good roads to R. F. D. carriers.

Ben Gardner of Boyne City was elected president to succeed himself, as was Ernest Everts for secretary and treasurer. C. H. Miller was named as a member of the executive committee. It was also voted to buy twelve shares of R. F. D. News stock. Several shares were also taken by individual members.

At the close of the convention, the visitors were given a boat ride on Pine Lake and Lake Michigan, a treat which is always enjoyed by visitors to Charlevoix. The next meeting will be held at Ellsworth next Decoration Day. Outside visitors were present from Cheboygan and Wolverine.

FRIENDS MEET AT JOLIFFEE HOME

Party From Sault Ste. Marie Pleased With Charlevoix

There was a very pleasant gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Joliffée at their home on West Lincoln avenue last week, when Charles White and family, Miss Edna White, Miss Merle White and John Roberts, all of Sault Ste. Marie, spent several days with them. Mr. Charles White took in the state fair at Detroit while here and will return to Charlevoix sometime this week.

The visitors expect to leave for their home at the Soo the latter part of the week and have expressed themselves more than pleased with Charlevoix the beautiful and its surrounding country.

CHARLEVOIX COWS HOLD HIGH TESTS

July's Test in Milk Production Held in County

The following is the August report of the Emmet-Charlevoix County Cow Testing Association for the month of August, which shows the ten high cows on cow testing work in Charlevoix county.

The highest cow in milk production is a registered Holstein owned by Breezy Point Farm. July's report showed the ten high cows in the whole association to be all from Charlevoix county.

The August report follows, showing owner, breed and pounds of butter fat:

E. C. Waller, registered Holstein, 64 pounds of butter fat.
Geo. Meggison, registered Jersey, 62.5 pounds of butter fat.
Elmer Ingalls, grade Holstein, 60.9 pounds of butter fat.
E. C. Waller, registered Holstein, 58.2 pounds of butter fat.
E. C. Waller registered Holstein, 55.3 pounds of butter fat.
E. C. Waller registered Holstein, 54.6 pounds of butter fat.
Breezy Point Farm, registered Holstein, 53.8 pounds of butter fat.
Elmer Ingalls, grade Holstein, 53.4 pounds of butter fat.
Breezy Point Farm, registered Holstein, 53.3 pounds of butter fat.
E. C. Waller, registered Holstein, 51.9 pounds of butter fat.

CANOE OVERTURNS NEAR HARBOR

Occupants Rescued by Members of Coast Guard

A canoe containing two young summer residents at the Belvedere Hotel, capsized Saturday afternoon in short distance from the entrance to the harbor, and the occupants were thrown into the water.

The young men clung to the canoe until rescued by members of the Coast Guard who witnessed the accident and were but a few minutes reaching the struggling men.

Charlevoix, despite other trouble, has not had a drowning accident during the present season, although there has been several narrow escapes.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION SEPT. 23rd

Annual Gathering To Be Held in the M. E. Church

Charlevoix County Sunday School convention will be held in Charlevoix Friday, September 23rd. J. H. Engle, secretary of the Michigan Sunday School association will be present to give the address on Friday evening.

This convention is open to all who are interested in religious education, and community betterment, in Charlevoix county. Many helpful suggestions and plans will be offered, that may be included in the program now being formulated for the work, the coming year.

It is hoped that every Sunday school worker in Charlevoix county will plan to be present and make the work of the Sunday school more aggressive and inspiring.

Fill up your religious reservoir, learn new methods, be a better S. S. worker, imparting ideas on a true basis of living to young and old.

COUNTY VALUE FOR TAXATION

REDUCED $1,485,242 BY STATE EQUALIZERS

Wayne County Must Pay $1,250,000 More As Result of Action by Michigan Board

The final action of the state board of equalization fixes Charlevoix county's share of the state tax at .002087. This is the figure that was recommended by the state tax commission in its preliminary work.

In naming the arbitrary figure of $5,000,000,000 as the basis, the state board thereby raised the rate of taxation for common carriers, and decreased the amounts that would have been received by the University of Michigan and Michigan Agricultural college had the original valuation of $6,706,421,000 been adopted.

The new rate proposed by the tax commission, and which bears the O. K. of the state board of equalization, fixes the valuation of Charlevoix county for equalization purposes at $10,438,000, although the Charlevoix county board of supervisors equalized at $11,923,242.

The figures for Northern Michigan counties are as follows:
Antrim $ 6,491,000
Charlevoix 10,438,000
Emmet 11,415,000
Gd. Traverse 12,115,000
Kalkaska 3,539,000
Osego 4,632,000
Wexford 12,488,000

The raising of the percentage of Wayne county from 35 per cent to 40 per cent meant an addition of $1,250,000 to the share that Wayne will pay of the 1921 state tax.

FAMILY REUNION AT RIPLEY HOME

Younger Generation Spend Day at Home of Parents

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Ripley on Park avenue was the scene of an enjoyable family gathering Sunday, when relatives and members of the family spent the day and enjoyed the hospitality of the "old folks", the place where the younger people always have a good time.

Those who were present were: Louis Guetschow, Sr., Louis Guetschow, Jr., Anna Guetschow, Lydia Guetschow, Mrs. Alta LaPeer, Mr. Alburg, Miss Pearl Dorance and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan of Cheboygan; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glossenger of Petoskey; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ripley of Bny City; Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Ripley of Flint. The entire bunch motored through from their respective homes.

ENTERTAINED THE MISSES MILES

Young People Have a Delightful Time at Dutcher Home

A surprise party was given at the home of John Dutcher last week in honor of the Misses Janice and Lucile Miles of Muskegon, who are visiting friends and relatives in the city for a few days.

Music, dancing and games were enjoyed until a late hour, after which light refreshments were served.

COUNTY FAIR ALL NEXT WEEK

ATTRACTIONS WILL BE VARIED AND AMUSING

Residents of Emmet, Antrim, Grand Traverse and Osego Counties are Invited to Attend

The thirty-seventh annual Charlevoix county fair will be held September 12th to 16th, incl., at East Jordan. The price of admission is as follows: Day fair, adults fifty cents, children twenty-five cents, automobiles fifty cents. Night fair, adults twenty-five cents, children fifteen cents. Anyone desiring to stay on the grounds at the close of the day fair may do so without paying extra admission. A charge is made for automobiles entering the grounds in the daytime for the reason that it has been found necessary to look after the parking of the cars. All receipts from this source will be kept in a separate fund and will be used for improvements on the grounds. Other articles in this paper will tell you some of the things which you will see there in return for your money.

This fair is one of the largest county fairs in the state. It is replete with educational and amusement features. It is the only fair in northern Michigan which has held an annual fair for so long a time as thirty-seven years without missing a year. It has one of the best equipped county fair plants in the state.

The exhibition in the educational building is the best school exhibit to be found at any county fair.

It has a large barn full of registered cattle in exhibit. The Loeb Farms have a building of their own in which they exhibit the very best of registered cattle and horses (last year the Loeb Farms exhibited a national champion). The exhibit of fruit, vegetables, grain and fancy work is unusually large and of excellent quality. The poultry exhibit is getting better each year.

There will be many eating stands on the grounds and the dining hall will be run by the Wilson grange, which will serve each day and evening a good substantial, country meal. Everything for the comfort and entertainment of its patrons is provided by the fair association.

Residents of Emmet, Grand Traverse, Antrim and Osego counties are especially invited to attend this fair and exhibit with the residents of Charlevoix county. If you think you have the best fair in the state come to the Charlevoix County Fair and see one which is at least equally as good. If after seeing this fair you feel that your fair is better see the secretary of the Charlevoix county fair and tell him in what parts your fair is better. He would like to know so that he can make the Charlevoix county fair better than it is now.

ALL TOGETHER NOW—SEND IN YOUR NEWS LETTER

For the past month or more our country correspondence has been rather limited. Of course we realize this has been a busy season, which no doubt accounts for the shortage.

But now the busy season is about over we ask all correspondents on the Courier staff to make it a point to send us the news from their district each week. There is plenty of news items in your neighborhood that will be of interest to all, and we depend upon you to send in this news.

Send in your weekly letter each week from now on. Let the people know, especially those from your territory living away from Charlevoix, what is going on in your section. They miss the news from home when you fail to send it. It only takes a few minutes of your time and means a great deal to the Courier.

STATE CHARGES ARE NEGLECTED

SO SAYS G. J. JOHNSON, MEMBER OF COMMISSION

Groesbeck Appointee Tells What He Saw on Tour of Asylums Throughout Michigan

Gerrit J. Johnson, of Grand Rapids who is a member of the state institute commission supposed to look after the feeble-minded, the deaf, the blind and the orphans of our state, has sent the following letter to the Courier, together with the expressed hope that it will see print and thereby aid in obtaining for Michigan's unfortunate the things they so sadly lack.

Here is what this wealthy cigar manufacturer says on the subject: "At the state public school at Coldwater are 268 children, not bad children but simply unfortunate, the normal and sub-normal together. On the walls of this institution are the favorite mottoes, 'In God We Trust' and 'God Bless Our Home'."

"Now, honestly, good people, if God is the all-seeing eye, what would He have seen besides these mottoes and Biblical quotations? He would have seen that while the children are sitting around the tables and reverently bowed heads saying their prayers, swarms of flies come in through unscrupulous windows. The bathing facilities, especially in the nursery, are a disgrace. The laundry is so hot and ill-ventilated that you pass through in a hurry. The children's clothes are cheap and poor and most of the buildings are dangerous fire-traps.

"The superintendent of this institution asked the last legislature for $127,325 and he needed every dollar but it was cut to $92,175. Do not blame the legislature. They would gladly do more but they have their ear to the ground and have to do our bidding. When we economize it is always with 'The Least of These.'"

"If that legislature had proposed to take down the religious mottoes or discontinue the prayers in that institution all the churches throughout the state would have joined hands and let out a yell that would vibrate around the world, but when that same legislature cut down the much-needed appropriation one-third did you hear a peep from them?"

"The next visit was at the Michigan Home and Training school, the home for the feeble-minded at Lapeer. Here are 1,768 inmates, and it is estimated that there are about 4,000 feeble-minded running around the state who should be segregated. Michigan handles this problem most clumsily. We build a building, then fill it up, build another building and fill it up and the feeble-minded keep reproducing themselves faster than we can afford to erect buildings to care for them. There is only one way to stop this menace. The legislature could empower a board of reliable citizens qualified to judge those who are feeble-minded, to have them sterilized so they could not reproduce. But what stands in the way of this much-needed reform? The church. If the legislature would propose a practical measure you would find the church loud in its protestations."

"I wish it were possible to take all the bishops, priests, ministers, rabbis and Christian Science practitioners into this institution, take them into what is called the lower mentality ward. Here are hordes of men and women. In age they range from 12 to 70 years. See them with their ill-shaped heads and distorted brainless bodies."

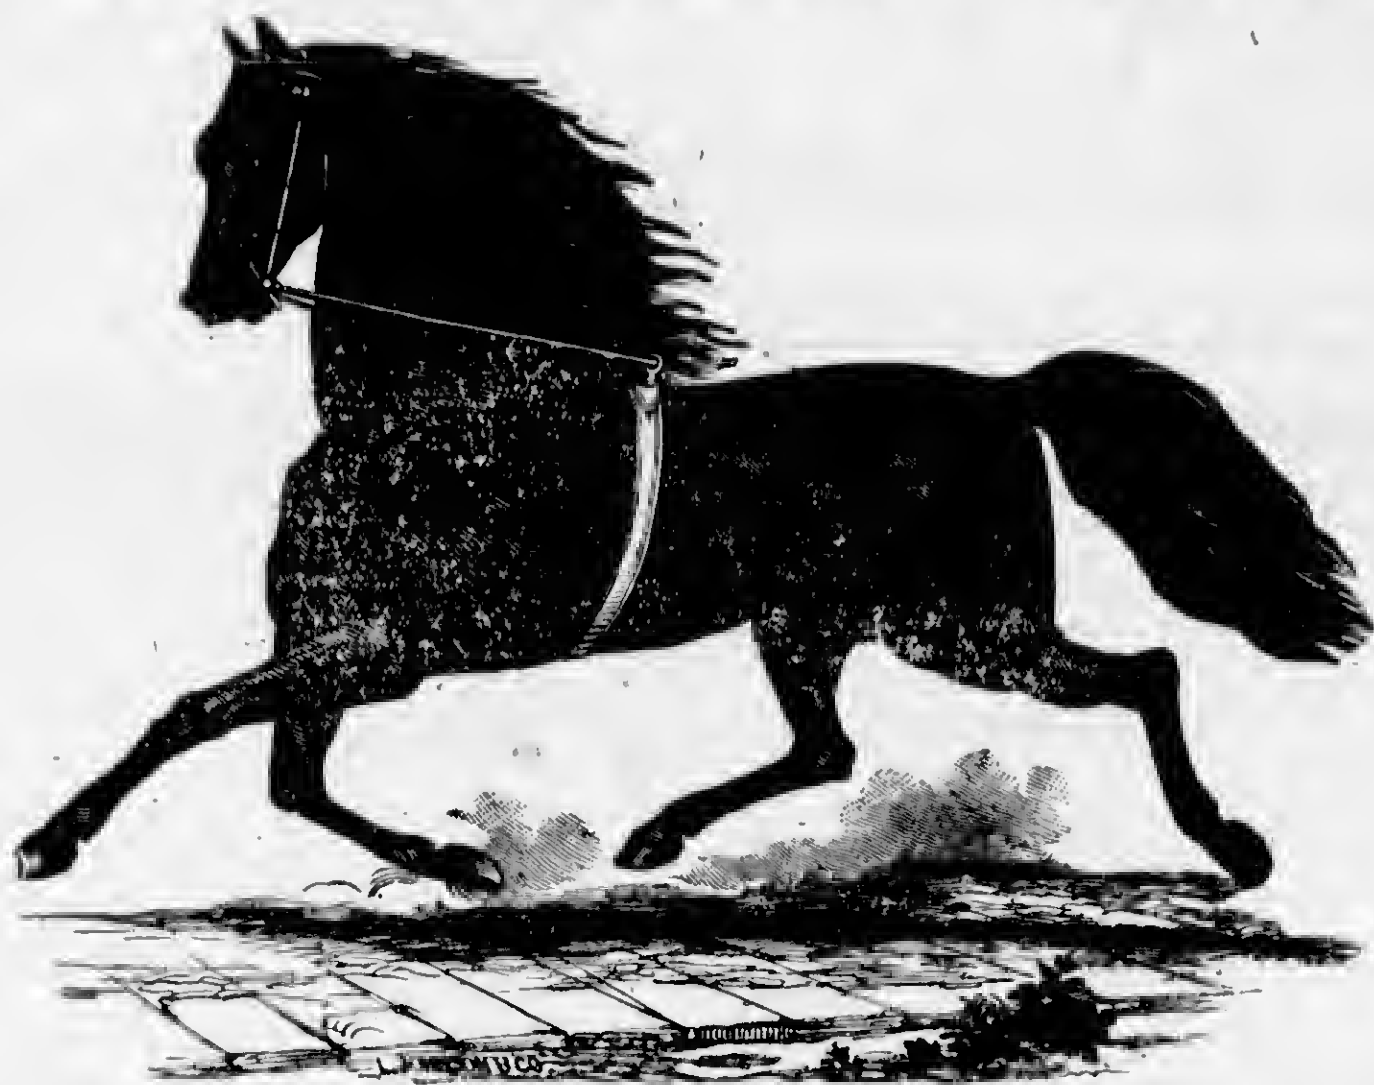

"If I could paint a pen-picture of hell I would let you see that room. If I had my way I would have all the leaders of the different denominations in that ward at least 24 hours with a promise of one day a week until they solve this problem. Believe me, we would soon find a way out."

"The next visit was at the school for the blind at Saginaw. Occasionally someone goes and talks to the unfortunate about the 'sweet by and by' but he says nothing about the cheap, thin, hard, dirty mattresses that have not been cleaned or renovated for 17 years, and as he rolls his eyes heavenward he cannot see or smell the unsanitary, stinking lavatory. I wish it were possible to blindfold all church members in Michigan, place them in this institution, let them grope around in the dark and in their blindness they might see God."

"Is the church responsible for this condition. I say 'Yes.' I hear you say 'But it is because of the church we take care of them as well as we do.' But do we take care of them or only get rid of them, so they may not display their misery on the door-step of us well-to-do? Does not the church advertise itself as a follower of Jesus, the one who said, 'As you do unto the least of these so do you unto Me?' Do they do it? Do they practice what they preach? If all these untold millions of dollars worth of untaxed church property cannot help 'the least of these,' then I may ask what good are they, yes, what good are they?"

"Remember, church members, regardless of our indifferent religious opinions, some day the undertaker

DEER HUNTING TO COST MORE

Increase in Charge for Both Licenses This Season

Licenses fees for deer hunting to be paid in Michigan this year are higher than a year ago and may have a tendency to keep some of the outside hunters from the woods of the upper peninsula.

The fee for a license for a deer this year will be $2.50 as compared with $1.50 last year. The non-resident fee has been increased from $25 to $50. However, a party of four, may obtain a license for $3 this year to kill one camp deer. The non-resident license to kill small game and carry a gun costs $10.

The season will extend from November 10 to November 30 and each hunter will be allowed to kill one buck. Much interest is being exhibited in the new law passed by the legislature regarding the carrying or possessing of guns by other than citizens of this county who have taken out their full citizenship papers.

The bill enacted by the last legislature to repeal the law providing for bounties on many noxious animals and birds became effective on Thursday. The law provides for the payment of bounties for crows, hawks, owls, sparrows, woodchucks, weasels, rats, wolves, fox, wildcats, and lynx. Since Thursday the bounty law is only paid for woodchucks and crows and the bounty on these has been reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents.

Traveling Bags, Suit Cases, and Trunks of all kinds at Benj. Brown's. Make your choice while the selection is good.

AMBULANCE FOR LOCAL HOSPITAL

NEW MACHINE WAS DELIVERED LAST WEEK

Purchase of Much-Needed Convenience Made Possible by Subscriptions of Summer People

The new ambulance for the Charlevoix hospital was delivered last week to Mrs. J. S. Baker, who has had the purchasing of the new equipment in charge, and is now on exhibition at the Northern Auto company garage on Clinton street.

An effort was made last year to raise sufficient funds for the purchase of the ambulance, but for some reason this fell through, and it was not until recently that the amount needed was available. This year the funds needed were contributed by Mrs. Baker and the ambulance purchased. Her action in this respect is praiseworthy and will be appreciated by the citizens of Charlevoix.

The new ambulance is well equipped, luxuriously furnished, and will prove a great help in handling the sick and injured. Following is a report submitted by Mrs. Baker giving in detail the amounts subscribed, by whom and details of the ambulance fund:

To those who are interested in our new ambulance I wish to make clear the matter of securing and handling the ambulance fund, $1,150.00 of which was raised by contributions last year. To this I added interest for the use of the money for one year, $80.50. Contributions this season were added making the entire account as follows:

Mrs. J. S. Baker, interest on the above for one year...	80.00
Morris Wolf	10.00
L. Joseph	10.00
Mrs. F. Steinhardt	10.00

Mrs. Albert Loeb	50.00
Dan Segal	10.00
Mrs. B. Wolf	2.00
Mrs. Louise Elston	10.00
Richard Frank	10.00
Total	$1,715.00

The ambulance fund has in no way conflicted with the hospital fund and we have not solicited from the home people or the other hotels. The money has been raised chiefly by the eat-ers and patrons of the Beach Hotel.

While it has been a great pleasure to me to secure the funds necessary to buy an ambulance, yet on account of the deplorable local conditions existing this summer I found it impossible to get a sufficient amount to secure the sort of ambulance we had hoped to possess.

We have secured an ambulance from the Stentor Bus & Body Co., Streator, Ill., purchased through our local agent, Henry B. Wood, at a cost of $1,741.75. Mr. Wood kindly giving his dealers' discount as a contribution to the fund. Cost of delivery was $61.80. Cost of insurance of ambulance for one year is approximately $63.00; rent of garage is $50.00 per year. From this sum Mr. Frank Senns kindly offers to give $20.00 per year toward the support of the ambulance, leaving the annual charge for rent $40.00. It will be seen from the sum total of expense shown $1,906.55 we still have to raise $121.55 to complete the total cost and this we feel sure will be forthcoming.

With this excellent start for the first year we believe the ambulance will prove self-supporting, and if not the annual deficit, if any, will be cared for by the Charlevoix Beach Hotel.

We are taking this means of presenting the ambulance to the official board of the Charlevoix hospital and we hope it will be clearly understood that it is intended for the use and comfort of the public. There will be a nominal charge to those able to pay.

A special cot with rubber tires has been secured which adds much to the comfort and convenience of those using the ambulance. We trust the doctors and the hospital board, as well as the general public, will find as much pleasure in the use of the ambulance when needed as we feel in having secured the money necessary to obtain possession of this long hoped for necessity.

A phone call to No. 58 or 381 will secure the ambulance at any time of the day or night.

CHURN NUMBERS ARE USEFUL

Makes it Simple Matter to Separate Different Churnings and Sell According to Score.

The use of churn numbers, so that the receivers of butter can more readily sort out separate churnings, is urged upon creamery men by food-products inspectors of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. In a lot of butter recently examined by these inspectors the score varied from 88 to 92. As no churn numbers were shown, the only way the receiver could separate the butter was by examining every tub. If the churn numbers had been shown, it would have been a simple matter to separate the various churnings and sell them according to score.

It is not possible to take time to examine every tub, so the butter is sold according to the samples taken and at a discount if the samples vary widely. If there should be just one poor tub in the shipment and the sampler happens upon it, the whole shipment would suffer, while if churn numbers are used only the tubs in that churning would receive the lower score.

TO RESTORE MORGAN STRAIN

Efforts of Department of Agriculture Shown in Recent 300-Mile Test for Horses.

Efforts of the United States Department of Agriculture to restore the Morgan strain of horses, which had become nearly extinct, showed their effect in the recent 300-mile test for army horses. Out of 27 entries, only ten finished, and of these the sixth and seventh were Morgan horses, one of them raised on the department's stock farm in Massachusetts. The horses were required to travel 60 miles a day for five days, carrying the regulation cavalry load of 245 pounds.

AID BETTER BULL CAMPAIGN

Kansas City Chamber of Commerce Offers $2,000 in Prizes for Replacing Scrub Sires.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An illustration of the earnestness with which various states and local organizations have taken up live stock improvement work, especially in connection with purebred sires, is shown by the work in Missouri. The extension service of the Missouri College of Agriculture started a better-bull campaign in January, 1920, and so successful were the results of the work during the year that the Kansas City chamber of commerce appropriated $2,000 to be used in cash prizes this year.

The prizes are to be awarded to the four counties which replace the greatest number of scrubs with purebred bulls, $1,000 being the first prize, $500 the second, $300 the third, and $200 the fourth. To obtain a prize, however, a county must replace at least 25 scrub bulls.

The Purebred Dairy Sire When Introduced into a Scrub or Grade Herd Soon Brings About a Phenomenal Change.

In an announcement of the contest received by the United States Department of Agriculture, state officials directing the work say they have concentrated on better bulls because they think the greatest good will result from efforts along this line. The announcement states that any county in the state is eligible for entrance in the contest. Awards will be made on the basis of the number of scrub bulls of breeding age replaced by registered bulls. A scrub is defined as one that is not registered or eligible for registry.

Any county which at any time during the year completes its work with 100 per cent purebred registered bulls will be entitled to first prize; but should more than one county show 100 per cent registered bulls the various counties will be entitled to first, second, third, and fourth prizes, respectively, in the order in which they complete the work. The counties competing in the contest are to form organizations, under the leadership of the county agent, to promote the work. All questions arising in the contest will be referred to a better-bull committee of the Missouri College of Agriculture for settlement, and the decision of this committee will be final.

A monthly report showing the name and address of the owner of the scrub bull replaced and breed of the roots, bull in which an interest has been purchased will be forwarded on the first day of each month to the state project leader. At the end of the year a final report, certified by the county agent, will be sent in, giving the names and addresses of owners of scrub bulls which have been replaced, together with the breed, name and registry number of each registered bull in which the contestants purchased an interest.

WHOSE SCHOOLS ARE THEY?

In a few days, with a clanging of bells and a scuffling of young feet, the schools will open. To how many responsible adults will that mean a sudden let-down of responsibility instead of a summons to active co-operation?

How many fathers and mothers will visit the schools promptly to see if they are better equipped than last year, in better sanitary condition and so on? How many who resolved last year that they would keep in closer touch with their children's progress and with the teachers will renew that resolution early in this first term and hold it throughout the year?

How many business men who complain that the schools do not fit the youth for intelligent grasp of business life will take pains to keep in such contact with them as will prove helpful in correcting their business shortcomings?

Whose are the schools? Who gains or loses by the investment in them, and so should make sure that it pays? Only through intelligent co-operation between school, home and civic life can the schools perform their highest service.

FARMERS, AUTOS AND GOOD ROADS

There's a reason why the farmers generally have become staunch advocates of the good roads program, entirely aside from the advantages and benefits secured in connection with farm work, hauling and marketing crops. This reason is suggested by a bulletin just issued by the federal census department, showing the approximate number of farmers in the various states who now own and operate automobiles. It is quite significant, in this connection, to note the fact that the middle western states including Wisconsin, lead other states by a wide margin in this respect. Nebraska holds first place, with 75.6 per cent of its farmers having one or more autos. Then comes Iowa with a showing of 73.1 per cent; South Dakota with 69.4 per cent; Kansas with 62 per cent; Minnesota with 57.1 per cent; North Dakota with 56.7 per cent; and Wisconsin with 49.6 per cent. And this is to be compared with a general average of only 30.7 per cent.

The farmers, in other words, have gone into the auto game on an extensive scale, and all over the country they are using these modern vehicles to facilitate their regular work and also to add to their pleasure and convenience. In not a few states more autos are owned by the farmers than by city folks, and the farmers also are making more use of the highways than are the latter. It is only natural therefore, that the farmers have been thoroughly converted to the plan of good roads and have become ardent and persistent boosters for improvements of this character. They want good roads because they need and appreciate the advantages thereby afforded, and they no longer are inclined to complain that "most of the benefits will be enjoyed by city autoists."

It is a good thing, all around, that the farmers have found this new source of convenience, pleasure and additional effectiveness in farm work and marketing. It means more contentment on the farms, closer relations between rural and urban dwellers, and results that must prove mutually beneficial and satisfactory. And it is also gratifying to know that the farmers have prospered so well during the past several years that they have been able to invest so liberally in autos and other improvements and conveniences. In Wisconsin for instance, statistics show that more than one-half the farms have telephones, while 13,465 Badger farms have water piped into the house and 16,574 have either gas or electric light. Farm improvements, in fact, fairly are keeping pace with similar improvements added to city life, and if anything the farmers has the best of it.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

By J. E. Jones

"Pro Bunco Public"

Before the war, according to the Tariff Commission's report of 1915, there were exactly seven concerns engaged in making dyes in the United States. In the 1920 report, after six years of total embargo, there were shown to be 82. An Ohio dye manufacturer told the Senate Finance Committee that "this talk about German dyes being superior to those made in America is 'pro bunco publico.'" He said that the American dye manufacturers are making fine headway in establishing the industry in this country. Germany, the witness declared, is carrying on a campaign of propaganda defining the American-made dyes. He told the Senators: "If you don't give us an embargo, please give us time to liquidate our business." It has been brought out in the hearings that Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan have either imposed an embargo against German dyes or a licensing system to protect their own dye industries. The concerns that have invested millions of dollars in the industry in the United States now stand before a Republican congress appealing for the same kind of tariff legislation that the party defended for so many years as necessary in the building of "infant industries." Steel, wool, cotton, wood and earthenware manufacturers were accorded preferential tariff legislation in the past, with the result that we now lead the world in some of our manufactures that once were weak and struggling.

The Tariff Storm-Center

The dye tariff is the storm center in the tariff hearings. Importers of German dyes have boldly appeared in the foreground as the opponents of the proposed embargo; and no one seems to attach any significance to the fact that a former congressman rich from trading in dyes, has made the biggest noise of all against American dyes. Patient America gives such occurrences first-page space in its newspapers, and a whole lot of fickle citizens echo the cry that "they want German dyes because they are better than we can make." This pathetic display of bad-memory seeks to reverse the things we said during the war about what we would do to the commerce of Germany after the war. It costs about two cents at the present time to dye a dozen pairs of socks, and fifty cents covers the cost of dyeing a suit of clothes, so that there is no evidence that the American public has been made to suffer any terrible hardships because German dyes have been shut out of this country. So keen have these foreigners been to maintain this trade with America that, it will be remembered even after the war began in Europe, Captain Koenig, of the German submarine "Deutschland," bobbed up in Baltimore one Sunday morning with his submarine filled with German dyes for American importers—and now some of these same importers are now representing the German interests before Congress.

Far-Reaching Benefits from Dye Manufacture

The Director of the Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, declares that the "development of our national dye industry will not only mean future independence from Germany but, more important still, the utilization of our own raw products and the development of associated industries that are vitally tied up with dye production." Dr. Manning mentions the close connection of the industry to nitrates, fertilizers and ammoniums; and among the by-products resulting are tar for roads, paving, materials, roofing, water-proofing materials, protective coatings, insulating materials, flavoring extracts, artificial perfumes, photographic developers and wood preservatives. Dr. Manning warns that if the German vat dyes are brought into this country in quantity that "the new industry would have no chance of existence."

The age-old controversy about the wisdom of tariffs still goes on, but the discussion that has been carried on in Washington in the attempt to let the German dye manufacturer crawl back into our good graces, seems to leave a very definite impression on the Capital that if the Republican principle of a protective tariff, and the American weapon of an embargo for commercial purposes, has any merit at all, that the place to begin in applying its operation is in finishing up the good work in behalf of establishing the manufacture of American dyes that has been getting under way since the day we went to war.

Says Federal Road Money is Wasted

There is a lurking notion in Washington that a lot of the Federal aid money for highways is being wasted in many of the states. Representatives are prevented from giving their physical presence to the demonstrations of efficiency made by Federal, State and District inspectors, whose business it is to check up on the work of county and town highway officials. In any event there is a good deal of the "I want to be shown" sentiment in the National Capitol. Senator Kiag of Utah, says that the State road organizations have received from the Government, various road building equipment and motor driven vehicles, valued in excess of $100,000,000. A bill for an additional $75,000,000 of Federal aid money is in conference between the two branches of Congress, and before the money is voted the same Senator would like to have a general investigation of road operations throughout the United States to determine the truth of his claim that the appropriations made by Congress have been used and expended "in an extravagant and wasteful manner."

It is fair to say that the views of Senator King do not represent the general attitude of official Washington, and he will have plenty of trouble with his resolution, before he is able to convince his colleagues from states that have the best kind of roads that the work is not being well and conscientiously done.

Money for Farm Exports

The War Finance Corporation has been empowered by Congress to issue bonds for $1,500,000,000 and use a billion dollars of the money to aid the farmers in exporting their products. There was a lot of talk in Congress about this legislation, and all hoped that it would be helpful to the farmers in their present difficulties. The movement of agricultural crops in the domestic markets and overseas foreign consumers has been very heavy in recent months, and this is likely to be still further accelerated by the opening of the Government purse strings for the purpose of financing the farmers. The heavy crop movements at the greatly depressed prices indicate that the farmers of the country who have been holding their grain and produce are unloading, notwithstanding the depressed markets. The Chicago stock yards have recently been receiving more cattle than they could handle, and they have been asking producers not to continue the heavy shipments. The whole process of farm business indicates that the farmers have their backs to the wall, and must get money, no matter how great may be their sacrifices.

It seems probable that the farming interests are expecting too much from the recent legislation referred to above. The billion dollars of authorized financing is not likely to effect the prices of produce; since it represents merely a form of banking on a large scale. The cotton growers of the South have apparently made it possible for them to get their cotton to Europe. The farmers as a whole will also be greatly benefited by the financial legislation; but it is clear that what they need most is higher prices. And that is something that Congress does not appear to be able to furnish.

RANGE STOCK IS IMPROVED

All Kinds of Steers, Bulls Especially, Are Receiving Close Scrutiny by Breeders.

In the Western range states all kinds of steers—bulls especially—are receiving scrutiny by live stock owners. There is increasing evidence that good purebred males have wide influence on the quality of young stock, and on the returns from stock-raising operations.

One day recently the United States Department of Agriculture endorsed in the "Better Steer—Better Stock" movement several ranchmen, each of whom had more than 1,000 head of live stock. One flock of sheep contained 250 purebred ewes and 3,450 crossbred ewes, the steers being all purebred. A cattle raiser who outlined in the campaign the same day notified the department: "I have disposed of two grade Hereford bulls recently, having decided to run nothing but purebred steers." This remark is typical of the progress of the movement in Montana.

SILAGE FOR PRODUCING BEEF

Missouri College of Agriculture Outlines Satisfactory Plan With Young Steers.

Highly satisfactory beef can be made from two-year-old steers by feeding corn as silage, together with linseed meal and clover or alfalfa hay, instead of full feeding shelled or ear corn, according to the Missouri College of Agriculture.

One acre, yielding 40 bushels of corn, or eight tons of silage, if fed as silage, together with 1,731 pounds of linseed oil meal and 1,810 pounds of alfalfa hay would produce 756.8 pounds of beef and 11.3 pounds of pork. If, however, the corn be fed as shelled corn (full feed) and silage, together with 2,982 pounds of linseed meal and 3,452 pounds of alfalfa hay, it would produce 291.6 pounds of beef and 68.5 pounds of pork.

SUMMER RESORT STATE RESOURCE

DETROIT JOURNAL SAYS CARE
WELL FOR TOURIST

Says Resort Business Might Easily Be Killed by Taxing and Profiteering

The future value of Michigan as a summer resort is perhaps uncertain, the taking of recreation being subject to whims of fashion and being fundamentally dependent upon the ability of people in general to rest from their labors, says a Detroit Journal editorial. But the present value of Michigan as a resort for vacationists is real, tangible, nearly as apparent to the hurrying traveler as to the land speculator.

Around the rim of the Great Lakes is embroidered to day an edging of cottages. Scarcely an interior lake of any size but has a colony. The cleaner streams have been utilized and even in some of the lumbered over barrens and among the sand dunes there are little groups of airy houses, shacks and tents. Every taste in camping out, from that which must have all the city comforts to the kind content with a mere shelter, has been met.

The vacationists have checked the scenery of towns and villages whose industries have vanished. They have at least for a time, warranted the existence of trade where the permanent residence is almost gone. Without them many thousands of acres whose trees have been cut away or whose soil has been burned away or whose thin humus has perished either through injudicious cultivation or by reason of high winds would not command a cent in the realty market.

It would be wise for the people of Michigan to take thought of their summer resort trade as the man should have who had the goose that laid the golden eggs. For the trade could easily be killed. Taxing the summer cottagers away is one way. Profiteering on provisions is another. Draining interior lakes to obtain a few poor, swampy meadows is a third. Michigan has few things in the matter of vacationing sites to offer that could not be supplied by Wisconsin, Minnesota or Ontario. And the automobile provides the ready means of taking advantage of such offers anywhere.

Short of an industrial depression that impoverished Americans, the habit of taking summer vacations will last and will become fixed. Common shrewdness should persuade Michigan to capitalize the habit reasonably and permit no taxing scheme or sweating device for sudden fortunes to bulk it and alter its direction.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The grasshoppers in Northern Michigan are said to be threatened with extinction by the hair snake. One Grand Traverse farmer claims that grasshoppers which are caught in a barrel where these trained snakes lie in wait have seldom been known to escape.

When lightning struck a house in Allegan county the legs were knocked from under the dining room table and the couch, and several cans of fruit in the cellar were cracked. The removal of the home brew from the cellar a few days before is thought to account for the fact that the lightning was cracked.

"Almost every night," says the Coldwater Reporter, "when a motor car becomes stalled, the driver will remove the cover of his gas tank and strike a match to determine if the tank is empty." The unexplained missing of an occasional night by this very methodical driver is said to be due to the fact that he doesn't back down in time.

Weather men of the state are saying now that the cold spells, sudden rains, electric storms and other kinds of unsettled weather are due to the influence of a comet which is traveling near the earth. Anything to turn suspicion away from themselves.

A pair of horses owned by Delmar Carter of LeGrand, met with an unusual death last Tuesday when attacked by a great swarm of wild bees.

Mr. Carter, who was hauling wood to his home near the old mill, left the team standing near the barn. The swarms swooped down, alighted on the heads of the animals and filled their nostrils.

The poor beasts became infuriated from the stings and in their efforts to free themselves from the swarms, only aroused the bees to further fury and in a few minutes both horses died. Mr. Carter has bees of his own but claims that the swarm that attacked his horses came from a tree in the neighborhood. Mr. Carter who was nearby was not touched by the swarm.

The following is taken from the Elk Rapids Progress. The situation is the same here as there and the thoughts expressed by both editors fully cover the situation.

Our friend Feichner of the Nashville News says of the fellows "who are too darned stingy to subscribe for the home paper," but are borrowers as they are in Elk Rapids, for in some manner they manage to read ahead of the regular subscribers: "Once in a while there's a fellow who is too darned stingy to subscribe for his home paper. That's all right too. That's his business. And there are so very few in this community that it doesn't effect our business. And his name on our list wouldn't help our advertisers either, for he is usually the mail order type, pure and simple. However, queer as it may seem, that very sort of fellow is always first to ask favors of the local paper, and the first to criticize if there is anything in the paper that he considers he can hang a criticism on. Of course he has to depend on what 'somebody tells him' was in the paper, having none of his own to read, but that doesn't interfere at all with what he considers his maligned right to kick. Verily, it hath been truly said, 'It takes all kinds of people to make a world.'"

One of the first things connected with the poor feeding methods, cut-throat and bull-farmers, formed the basis of the nation's farmers had no knowledge of balanced rations; silos were few in number, and it was not known generally that they could be built by farm labor. A few silos were erected in 1908 as demonstrations, and the idea began to grow slowly in popularity.

The value of silage compared with cut-throat silage was very striking, even in the days when silos were only $4 or $5 a ton. A dairy farm near Blount, Miss., where 40 tons of silage were fed instead of cut-throat silage, reported a saving of $250 for the winter.

DADDY THE DAIRY

PROFITABLE DAIRY IN SOUTH
Home Demand Supplied for Products and Soil Fertility Built Up and Maintained.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

More than 9,500,000 pounds of butter was made by 93 creameries in the Southern states in the year ending December 31, 1919. Thirty of the 64 cheese factories scattered throughout the mountain region turned out 481,000 pounds of Cheddar cheese. Silos, modern dairy barns, and purebred dairy cows are becoming common. "Fifteen years ago dairying as an industry had been scarcely started in the Southern states," said a specialist in the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture. "The South probably has made more progress in the last 15 years than any other section of the country. The increase in the number of dairy cows from 1,907 to 1920 was more than 50 per cent. The increase for the entire United States during the same period was 138 per cent."

While the increase in number of cows has been large, it is pointed out by men working cooperatively with the federal government and the state agricultural colleges that the improvement in quality has been of even greater importance. Purebreds have been shipped in every year in large numbers, and great interest has been shown in the use of purebred sires. There are now 48 bull associations in these states. The latest census figures available show there are 5,181 head of purebred dairy cattle in South Carolina and 3,581 in Virginia.

"Dairy development began in the Southern states shortly after 1900," said one of the specialists, "but the improvement was slow at first. It was difficult to convince growers in any territory that there was anything for them in dairying. But an object lesson was found that finally convinced them. On one side of a road was a field of cotton that yielded two bales per acre; on the other side a field gave half a bale. The farm that grew two bales to the acre had kept cows for five years, and the manure had produced the change. Farmers were taken from miles around to see these two fields."

"This little demonstration illustrates the purpose for which dairy cows were recommended in sections of the South—not to make dairying a major industry, but rather to establish a system that would supply the home demand for dairy products, and at the same time build up and maintain soil fertility, both by supplying manure and by enforcing a proper rotation of crops. This would make possible the production of cotton and other staple crops at greater profit. This was the aim of the southern dairy extension project, the first large scale extension project attempted, which was started under the direction of the dairy division of the Department of Agriculture in 1916, and carried forward cooperatively by the department and the state agricultural colleges.

One of the first things connected with the poor feeding methods, cut-throat and bull-farmers, formed the basis of the nation's farmers had no knowledge of balanced rations; silos were few in number, and it was not known generally that they could be built by farm labor. A few silos were erected in 1908 as demonstrations, and the idea began to grow slowly in popularity.

The value of silage compared with cut-throat silage was very striking, even in the days when silos were only $4 or $5 a ton. A dairy farm near Blount, Miss., where 40 tons of silage were fed instead of cut-throat silage, reported a saving of $250 for the winter.

"From a local standpoint," writes one of the federal agents of the dairy division, "the establishing of dairying in the boll-weevil districts of Mississippi has been one of the greatest achievements. Anyone acquainted with the despoilation of farmers in 1912 in southern Mississippi, and who was enabled later to see the change wrought by the dairy cows, will agree that enthusiasm for dairying is well founded in a region that was bordering for some means of a livelihood, now extended to a country in which the farmers are supplied with milk for New Orleans. The fact is, this means good to these farmers being used."

ELLSWORTH

John Aardema is attending the Emmet county fair this week at Petoskey.

Guy Sedgman of Flint spent a part of last week with his sister, Mrs. Wm. Cole.

Miss Nettie Best of Alden is visiting at the D. Patterson home for a few days.

Sheriff Dunsmore of Bellaire was in town on business on Monday of this week.

Rev. E. E. Clark was called to Fife Lake on Saturday to officiate at the funeral of a friend.

Miss Esther Parsons was home from Charlevoix to spend a few hours on Monday of this week.

Several Ellsworth people attended the Loeb Farms-Boyer City ball game at Boyne City on Labor Day.

Miss Josephine Brosche and Mrs. P. F. Tuttle of Traverse City spent from Saturday until Monday at the A. L. Ely home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elzinga and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Jackson of Portland, enjoyed a motor trip to the Soo on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman VanStedam and two children of Chicago are spending a few days at the Abel Speckman home here. Mrs. VanStedam is a sister to Mrs. Speckman.

There will be an ice cream social at the M. E. church, Saturday evening of this week, given by the ladies and society of the M. E. church. Everybody is invited to come and have a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Nelson, their daughter, Dee, and D. E. Clow, enjoyed a motor trip to Big Rapids and vicinity starting on Saturday and returning Monday evening. They attended a barbecue at Evert while they were gone.

At a meeting held at the Blue Hall on Tuesday evening of last week, a barbecue committee consisting of E. H. Boss, president; Bernie Klooster, secretary; and H. H. Elzinga, treasurer; with D. E. Clow as advertising manager, was appointed for the 1922 barbecue and the first Thursday in August was named as the date.

Last Saturday was a record day for "cukes" at the station here and Manager Timmer reports the following for the day: Fifty loads totaling 558 bushels were taken in for which the growers received $409.04. At the close of work Saturday the season's total showed 5,459 bushels so far and the books showed that for this total the growers had received $4,080.64.

consequently is late covering his route.

Why wouldn't it be a good plan for the patrons of his route to save their pennies for some other purpose. Buy your postal supplies with silver. He won't object to a few pennies, but when you flood him with them, we believe he has a right to register a kick. Just put yourself in his place and imagine, if you can, that you would like it.

And during cold and rainy weather the penny habit is a nuisance. Picking up pennies with cold fingers is a hardship no R. F. D. carrier will stand for. Cut out the pennies and watch your mail man smile.

PRAISE GIVEN LOCAL PASTOR

FOR UNTIRING EFFORTS WHICH MADE PROJECT POSSIBLE

Re-Opening of the Ellsworth M. E. Church a Great Day for Methodism in the Community

The following article reproduced from a recent issue of the Michigan Christian Advocate, will be read with interest by local people. It covers the situation thoroughly and gives credit where credit is due. The article follows:

Monday, August 15, was a great day for Methodism at Ellsworth on Grand Traverse District. It was the occasion of the re-opening of the First Methodist Episcopal church in the village. Men who do things were present. Our own Bishop Henderson in the midst of a strenuous tour and study of his Area made a long jump from Reed City Camp Meeting to be present and deliver a strong address on "The Church in Community Life." The Rev. Hugh Kennedy, our loved area secretary spoke on "Relations of the Centenary to the Small Church." Rev. John Wesley Sheehan, the popular pastor of Petoskey, delivered an inspiring address on "The Church."

The pastor, Rev. E. E. Clark, told "How We Built It." He was followed by the district superintendent who spoke on "Our Task for Today," and it was very evident that "Our Task" was to subscribe for the balance of the cost of rebuilding the church and parsonage. This was done inside of thirty minutes.

"The project has been one of repairing the Methodist church, dedicated in 1900, but not in use for several years. It also includes repairing and converting the old Congregational church into a parsonage. This building has been used as a Methodist church since its purchase from the Congregational people some years ago. The whole Ellsworth effort will cost about $4,500. Of this amount $1,500 is the gift of the Centenary and the balance covered by cash and subscription. Asbury church, Traverse City, kindly donated about 100 chairs.

"Too much praise cannot be given, the pastor, Rev. E. E. Clark, for his untiring labors. He instituted the project, he laid the preliminary plans and secured the co-operation and support of the village and surrounding community. While much of the actual work on the future parsonage remains to be done, the skill, taste and mechanical genius of the pastor has been much in evidence as he superintended the whole of the improvements on the new finished church and did much of the painting and paper-hanging himself. The result is something of which he, Ellsworth, and Methodism may well be proud."

WAS MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Death of Mrs. Hillman Comes After Long Illness

Anna Mary Schurman was born in Germany on June 14th, 1861 and died at her home one mile north of Ellsworth, Mich., Thursday, September 1st, 1921, aged sixty years, two months and sixteen days.

She came to Ellsworth in 1885 and was married to Charles F. Hillman one year later.

She was the mother of seven children, four sons and two daughters, all of whom are living. They are: Louise Stephen of Lansing, Mrs. Robert Evans of East Jordan, Chas. and Leonard of Ellsworth, and Fred and George of Lansing. The husband died on July 23rd, 1908.

Mrs. Hillman was a good wife, mother, neighbor and friend and a person whom any community is sore-

Says Patrons Save Pennies to Buy Stamps With

R. F. D. Carrier Donald Patterson has a grievance, and it appears to us to be a just one. It's about pennies. He says three out of five of his patrons have a habit of saving their pennies for the postman. People either come to the mail-box with a handful of pennies for stamps, envelopes and postcards, or place them in the mail-box for him to fish out and count.

He asks the patrons of his route to remember that his time is limited. He must make his route within a certain time, designated by postoffice authorities at Washington. If he is compelled to spend from two to five minutes at each mail-box counting pennies, he over-runs his time and

"The Whitest White I Ever Saw"

IN Victoria, Texas, there are three houses in the same block (Mr. Traylor's house, shown above, is one of them) which are painted with Heath & Milligan Best Prepared Paint; and, in the words of the painter himself: "The whitest white I ever saw."

That's because Best Prepared Paint has a high hiding power—you will find that out when you use it. You will also find that you won't have to get so much to go over the surface, and, therefore, fewer hours of labor are required to apply it. That it gives more years of service—looks better all the time than most paints. Best Prepared Paint is the best house paint that Heath & Milligan know how to make, or have ever made after 67 years. It will prove to be the cheapest in the end. If your house needs painting now—don't delay—decay won't wait for paint to get cheaper. Look for the trade sign of dependability (shown above) when you do buy.

HOW TO FIGURE COST OF CROPS

Farmer Enabled to Compute for Himself Expense of Producing Various Crops.

REQUIREMENTS OF EACH CROP

If Precise Records Are Not Available on Labor and Material Expenses, Close Estimate Can Be Made of That Section.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Figures from which the farmer can compute for himself the cost of production of corn, corn for silage, wheat, oats, and hay, under given conditions, are presented in a preliminary report on labor and material requirements of those crops, recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. These figures cover the normal hours of man labor and horse labor, and quantities of seed, fertilizers, etc., required per acre for each crop, as determined by surveys by the office of farm management and farm economics.

Apply Basic Factors.
The money cost is found by applying to these basic factors the current rates for labor, seed, etc. Inasmuch as it has been found that, in general, labor and material costs approximate 80 per cent of the total operating cost for these crops, it is easy to find this total when the labor and material costs are known.

The figures given represent average crop requirements for the regions where investigations have been made. If the farmer does not have precise records of labor and material expenditures for his own farm, he can estimate them pretty closely by taking the average for his own region as a basis and applying current rates for labor and materials, with due allowance for any unusual conditions that may exist in his own case. The method of computation is as follows:

1. Determine the total cost of labor and material per acre by applying current rates to the quantities of labor and materials obtained from the individual's own records, or, if such are not available, use those given in the table.
2. Determine the total operating expense per acre by dividing the cost of labor and material by the percentage figure given for each region.
3. Determine the total acre cost of production by adding the interest charge or the cash rent paid for the use of land.
4. To determine the cost per bushel or ton divide the total acre cost by the yield per acre.

The following example shows how this method worked out in figuring the cost of corn for silage on an Iowa farm:

	Estimated	Amount, rate, Cost.
Man-hours	27.9	$9.25 $258.75
Horse-hours	51.8	25 1295.00
Seed, pounds	2.2	.08 .18
Fertilizer, tons	2.2	2.00 4.40
Gasoline, gallons	2.8	.25 .70
Coal, pounds	14	.05 .70
Twine, pounds	5.6	.25 1.40

Total labor and material (80 per cent of operating expense) 2,671.23
Total operating expense (100 per cent) 3,339.04
Interest on 1 acre of land ($20 at 5 per cent) 10.00
Total cost 3,349.24
Average yield per acre, 55 tons
Average cost per ton, $60.90

CHARLEVOIX SECOND IN LEAGUE RACE

Gives Local Fans Good Brand of Ball During Season

Charlevoix's baseball team finished in second place in the Northern Michigan League contest, Boyne City occupying first place.

From the very beginning of the season the local boys have played good ball and every fan who attended received their money's worth. The series of games have drawn hundreds of people to the city and should be continued each year.

Last Sunday the locals met Pellston at North Side park and defeated them by a score of 10 to 9. Three scores were made in the ninth inning which placed Charlevoix in second place in the league contest.

Monday, with four substitutes, they met Central Lake at Central Lake and were defeated 5 to 4 in an eleven inning game. See, pitching for Charlevoix, held his opponents down to three hits and struck out 16 men.

CORN CROP TO BE BUMPER ONE

ESTIMATE FOR AUGUST GREATLY ENCOURAGING

Wheat Will Be a Short Crop As Will Oats, Potatoes and Some Other of the Main Crops

Crop prospects, as relating to corn, potatoes, beans, sugar beets, buckwheat and some of the minor crops, have improved during the last month according to the September Federal-State crop report issued today by Verne H. Church, Agricultural Statistician, U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates and Herman H. Halladay, State Commissioner of Agriculture. Good rains during the month effectively broke the drought that had prevailed for many weeks over the greater part of the state. Corn continues to lead all other crops in percentage of condition, and the crop of oats is the most disappointing. Fruit is ripening early and showing slightly increased yields over earlier estimates.

Corn: The crop is practically matured and cutting is well advanced. The quality and yield are generally good, except in a few counties. The indicated crop is 62,634,000 bushels, as compared with 65,000,000 last year. However, about one-third of the acreage is utilized for silage purposes, so that the grain production is approximately two-thirds of the above figures.

Spring Wheat: The acreage has decreased materially since the War, and the crop was very disappointing in yield this year as well as in the previous two years. The crop is estimated at 317,000 bushels, or 52 per cent of normal. The quality is poor.

Oats: Recent reports and threshing returns have caused the crop of oats to shrink to 25,716,000 bushels. This is the smallest crop of oats produced in Michigan since 1897 and, with that exception, is the smallest crop since that quantity was first produced. From present information, the average yield per acre is between 18 and 19 bushels, and the quality is very poor. Much of the grain is exceptionally light in weight and has but little feeding value. The greater part of it is unfit for use as seed.

Barley: The final condition estimate on barley is 56 per cent of normal yield, equivalent to 3,750,000 bushels. Last year's crop was 6,240,000 bushels. The acreage harvested is 221,000 as compared with 210,000 last year. The quality is much below normal.

Buckwheat: The crop is showing good prospects, and, if there are no damaging frosts during September, a good yield may be expected. The present condition is placed at 83 per cent which represents a good crop of 583,000 bushels, which is 26,000 bushels less than produced last year.

Potatoes: There has been considerable improvement in the prospects for late potatoes in many sections. While there are many poor stands that will yield but little, there are also many good stands. Some excellent fields are found in Montcalm, Mecosta, and adjacent counties, one of the heavy producing sections of the state, but the stands are much poorer in the northwestern and southwestern counties.

The present outlook is for a crop of 22,216,000 bushels, as compared with 35,700,000 bushels last year. The total crop for the United States as now forecasted is 323,000,000 as compared with 428,000,000 bushels last year.

Beans: The most of the early crop has been harvested, and the yields have been rather poor. The late crop will be harvested during September and promises only a fair yield, the condition being 71 per cent. This is equivalent to a crop of 2,295,000 bushels or 1,280,000 bushels less than last year.

Clover Seed: The acreage of clover seed to be harvested is estimated at 76,000, or five per cent less than last year. Some acreage is being cut for hay owing to the shortage of that crop. Yields of mammoth and alsike are reported to be rather light in many sections, but June clover is generally well filled. The outlook is for an 80 per cent yield, or a crop of 116,000 bushels. Last year's crop was 120,000 bushels.

Hay: The hay crop is estimated at 2,711,000, the highest production since 1913. The average yield for the state is 0.42 ton of tame and 1.10 tons of wild hay. The quality is 87 per cent as compared with a ten-year average of 0.3 per cent, much of the crop having ripened prematurely and being short in straw.

Fruit: The total apple crop of Michigan is placed at 6,153 bushels and that of the United States, 107,000,000, the lightest production for the country as a whole since 1890. The present outlook is for 39 per cent of a crop in Michigan. The light peach crop in Michigan is expected to produce 408,000 bushels, while last year's crop was 1,100,000. The production of grapes is exceeding earlier estimates, and now promises 40 per cent of a crop for the state. Melons are an abundant crop and fully supplying the demand in most sections. The quality of all fruits is generally good.

Swine: The number of swine on farms on September 1st for fattening purposes is estimated at 1,214,000. This is somewhat below the pre-war level, but practically the same as last year.

Wool: An inquiry relative to wool production indicates that 7,714,000 pounds were produced in the state this year. Last year, 8,385,000 pounds were clipped. The loss is due to the lighter average weight of fleeces and to the reduced number of sheep sheared.

CONCRETE PRO- NOUNCED GOOD

SHOWS UP WELL UNDER MOST SEVERE TESTS

Sample Sent to Lewis Institute of Chicago, Holds Up Under 4100 Pound Weight Test

A special report from the structural materials research laboratory of the Lewis Institute of Chicago, to the chairman of the Charlevoix County Good Roads association, says:

"Recently you sent us a specimen of concrete removed from the road between Charlevoix and Petoskey. The examination shows that the concrete was made of well graded gravel, and well mixed with cement. Upon squaring up the specimen and testing it on our machine, it showed a compression strength averaging 4,100 pounds to the square inch. This is good strength for a concrete road."

This report but further confirms the statements of concrete road advocates as to the durability and wearing quality of this kind of road. Roads built twelve years ago of concrete show but three thirty-seconds of an inch wear. According to this it would take 128 years to wear down an inch. Will any other kind of road stand up in like manner?

If one inch of concrete road will stand up under a pressure of 4,100 pounds, is there any reason why the concrete laid twelve years ago should wear more than 3.32nds of an inch, and is it not sufficient proof that one inch will last 128 years at the same ratio?

Then why not build all roads of concrete, full sixteen feet in width, or nine feet of concrete and the balance of gravel? Would this not be economy in road building?

W. C. T. U. MEETING HELD LAST FRIDAY

September Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. W. J. Weikel

The September meeting of the society was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Weikel last Friday afternoon with a good attendance.

Supt. Rice of the public schools was present on invitation and gave an interesting talk along educational lines also answered questions regarding religion and morals in connection with the schools. The society offered to co-operate in every way possible with the schools and was invited to send a representative to address a teachers' meeting early in the year. Five copies of a temperance paper were ordered for the grade school reading tables.

Mrs. Stewart read two poems which were much enjoyed.

The society is invited to Mrs. Emmet Coulter's home for an all-day meeting in October, when it is hoped that Mrs. Robin, one of the state officers, will be present to report the recent national convention and speak of the work of the society in general.

Leahy, the Optometrist, will be at the Hotel Charlevoix on Monday, September 20. He has a complete set of glasses guaranteed to fit

DEATH TAKES MRS. JOHN O'NEIL

AFTER ILLNESS COVERING PERIOD OF OVER A YEAR

Was One of the Pioneer Residents of Charlevoix—Funeral Thursday Morning at 10:30

Death came at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday morning to Mrs. John O'Neil at her home 402 Dixon avenue. Mrs. O'Neil had been in poor health for a long time, but during the past few months she had suffered more than usual. At times when it seemed as though she hovered nearer death than life, still a cheerful atmosphere pervaded the home and she never allowed those about her to fully realize her suffering.

Marietta Weaver was born at Washington Island, Wis., in 1854, being 67 years of age at the time of her death. She became the bride of John O'Neil September 17, fifty years ago. Three children were born to them, John O'Neil, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Howard, both of this city, and Mrs. Emory Pierce of Sault Ste. Marie. Other surviving relatives are a sister and brother, Mrs. Louis Mercler of Detroit, George W. Weaver of Charlevoix, also a half sister and brother, Mrs. Mary Dowling of Cheboygan, Wis., and Patsy Flannaghan of Charlevoix.

Decensed with her husband came to Charlevoix in the pioneer days of 1881, and during the time Charlevoix grew from but a small hamlet, to the thriving city of today, did her part during the struggles and privations that has always been the experience of those who laid the foundation of our present cities.

Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church, Thursday morning at 10:30 a. m.

MARRIED TWENTY. FIRST OF FEBRUARY

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Merriam Announce Happy Event

The Courier, as well as numerous other Charlevoix friends of Robyn D. Merriam, have during the week received an announcement of his marriage, which took place at Waterville, Ill., February 21st, to Miss Lida Jane Snodgrass.

The announcement came as a surprise, although it was generally known that "Bob" was contemplating taking this step. His wife spent a greater portion of the summer at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. at Ann Arbor, where Bob has entered the University of Michigan.

The newly weds are now located at Ann Arbor, where Bob, has entered the University of Michigan. Charlevoix people who have known this young man for years, extend hearty congratulations.

MOTOR TRUCKS MUST CARRY MIRRORS NOW

The department of state and the state police and the various state and local agencies upon which rests the responsibility of enforcing the motor vehicle laws are about to start a campaign against motor truck drivers who refuse to carry mirrors on their machines.

Numerous complaints have been received at the department of state recently. From all parts of the state have come protests that drivers of big trucks are paying no attention to the new motor vehicle law which provides that such trucks shall carry, where the driver can get a view of the road behind him, a mirror when traveling on country highways. The result of this failure to live up to the law, the complaints say, is that it is just as difficult as ever for drivers of fast moving machines to pass the lumbering trucks.

The noise of the trucks, it is claimed, drowns out the sound warning signals and on narrow roads is often necessary for drivers of passenger vehicles to trail trucks for miles, regardless of the frantic efforts of the drivers of faster moving machines to induce the truck drivers to get out of the center of the road

MICHIGAN GAME LAW CHANGES

SYNOPSIS OF LAWS WITH ALL CHANGES

Unlawful to Catch Many Fish Now During Spring Months—Price of License Increased

Local hunters and fishermen will find that this year a number of changes have been made in the game and fish laws. The deer season opens November 10th and it will be lawful to kill these animals until November 30th, inclusive. Rabbits can be killed from October 15th to December 31st, giving the hunters an opportunity to kill "cotton-tails" while hunting for fox squirrel. The open season for fox squirrel is from October 15th to 31st, inclusive.

The new law also will set hard on fishermen who have been used to fishing for bluegill, white bass and crappies during the spring months. Under the new law it is unlawful to catch or have in your possession any of these fish between April 1st and June 15th. Sunfish and perch can be taken at any time.

61,000 HAVE HAD BONUS VOUCHERS

THAT MANY CHECKS MAILED TO MICHIGAN VETERANS

Ex-Service Men Have Been Paid at Rate of 2,500 Daily Since Act Was Passed

Approximately 61,000 world war veterans have received bonuses from the state of Michigan to date.

The ex-service men have been paid at the rate of 2,500 a day since the bonus act was passed by the 1921 legislature and the bonds, from which cash to make payments was derived, were sold it was announced at the offices of State Auditor General Fuller.

The department under Adjutant General Bersey, which has carefully checked all applications as they were received, has gotten ahead of the auditor general's offices about 15,000 with the result that a great many former service men employed by the adjutant general to do this work have been released.

About one-half of the $20,000,000 realized from the sale of the bonds has been used.

Michigan voters approved a bond issue of $30,000,000 but when the bonds were sold it was discovered by the state administrative board it would be more advisable to sell but $20,000,000 then in view of market conditions. The remaining $10,000,000 will be sold as soon as the auditor general nears the depletion of the present fund.

The 20 years bonus bonds bear 5 3/4 per cent interest and the one year notes, 6 per cent. It is expected when the remaining unsold bonds are offered for sale, bond buyers will be in a position to offer even better terms than these because of improved market conditions.

FORMER RESIDENT ILL AT PORTLAND

Fred N. Chapel Suffering From Leakage of the Heart

Word comes from Portland, Ore., that Fred N. Chapel, for many years a resident of Charlevoix before moving west, has been confined to his bed or reclining chair since last July, suffering from leakage of the heart.

Mr. Chapel was first stricken in December of last year, growing steadily worse until in July he was unable to leave the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapel are well known in Charlevoix and have many friends who greatly regret their unfortunate circumstances. For a number of years they conducted the Central Drug Store, now owned by B. A. Herman, and occupied a prominent position in the social and business life of the city.

ONE-BASE SLAMS ORDER OF DAY

IN BASEBALL GAME AT LOEB FARMS SUNDAY

Thirty-five Hundred Fans Witness One of the Best Games Played This Season

The Boyne City aggregation of ball tossers, champions of the Northern Michigan League, chesty and avareicious, conveyed by Manager Voak and conveyed in various buses, journeyed Sunday afternoon from the east arm of Pine Lake to do battle with the fighting sodbusters under the astute managerial eye of Jess Tenney. It was weather registering a hundred per cent perfection that greeted the visitors and aided materially in the record attendance of 3,500, many cars coming from Cheboygan, Mancelona and Traverse City.

One-base slams were the order of the day, Tuhs and Saffron, in spite of a report that both were a trifle sore, hurling in fine style. Once more Tubby, hung the Indian sign on his gentlemanly rival from overseas. It might be just as well, to state right here that the Boyne City boys are a bunch of good sportsmen under winning or losing conditions, and that's the real test.

The clash was greatly relished in spite of a lack of sensational clouts and fast fielding. It was just good, clean baseball with acceptable umpiring and showed the sodbusters up as consistent performers.

This week-the sodbusters are playing at the East Jordan fair and will give a good account of themselves. They will also meet the Eagles of Traverse City at the fair there. For this series extensive preparations are being made.

1922 CONVENTION TO BE HELD HERE

Grand Lodge K. of P. to Meet in Charlevoix

The 1922 annual convention of Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias and Grand Temple Pythian Sisters will be held in this city about the first week in September, next year.

This is the first time Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, K. of P., has had the opportunity to entertain the grand lodge and convention and without doubt it will be one of the very best in the history of the order.

Charlevoix has been in line for this meet several times, but owing to the fact at that time one of the grand lodge officers had his office here the local lodge representatives gave way to others. This year, through the concerted efforts of F. M. Glassford, representative of Pine Lake lodge; A. L. Fitch, chairman of the committee on law, and W. E. Hampton, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, a former Charlevoix resident, now located at Ann Arbor, the matter was brought to a head and Charlevoix was unanimously chosen for the 1922 convention.

Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, K. of P., has the reputation throughout the state as being proud for pound the most enthusiastic lodge in the Pythian domain. This reputation will be fully sustained during the 1922 convention.

Resolution

Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, that the roll of the special assessment for defraying that part of the cost to be borne by special assessment on the lands benefited by the construction of a sewer in that part of State street lying between West Huribut avenue and West Garfield avenue in said city, and designated State street sewer extension district No. 1, as made and filed by the Board of Special Assessors be and hereby is approved and confirmed.

Resolved further, that the respective amounts assessed against the lands described in said roll to be divided into five equal installments the first installment to be due and payable on or before the 30th day of October, 1921, and collectable directly from said special assessment roll without interest; and the remainder of said installments to be due and payable annually, one each year until the full total sum is paid with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum payable annually to be computed from and after the date of confirmation of said roll.

Resolved further, that the City Clerk be and hereby is instructed to annually certify to the City Assessor the amount of all unpaid installments appearing on said special assessment roll, and that said City Assessor be and hereby is instructed to spread said amounts on the City July tax roll against the several lands described in said roll, together with the accrued interest on said installments remaining unpaid. Provided, that any unpaid first assessment shall be certified to said assessor and by him spread on said roll with interest at said rate computed from the date of confirmation of said roll.

Resolved further, that the owner of any of said lands so assessed may pay the whole amount of such special assessment at any time before October 30th, 1921, without interest or at the maturity of any installment after that date with accrued interest computed as aforesaid, whereupon the City Treasurer shall enter such payment on the special assessment roll and give receipt therefor.

Resolved further, that the City of Charlevoix borrow the sum of Thirty-six Hundred ($3,600.00) dollars in anticipation of the collection of said special assessments to be used for the purpose of defraying the cost of construction of said sewer and that the bonds of the City of Charlevoix be issued therefor bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum payable annually, bearing date September 20th, 1921, and in denominations as follows:

Bonds Nos. 1 to 3 inclusive, each in the sum of $300, due September 20th, 1922.

Bonds Nos. 4 to 5 inclusive, each in the sum of $300 due September 20th, 1923.

Bonds Nos. 6 to 7 inclusive, each in the sum of $300 due September 20th, 1924.

Bonds Nos. 8 to 9 inclusive, each in the sum of $300 due September 20th, 1925.

Bonds Nos. 10 to 12 inclusive, each in the sum of $300 due September 20th, 1926.

Resolved further, that the Mayor and City Clerk be and hereby are instructed to sign said bonds and interest coupons to be attached thereto pledging full faith and credit of said city for the prompt payment thereof both principal and interest as they severally mature.

Resolved further, that the Mayor and City Clerk be and hereby are authorized to negotiate for the sale of and sell the best terms obtainable not less than par and deposit the proceeds of sale in the City Treasury to the credit of the General Sewer fund provided by law.

Moved by Ald. Hamilton second-	ed by Ald. Bergeon the bills be allowed and the Clerk authorized to	issue orders in settlement of the respective amounts. Motion carried	by the following aye and nay vote:
Ayes, Ald. Bergeon, Genet, Hamil-	ton, Levinson, Miller and Wood.
Nays, none.
Moved by Ald. Levinson second-	ed by Ald. Bergeon that the agreement entered into between the City	and Allen Ulrich, A. M. Hamlin, E.
A. Stewart, and Ernest Kibbe dated	September 7th, 1921, stipulating for the construction of a sewer in that	part of Grant street lying between tween Clinton and Mason streets and	for spreading an assessment therefor be approved and placed on file	in the office of the City Clerk and that the Board of Special Assessors	be instructed to make and file a special assessment roll in accordance	with the said agreement. Carried by following aye and nay vote:	Ayes, Ald. Bergeon, Genet, Hamilton, Levinson, Miller and Wood.
Ald. Wood offered the following	Resolution
Resolved by the Common Council	of the City of Charlevoix, that
Whereas, the Common Council by	resolution adopted the 22nd day of August, A. D. 1921, submitted to	the electors of said city the proposition to construct a power plant	and works for the manufacture of electric current to supply said city	and its inhabitants with electric current for lighting, power and heating	purposes, and
Whereas, at a special election duly	called and held in said city on Tuesday, the 6th day of September,	1921, the qualified electors of said city by more than a two-thirds ma-	jority thereof approved the said proposition, and to issue the bonds of said	city in the sum of $50,000 in denominations of $1,000 each bear-	ing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum payable semi-annu-	ally and maturing at not to exceed twenty years from and after the date	of issue.
Now therefore he it resolved, that	the City of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix and state of Michi-	gan, borrow the said sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars to defray the ex-	pense of construction of said Electric Power plant, and as evidence of	said indebtedness, issue the bonds of the said city in said sum, in de-	nominations of $1,000 each, fifty in number, bearing interest at the rate	of six per cent per annum payable semi-annually on the first day of	April and October of each year after the date of issue until paid. Said	bonds to bear date of October 1st,
1921, and to mature serially as fol-	lows:
Bonds No. 1 to 2 inclusive, matur-	ing October 1st, 1924.
Bonds No. 3 to 4 inclusive, matur-	ing October 1st, 1925.
Bonds No. 5 to 6 inclusive, matur-	ing October 1st, 1926.
Bonds No. 7 to 10 inclusive, matur-	ing October 1st, 1927.
Bonds No. 11 to 20 inclusive, matur-	ing October 1st, 1928.
Bonds No. 21 to 30 inclusive, matur-	ing October 1st, 1929.

Bonds No. 31 to 40 inclusive, maturing October 1st, 1930.

Bonds No. 41 to 50 inclusive, maturing October 1st, 1931.

Resolved further, that the interest due and payable on said bonds be evidenced by coupons attached to said bonds bearing the printed lithographed signatures of the Mayor and City Clerk, and of even date with the said bonds.

Resolved further, that said bonds and interest coupons be issued in substantially the following form:

No. $1,000

United States of America,
State of Michigan,
City of Charlevoix,

Plant Bonds.

Total Issue $50,000.

Know all men by these presents that the City of Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, a municipal corporation, acknowledges itself to owe and for value received hereby promises to pay to the bearer hereof the sum of One Thousand Dollars, lawful money of the United States of America, on the First day of . . . 19 . . . together with interest on said sum from date hereof until paid at the rate of six per cent per annum payable semi-annually on the first day of April and October of each year, upon the presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached as they severally mature. Both principal and interest of this bond are hereby made payable at the office of the City Treasurer of said city of Charlevoix, and for the prompt payment of this bond both principal and interest as aforesaid at maturity, the full faith and credit of said City of Charlevoix are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is one of a series of Fifty bonds of like date, tenor and amount aggregating the total sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars numbered consecutively from 1 to 50 inclusive, and issued by said City of Charlevoix for the purpose of defraying the cost of construction of a steam power plant for the manufacture of electric current to supply said city and its inhabitants with electric lighting in pursuance of a vote of the qualified electors of said city at a special election held therein on the Sixth day of September, 1921.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by the constitution and laws of the State of Michigan to be done precedent to the issuance of this bond, have been duly and regularly done and performed as provided by law. And that the total indebtedness of said City of Charlevoix, including this bond, does not exceed any constitutional or statutory limitation.

In testimony whereof, the City of Charlevoix has caused this bond and interest coupons to be signed by its Mayor and City Clerk, and its corporate seal affixed hereto, this First day of October, A. D., 1921.

NEXT SEASON'S BERRY CROP

Greatest Influence Is Exerted During Summer Growing Months After Fruiting.

The one time when the greatest influence on the next year's berry crop is exerted is during the summer growing months just after the fruiting season has passed. It is then that the young vines are making a vigorous growth in order to be sufficiently matured for fruiting the following season.

Nature, in her efforts to accomplish something, is always profuse with her bounty. She will send up a dozen canes from one root in an effort to produce only one additional seedling. Just what takes place during the summer in the berry patch will have everything to do with the success of the crop the following season. It is after the fruiting season is passed that the greatest neglect is apt to fall upon the small fruit on the average farm.

POULTRY MANURE FOR FRUIT

Most Valuable Animal Fertilizer Produced and Much of It Is Thrown Away or Wasted.

Poultry manure is, by far, the most valuable animal fertilizer commodity produced and has been comparatively little understood. In fact, much of it has been thrown away or carelessly wasted. It contains more than twice as much ammonia and phosphate as sheep manure and more than four times as much as horse manure. It can be kept in good condition more easily than any other manure with very little labor or attention.

FERTILIZER FOR FRUIT TREES

Nitrate of Soda and Acid Phosphate Applied in Circle Will Produce Best Results.

The fruit tree fertilizer must generally be used and producing the best results during recent tests by dening orchardists, consists of five pounds of nitrate of soda (or four pounds of sulphate of ammonia) and five pounds of acid phosphate, applied in a circle under the outer ends of the branches of the trees and worked into the soil about four inches deep.

LEGAL NOTICES

Order for Publication

The State of Michigan, Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, Calib Vanzant and Anna Vanzant, plaintiffs vs. Edward Guy Green and Thad A. Dean or the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns of said Thad A. Dean, Defendants.

In this case it appearing that it cannot be ascertained in what state or country the defendants, Edward Guy Green and Thad A. Dean or the unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns of said Thad A. Dean reside, after diligent search and inquiry.

Therefore, on motion of Lisle Shanahan, attorney for plaintiff, it is ordered that defendants enter their appearances in this cause on or before three months from date of this order and that within twenty days plaintiff cause this order to be published in the Charlevoix Courier, published in the place where the said publication to be continued at public auction for six weeks in succession.

ATWOOD

Herman Fol has had a buyer for his farm recently but did not sell.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Brown made a trip to Charlevoix last Saturday.

John DeYoung spent a short time visiting relatives in southern Michigan.

Remember the auction sale to be held at Fred Glazier's this week Friday.

Mrs. Allen Reitsma and two children from Chicago are visiting at the C. DeVries home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Klooster and daughter spent Labor Day at the home of his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ty Coeling expect to move to Ellsworth where they have rooms in the house owned by A. Martin.

The Atwood school is being taught this year by Roland Derrer from Muncelona. Miss Vera Larsen of the same place is teaching the primary grades.

Some good corn and bean crops are reported in this neighborhood this season and potatoes are doing well since the rain last Saturday.

Rev. G. G. Haan formerly a resident here is reported to be recovering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

A number of young folks from Atwood took in the ice cream social at Norwood last Friday evening after which they went to old Antrim and had a marshmallow roast.

This week Wednesday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Christian Reformed church at Atwood. An afternoon and evening program was arranged and the two former pastors, Rev. J. A. Rother and J. D. Pickart were expected to be here and help celebrate the event. More next week.

CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER Sires

Department of Agriculture is Aiding Movement by Issuing Number of Publications.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In response to many requests for information to be used in starting better-sires movements in various localities, the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, has prepared a list of available publications and other material in the department. It has also furnished data useful to persons interested in legislation for restricting the use of mongrel sires.

Except when the open range is involved, however, or there is need to control inferior sires from running at large, specialists of the Bureau prefer a continuance of educational work to legislation. They place emphasis on the fact that the work, although in-

While whole milk is nature's balanced food and is valuable for young animals, skim milk and other creamery by-products, such as buttermilk and whey, are also useful feeds, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Skim milk is fed to young pigs in the proportion of about three pounds to one of concentrates, such as cornmeal or shorts. Buttermilk, which has not been diluted, too much with water, has nearly the same feeding value as skim milk. It is a better food for swine than for calves because it is apt to cause digestive disturbances when fed to the latter, unless considerable care is used. Whey is used almost exclusively in feeding swine. It is about two-thirds as valuable as skim milk as a food. Accordingly from ten to twelve pounds of whey are equivalent to one pound of grain. Sweet skim milk, when supplemented with other feed such as corn meal or wheat shorts, is very good for young calves. If beef calves are to be fed skim milk, they should be fed in practically the same manner as dairy calves.

"The Whitest White I Ever Saw"

IN Victoria, Texas, there are three houses in the same block (Mr. Trailor's house, shown above, is one of them) which are painted with Heath & Milligan Best Prepared Paint; and, in the words of the painter himself: "The whitest white I ever saw."

That's because Best Prepared Paint has a high hiding power—you will find that out when you use it. You will also find that you won't have to get so much to go over the surface, and, therefore, fewer hours of labor are required to apply it. That it gives more years of service—looks better all the time than most paints. Best Prepared Paint is the best house paint that Heath & Milligan know how to make, or have ever made after 67 years. It will prove to be the cheapest in the end. If your house needs painting now—don't delay—decay won't wait for paint to get cheaper. Look for the trade sign of dependability (shown above) when you do buy.

AT THE MOVIES

"His Own Law" will be the offering at the Palace Theatre for next Monday and in this picture, unless we are greatly mistaken, we have found a film that will satisfy the most critical demand of every man, woman and child who is a patron of our theatre. There is comedy, there is pathos, there is power in "His Own Law," and to those of you who have seen Hobart Bosworth on the screen, it is sufficient to say that he is at his best in a part made for his exceptional talents.

The Boy That Nobody Wanted
He came into the world unwanted and unloved. His mother sold him to a rich woman who needed a baby to put through a scheme! The scheme failed and then the rich woman didn't want him either. So he landed in an orphan's home, and grew up there, with the reputation of being the worst boy in the school. He never quite understood why or why he earned that distinction. He wasn't a bad boy—he was just a very lonesome one. He needed what all children need—just somebody to love him and give him a square deal. For he was really an awfully nice boy, with a whole lot of good hidden under his shy, homely exterior. "The Soul of Youth," a big William D. Taylor special, with the boy who played "Huck Finn," is a picture for young and old. Coming to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

DAIRY HINTS

BULL ASSOCIATIONS HELPFUL

Acted as 'Wedge to Stimulate Dairy Interest and Promote Better Methods in South.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An example of how bull associations, organized through the help of the United States Department of Agriculture, act as a wedge to stimulate dairy interest and promote better dairy methods in a community is illustrated by the work which has been done in Spartanburg county, S. C. Five years ago little dairying was done in this county, according to children of the department, but now the industry is making rapid progress and up-to-date methods are being practiced largely as a result of the organization of a bull association.

The interest in dairying dates from the beginning of the purebred bull movement in the vicinity of Campobello in 1916. At that time a breeder, in the hope of starting an interest in better stock and creating a demand for his animals, presented a purebred bull to the community. Little interest was taken, and the gift was accepted with reluctance. The community was made up of small farms and there were few cows.

Following this a dairyman's picnic and exhibition of live stock was held, and as a result of extension work carried on by the dairy division of the department in co-operation with Clemson Agricultural college more people became interested and bought cows. In 1917 a co-operative bull association was organized, from which developed a live stock show, and the members of the association developed a keen interest in comparing the dairy animals they raised.

Another show was held in 1920, at which prizes, offered by merchants and bankers consisting of cash, merchandise, and savings accounts were awarded. One of the features of the show was a program of short talks on local problems by the county agent, leading farmers, and representatives of the commercial club and the State Jersey Breeders' association. As an indication of the interest that was aroused these attending the show voted unanimously to hold a community fair next fall, to include not only dairy stock but other agricultural products.

SPRAY TO KEEP FLIES AWAY

Best Time to Apply Repellent is in Morning After Milking or Early in Afternoon.

To keep cows quiet and contented they should be sprayed to keep flies off. A good time to spray is after milking in the morning and before milking time in the afternoon.

With a portable cart, made from a half barrel by attaching wheels and a spray pump and nozzle, two men can spray 40 cows in five minutes. Thirty gallons of mixture will spray 40 cows twice a day for 10 days.

Formula: 4½ quarts coal tar dip, 4½ quarts kerosene, 3 quarts coal oil, 3 quarts white oil and 1½ quarts oil of tur. Dissolve 3 pounds laundry soap in water, add the above ingredients and bring the whole up to 30 gallons with lukewarm soft water.

PUREBREDS REPLACE SCRUBS

Nothing but Registered Sires Being Used at the Louisiana State Normal School.

"Within the past ten days we have sold to the butcher five scrub cows. We are now keeping only high grades and purebreds." With this explanation an official of the Louisiana State Normal school in Natchitoches parish enrolled in the "Better Sires, Better Stock" movement conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various states. All the live stock on the school farm, which includes cattle, swine and poultry, are being bred only to purebred sires.

BEST TIME TO SELECT CALF

If Dam is Wide, Deep-Bodied Cow Giving Liberal Supply of Milk Useful Animal is Assured.

The best time to select a cow is at a few months of age, when it may be seen with its mother, or, at any rate, before it is weaned. Observe the calf's mother. If she is a wide, deep-bodied cow with plenty of size and is giving a liberal supply of milk, you may be reasonably sure that the calf, if cared for with good food and properly cased for will grow into a useful breeding animal.

TESTIMONY NOW CONCLUDED

ABBOTT SUIT IS STILL UP IN THE AIR

Difficult Yet to See Why City Should Be Liable—Claims Seem to be Absurd

The case of Charles S. Abbott vs. Henry Richardi, Hydraulic Power and Light company and the City of Charlevoix which was commenced in Antrim county circuit court and transferred to Charlevoix county for the taking of testimony was in progress all of last week, Judge Guy M. Chester of Hillsdale presiding and the taking of testimony and oral arguments concluded Tuesday. There remains the filing of briefs of counsel which will consume about thirty days. The decision of the court may be looked for shortly after that time.

The plaintiff presented several claims not before disclosed by the pleadings in the case and several novel arguments arose over the points at issue. A new one was the claim of Plaintiff Abbott that he was entitled to recover as assignee of the old 1905 contract between the city and Henry Richardi which was terminated by the city in June 1905 by severing the transmission wires at the city limits.

A general statement of the case was made in the Courier at the time the suit was commenced. In September, 1917, the plaintiff, Abbott came to Charlevoix to learn whether the city would enter into a contract with him to receive current from the Richardi plant in case he could make a deal to purchase the plant. He talked with some of the officials, and received a favorable answer. He then went to Bellaire and secured a sixty day option from Mr. Richardi for the sale of the corporate stock of the Hydraulic Power and Light company. Returning to Charlevoix, he secured a ten year contract for delivery of current. In this contract Abbott agreed to move the Richardi steam plant to Charlevoix and before November 1st of that year give a bond to do so. He also agreed to procure an assignment and discharge of the old Richardi claim under the 1905 contract. He did not perform these terms. Time went on, and the Council became alarmed over the situation. It called Mr. Abbott before the Council, as the testimony disclosed, and asked him to inform them as to the exact situation. It is claimed by all members of the Council at that time that Mr. Abbott appeared in response to the summons and informed them that he was unable to perform, had given up the deal and if the city could make any arrangement with Mr. Richardi to go ahead, Mr. Abbott denied this. The city subsequently made a deal with Mr. Richardi under a lease agreement with an option to purchase as we all know, the matter was submitted to the people in the following spring and by a large vote the people voted to approve the purchase. The city proceeded to repair the plant, installed new machinery at a cost of upwards of $35,000, and has operated the plant without protest from Abbott according to the testimony of the old and succeeding aldermen. It was shown that the first notice from Mr. Abbott that he claimed any rights in the plant was received January 21st of the present year, when he mailed a letter demanding possession of the plant and an accounting of the profits.

So far as the City of Charlevoix is concerned it is difficult to see where there is any liability. The city was in sore difficulties at the time these contracts were made and there was no time to lose. However, the plaintiff Abbott now claims that the city in purchasing the plant from Mr. Richardi, was doing so for his benefit, and that it was understood that the city was to turn it over to him and account for the profits, which, of course, would have been a fine piece of business and beyond the power of the Council. The point was raised against him that he had delayed too long in asserting his rights. That he should have commenced suit before property rights had been acquired and before the city had gone so far as it has in the development of the plant. These are all questions which Judge Chester will be called upon to decide.

There is no way in which any person can prevent himself from being sued in court, so we have been compelled to fight this case, no matter how absurd the issue may be from our viewpoint. There is one thing that stands out very prominently in this case which should teach present and future councils a good sound lesson, and that is the necessity of keeping full and accurate records of every act or step in any proceeding, no matter how unimportant or unnecessary it may seem at the time. To rely on the memory of witnesses is altogether to hazardous and uncertain. In this case, while the witnesses could remember conversations and transactions, they were unable to recall dates and places to a positive certainty. The Editor of the Courier, who was a witness to several conversations could not agree with other witnesses as to a certain date and we do not know whether we were right or wrong. We did remember the conversation and that should be the real material thing.

In the meantime, we haven't lost the plant yet and don't expect to.

SOD BUSTERS ARE THE CHAMPIONS

Romp Under Wire Sure Winners in Season's Closing Contests—Play
Traverse Eagles Wednesday

The baseball tournament held in connection with the Charlevoix County Fair at East Jordan last week was won by Manager Tenney's fleet stable of racers galloping under the famous colors of Loeb Farms. With a record of 32 games won and three close games lost, the fighting sodbusters can retire for the season feeling they've earned winter naps. The whir of the ashen club, the sharp crack of its impact with the flying leather globe—sweet music to the fan!—will soon be things of the past.

While this paper is being printed the boys will be engaged at Traverse City in an effort to pluck the talons from the redoubtable Eagles. Whatever the outcome, the Farms team, by reason of sustained high standard of play throughout the summer, as uniformly sportsmanlike conduct, will lose no friends.

The sodbusters won the Wednesday East Jordan game by a margin of four runs, the final count standing 5 to 1. They came right back Friday and in a sharp contest defeated the Mancelona boys 4 to 3. The finish of the latter game was highly exciting, a pair of bags being occupied by the foe when Leo McCarthy grabbed a grounder and pegged straight and true to Don Sutherland for the final out.

The sodbusters played the same line-up in both games. Tubby rode pretty in each start and refused to be blasted from the peak. The East Jordan fray was never in danger, three tallies being manufactured in the first session and two in the eighth. East Jordan shunted its lone marker across the pan in the second frame.

Friday's game was close all the way. Each team propelled a run over the tablet in the initial inning due to free hitting. Ransom's clout in the third being responsible for a one run lead for the eggers. This was all until the ninth, when Foster singled and Tubbs put Foster down. McCarthy got on by an error, after which Ward singled to right center scoring Foster and Mac. These runs were badly needed for the blast furnace lads retaliated and jammed two runs across the board and threatened to grab the fray which ended as above described. Loose baseball was responsible for the Mancelona tallies.

The scores:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
East Jordan 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

FALL SEASON FOR AUCTION SALES HAS COMMENCED

The general opinion is that things have touched bottom and already some are beginning to show an upward tendency. This may not be true of a few lines of manufactured articles, which seem still to be on the toboggan, but so far as farm products are concerned, there is little prospect of further decline. It is time for those who expect to have a surplus of anything to sell, who have live stock, tools, farm produce, or anything along these lines to dispose of, to think about arrangements for a sale. Of course the Courier will advertise your auction just the same as ever, and get results too. This year auction business bids fair to be better than last. Things are easing up and we predict that it will not be as difficult to make the turn this year as last. Men will not hesitate to buy because they fear no further decline in prices.

Remember that the Courier covers the western half of Charlevoix County and south, far into Antrim County, like a blanket; that we can furnish you any auctioneer you want; that we can GET YOU A CROWD; that the Courier advertised every sale in this section last year and the people who want to buy, all go to the Courier and look for your auction advertising; that where bill advertising touches a few people near by, the Courier brings BIDDERS FROM A DISTANCE and so increases the bidders who want your goods and have the price.

Write or see the Courier about advertising your auction. We promise you the best that can be done.

ADMITS KILLING JUDGE IN 1898

BOYNE CITY MAN IS 23 YEARS TRYING TO FORGET

Shot Judge Roscoe Corbett of Traverse City with Misdirected Rifle Shot Near Ozark, Mich.

Haunted by his guilt, D. S. Kuhns, of Boyne City, wandered about the country for 23 years, seeking in vain for relief from the memory of the shooting of Judge Roscoe Corbett, of this city, whose death came at Kuhns' hands, November 7, 1898, through a misdirected rifle shot.

The haunting secret was kept by Kuhns until death came to his bedside a few days ago, when he told friends of the accident and thus cleared the mystery that surrounded the finding of the jurist's body in the woods near Ozark, Mich., in the upper peninsula. For weeks efforts were made by police officials to trace the source of the mysterious shot, that killed the judge, but without reward. Kuhns was never suspected, but the remorse and regret over the accident made him a wanderer.

After he told of the shooting a statement was taken down by his friends and copies were sent to the widow of the judge and to Charles Corbett, his son, both of Traverse City.

Judge Corbett presided over 13 judicial districts and was widely known in the northern part of the state.

In his confession Kuhns declared that his grief had not allowed him a single happy hour in 23 years.

BETTS COMPLETES
SECOND PAINTING

Excellent Work Results in Orders from Home People

H. H. Betts, well known artist of Chicago who has been spending the summer in Charlevoix, has just completed a second portrait in color for Mrs. Mary T. Goldman of St. Paul, Minn.

The painting is excellent and again Mr. Betts has proved to admirers and critics alike that he is a consistent performer of more than average ability.

Mr. Betts has so clearly demonstrated his genius with this summer's work that he will soon start on portraits of several of our home people.

There will be a dance at Hallett's on Friday evening, September 23. Chatterbox's Orchestra of Petoskey will furnish the music. Bill $1.00 per couple. 38tf

CHARLEVOIX CO. S. S. CONVENTION

AT M. E. CHURCH NEXT FRIDAY,
SEPTEMBER 23

To Discuss Topics of Vital Importance to a Higher Standard of Citizenship

The Charlevoix County Sunday School convention will be held in the Methodist church Friday, September 23rd.

The following topics will be discussed:
Worship in the Sunday school.
Missionary instruction in the S. S.
Memory work in the different departments.

Temperance education for children.
Department standards.
Social side of the S. S.
Week-day religious education.
The organized class.

A question box, or round table, will be a feature of the program. J. H. Eagle, secretary of the Michigan State Sunday School association will be in attendance and will give an address at 7:30.

The convention will convene at nine o'clock Friday morning. After a few words of welcome and devotionals the regular business will be taken up followed by discussions of the topics above mentioned.

The ladies of the M. E. church will serve a five o'clock dinner in the dining room of the church.

REV. J. A. SMITH
RESIGNS PASTORATE

Ill Health Deciding Factor—Takes Outdoor Occupation

Last Thursday evening, Rev. Jas. A. Smith, pastor of the Congregational of this city, presented his resignation to take effect December 15th.

It is to be regretted that a pastorate which promised to be so fruitful must be terminated at the end of the first year.

Mr. Smith returned in poor health from overseas, where he served as chaplain during the World War. Physicians advised him to come to Michigan but the change has failed to have the desired effect and he finds he must leave the ministry for the present at least.

For a short time he will devote himself to the selling of various literature of war.

PORTLAND CEMENT PRICE IS REDUCED

Down 20 Cents Per Barrel All Over United States

The Petoskey Portland Cement company announces that to stimulate building all Portland cement companies in the United States have cut the price of their product 20 cents per barrel. The cut went into effect last week.

This reduction comes on the heels of the recent reduction in the price of steel, lumber and other materials that go into house construction, and is expected to add great impetus to the building boom that is starting throughout the country.

As evidence of how much of a start the building business already has made, it is stated that the Petoskey Portland Cement company is working to its full capacity and is sold out. This concern shipped 83,128 barrels of cement last month.

The "Build Now" slogan appears to have been adopted all over the nation.

MANY LACK LEGAL PROOFS OF BIRTH

HUNDREDS OF BIRTHS IN STATE
GO UNRECORDED

Census Agent Checks Michigan Records—Failure to Report Births
May Bring Prosecution

Can you prove—legally—your were born?

C. C. Jermene, special agent of the U. S. Census Bureau, is now checking vital statistics records of the state department of health to learn what percentage of births go unrecorded in Michigan, what percentage of people have no legal proof of birth.

Births of hundreds of children born each year in the state are never recorded, present indications of the work reveal. In other words, it is said, these children may never be able to prove—legally—that they were born and entitled to the rights of citizenship.

"This means," declares Dr. William J. V. Deacon, director of the bureau of communicable disease and vital statistics, "that the physician midwife, attendant, or head of the family in each of these cases is guilty of misdemeanor under the state law and liable to fine and imprisonment and prosecution at any time for failure to report births."

"Counties sparsely settled and communities peopled with a large percentage of those having little knowledge of the value of birth registration, where midwives or no attendants are employed are showing the greatest number of unrecorded births. Records of the division of vital statistics are being used every day by citizens of the state for the purpose of proving the right to inherit property, to marry, to vote, to attend school, to obtain passports, working papers, pensions, or to prove legitimacy."

"To neglect to record a child's birth is not only unlawful but is distinctly unfair to the child."

A COMEDY STAGED ON ANTRIM STREET

A Steer Foils His Pursuers for Some Little Time

A comedy drama in which a lone steer played the star role caused a tie-up in the traffic on Antrim street alongside of S. M. See & Sons' scales Saturday morning. There was no advance publicity announcing the event and those fortunate enough to be there went away feeling that they had been given their money's worth. The admission was free.

While some cattle, belonging to Frank Matchett were being weighed on the scales, one animal, not caring how much he weighed, broke loose and started for the rear of Hallett's lan. A woman who had just hung out a wash was right in line and began taking in her clothes much faster than she had hung them out. The animal came about on another tack and headed for Bridge street. Two men held out a rope to stop him on which he turned around and sat down. Finally some son-of-a-westerner got a hitch around his horns which held, and by pushing and hauling he was made get on the scales and he good like the other little animals.

COUNTY FAIR BREAKS RECORD

LARGEST CROWDS GROUNDS EVER HELD

Thursday Receipts Hundreds of Dollars
More Than Any Day in History of Fair

This year's fair will be recorded in our county's history as one of the most important of Northern Michigan's fairs, every branch of which showed careful planning and supervision. It is no little task to arrange entertainment for the people of a county and to make them feel amply repaid for the effort and money spent. Much credit is due Dwight L. Wilson and his enthusiastic superintendents for the successful way in which they handled every detail, and gave us five days of recreation, competition and socialization. Enthusiastic remarks were heard on every corner. Now and then a kicker slipped through the gate. No such crowd ever gathered without a few kickers getting in, but they would have to be hard shelled indeed, if they did not find something that satisfied them.

A week of favorable weather contributed its share to make the 37th annual fair one of the best ever held in Northern Michigan. A light rain Monday night dampened the dust on both the Midway and the race track, and eliminated a feature which added much to the comfort and enjoyment of the crowds who visited the fair grounds during the week.

The first thing which met the visitor's eye was a midway, which for number and quality of its stands of all kinds, would rival many of the larger fairs in the state. A merry-go-round and pony show furnished attraction for the little folks and some of the older ones as well.

Exhibits in every department were much larger and better than ever before especially those of the county granges in fruit, vegetables and canned goods, which swelled the general exhibit and was a credit to the members of the order and a surprise to the crowds which thronged the space allotted to them.

Every foot of available space in the educational building was filled with work of the various schools of the county and was pronounced the best ever seen in Michigan.

The stock barns were filled to overflowing with animals which showed a marked improvement over former exhibits in breeding and general appearance. The large exhibit of Durham cattle from the W. H. White farm at Boyne City and the private exhibit of animals from the Loeb Farms at Charlevoix completed an exhibit which for quality could not be surpassed.

The speed barns with a string of 25 horses furnished plenty of entertainment for lovers of the track, and time records were shattered in many of the events scheduled.

A baseball diamond with bleachers seating over a thousand people has been added to the grounds since last year and the program included a baseball contest with games every day of the fair.

Tuesday Mancelona played Charlevoix, defeating them by a score of 7 to 1.

Wednesday Loeb Farms defeated East Jordan 5 to 1.

Thursday Mancelona played Boyne City defeating them by a score of 7 to 1.

Friday's game was a hot clash and established the championship between the winners of previous games, Loeb Farms defeating Mancelona by a score of 4 to 3.

These games were largely responsible for the crowds which thronged the grounds, the largest in the history of his popular fair. The management is to be complimented on the free attractions offered and the music by the Boyne City band, Fischer's Orchestra of Kalamazoo and the New Metropole Orchestra of East Jordan all of which made this year's fair one long to be remembered.

The large and appreciative crowd which attended the fair is very encouraging to the Agricultural Society which each year is trying to make the fair larger and better.

CABBAGE BEETLE DOES MUCH HARM

Insect Carefully Avoids Arsenical Sprays Effective Against Many Other Pests.

BEST METHODS FOR CONTROL

Tobacco Dust Found to Be Most Effective of Repellents Tested—Senate of Lead Applications Found Satisfactory.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Evidently the Western cabbage flea beetle was not hatched to die by poison—at least by sprays of arsenicals found so effective against many crop insect pests. It may be driven away, however, by poisonous applications, and herein lies the method of control discovered by specialists of the bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, whose experiments in combating the pest are described in Department Bulletin 1062, "The Western Cabbage Flea Beetle," recently published. This insect is by no means confined to cabbage, but frequently does serious injury to turnips, radishes, mustard, kale and other cole crops, to sugar beets, table beets and under exceptional conditions to beans and peas.

Dainty in Habits.
The beetles, it is said, are dainty in their feeding habits, carefully avoiding foliage that has been sprayed, and attacking either unsprayed parts or flying to other plants. Repellents such as tobacco dust were found to be the most effective of those tested, and of the arsenicals, heavy applications of arsenate of lead gave the most satisfactory results.

A formula that gave excellent results was arsenate of lead paste, 1 pound; fish-oil soap, as a sticker, 1 pound; and water, 10 gallons. Half of this weight of powdered lead arsenate, or 2½ pounds, 12½ gallons of water, is equally effective, with a correspondingly large quantity of soap, to act as an adhesive, or "sticker." It should be applied with a sprayer fitted with elbow extension, and special effort should be made to coat thoroughly the under surface of the leaves. Two or three applications at five to eight-day intervals are sufficient, even in case of severe infestation, provided the first application is made promptly on the first appearance of the insect.

Control by Nicotine.
The pest can also be controlled by nicotine sulphate, one-half pint, 40 per cent solution, in 50 gallons of water, with 2 pounds of soap added, which is a deterrent. It is not possible, however, to control this insect entirely when it occurs in its great abundance.

In addition, it is desirable to keep the plants thrifty and well watered. Mechanical and crop traps can be used with advantage. Clean culture is always advisable.

HUNTING SEASON OPENED SEPT. 16th

Many Ducks to be Found on Surrounding Lakes

Local nimrods may now get out their guns and all accessories, for the open season for ducks started Friday, September 16th. Many reports have come in of duck flights at the surrounding lakes. Licenses may be procured at the County Clerk's office for $1.00.

The rabbit season, fox squirrel and ruffed grouse (partridge) and woodcock season all open on October 16th, thereby increasing the would-be hunter's chances of securing at least one representative of the several species that are lawful hunting.

Geese and brant may be shot at from September 10 to December 31, by anyone fortunate enough to get that close.

Fishermen may fish for suckers, carp, grass pike, sun fish, and perch at any time without fear of the law. Large and small mouth bass may be caught from June 16 to March 31, bluegills from June 16 to March 31, and wall-eyed pike from May 1 to February 1. In fact one may fish for anything but trout, grayling and salmon, the latter fish being caught mostly in cans. Non-resident fishermen are required to procure a license.

For the small sum of $1.00 you get a license that entitles you to hunt everything except deer and beaver in season, together with an excellent excuse to get out in the open these bracing September mornings.

The following information will be "old stuff" to the many seasoned hunters in this section, but for the benefit of the inexperienced we publish the following loads which many experts prefer to use in the hunting of small game:

Ducks, 3 1-4 to 3 1-2 drams of powder, 1 1-8 oz. of No. 6 shot; snipe, quail and woodcock, 3 drams of powder, 1 oz. of No. 8 shot; partridges, 3 1-4 drams of powder, 1 1-8 oz. of No. 7 or 7 1-2 shot; rabbits or squirrels, 3 drams of powder, 1 oz. of No. 6 shot.

J. Lecky, the Optometrist, will be at the Hotel Charlevoix on Monday, September 26. Headache cured, glasses guaranteed to fit. 3712

Who Wouldn't Be Excited?

A skunk caused no little excitement in the office of the Northern Auto company Saturday evening when he sauntered into that place and began a casual inspection. "Where do we go from here" was the order for a time. After about twenty minutes of hide and seek, he was captured. It is thought that perhaps he wanted to see if Henry had made any new improvements on the Ford.

A Near Accident

What might easily have been a serious accident happened Friday afternoon about 5:30, when little Jack Glassford, three and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Glassford of Dixon avenue, darted into the traffic on Bridge street near the postoffice. When picked up he was found to be only badly frightened. The parents of the lad absolved the driver from any blame.

SCHOOL BELL RINGS AGAIN

Public Schools Open with a Normal Attendance

The Charlevoix public schools opened Monday with a normal attendance in every department. The following teachers have reported for duty:

Miss Thyrn Burkland, county normal critic.
Miss Signa Thorsen, fourth grade.
Hilda Carlisle, second and third grades, Lincoln school.

Miss Olive Brown, second, third and fourth grades, Washington school.

Miss Elizabeth Hammet is at present filling the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Mary Berg, seventh grade teacher.

To relieve congestion in junior-high school classes the seventh grade is to be housed in the Central building and the eighth grade with the high school.

Extensive repairs made during the vacation have very greatly improved the sanitary conditions of the old Central building.

A Delightful Surprise

A delightful surprise party was arranged Friday evening by the Royal Neighbors at the home of Mrs. L. McCann on Huribut avenue, in honor of Mrs. R. J. McArthur of the Flint lodge No. 1122, who is visiting here. After the regular business session the ladies enjoyed some games while Mrs. McCann prepared a dainty lunch which was served in a dining room prettily decorated in pink and white cosmos. Everyone reports a good time.

MORAL: TRADE AT HOME WHERE YOUR CHECKS ARE GOOD

The following story is told about a big business man of the west—a wealthy ranchman and farmer—of how he nearly became a mail order trader.

This wealthy farmer was in urgent need of a gasoline engine for one of his farms. His foreman, noticing an illustration of a likely looking engine in a mail order catalog which was listed at a reasonable price according to the description given, suggested that one be ordered at once by wire.

The "Boss," who was accustomed to doing business in a business-like manner, immediately carried out this suggestion by sending the following telegram: "Send engine No. 1336. If good, will send check." In due time he received the following telegram from the mail order house: "Send check. If good will send engine."

Rev. C. Stout in charge. Eighteenth Sunday after Trinity. Service at 10:45 p. m. with sermon and celebration of the Holy Communion. A cordial invitation is extended.

Elinecar Finucan Injured

While rounding the corner of Antrim street and Park avenue Friday evening in a Ford sedan, Elinecar Finucan, daughter of Captain and Mrs. William Finucan, was thrown off her balance which in some unaccountable manner caused her to shove her head through the glass in one of the windows resulting in severe cuts about the face. She is being taken care of at the Charlevoix hospital.

Meeting of the Good Roads Assn.

There will be a meeting of the Charlevoix County Good Roads Association at the Wolverine Hotel, Boyne City, at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday September 27th, 1921. All who are interested in good roads are requested to be present. Phone your order for dinner in advance in order to be sure that you will be in at a red hot show. This association is doing business at the same old stand as in 1917. "Uncle" George, chairman, will make his last appearance of the season, as he leaves soon, to give others a chance to conquer.

Don't be in a hurry. Wait for our big money saving sale this fall. It'll pay you to wait. If you buy now you'll be sorry later. S. Orlovski & Son. 381f

FOREST FIRES

Fire wardens in many portions of the Northwest are urging that great care be taken to prevent forest fires this fall and lay special emphasis on the fact that what promises to be an early fall season will increase fire hazards many times.

The warning comes in good stead and should be heeded by every one who frequents the woods or who lives in the proximity of forests. Already this year, there have been some disastrous fires in the forests of the Northwest. Minnesota has suffered heavily. Many of Wisconsin's cut-over lands have been swept by fire. A repetition this fall will mean an exceptionally heavy loss of that which the nation can ill afford to lose.

Gradually the public is being awakened to the fact that forest fires in many instances are due entirely to carelessness. They should be avoided and good common horse sense will often prevent fires which might cause the destruction of millions of feet of lumber.—Ironwood Times.

This warning, it is true, comes at a most opportune time. Soon the woods will resound to the report of shotguns and rifles. Every camper's fire made in the woods should be smothered when the hunters move on. Each match scratched is a potential forest fire unless it is carefully attended to. The loss is not only to the lumberman but to the fire which lays waste whole sections, destroy thousands of game animals and birds.

"Help prevent forest fires—it pays!"

The announcement that Egyptian women wore bobbed hair and covered their ears, isn't as startling as it might be. The ancient Cretan ladies wore tight corsets and flounced skirts.

A Paris dispatch says that two Americans have invented a telescope that will bring Mars within two miles of the earth. Such an instrument might even bring convinced bolshevik back to earth.

New York is to have a pantomime theatre in which no words will be spoken on the stage. Will the management be able to guarantee similar quiet in the body of the house?

Resort Special Discontinued
The through summer train, commonly known as the Resort special, will complete its summer schedule on the 25th of September and will thereafter be discontinued. For the present the schedule of the other trains will remain the same.

Mrs. L. B. Bartlett Surprised
A very pleasant surprise party was given Mrs. L. B. Bartlett Monday evening it being her 53rd birthday. About twenty friends gathered at her home on Park avenue in the afternoon which was spent with games and other amusements until 6 o'clock when a delightful dinner was served. A feature of the party was a large birthday cake. Mrs. Bartlett received many gifts.

C. A. HAMLIN IS GETTING ALONG FINE

In Biltmore, N. C., From Which the Following was Sent

Biltmore, N. C.,
September 5, 1921.

Dear Editor:

I am getting along fine, but as you know, my tuberculosis trouble is a slow and hard battle to fight.

It sure is a fine place down here, the mountains are mighty pretty, but today as I was reading a few of Edgar Guest's poems, I could not help but think how true some of them were.

One especially struck me as so true and fitting a message that I am sending it to you to put in that little old paper of yours that means so much to me.

The Home Town

Some folks leave home for money,
And some leave home for fame,
Some seek skies always sunny,
And some depart in shame.

I care not what the reason
Men travel east and west,
Or what the month or season—
The home town is the best.

The home town is the glad town
Where something real abides
'Tis not the money-mad town
That all its spirit hides.

Though strangers scoff and flout it,
And even jeer its name,
It has a charm about it
No other town can claim.

The home town skies seem bluer
Than skies that stretch away,
The home town friends seem truer,
And kinder through the day;
And whether glum or cheery,
Light-hearted or depressed,
Or struggle-fit or weary,
I like the home town best.

Let him who will, go wander
To distant towns to live,
Of some things I am fonder
Than all they have to give.

The gold of distant places
Could not repay me quite
For those familiar faces,
That keep the home town bright.

—Edgar A. Guest.

CHARLEVOIX BOY LIKES THE NAVY

Harry Paulson on U. S. S. Huron in South Seas

In a letter to an old schoolmate, Ralph Hamilton, Harry Paulson, aboard the U. S. S. Huron at Chefoo, China, intimates that he is having the time of his life.

His ship by this time has "shoved off" with an itinerary which will take them to many ports in the South Seas. The names of the following ports will bring back to many the early days of the World War when the reading aloud to the family's evening circle of any front page article tested the flexibility of any layman's jaws: Shanghai, Foo Chow, Amoy, Swatow, Hong Kong, Singapore in Straits Settlements, Batavia, Seambai, Makassar, Tawi Tawi, Jola in Sulu Island, Zamboanga in Mindanao, Hilo in Panay, Guam. These and probably many more will the U. S. S. Huron touch, reporting in at Manila by December 17th.

This trip alone is sufficient to make many of the boys envy Harry—we must confess to a desire to make the trip with him.

Get orders on Mason Tires. They will surprise you. Charlevoix Co-Operative Association.

The president of a big corporation gave this reason why his company employed salesmen on a commission basis only.

"A SHINE IN EVERY DROP"

Black Silk Stove Polish is different. It does not dry out. It can be used on the last drop of liquid and paste and quality, absolutely, no wonder, no dust or dirt. You get your money's worth.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Is not only most economical, but it gives a brilliant, silky lustre that cannot be obtained with any other polish. Black Silk Stove Polish does not rub off. It lasts four times as long as ordinary polish—so it saves you time, work and money.

Don't forget—when you want stove polish, be sure to ask for Black Silk. It isn't the best stove polish you ever used—your dealer will refund your money.

Black Silk Stove Polish Works, Sterling, Illinois.

Use Black Silk Air Drying Iron Tassel on grates, registers, stove pipes, and auto mobile tire rims. Prevents rusting. Try it.

Use Black Silk Metal Polish for silverware, nickel, tinware or brass. It works quickly, easily and leaves a brilliant surface. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

150 AT WORK ON TRUNK LINE ROAD

Modern Building Machinery Busy Between Pellston and Mackinaw

With a force of 150 men and four carloads of modern road building machinery in operation, work on the trunk line road between Pellston and Mackinaw City is well started.

The road building job is under the direct personal supervision of M. W. Cochran, of the firm of Scott, Cochran & Scott, which has established a sub-office at Levering.

It is planned to have the gravel base on the road this fall in addition to the completion of all grading. Early in the spring of 1922 the road will be completed and opened for traffic.

The Levering-Mackinaw City link will complete the trunk line through Emmet county from the south to the north line, placing the county among the first in the state which will have a continuous thoroughfare completed across its area.

CHARLEVOIX BOYS ENTER M. A. C.

Richard Paddock and Edward Hammond Enter Class of '25

Richard Paddock and Edward Hammond of Charlevoix will enter the Michigan Agricultural College this fall, enrolling as members of the class of 1925.

At the present time nearly 100 more men and women have made application for admission to the freshman class than had at this date last year. Indications point to the largest group ever received on the M. A. C. campus.

With a new president ready to take office January 1st, a new course in applied science proving popular among entering students, a new football coach in charge of an unusually strong squad of material, and the largest freshman class in history lining up for entrance, prospects are very bright for a year of all-around growth at M. A. C.

The class of 1925, of which Paddock and Hammond will be members, will have its own "Freshman-Varsity" athletic teams throughout the year. The class football team will play a strong schedule of outside games, including Assumption College, Mt. Pleasant Normal College, and the Notre Dame freshmen.

AT THE MOVIES

David Smith, who has won an enviable reputation for directing big films in which animals play an important part, has achieved another triumph in "Black Beauty," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. It is a visualization of Anna Sewell's famous novel which has been translated into every language and after forty years still maintains a place among the world's best sellers.

To Anna Sewell's famous story has been added an inside tale, written by Lillian and George Randolph Chester. This narrative tells the story that Black Beauty could not see. By a clever use of titles and artistic photography the two stories are separated at all times and yet they blend into an unusual picture story that will be long remembered.

The most powerful and gripping story that has appeared in photoplay form in recent months is without doubt, "The Branding Iron," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Monday. It is a story as broad in its sweep as the great outdoors itself; it portrays a clash of the most intense emotions of which human beings are capable. It will hold you breathless as you watch the unfolding of a theme as powerful and direct as a thunderbolt. "The Branding Iron" is a photoplay you will long remember as a masterpiece of photography and of the director's art. You should make it a point to see this picture.

COMPLAIN ABOUT NOXIOUS WEEDS

HAY-FEVERITES JUSTLY CRITICIZE LOCAL CONDITIONS

Urges Movement to Get Rid of Rag-weed and Golden Rod and Make City Safe for Resorters

Charlevoix and surrounding territory is again being justly criticized. This time the complaint comes from hay-feverites, and the cause of their complaint is on account of the neglect of both citizens and city and township officials who allow rag weed and golden rod to grow and thrive along our roads, in fields and cut-over lands.

Charlevoix has a nation-wide reputation as a retreat for sufferers from hay fever and asthma. Hundreds come here every year and stay for several weeks, but if the weed menace is not taken care of, it will be impossible for them to live here. The complaint is just. Drive on any road leading to or from Charlevoix and you will see acres of golden rod and find the roadside lined with rag weed.

We are about to overcome the water and electric shortage. Why not include noxious weeds in the big clean-up?

Here is what a "hay-feverite" has to say about the present condition: "Michigan has many lakes which have become popular resorts for those who leave their city homes for an out of door life in the summer time; but Charlevoix possesses advantages over them all because it has not only inland lakes, but the broad waters of Lake Michigan, its cool breezes, and its beautiful shore.

"It is doubtful whether any city of its size in Michigan has improved in the last fifteen years so much as Charlevoix. Instead of sandy, dusty roads, it now has paved streets; instead of board sidewalks which tripped one at every step, it now has very fine, cement walks; where once there were very ordinary houses, there are now elegant residences.

"Public spirit and a wise use of funds have made Charlevoix an attractive summer home, and here every year have come an increasing number of forlorn hay-fever sufferers seeking relief from their troubles.

"They find comfortable lodgings and good food and settle down with happy expectations of complete exemption. They hear of a mineral water free to all and with health giving qualities. Finding it they stoop to drink, but lift their heads to inhale the poisonous pollen from a field of rag weed right at hand.

"They fly from the hotel porch adorned with boxes of flowers to the lake shore for a breath of pure air—but on their path again appears more rag weed.

"A drive to a neighboring city where the road is bordered with the same weed is out of the question, but even a trip to the city postoffice brings an encounter with the same old enemy.

"The weed is easily up-rooted. Cutting does not prevent an increase. It would be possible to pull and burn every stem of it before the sneezing season begins. Who will organize a raid against the obnoxious weed and make Charlevoix-the-Best beautiful safe for the unfortunate hay-feverites?"

Local Boy Speaks at Big Booster Meeting in California

The Richmond, California, Record-Herald in its issue of September 20, features the address of P. L. Crane, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crane of this city, given at a big booster meeting held there the previous evening. The meeting was held under the auspices of the business men of that city and its object was to formulate plans for the betterment of the community. Mr. Crane was the leading speaker and from what is printed in the article he made a decided hit with audience.

Mr. Crane stated that no town or city could progress unless its business men were thoroughly organized and were working together. The purpose of all organizations, he said, was to centralize the thought and activities of all business men, industries, banks and professional men in to the common cause of promoting every phase that will lead towards the general prosperity of all. He urged a thorough organization of business interests. The result of his talk was the signing up of every business man in Richmond in its plan for better business and a more successful city.

JOHNSON FAMILY REUNION

HELD IN BOYNE CITY WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 21

Officers Elected and Members Enjoy Dinner at Home of O. L. Johnson

The Second Annual Northern Michigan Johnson Family Reunion and husket picnic was held at the farm home of O. L. Johnson at Boyne City on September 21st.

On account of the strong wind the tables were set on the barn floor. Places were laid for twenty-seven.

After the dinner was over a business meeting was called to order by President E. L. Johnson. The report of last year's meeting was read and accepted. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: E. L. Johnson, president; Chas. Lamphear, northern Michigan vice-president; Allie Johnson, southern Michigan vice-president; Mrs. Worth Johnson, secretary and treasurer. An entertainment committee consisting of Worth Johnson, Mildred Lamphear and Julia Werth was appointed.

An intermission in the meeting was taken while all repaired to the yard where a group picture was taken by Mr. Findlay. After this business was again taken up.

The date and place of the next reunion was then voted on and will be held at the home of Mrs. Edward Stewart at Charlevoix on the Wednesday on or before the tenth of September, 1922.

The family history was read by Worth Johnson. This history was compiled by Mrs. Adelia Dutcher in 1915.

The motion was made and carried that this history be revised and brought up to date as there have been many changes since this edition was printed.

Worth Johnson was authorized to make the necessary changes.

E. L. Johnson as president of the reunion asked that a pause be taken in the day's pleasures to remember the absent mother, Mrs. Julia Johnson, who, on account of illness was unable to be present. Mrs. Johnson is 79 years of age and during the past year has been in poor health.

Business being over everyone repaired to the house where music, speaking and dancing were thoroughly enjoyed.

The guests from outside were Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. James Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Smith, Mrs. Nellie Stewart, and Mrs. Edith Sneathen.

CHAMPIONS OF NORTHERN MICH.

LOEB FARMS' "SOBBUSTERS" EARN THIS TITLE

To Date Have Lost But Four Games Out of Thirty-four Played—Win Last Series

Liberal Reward
LOST—Suddenly at Traverse City ball grounds, Friday, September 23rd, one Home Plate. Finder please return to Frank Tubbs at Loeb Farms.

The crown representing the amateur baseball championship of Northern Michigan has settled snugly on the dome of thought of Manager Tenney of the Loeb Farms' Sobbusters, who last week turned the Traverse City Eagles under two games out of three, thus winning the season's series with the Eagles by three games to two. All this on the foes diamond.

The first conflict was played Tuesday afternoon under poor weather conditions and was won by Loeb Farms, 5 to 4. Tubby laced the globe for three bags, which were thickly populated at the time. This clout was the feature of the initial fray though as the game reverted back to the eighth, they did not count.

Fine weather greeted the athletes Wednesday afternoon, the crowd being one of the largest ever assembled in the park. By agreement only five innings were played each team making but one safe hit. Again the Sobbusters plucked a handsome tail feather from the opposition, the final count standing 2 to 1.

The third session opened auspiciously for the Sobbusters Friday morning. By the last of the sixth the game seemed nicely down in brine, the score board reading 5 to 1 for the Farms. At this point Tubby chanced to glimpse aloft in an airplane doing a pretty taitain.

"Why a pitcher when you might be an aviator?" soliloquized Tubby, and right there the beans were spilled, for the elusive plate advertised for above might as well been buried in the desert of Sahara, so far as Tubbs was concerned. He finally left the mound, but too late for Saffron to save the day.

This was the only time in a long strenuous season that Tubby went blue, the Sobbusters' record of 34 games won and 4 lost attesting to his steadiness and baffling speed.

SIXTY FRIENDS SURPRISE HIM

Neighbors Help Jay Adams Celebrate 40th Birthday

Friends to the number of sixty-one completely surprised Jay Adams, at his farm home south of the city Tuesday evening, the occasion being his 40th birthday anniversary.

The crowd dropped in on Mr. Adams about 7:30 and it was some time before he fully realized what was taking place. However, he soon found himself and informed the bunch to go the limit and have as much fun as possible.

The evening was spent in visiting, playing games and a general good time. Several interesting musical numbers were rendered and the evening proved a most enjoyable one.

During the evening refreshments were served and the birthday cake with its 40 candles occupied the most conspicuous place on the table. Mr. Adams received several remembrances of the occasion and in departing the guests extended congratulations with hope that many more such pleasurable occasions would follow.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN SILOS

STAVE SILOS ARE THE MOST COMMON KIND

Experiments Do Not Show Marked Difference in Quality of Silage After Put Up

Is silage any better when put up in stave silos than when it is saved in concrete silos? Stave silos are probably the more common kind; they are usually less costly. Many people, however, prefer the more permanent concrete on account of the greater durability and the fact that the building material may be found near home in many cases; but there is an impression on the part of some people that the concrete silo does not give such good results in the preservation of the silage from spoiling and from freezing. Experiments made by the Dairy Division, United States Department of Agriculture, do not bear out this notion.

In experiments conducted on the Dairy Division farm, at Beltsville, Md., two silos were used, one concrete and one stave, standing side by side. The stave silo was directly south of the concrete one, and hence got more sunshine and less north wind. Otherwise they had exactly the same conditions. Temperatures in the two silos were taken by means of electrical thermometers buried in the silage, which made a record which could be read on the outside. The thermometers were placed at 3 inches and 18 inches from the wall and also in the middle of each silo. Three sacks of silage were carefully weighed and buried in each silo at various depths, close to the thermometers; and when the silage was fed down to where the sacks were, their contents were taken out and analyzed.

The quality of the silage was judged by its palatability to the cows. If much difference had been apparent a feeding trial would have been made to see which lot of silage was better, but the results in the two silos were so nearly alike that it was not thought worth while to make the feeding test.

In short, neither the temperature nor the chemical analysis of the two kinds of silage revealed any marked difference that could be ascribed to the material used in the construction of either silo. Cows ate the silage from both with the same avidity. It is concluded, therefore, that farmers may build stave silos or concrete silos, whichever they prefer, without any fear of not getting good silage from either one, if the silage is put up right.

It is assumed, of course, that the silo in either case will be properly constructed, with smooth walls, straight up and down, so as to be free from pockets and bulges, and properly coated inside with coal tar or some other similar preparation; and that the silage will be properly packed, so that all air will be excluded. Silage will not keep in any kind of silo unless packed down and kept air tight.

COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING

Officers Elected and Delegates Named to State Convention

At the County Sunday School meeting held in the M. E. church at Charlevoix, September 23, the following were elected to the several offices:

President, J. D. Ekstrom, East Jordan.

Vice-President, Chas. McCutcheon, Boyne City.

Secretary, Mrs. E. E. Cross, Charlevoix.

Treasurer, A. F. Bridge, Charlevoix.

Superintendent of Children's Division, Mrs. W. B. Marshall, Charlevoix.

Superintendent, Boyne City.

Superintendent, Adult Division, Geo. White, Boyne City.

Superintendent, Administrative Division, M. H. Robertson, East Jordan.

J. D. Ekstrom was elected as a delegate for the county, to attend the state convention at Kalamazoo, October 26 to 28.

The next county meeting will be held in the early spring of 1922.

J. H. Engle, state secretary, presided in the absence of W. H. White, president of the county association.

REV. H. CANDLER GOES TO MASON

Former M. E. Pastor Soon to Leave Charlevoix

Rev. Henry Candler, for the past three years pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, has been assigned to the pastorate of the M. E. church at Mason, Mich., and will leave soon with his family to locate there.

Rev. Qualin, pastor of the M. E. church at Mason, has been assigned to the Charlevoix charge, and will locate here as soon as Mr. Candler vacates the parsonage.

During Mr. Candler's stay in Charlevoix we have found him in all respects a polished Christian gentleman, singularly clean in habits, having high ideals and a courageous spirit. As a pastor he has been sympathetic, painstaking and self-sacrificing in his attention to the sick and needy. These have always found him a true servant and brother. His wife and children have won the love and esteem of both church and community.

The above are only a few of the many good things that might be said concerning Rev. Candler, and in leaving he carries the good wishes of every person with whom he has come in contact.

COUNTY OPEN TO HUNTERS

ACCORDING TO ACTION TAKEN BY LEGISLATURE

Deer With Horns Three Inches Above the Skull May Be Killed—Letter Explains

For some time local sportsmen have carried the impression that Charlevoix county would be closed against the killing of deer, but according to the following letter, the one-buck law will prevail here the same as in the upper peninsula.

The opening of the season last year resulted in the extermination of at least one-half the deer in the county. The buck law will save the does, but bucks will be hunted and the result will be that the few deer we have will be driven out of the county and deer will be a thing of the past here. The letter follows:

Dear Sir: Referring to previous action taken relative to closing the season on deer in Charlevoix county, the Conservation Commission believes that Act No. 9 of the Public Acts of 1917, the so-called Discretionary Law, was enacted by the Legislature for use only in bridging over a crisis, or conditions, wherein certain species of game are in danger of serious depletion or extermination, and inasmuch as the Legislature at its last session enacted a law prohibiting the taking of any deer, except males with horns three inches above the skull, we feel that any action affording additional protection to deer at this time would appear to discredit or set aside the action taken by the Legislature.

Therefore, no order will be made at this time under the provisions of Act No. 9 of the Public Acts of 1917, affording further protection to game in Charlevoix county, and we would be pleased to have you publish the fact that no order will be made, and that the law, as enacted by the last Legislature, will govern the taking of game in Charlevoix county during the hunting season of 1921.

Yours truly,
John Baird,
Director of Conservation.

GIVEN MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Nellie Allen Entertained at Hotel Bartlett

A very pretty shower was given in honor of Miss Nellie Allen at the Hotel Bartlett, Wednesday afternoon of last week. Eighteen young lady friends were present.

The rooms were prettily decorated in red and white flowers and crepe paper, and the gifts so arranged that the future bride was compelled to find them herself.

At 6:30 a delightful supper was served. Place cards were in the order of the little bride and groom. The table center piece was a large basket of flowers of red and white and from its center a smiling "Kewpie" peeped out. Miss Allen received many pretty and useful gifts.

The Congregational Aid Society will serve a 35-cent supper at the Bartlett, on Park avenue, Friday, September 30. A program will follow the supper.

GOOD ROADS MEETING TUESDAY

MEET IN WOLVERINE HOTEL, BOYNE CITY

Pass Resolution Urging State Department to Build Nothing But Concrete Roads

Thirty or more of Charlevoix business men and good roads boosters attended a meeting of the Charlevoix County Good Roads association held in the Wolverine Hotel, Boyne City, last evening.

The meeting opened with a banquet at 7:30 followed by discussions of the good roads questions. A resolution was adopted, and will be forwarded to the State Highway department at Lansing, urging them to build only concrete roads on trunk lines, from 16 to 18 feet in width.

W. J. (Bill) Pearson of Boyne Falls, was named as vice-president of the association. A meeting will be called by the vice-president during the week of October 10th, to be held in Charlevoix. This will be during a session of the board of supervisors, who as a body will be asked to attend.

The aim of the association is the building of permanent roads, and considerable good will be accomplished if the work is kept up.

The following resolution concerning the roads question was adopted at a recent meeting of the association:

Resolved, that all trunk line highways hereafter built or repaired in Charlevoix county, be surfaced with concrete 16 feet or 18 feet in width. We especially recommend that the Dixie Highway from Charlevoix to the Antrim county line, the Boyne City and Walloon Lake branch trunk line, the Mackinaw Trail through Charlevoix county and the Charlevoix and East Jordan road from Charlevoix to Loeb Farms be constructed of concrete 16 to 18 feet wide.

Resolved further, that where there are not funds available to construct concrete roads 16 to 18 feet in width we urge construction of a 9 foot concrete road with a 7 foot shoulder of clear gravel. That we condemn the building of more gravel, macadam, or any other kind of road that is not of permanent construction, on our practice of the County Road Commission highways. We condemn the sinners in personally building roads and acting as road foremen in the construction of county roads. We request that wherever possible, the construction of roads be let by contract, and that the County Road Commissioners hire a competent Road Superintendent to supervise the construction of all roads built by the County Road Commissioners.

"Resolution adopted unanimously at a meeting of the Good Roads association of Charlevoix county at a meeting held in the City of Charlevoix Michigan, and the secretary authorized to send a copy of this resolution to the County Road Commissioners, the State Highway Commissioner, and to each of the county papers."

Signed:
Rollie L. Lewis,
Secretary.

CIDER, SPEED, ARRESTED, JAILED

Wasn't the Gas in Car, But the Cider in Helms

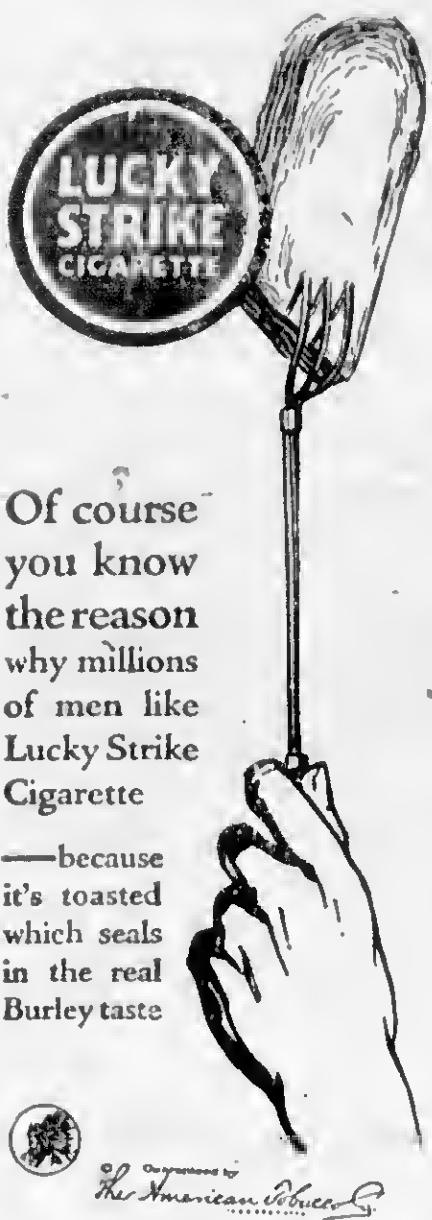

Saturday afternoon about five o'clock a deputy sheriff, after a merry chase, picked up Elmo Helms of Charlevoix, who was driving a light Ford truck, and Obie Wicker of this city, who was riding with him, and lodged them in the city jail.

The officers says they were driving recklessly and that at times their car was completely out of control. The two young men were taken from jail to Prosecuting Attorney Ruegger's office Tuesday morning and arraigned before Justice Cole. Helms was charged with driving a car while intoxicated and Wicker with being intoxicated. They paid fines of twenty dollars each and costs amounting to five dollars each, rather than spend thirty days in the county jail. The young men claim they had nothing but cider purchased in this city.

This is the Stove Polish YOU Should Use

It's different from others because more care is taken in the making and the materials used are of higher grade.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Makes a brilliant, silky polish that does not rub off or dust off, and the shine lasts four times as long as ordinary stove polish. Used on sample stoves and sold by hardware and grocery dealers. All we ask is trial. Use it on your cook stove, your parlor stove or your gas range. If you don't find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. Insist on Black Silk Stove Polish. Made in liquid or paste—one quality.

Black Silk Stove Polish Works Sterling, Illinois

Use Black Silk Air Drying Iron Enamel on grates, registers, stove pipes—prevents rusting. Use Black Silk Metal Polish for silver, nickel or brass. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Rotert, who has been ill for the past week, assumed her duties as principal Tuesday morning.

Students were glad to know that "Jack" was able to be taken home this week.

Friday morning the students of the high school were interested listeners of Dr. Ingalls. Dr. Ingalls had been in Japan for some time and he told us of the progress of the Japanese schools and colleges. As yet there are very few women who are educated but it is believed that the education of women will receive more attention than it is receiving at present.

Miss Oliver is organizing a high school orchestra in which a great many of the students have enrolled.

High school students attention. If you must throw acorns, throw them at the faculty. They like them. (Ask Miss Catton.)

Miss Vincent of the commercial department is planning to conduct a night school where typewriting and stenography will be taught. The plans are not yet completed. Further details will be announced later.

Our new football coach, Mr. Hatch, believes in getting an early start. The boys were out to practice the first day of school. They seem to take a great interest in the game this year, as there are about twenty high school boys working hard to make the team. We understand that our first game is to be with Traverse City next Saturday. Although the boys have not had all the practice they would like, they are looking forward for the chance to test their ability.

Supervised study has been introduced in the high school this year. The idea has been carried out successfully in larger schools and we are sure that we shall be able to carry it out here. It is very helpful for several reasons. First, it gives the pupil an opportunity to reconsider the lesson. Second, the teacher studies with the pupils and this gives them a chance to learn how to do real studying. Remarkable interest has been taken in this new plan.

HEATING THE BLUE SKY IS A LOSING GAME. GO UP IN THE ATTIC OF A SHINGLED HOUSE AND SEE HOW THE ROOF BOARDS GAPE.

MAKE YOUR HOME WARM AND SNUG WITH BIRD'S ARTCRAFT ROOF. GOES RIGHT ON OVER THE OLD WOODEN SHINGLES. ALSO MAKES A PERFECT ROOF FOR NEW BUILDINGS. IT HOLDS THE HEAT AND SAVES YOUR COAL, BECAUSE IT IS A SOLID ONE-PIECE PROTECTIVE COVERING. ITS SLATE SURFACE AND TILE DESIGN IN BEAUTIFUL RED OR GREEN GIVE AN AIR OF PROSPERITY AND RICHNESS TO ANY HOUSE. LET US SHOW YOU SOME ARTCRAFT ROOFS RIGHT IN YOUR OWN NEIGHBORHOOD AND FIGURE OUT WITH YOU WHAT YOU CAN SAVE BY USING DURABLE AND FIRE-SAFE ARTCRAFT.

THE BEAUTY OF ANY HOME, WHETHER IT BE MANSION OR HUMBLE COTTAGE, IS ENHANCED BY AN ARTCRAFT ROOF. ARTCRAFT IS MADE IN TWO BEAUTIFUL PATTERNS—NATURAL RED OR GREEN CRUSHED SLATE, WITH A PERMANENT PRINT-TILE DESIGN.

BIRD'S Art-Craft Roof TILE DESIGN

The One Roof
Right Over the Old Shingles

ALTHOUGH ARTCRAFT COSTS LESS THAN ANY OTHER ROOF—SHINGLE, METAL OR COMPOSITION—IT IS GREATLY SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER. THIS STATEMENT MAY BE REGARDED AS SENSATIONAL, BUT IT IS FACT, PROVEN BY YEARS OF SERVICE ON THOUSANDS OF BUILDINGS. THIS MATERIAL IS GUARANTEED.

ARTCRAFT IS CHEAPER TO BUY AND CHEAPER TO PUT ON. ONE MARKED ADVANTAGE OF ARTCRAFT IS THE FACT THAT IT CAN BE PUT ON RIGHT OVER OLD SHINGLE ROOFS, THUS DOING AWAY WITH THE NECESSITY OF TEARING OFF THE OLD ROOF. ON THE OTHER HAND, IT CAN BE APPLIED DIRECT TO THE ROOF BOARDS OF NEW BUILDINGS.

ARTCRAFT CAN'T LEAK OR RIP OFF. IT IS PROOF AGAINST SPARKS, FIREBRANDS, WEATHER. KEEPS A HOUSE WARM AND SNUG.

THE ARTCRAFT PATTERNS AND COLORS ARE NON-FADING. WEATHERING ONLY MELLOWS THEIR NATURAL BEAUTY. THE MAN WHO BUYS ARTCRAFT TAKES NO CHANCE OF DISAPPOINTMENT IN AFTER YEARS. IT IS THE GENUINE MATERIAL, MADE TO RETAIN ITS BEAUTY AND UTILITY LONG AFTER OTHER ROOFS HAVE DETERIORATED.

Evidence from the same sources showed the freight charge prior to the war to be $1.50 a ton from mine to the point of consumption. Now the average is approximately $3 for the same haul. Thus it appears that cost of production and transportation prior to the war was $3 a ton, whereas now it is approximately $8. But coal is retelling now for much more than that. The difference, for the average consumer, may be ascribed to the profits of the operators, or distributors or both.

The price is too high. It must come down, not only to stimulate industry and to relieve the burden on the householder, but to give the miners a fair amount of work. If it does not come down one or two things will certainly happen. One will be the forced reduction of miners' wages, which can only occur legitimately with an increased amount of work for them, which will increase their annual incomes. Another will be the passage of the Frelinghuysen bills or similar bills which will give the government power to examine the books, costs and prices of coal producers, and perhaps of distributors in order to make these prices reasonable.

Even if there are at present 7,000 independent coal operators in the United States, discounting any charges of collusion or conspiracy to fix prices, we have high prices and an attendant handicap to business. No 7,000 men, acting however independently, can be allowed to put a damper on general prosperity by restricting distribution of an essential basic commodity and natural resource of the United States. If they are willing voluntarily to extend the distribution of their product they will eventually force legislation which will extend this distribution for them.—Chicago Tribune.

A FEW FACTS ON CON- CRETE ROADS

Frank Rogers our state highway commissioner has promised Charlevoix county a concrete road the entire length of the Dixie Highway. Our county on the strength of this promise was bonded. He requested that we build from Charlevoix toward Petoskey first. At that time he claimed that Charlevoix was working against Petoskey. I assured him that I had never heard such a thought expressed. But Petoskey now has the road and what our county good roads association demands is, "we, shall

EDITORIAL

THE COAL SITUATION

Arthur M. Evans' investigation of the coal industry in the Illinois bituminous fields, revealing approximately a 15 per cent deficiency from capacity production, may be considered not only as an effect but a cause of general business depression. The miners are not mining because there is insufficient demand for coal. There is insufficient demand for coal in part because of its high cost, which in turn adds to cost of manufacturing and cost of retail products to such an extent that sale of such products is restricted.

Approximately 90 per cent of coal mined in the United States is for industrial purposes. Ten per cent is for domestic consumption. The householder can realize the effect of high prices upon industry when he goes to buy his winter's supply of coal and is quoted prices upon it.

The shock to the manufacturer is as great as the shock to the householder.

Coal is a basic commodity and coal production is a basic industry. If its production is discouraged we all suffer. And there can be no doubt that its production is discouraged by high prices. Therefore these prices ought to come down, to accomplish the proper part of this industry in the painful processes of liquidation which are restoring the country to a normal business plane. The cause of the high prices are chiefly three. Wages have been more than doubled. Freight rates have been approximately doubled. Would that justify the present scale of retail prices? Hardly.

Evidence given before the senate committee on manufacturers shows that prior to the war coal was produced at the mine mouth at an average cost of a little more than $1 a ton. Now the cost, figuring wages, salaries, materials and machinery, approaches an average of $3 a ton.

have a concrete road built from Charlevoix south to the Antrim county line." I am frank and honest in saying that I believe the G. & S. S. & S. T. (gravel and soft stuff and saw tooth) were built as well in Charlevoix county as in any other county, but the fact exists that this mixture for building roads and repairing them as we have been doing, is a costly and expensive one, totally inadequate for the requirements of Charlevoix county. When we take into consideration a large number of trucks, many of them with solid tires, together with the hundreds of Pierce Arrows, Packards, Cadillacs and other types of heavy cars with an unlimited speed (the state says "go it at 35" and they all know what that means) it is impossible to build a S. T. (saw tooth) of G. & S. S. (gravel and soft stuff) which will stand this travel.

We now have an opportunity, and Mr. Rogers has promised we shall have it, to build the balance of the Dixie Highway from Charlevoix south to the Antrim county line. Some claim that there is not sufficient funds with which to build a road similar to the one built from Charlevoix north to Greenski Hill. God forbid that there should ever be another mile of this type of road built anywhere in Charlevoix county. If there are sufficient funds to build the G. & S. S. road then there is also a sufficient sum with which to build a 16 foot road, 9 of concrete and 7 of gravel, the gravel to be unmixed with any kind of soft stuff. The top edge of the concrete road to be rounded or slanting in order to save the tires when passing on or off the concrete part. The gravel portion of this road can easily be kept in good condition with a team and wagon and a man with a shovel to shovel the gravel into the holes as he passes over them. This road can be built for only ten to twelve hundred dollars more per mile than the 16 foot G. & S. S. roads. This is because we get federal aid and only have to pay 20 per cent for the cost of the road. Now this is the only kind of a road that Charlevoix county or any other county for that matter can afford to build on any main highway and it is the only kind of a road that will stand the traffic of these heavy cars.

AT THE MOVIES

"Tale of Two Worlds" coming to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

The passive beauty of China is in strong contrast to the active cruelty of which her people are sometimes capable, as Gouverneur Morris reveals in his latest Eminent Author's photoplay, "A Tale of Two Worlds," which was made at Goldwyn studios. The story begins in China during the Boxer uprising in 1899. In this native rebellion, a young American girl has lost her parents and their priceless collection of Chinese porcelains and jewels. The girl is brought to America by a Chinese servant and reared as a Chinese.

Involved in the plot is the quest of the jeweled sceptre of which it had been said "that it is bathed in the tears of women and the blood of men." During the unfolding of the story, the lovely girl learns the truth of the sceptre's motto; but in the end, she finds peace and happiness, as well as her real identity, through the courage and cleverness of an American lover.

"A Tale of Two Worlds" is gorgeously mounted and splendidly directed by Frank Lloyd. It will be shown at the Palace Theatre for two days beginning Saturday.

The Test of Character

The president of a big corporation gave this reason why his company employed salesmen on a commission basis only.

"It's the best test of character we can apply. If a man hasn't saved enough money to carry himself for a month or so he's rarely the kind who can measure up to the opportunity we offer."

Why not take a fixed amount out of your salary EVERY PAY DAY and put it to work in an interest bearing account at this bank? It will then enable you to grasp opportunity when it comes.

NEW PALACE THEATRE

Especially Good Attractions For This Week

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29th—Paramount presents Ethel Clayton in "A Lady in Love," with Harrison Ford. A quick-beating tale of a madcap maiden's heart, ending in a breathless and most exciting medley of love, law, scandal and happiness ever conceived for a screen romance. Exquisite gowns, sumptuous settings. Ethel Clayton at her best. Also a Harold Lloyd comedy, "Move On."

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30—Universal presents Carmel Myers in "Cheated Love." The stirring story of a woman with a number instead of a name. A great drama of treachery and tears and triumph. Also a Rowland comedy.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1st and 2nd—Goldwyn presents "A Tale of Two Worlds." Gouverneur Morris production. A modern drama of love mystery and revenge in Frisco's Chinatown. Thrill follows thrill in this remarkable love-drama of a young American and a white girl who has been brought up as a Chinese. You will follow it breathlessly to the last exciting scene. Also a brand new two-reel comedy featuring the Lee Kids in "The Dixie Madcaps."

MONDAY Shows discontinued for the Season.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4—Paramount presents Billie Burke in "Away Goes Prudence." Pink Teas made her blue. So she kidnapped herself for a thrill and fled to Washlady Rran's. Now she is queen of the sweetest looking lot of desperadoes and you ought to see Prudence burgle. See the Charm Girl of the screen. Also a Hearst News Reel.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5th—Metro presents a Jack London picture, "The Little Fool." Also a Mutt and Jeff cartoon, "The Stampede."

COMING—Saturday and Sunday, October 8th and 9th; a Realart Special production, "The Furnace."

Ald. Genett offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolution

Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, that the City Clerk be and hereby is instructed to advertise for and receive bids for the purchase of the issue of $50,000 of Electric Power Plant bonds of the City of Charlevoix, authorized by the resolution of the Council adopted September 12th, 1921.

Resolved further, that such bids be received up to five o'clock p. m. of October 10th, 1921, at the office of the City Clerk.

Resolved further, that the City reserve and does hereby reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Resolved further, that such notice for bids be published one issue in the Charlevoix Courier and Charlevoix Sentinel prior to October 10th, 1921.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the Common Council held in the Council Rooms in said city, the 26th day of September, 1921, by aye and nay vote as follows: Ayes, Ald. Bergeon, Genett, Hamilton, Levinson, Miller and Wood. Nays, none.

Archie Livingston, City Clerk.

nay vote as follows: Ayes, Ald. Bergeon, Genett, Hamilton, Levinson, Miller and Wood. Nays, none.

Oscar E. Wilbur, Mayor.

Archie Livingston, City Clerk.

Moved by Ald. Wood seconded by Ald. Levinson that Electric Current used for other purposes than illumination be classed as power current.

Motion carried.

Moved by Ald. Wood seconded by Ald. Hamilton that the Council adjourn to Thursday, September 29th, at 7:30 p. m.

Archie Livingston, Clerk.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received at my office in Charlevoix until five o'clock, p. m., of September 29th, 1921, for the general construction (except plumbing and sewerage, concrete floors for engine and boiler rooms, stack, electrical and steam equipment and electrical wiring) of a Power House for the City of Charlevoix, according to plans and specifications prepared by Fred A. Fielder, Architect.

A certified check for three per cent of the amount of the bid made payable to Archie Livingston, City Clerk must accompany each bid. This check shall be forfeited to the City in case the bidder shall fail to enter into contract and furnish bonds as required. All checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned within three days after the contract has been signed and bonds furnished.

The contractor to whom the work shall be awarded will be required to furnish an approved bond for the performance of his contract including liability for labor and material and maintenance of guarantee for one year after completion of work.

Drawings and specifications may be obtained from the Architect at Cottage No. 147, Belvedere Grounds, or C. F. Wood, Chairman Electric Light Committee, Masonic Building, and must be returned at the time of filing the bid.

All bids shall be made upon blank forms to be procured from the City, without alteration or interlineation, and properly sealed.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or any part of any bid and to waive any informality in any bid.

Dated, September 26th, 1921.

D. S. Payton, Deputy City Clerk.

Mrs. Donald Patterson has been visiting her brother, William and Fred Fallas of Ontario, California, for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel Speckman, who have been residents here for the past three years, have closed their home here and returned to their old home at Chicago.

Bert Tornica made a record drive from Grand Rapids to Ellsworth on Saturday of last week when he covered the distance in seven and one-half hours. He averaged twenty-eight and two-thirds miles per hour from Grand Rapids to Traverse City covering the one hundred seventy-two miles in exactly six hours.

The Libby, McNeil & Libby pickle station closed Saturday night of last week after a ten weeks' run during which 6,966 bushels and 30 pounds of "cukes" were taken in and $5,164.78 were paid to growers. This is by far the largest year's yield in the history of the plant here.

Geo. Hunter and W. J. Boss arrived last week from the Petoskey hospital where they had been since the disastrous smash up of August 19th. They were the two most seriously injured of the party of six and after six weeks still show evidence of decidedly hard usage.

Frank Russell was arrested by Deputy Game Warden Muckle of Central Lake on Monday of this week charged with hunting without a license and fined five dollars and costs the whole amounting to about ten dollars. At the hearing at a Central Lake justice court it developed that Mr. Russell had bought and paid for a gun license for the current year but had done as so many hunters, and auto drivers do and neglected to carry it on his person, a point on which the law is very specific, and the fine was paid, not for a bona fide law violation but for carelessness.

Saturday the stork left a baby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lozen. The little girl is doing fine.

J. Geerlink had two sick horses last week and called Dr. Colden of East Jordan. They are both better at this writing.

Mrs. VanDyke and little sons, Gertrud and Louis, of Grand Rapids, came last Friday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steenhagen.

Mr. and Mrs. Dett Evans and family and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bauerhoff went to Boyne City Sunday to the home of Mrs. Lura Joles it being her birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Withers and children of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart of East Jordan visited at the home of Mrs. Frank LaLonde Sunday.

ROCK ELM

Mr. Zoulek has just completed a new silo.

Rev. Wakely preached at the school house Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Metz visited at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Metz, Sunday afternoon.

The pie social at the grange hall Saturday night was well attended, not only by the people of this neighborhood but also by many from Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Notice

Come to the Box Social given by the Ellsworth public high school for the benefit of the athletic association, Friday evening, September 30th. Bring your friends, wives, and families. HIGHER PRICES FOR HORSES

Farmers Are Advised to Breed More Heavy Draft Animals Wanted for City Hauling.

Heavy draft horses are in greater demand and commanding higher prices than at any time in the last 20 years, according to the proprietor of a Boston trucking concern which maintains 100 horses and 28 auto trucks. In a letter received at University farm he says: "For the short haul the horse has no competitor. We buy at any time and have paid as high as $600 each, but are not getting as good horses as we would like to use. We believe the peak stage of motortruck sales and use has been reached. Farmers should be encouraged to breed better horses."

As to Cerebral Structure.

So far as cerebral structure goes, it is clear that men differ less from the chimpanzee and orang, than these do even from the monkeys, and that the difference between the brain of the chimpanzee and of man is almost insignificant, when compared with that between the chimpanzee brain and that of a lemur.—J. W. Corey, M. D.

Music of Nature.

There is a true music of nature—the song of birds, the whisper of leaves, the ripple of waters upon a sandy shore, the wail of wind or sea.—Sir John Lubbock.

SPINOLOGY

By John H. Albert, D. C.

Charlevoix Michigan

Pneumonia is a name applied to an acute febrile disorder characterized by catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the bronchial tubes and their communicating air cells. Pus-forming diseases of this sort are caused in every instance by lowered resistance brought about through defective assimilation due to interference with the nerve force of the alimentary organs. The chiropractic method of handling this disorder is simple and direct and specific. The upper dorsal is adjusted to control the fever, the kidney and bowel place to assist elimination. That straight chiropractic is the surest and best method in this disease is proven by the very small percentage of deaths in pneumonia when treated by straight chiropractic methods.

Mortgage Foreclosure

Default having been made in the condition of a certain Real Estate Mortgage whereby the Power of Sale therein contained has become operative, which mortgage was given by Alex S. Kerr and Sophronia A. Kerr, husband and wife, of Marion township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, to John Smith of Marion township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the 21st day of June A. D. 1920, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the 22nd day of June A. D. 1920, in Liber 61 of Mortgages on page 68; and whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of eight hundred thirty-four and eighty-one one hundredths dollars together with an attorney fee of twenty-five dollars as provided for in said mortgage, and whereas the tax required by the statute to be paid on said mortgages was duly paid prior to the recording thereof.

Now therefore, notice is given that by virtue of the Power of Sale contained in said mortgage and the statutes made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, or so much as is necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon of the principal and interest, together with the amount paid for taxes, costs and expenses of the foreclosure, including the attorney fee provided by statute, at public auction to the highest bidder thereof at the front door of the Court House in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix is held, on the 19th day of November A. D. 1921, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day. The premises described in said mortgage being herein described as follows, to-wit: Commencing at a point forty rods north of the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) in township thirty-three (33) north, range eight (8) west; thence south on the west boundary line of said description forty rods to the southwest corner thereof. Thence east ten rods; thence northwesterly to place of beginning, being part of the said northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of said section 21 in town 33 north, range 8 west. Also the following description, to-wit: The northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) in township thirty-three (33) north, range eight (8) west, as per the U. S. survey thereof, excepting therefrom a parcel of land in the northeast corner thereof described as follows: Commencing on the east line of the said northwest quarter of said northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) aforesaid at a point forty rods south of the northeast corner of said description; thence north along the east line thereof forty rods to the northeast corner thereof; thence west ten rods thence in a southeasterly direction to the starting point.

CITY ASSURED PLENTY OF ICE

Local Men to Enter Field for Next Season's Business

Charlevoix will not have an ice shortage next season if the plans of Charles Heise and Ben Yettaw are carried out as planned at the present time.

These two well known business men have formed what will be known as the City Ice and Transfer Co., and will handle ice besides doing a general transfer and trucking business.

They are now making arrangements for ample room for ice storage, not only for local consumption, but will ship to outside territory if demands require it.

There is ample room in Charlevoix for more than one ice dealer, as has been illustrated the present summer, and it can be safely stated there will be no shortage of this necessary commodity next season.

ORCHARD CLEANINGS

PRUNING SAVES OLD ORCHARD

County Agent in South Carolina Community Revives Trees and Destroys Insects.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Many an old orchard would produce fruit for a number of years if it were properly pruned. The county agents are endeavoring to see that the orchards in their counties that are in need of pruning are receiving this attention. One such orchard in Bamberg county, South Carolina, has been used for the past year and a half and the results have been beyond expectations.

A Rejuvenated Orchard.

Age, neglect and scale had reduced nearly all the trees to one or two living limbs, and no returns were being received by the owner from the orchard.

On the advice of the county agent nearly all the branches were pruned off and cultivation was started and kept up through the summer. This year instructions on pruning the new growth of wood were given and a good crop of fruit has set. The orchard is now practically free from scale and is a good example of what may be expected from an old orchard that is given a little care.

If you think the whole world is crazy, that makes it certain that you are

SUCH IS RECORD OF "SOBBUSTERS" AT LOEB FARMS

Team Disbands Monday—At Same Time Formulated Plans for 1922 Organization

So long, lads!

With autumn winds whistling and plumes of crimson and gold showing in the fading green of beech and maple, the fighting Sobbusters of Loeb Farms, champions of Northern Michigan, disbanded Monday morning. An informal meeting was held in the office at the farms, where, before a cheerful hearth, plans for 1922 were tentatively discussed and the work of the past months reviewed.

R. F. Sloan told the men he felt proud of their record as players and of their conduct on and off the field. He then asked for expressions from members of the team, who agreed that, all things considered, it had been a great year.

Manager Jess Tenney: "We went in to play as a club and win, and I'll say we did it."

Eddie Plank: "We've had fine treatment all around."

Don Sutherland: "Got fat and sassy this summer. Met a sweet girl."

The Sobbusters were proud of their first baseman, Lefty Frank Novaczky, until the influence of the Charlevoix Hospital stole him away. The witchery of these nurses!

Looking into the social possibilities of Loeb Farms for next year, Mr. Sloan was of the opinion that three new banglows of the dove-cote order would have to be built.

The playing strength of the team is threatened by the probable departure of Frank Tubbs, hurling ace of the north end of the state. "Tubby" has already received offers from Central and Michigan-Ontario League Clubs, but will probably be given a tryout with the Cleveland Americans. Unless Spenser signs him he will not play further from Harbor Springs than the Loeb Farms' Hammond.

"I owe much of this year's success to Leon Foster," said Tubby. "He certainly talked to me like a Dutch uncle, and I bent him an ear."

Leo McCarty, after recovering from his illness played in good form. Owing to the closing of the hospital, he will be absent for some months—unless his green tie and green Sox win him a home.

Leon Foster reached his climax on Sunday when he took the long, high step to the management of the Boyne City team. But in the spring it is expected he'll "assume his position as official 'Umpire Bawler' on the Loeb Field.

Freddie Ransom, Rodney Ward, Gus Cellner and Ray Boak will probably work on the farms through the winter.

It was the opinion of several that the teams in this territory would be faster next year. Baseball proved a far greater attraction at the farms than horse-racing and other amusements. The public likes to see fast playing—games without delays and intermissions.

It was regretted by all that the

ONE DIVORCE FOR EVERY SIX MARRIAGES

For every six marriages—one divorce. That is Michigan's matrimonial story for the year 1919 as recorded by the division of vital statistics of the state department of health. The 1918 ratio was the same, and it is expected that the rate will remain as high for 1920 and 1921.

In 1919 a total of 15,579 couples was married—giving a marriage rate of 25.4 per 1,000 population—and 23,989 bills for annulment of marriage handed in courts; in 1918 there were 33,260 marriages, equivalent to a rate of 19.0 and 22,989 bills for divorce.

Of the 23,989 divorce cases handled in 1919, divorces were granted to 7,469 couples—corresponding to a divorce rate of 12.2 per 1,000 population—1,468 cases were withdrawn, 754 cases were contested and 132 decrees refused. Other cases were pending at the end of the year. The 1918 divorce rate was 3.1, dropping correspondingly with the marriage rate.

Cruelty, failure to support, and desertion continued as the most frequent causes for divorce. Cases alleging drunkenness, which was formerly a common cause for action, showed a marked falling off in 1919.

final game of the season between the Hillman All Stars and Boyne City should have ended in a ninth-inning squabble Sunday. The score at the time was 2 to 1 in favor of the Hillmans, but as they refused to go on with the game, lost through forfeit.

When Cy Powers' All Stars failed to appear at the Belsire Fair for the Wednesday game, the sobbusters were split, Mr. Sloan's team losing to Mr. Otto's 5 to 4. The following day Cy's embryo big leaguers lost to the sobbusters, 5 to 1.

This last victory gave Loeb Farms a record of 36 games won and four lost, or 900 per cent.

They'll shoot at that mark for a long time.

WILL GIVE GRAIN TO ARMENIANS

CHARLEVOIX ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE $478 WORTH

Gifts May Be Made in Any Kind of Farm Produce Which Can Be Sold or Exchanged for Grain

Michigan farmers have been asked to contribute 100,000 bushels of grain toward the national gift of 5,000,000 bushels to be given to keep hundreds of thousands of children of Armenia and neighboring lands of Asia Minor from starving to death this winter. Of this amount Charlevoix county is asked to contribute to the value of $478.

Other nearby counties have been asked to contribute to the amounts stated as follows:

Antrim county $600, Benzie $401, Emmet $433, Grand Traverse $876, Kalkaska $281, Leelanau $638, Manistee $649, Missaukee $681, Wexford $465, total for the district, $5,502.

In this district there are 13,365 farms, and 166,800 acres were this year planted to corn and wheat. The quota for the ten counties composing the district is .03926.

All of the established agricultural organizations of the state, and also the elevator and other distinctive interests, are co-operating actively with the emergency grain board for the quick success of the grain campaign. The Grand Trunk Railway announces officially that it will transport Michigan's total commodity without charge.

While the county quotas (which were determined by the board with great care in order to assure exact fairness) are expressed in terms of dollars, the contribution may be made in either corn, wheat, barley, rye, oats, beans, buckwheat, potatoes, beets, apples or other farm commodity, or in money with which to purchase corn or wheat. The choice of the form of gift is left wholly to the individual farmer, and where it is more convenient for him to give money or some commodity other than corn or wheat his contribution will be exchanged for corn or wheat in his district by the emergency grain board assisted by the elevator interests, to the end that the national call for those two standard shipping grains may be carried out.

The grain campaign is a purely emergency measure undertaken at this time in order to get life-saving foodstuffs into the Near East before the early winter snows of the Caucasus block the roads and make impossible the handling of pack trains into the stricken interior. To prevent the horrors of wholesale famine and countless deaths, the grain must be in hand by the last day of October.

Dickens' Club Meets

The members of the Charlevoix Dickens Club enjoyed a social afternoon Saturday, October 1st, with Mrs. Katherine Rose. The first regular meeting of the Club for the year will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilkinson, October 10th.

U. P. HUNTERS UP IN ARMS

UNITE IN EFFORT TO CLOSE DEER HUNTING SEASON

Claim They are Being Imposed Upon by Result of Present Game Laws; Can't Act This Fall

An effort will be made by the sportsmen of the upper peninsula to close the season on deer for a period of two years. Action will be started after the close of the present season.

The movement was started among Escanaba sportsmen last week and should have the endorsement of every sportsman in the upper peninsula. The Escanaba Morning Press has the following to say about it:

Sportsmen of Escanaba will attempt to induce sportsmen and others interested in the preservation of game in every county in the upper peninsula to initiate steps before their county boards of supervisors to close the deer hunting season for a term of two years. An effort will be made to close the deer hunting season in every county in the upper peninsula until changes in the state game laws are provided by the legislature, that will at least restore the protection formerly given to small game in this section of the state.

Extreme dissatisfaction with the present game laws and particularly sections which extend the partridge season into the deer hunting season and the elimination of bounty system on noxious animals, were expressed by every sportsman who attended the meeting. It was agreed that the partridge hunting season was extended by the legislature to run into the deer hunting season for the particular benefit of the lower peninsula hunters who annually come to this district to hunt deer. The change in the law will permit the hunting of partridge at a time when the leaves are entirely gone from the trees and the birds will be practically helpless. The provision in the game law eliminating the bounty system and the employment by the state of alleged expert trappers to eliminate wolves and other noxious animals, was pronounced by those attending the meeting here to be a ludicrous error.

It is recognized by those interested in the movement that sufficient time is not allowed to prevent the practical extermination of partridge in the

WALK DOWN THE STREET WEARING A BROAD SMILE

An upper peninsula editor says: There are certain moods we always should keep secret; then there are others we shouldn't keep secret.

If you get up in the morning with a feeling answering the description of those feelings men used to experience before Volstead sat in the name; if you feel like kicking the dog because he looks happy—if you feel that way, don't tell anybody. Keep it to yourself as much as you possibly can. Of course, you can't hide it completely. It is bound to show. When you walk into the office, or the store, or the shop, the rest of the folks will be wise to you. They will whisper when you have passed, "the old boy has a grouch this morning," and they will earnestly try to keep out of your way until you have recovered or at least partly. After a while you will observe that this old spire is rolling along in a manner greatly resembling its usual one, and you may realize that you are making a silly ass of yourself. You may—we hope you will. When you get back to normalcy (that word does come in handy) let your co-workers know it. Meet them half way and they will do the rest.

But if the sun reflects the glory in your heart, when you are ready for the day's work, don't try to keep the smiles back—smiles were made to be seen. Go down the street wearing it on the outside and nine-tenths of those you meet will smile back at you. Spread it. Heaven knows we need lots of them.

If you are not having such a good time, make folks believe you are, anyway—that in itself is lots of fun. Just think to yourself what a good time you might be having if you were having a good time, and the first thing you know you will have it. And don't kill the smile.

If you spend a portion of your time making less fortunate ones happy, you'll have the time of your life, for happiness is a perfume and you can't pour it on others without spilling some on yourself.

POLICY OF NEW STATE DRY CHIEF

DAVIS SAYS HE WILL ENFORCE LAW IN MICHIGAN

Asks Aid of Every Citizen and Press in Making State Really Dry and People Law-Abiding

James R. Davis, new federal prohibition director for Michigan has issued the following declaration of policy regarding his work in making Michigan dry:

"It has been suggested that I make a public statement of my policy as federal prohibition director for the state of Michigan.

"It would be impossible for me to enter into a detailed discussion of the particular problems at this time, but I do want the public to know my attitude toward these new responsibilities. My aim will be efficiency and whatever changes are made in the personnel will be made wholly with the idea in view of greater efficiency, strict economy and the maximum of results.

"America has spoken for prohibition. Federal constitutional provision has made for it, laws enacted for its enforcement, and the law should be enforced. Regardless of personal views, every good citizen will regard as imperative—the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the laws to which it is fundamental.

Surely every law-abiding citizen will admit that as long as these laws constitute a part of the organic law of the land they must be obeyed. If there ever was a time in the history of America when all good citizens should unite on a program for law enforcement, it is now. To wink at the breaking of one law and preach the observance of another is unpatriotic and un-American, and I believe and hope that the so-called liberals will as vigorously aid in the enforcement of the dry laws as those who have always been dry. Any other policy toward the law in general means chaos—and means bolshevism.

"I have full knowledge of the power of the press; no agency has more power in the wielding of public sentiment and news writer, to the cartoonist, to the reporter, to the scenario writer, and to the playwright to lend every aid to law enforcement. Every publication which has in it the statement or inferential suggestion that the dry program is easily violated, or should be violated and that it is a joke—is not only harmful in the wringing of sentiment against this one law, but such influence leads to a disregard of law in general.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE EXTENDED NEWLY-WEDS

Marriage of Prominent Young People Surprise to Friends

"It's simply impossible to do anything or go anywhere unless the people (especially the newspapers) find it out!" is the complaint of two prominent young people of this city who on Friday evening of last week quietly slipped out of the city to Petoskey and were married by the Rev. H. M. Allburt of the Presbyterian church.

The Courier as well as a host of friends extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff who attempted this stunt, but who now realize the impossibility of keeping a matter of this kind secret.

The bride, Miss Bernice Grandell, as well as the groom, Arthur Wexstaff are so well known here that no introduction is necessary. They are both young people who have lived here since childhood and both have occupied a prominent place socially among the younger element of the city. They intended to keep their marriage a secret, but now are being congratulated on the step they have taken.

Mr. Wexstaff left Sunday for Chicago, where he will attend school and Mrs. Wexstaff expects to remain in Charlevoix for an indefinite period.

AUTO LICENSED BUREAUS NAMED

CHARLEVOIX TO DISTRIBUTE 1,600 PLATES

Tags Being Manufactured in Michigan State Prison at Jackson and Will Soon Be Ready

Charlevoix is again to be one of the state automobile license bureau headquarters and within a short time 1,600 automobile license plates will be sent to the office of County Clerk Lewis for distribution.

The licenses distributed from the Charlevoix office will begin with the number 263,301 and run to 264,300. There are to be 72 branch offices in addition to the main office in Lansing where automobile licenses may be secured.

Secretary of State Charles J. DeLand announces that he has just completed the work of assigning licenses to the various district offices. The plates numbering from 1 to 485,000, are now being made at the Michigan state prison at Jackson, and will be sent to the distribution offices as soon as ready.

Other nearby district offices will be Petoskey, which will receive 2,000 plates numbering from 423,601 to 425,600; Cheboygan with 1,000 plates numbered from 269,301 to 270,300; Bellaire, with 1,000 licenses, numbers 245,001 to 246,000; Alpena, with 1,500 license plates with numbers 215,801 to 217,300.

ALLEN-HAMMOND NUPTIALS SUNDAY

Oakley J. Hammond and Nellie Allen Married at Petoskey

Oakley J. Hammond and Miss Nellie Allen, both of this city, were quietly married at the Presbyterian parsonage, Petoskey, Sunday at 12:30 p. m., by the Rev. H. M. Allburt. They were accompanied by Miss Helen Webster and Richard Paddock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Allen of this city, and for the past year has been employed at Bergeon's dry goods store here. She is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school, class of 1920, and was a prominent member of the younger set.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Hammond and for some time has been in the employ of Block & Hammond at the Lakeway Garage.

The young couple left on a short honeymoon and on their return will be at home to their friends on Clinton street. Congratulations and best wishes are extended by their many friends.

NO HUNTING IN PUBLIC PARK

CITY COUNCIL ACTS TO PRESERVE SMALL GAME

Hunting and Killing of Black, Gray or Fox Squirrel or Other Game Animals and Birds Forbidden

The city council at its regular meeting Monday, took action regarding the preservation of small game animals and birds within the city limits, and deserve the hearty commendation and co-operation of every citizen in the community.

In former years it has been the practice of some local hunters and small boys to hunt in the city park, where during the fall of the year partridges, rabbits and squirrel are found. This practice has resulted in practically all game animals being exterminated. Not only this, but there have been many narrow escapes on the part of citizens from the careless use of firearms, as during the hunting season it has been unsafe for people to enter the park.

During the past year numerous black, gray and fox squirrel have been seen in the park. These animals have proven a great attraction to both citizens and summer visitors and in our opinion as well as that of hundreds of others, these animals should be protected and allowed to increase.

Every fall partridges come from the point and on a trip through the park one will see several of them. What could be more attractive than a park inhabited by these birds and animals?

The council, in passing this prohibitive measure, realize that all game birds and animals are being killed faster than the natural increase and if not protected they will soon be, as the buffalo and game animals of the west, a thing of the past.

The ordinance prohibits the hunting or killing of any game animal or bird within the city limits, and should be enforced to the letter. If one desires to hunt, there are plenty of places where game is to be found outside of the city limits. Read the ordinance in the council proceedings on page six of this issue, and join in the movement to prevent what will result in a total extermination of these beautiful creatures which should inhabit every park in the state.

CORRESPONDENCE

IRONTON

Mrs. Alexander entertained the Lady Maccabees Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brown and daughter, Eva, and L. Peterson spent Sunday in Pellston.

Mrs. Gordon Kimball has returned from a two weeks' visit with her mother Mrs. E. B. Davis in Chicago. Charlie Dean has resigned his work on the Breezy Point Farm. He is employed on the Waller Farm at present.

A large audience listened to a very instructive sermon Sunday afternoon. The services will be held in the grange hall during the winter months, commencing Sunday, October 9th.

Lewis Brown was pleasantly surprised Friday evening when forty of his friends gathered to remind him of his forty-eighth birthday. The evening was spent in music and visiting. The cake with 48 candles was the feature of the evening. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, and Mr. and Mrs. McCann from Marion and Rev. and Mrs. Smith and two children and Lewis Peterson from Charlevoix.

PHELPS SCHOOL NOTES

The fifth and sixth grades are doing long division in arithmetic. Our noon and recesses are spent in playing ball on the school ground. Our school opened September 12, with twenty-nine pupils enrolled and Miss Alda Emery of Bellaire as teacher.

We are going to send for new song books this week. We have been using the community song books Miss Stewart sent us last year.

We are expecting Traveling Library No. 81-E, from the state library at Lansing. Patrons of our school get these books to read at the school house from the teacher who is librarian.

Most of the students have the Palmer penmanship pads now. We are working to complete twenty-five drills satisfactorily preparatory to sending them to the A. N. Palmer company.

PHELPS

Earl Balch has moved his family into the Mascho house.

Harmon Himebuech was a business caller in Ellsworth Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Klooster were Sunday callers at the Marion Jackson home.

Willard Herrington did some repair work on Ennia Schaver's car Monday and Tuesday.

Clyde Griffin left Saturday morning for Chicago where he will again take up his school duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Schaver took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Will Coeling of Fairview, Banks, Sunday.

Howard Griffin is spending the week with his parents, it being vacation in the Ellsworth schools this week.

Koo Klonster and children, George and Genevieve, took supper and spent the evening at the F. R. Klooster home Sunday.

John Timmer is again in Phelps after a vacation of five weeks spent in Leeland, Muskegon and other southern points.

F. R. Klooster accompanied his brother, Henry Klooster, of Atwood, on a business trip to Charlevoix and Petoskey Saturday.

Marion Jackson purchased a new five passenger Ford car last week, the purchase being made through Louis Peterson, representative for the Ford agency in Charlevoix.

BARNARD

Our equinoctial storm still lingers on.

Mrs. Peter Block has been quite ill for a few days but is reported better at the present writing.

The services held on Sunday at both Barnard churches by Rev. Bulterm of Muskegon were well attended and much interest shown.

The V. S. S. class of the S. S. will be entertained by Miss Dorothy Gornell at her home on Friday evening of this week. The usual good time is expected.

Mrs. John Beattie left for Iron Mountain, Mich., on Monday for an indefinite stay with her parents at that place. We understand that John will go later.

$200,000 TO BE SPENT BY STATE

On Roads in Emmet County—$35,000 the County's Share

The state highway department has just forwarded to Emmet county highway department a copy of the state's tentative program of road building in Emmet county for 1922.

The program as outlined calls for the expenditure of $200,000 on main trunk line highways within the county constructing six miles and five-sixths of highway.

The roads contemplated are the Petoskey-Harbor Springs road, a total of four and one-half miles of concrete at an estimated cost of $135,000; the completion of the roadway in village of Harbor Springs, one-third of a mile of brick pavement at an estimated figure of $10,000; one mile of bituminous-macadam highway through the village of Alanson, connecting up the present highway, at an estimated cost of $25,000; and one mile of concrete highway, commencing at the north end of the present Clarion road, near Foreman's railroad crossing and extending north the estimated cost being $30,000.

Emmet county's percentage of this road construction will be 17 1-2, according to information from the state highway department, this being a cut from 20 per cent, the figures covering this year's program. The estimated cost to the county of the improvement is $35,000.

This program is in addition to the county's program of building roads not included in the state program.

Even in the old days school teachers were not without their troubles. At the first school in Pokagon, says Richard Anderson writing in the Niles Star Sun, back in the forties of the last century, the teacher boarded 'round, and had to find a new place every week—a process sometimes attended with considerable difficulty. At the end of one week she said to a little girl:

"Is your mother ready to board me?"

She said, "No, mother would rather you would wait. The leaks spoil the milk and butter."

Another girl said her mother allowed teacher had better wait until the gooseberries got big enough to make a pie.

Little Jimmie, the Irish boy, said his mother would take her, but wanted to clean the house of bed bugs first.

She turned to my sister, and said, "Nellie, I will have to go home with you," and of course she did stay until the others were ready to take her.

According to the R. L. Polk & Co. directory census, just completed, Petoskey's population is now 6,035. The 1920 government census gave the Petoskey population as 5,065 but a steady growth has been noticed in the last two years. The Polk & Co. figures are based on the schedule of two and one-half persons for each directory name. The estimate is adopted by all directory manufacturers and by the United States government as very accurate.

At the time of the taking of the 1920 census, it was the opinion of a number of well versed citizens, that the figures resulting were too low to represent the normal population. A great many Petoskey citizens were temporarily employed in the larger cities, who have since returned to Petoskey, and the Polk estimate is felt to more truly represent the present population of the city.

A record automobile trip from Detroit to Saginaw was made last Friday when a man drove the distance 95 miles in one hour and 58 seconds. This was an average speed of 48 miles an hour. This gentleman seems to have bought this road for himself, but we dare say the rest of us will be permitted to use it when he is travelling on other roads.

AT THE MOVIES

Eddie Polo in "King of the Circus" is coming to Palace Theatre.

The circus is coming to town! Bigger and better than Barnum; Eddie Polo's new serial, "King of the Circus," contains all the thrills of a regular circus, all the clowns, all the animals, all the spangles, and all the beautiful ladies, and fearless acrobats. Polo, the star, was a circus star for many years. He's leading clown in the serial, Charles Fortune, was one of the famous Fortune troupes, noted clown and acrobats with the Ringling Brothers. The first episode of "King of the Circus" will be seen at the Palace Theatre Saturday, October 15th. Second episode Wednesday, October 19th.

"The Furnace," the new William D. Taylor production released as a Realart Special, is an unusually powerful photodrama. The picture, which is a big production in many senses of the word will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

A Great Artist.
Sir Henry Layard had a short way with omniscient youths, who gushed over Cimabue, Giotto, Dante da Volterra. "Do you seriously think," he would ask with his rasping drawl, "that any of them can compare with Michelangelo da Bologna?" Some would fall into the trap and discourse on the characteristics of that great artist, others, more honest, would insist scornfully on confessing ignorance of his work. It was only when they caught him that they discovered that "Michelangelo" was a sausage.—Living Age.

Announcement

To the Citizens of Charlevoix and Patrons
Hines Drug Stock and have decided to move it

I wish to announce the purchase of the Hines Drug Stock and have decided to move it to a new location.

I expect to make the change about November 1st, having leased the Bartholomew Block which is now under process of remodeling.

When we are installed in our new quarters we will have one of the finest equipped drug stores in Michigan, both as to stock and fixtures. I also wish to say at this time that we believe in the spirit of FAIR PLAY and enter your community, not with the intention of "bucking the other fellow" as the common saying goes, but are entering with the idea of a "SQUARE DEAL" to all and a desire to do our share in working for the best interests of the community and will try and serve you in the future as honorably and honestly as Mr. Hines has in the past.

You are cordially invited to visit us and become acquainted.

Very truly yours,
F. J. Fessenden.

HOW TO IMPROVE BUSINESS

All the experts agree that the worst of the depression is past, and that basic conditions have been improving for two or three months. There is no need to rehearse the evidence which appears from day to day in the newspapers. All that is necessary is to point out the tendency which, because day to day progress is slow, may not always be clear to the casual observer. That tendency is unmistakably upward.

The only difference of expert opinion has to do with the rate of improvement and the fixing of the time when the growing activity is destined to develop into a boom recognizable to everybody.

Roger W. Babson, one of the most conservative of professional business observers, expects a "distinct up-turn" in the coming winter or spring. He thinks that there should be considerable improvement, though, before that, coming in the fall, as the result of "the sales and advertising campaigns now being planned by some of the foremost manufacturers and merchants."

Advertising unquestionably will have a great deal to do with the revival of business. The industries that have already got on their feet are the ones that started early, and advertised heavily. A big market is just about ripe for the manufacturers and merchants who are wise and bold enough to make a strong appeal at the strategic time.

NEW MANAGER AT WESTERN UNION

R. E. Olson of East Jordan is Now
In Charge

R. E. Olson is the new manager of the local Western Union office, having taken charge last week. Mr. Olson is an East Jordan boy, having worked there several years besides being at Grand Haven, Mich.

H. A. Adams, manager of the office during the summer, has been assigned to the Petoskey office of the Western Union, and left to take up his new duties the first of the week.

British Army in Egypt Used Chicken- Wire in Building Temporary Routes in Sand.

The British army in Egypt has used chicken-wire in the construction of roads.

Loose sand was smoothed and leveled and then covered with chicken-wire, which was firmly pegged down.

The passage of troops or motor transports seemed to affect the road very little, while the passage of animal-drawn vehicles damaged the improvised road badly. However, it was possible to make repairs quickly and the road was easily kept in good condition.

Of course this wire-mesh road was purely a temporary expedient for the military. The old Romans still hold the palm as the champion road-makers of the world. Many a foundation of the roads they made is still in use in Europe, the surface alone being modern.

Bad Roads in Way.

The plunger—the farmer—needs to reduce the cost of transportation; the laborer to provide homes and cheaper living; the merchant wants the country air. What opposes? Roads—bad roads.—Dr. Seaman A. Knapp.

Line Highways With Trees.

Now is a fine time to make plans for lining the highways in your township with trees. Don't plant them too thick; fifty feet or more apart will do.

NORWOOD

Emma Janette is visiting in Charlevoix.

Chas. Richardson of Detroit is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Richardson.

John Sprick and wife and Merrill Richardson and family motored to Boyne City Sunday.

A. McPherson and family and Marion McPherson and family of Central Lake visited at the Wm. Lucia home on Sunday of last week.

F. A. Swartout was called to the home of his sister, Mrs. Clarke Harkness on account of the death of her husband, Saturday. He returned to his home here Monday.

Who says Norwood is dead? The latest changes in Norwood are as follows: George Light has purchased the Cowan place, Mrs. Frank Pearl has purchased the Mosher place, Floyd Wagner has moved into the A. Stafford home, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Empey have moved into the Rev. Hewitt house.

CLARION

Bert Norton of Petoskey was in town on Sunday.

Mrs. Fred B. Darragh of Petoskey was a caller in town Friday.

Mrs. Parker is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Nina Bierbaum of Cadillac.

C. H. Miller and wife of Charlevoix visited relatives here on Sunday.

WILL MEET ON FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14
Regular Monthly Meeting of Association of Commerce

The regular meeting of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce will be held Friday evening, October 14, either with a banquet at Hallett's Inn or in the Masonic Temple. The place of meeting will be decided within the week and announced in these columns next week.

Several important questions will come up for discussion, the most important of which is the method of lighting Bridge street, and other important streets of the city. There seems to be a slight difference of opinion on this matter, which will undoubtedly be threshed out at this meeting.

It is also anticipated that several members of the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce will be present, besides several members of the Board of Supervisors, who will be in session at this time.

When the future of Charlevoix is involved, it is imperative that not only members of the association, but others as well, be present at these meetings; and it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

Moved by Ald. Wood seconded by Ald. Genet the adoption of the following ordinance.

Ordinance No. 145

An ordinance to provide for the protection of game and birds within the City of Charlevoix, and within the public parks of said city and to prescribe a penalty for the violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance.

The City of Charlevoix Ordains:

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, at any time of the year, or in any manner to take, pursue, molest, wound or kill within the corporate limits of the City of Charlevoix, any black, gray or fox squirrel, or have in his possession any black, gray or fox squirrel taken within the limits of said city.

Section 2. It shall be unlawful for any person, at any time of the year or in any manner to take, wound molest or kill any wild animal or bird within the limits of any public park or grounds of the City of Charlevoix, or upon any public street or alley adjacent to any such public park or grounds.

Section 3. Nothing contained in this ordinance shall be construed to prohibit the taking and killing of noxious animals or birds, as defined by the laws of the State of Michigan, within the limits of said public parks or grounds, except that the use of firearms shall not be employed therefor.

Section 4. Any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than Ten Dollars and not more than Fifty Dollars, and costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the County Jail not exceeding thirty days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, and in all cases when a fine and costs are imposed, the court shall sentence the offender to be confined in the County Jail until such fine and costs are paid, for any period of time not exceeding the maximum term provided for such offense.

WILL HELP PARENTS TRAIN CHILDREN

Child Conservation League Being Organized in Charlevoix

Miss Matilda Mullen, field secretary, is here to interest the mothers of Charlevoix in the work of a League which has for its object helping parents train their children physically, morally and intellectually, laying special emphasis on training for social purity. It provides for their welfare by means of systematic educational and advisory work in the requirement of definite knowledge and broader culture relating especially to childhood and its needs.

The Child Conservation League is a national organization, incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, and by co-operation with organized womanhood the League seeks to do those practical things through enforcement of laws designed to better the condition of man.

The president of the League is Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, the eminent authority on sex-hygiene and social purity. On its advisory board are many famous men and women, among whom are Judge Ben Lindsey, President G. Stanley Hall, Luther Burbank, Edwin Markham, poet and social reformer, Prof. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin, Mrs. May Wright Sewall, lecturer and publicist, and Prof. Zueblin, also publicist and lecturer.

Much interest is being shown by the ladies of Charlevoix in this good work, and it is hoped that a splendid circle of the League may be organized here. The field secretary will call upon the mothers and answer any questions.

A New Back for an Old One—How Charlevoix Resident Made a Bad Back Strong

The back aches at times with a dull indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the pains are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Charlevoix citizen.

Mrs. Frank Smith, 307 May St., says: "My kidneys were weak and irregular and there was a dull ache in my back. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills from Hines & Co's Drug Store cured me completely."

peninsula by the lower peninsula hunters who will come here this fall but the birds that escape can be saved before the coming of another season.

It is planned to interest hunters in every county of the peninsula in a movement to circulate petitions in their respective counties, asking the boards of supervisors to close the deer hunting season for the period allowed under the law in each county. As the law requires that notice of the intention of any county to close the open season on any game shall be given 60 days before the hearing is held before the board of supervisors, it is recognized that no action can be taken in any county before the hunting season this fall. Instead it is planned that action will be taken simultaneously in every county of the peninsula immediately after the close of the season this fall and further deer hunting in the peninsula blocked until changes demanded in the game laws by the people of this section of Michigan are passed by the state legislature.

MOTHER AND TWINS SURPRISED BY FRIENDS

Friends and Relatives Meet at Home
Mrs. Verne Jones

Mrs. Verne Jones was hostess Friday afternoon, September 30th, at her home on Hurbut street, to a number of friends and relatives who surprised her with a shower in honor of the twin babies, Verne and Harry Jones who were ushered into this world just one month ago by that wonderful bird—the stork.

The young mother was assisted in her duties as hostess by her mother, Mrs. Jack Webster.

A delicious luncheon was served at the conclusion of which the hostess was presented with the gifts for the babies.

As part of the game she was made to guess contents of each package. As a guesser, Mrs. Jones is an adept.

A delightful afternoon was enjoyed by all. Among those present were, Mrs. E. Kirby, Mrs. H. Wagner, Mrs. Sutton and married daughter, Mrs. Powell and daughter, Mrs. M. Blanchard, Mrs. Jones and her daughter, Mrs. C. Heise.

Owing to the weather a number were unable to attend so sent their gifts by friends.—Contributed.

PATRON-TEACHER SOCIAL EVENING

Postponed from Friday Evening October 4th to 14th

The Patron-Teacher social evening will be held at Hallett's Inn, Friday, October 14th instead of October 7th as mentioned in last week's issue. The change is made because of the Commercial association banquet at Boyne City on that date. It is urged that all patrons of the school be present at this meeting as it is entirely in the nature of a social evening. A program has been prepared and an out-of-town orchestra procured for the occasion. Let us make our slogan "Charlevoix and Charlevoix Schools."

The J. B. HOWARD COMBUSTION DEVICE

Has Made the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence Famous, and will Heat Your Home at a Cost of $10.50 to $14.00 for the Entire Winter Season

The same result that you get with a Florence, heating 4 or 5 rooms with $14.00 worth of fuel would cost you, if you used artificial gas, $250

The Greatest Stove Ever Made for Burning Soft Coal, Slack or Any Kind of Fuel

THE HOT BLAST AIR TIGHT FLORENCE WILL PAY FOR ITSELF, IN A FEW SEASONS IN THE SAVING OF COAL.

Come—Let us show you the wonderful HOT BLAST AIR TIGHT FLORENCE and explain—

WHY it burns all the smoke, soot, and gas in the cheapest soft coal or slack.

WHY it burns the cheapest soft coal or slack with the same regularity and cleanliness as the burning of artificial or natural gas.

WHY it burns the cheapest soft coal or slack without any soot accumulating in the inside of the stove, in the pipe, or in the flue.

WHY the FLORENCE is the only absolute practical smoke consuming stove that has ever been created.

WHY no other stove on earth is equal to the FLORENCE.

For the past twenty-one years I have offered $5,000.00 (and make the same offer now until January 1st, 1922) to any stove manufacturer or dealer who would produce a stove or heating device of any kind that depends upon a flue for draft, that will consume all the ingredients of soft coal or any combustible matter, from the moment the fire is started, outside the construction of the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence, but it has never been taken up which proves that the equal of the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence, is not made by any stove manufacturer in this country, or my offer would have been taken long before this, if for no other purpose than letting the world know that such a stove is being made by other stove manufacturers. (Signed) J. B. HOWARD. Inventor of the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence.

No Smoke! No Soot! No Clinkers! No Dirt!

Everything consumed—Ashes as fine as powder—The most Economical and Greatest Heating Stove on Earth

The High Cost of Coal Makes the Florence Necessary

It is not the original cost of a stove, but what it costs to operate it that counts. The FLORENCE is an investment—it pays for itself in a very short time.

THE ONLY JOINTLESS LEG BOTTOM AND BASE

With full radiation that is on the market, or that has ever been made. The result is—As a fire-keeper it is just as good twenty-five years from now.

REMEMBER

The Florence Heats the Floor

Five or six feet from the stove, which no stove outside of the Florence construction will do, and is the most durable stove that was ever made. THE FIRST FLORENCE THAT WAS SOLD, OVER TWENTY YEARS AGO, IS WORKING WHEREVER IT IS. The reason for this is the Florence burns out the fuel. In all other stoves the fuel burns out the stove.

Operate the Florence According to Instructions

and the No. 151 or 73 will heat two or three rooms all winter with three tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 153 or 75 will heat four or five rooms all winter with four tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 155 or 77 will heat five or six rooms all winter with four and a half tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 155 Extension Top is used for heating large spaces such as churches, school houses and stores and will only take the same amount of fuel as the No. 155.

The FLORENCE will burn a ton less of hard coal than any hard coal base burner that was ever made with the same size hearth and heats three times the space.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence

will burn anything combustible—hard or soft coal, coal siftings, coal dust, slack coal, coke, wood, sawdust, and rubbish. The fire never goes out, day or night, and a steady, even temperature can be maintained.

GOOD ROADS

FIND ASPHALT BY ACCIDENT

Discovered in Switzerland and Used for Purpose of Extracting Valuable Bitumen.

Asphalt, though covering thousands of miles of roads in all countries, was discovered quite by accident. In the middle of the last century it was found in Switzerland in its natural state, and used for the purpose of extracting the valuable store of bitumen it contained. In time it was noticed that pieces of rock which fell from the wagons, and were crushed by the wheels, formed a very fine road surface which held melted by the heat of the sun.

An experiment was made and a road of asphalt built in Paris. It was so successful that the new road material became adopted through all the big towns of Europe.

All sorts of materials have been tried since, from rubber to sawdust. It is very likely, in fact, that in the future the streets of our big cities will be paved with some form of rubber mixture which will be practically noiseless. Very extensive experiments have already been carried out with such a mixture.

In New York several streets are paved with steel, and a steel road has been in use in Valencia, in Spain, for the last 20 years. Perhaps the most curious material for a road is sawdust. This compressed into solid blocks, is used to pave the streets of Baltimore. These sawdust blocks are bound with wire and dipped into boiling tar before being put to use.

Vanishing Languages.

Nowhere in America has there been such a diversity of Indian languages as in California. But these languages are now rapidly disappearing. Several of them are known only by five or six, and others only by twenty or thirty living persons, and hardly a year passes without some dialect, or even language, ceasing to exist through the death of the last individual able to speak it. Efforts are being made to record all these languages for the sake of the light they throw on the ancient history of the Pacific coast. Washington Star.

NEW AUTO LAW NOW IN FORCE

CERTIFICATE OF OWNERSHIP
NOW NECESSARY.

After Next July State Will Not Issue License Unless Certificate is Produced.

Beginning with last week, the new law relative to the sale of motor vehicles became operative, and any person who has title of ownership under the new law, must transfer the title to the new owner, should the car be transferred.

The new certificate of ownership is in effect a deed, just as a warranty deed to real estate is in effect a certificate of ownership.

Section 3 of the new law, says in part: In the event of a sale or transfer after Oct. 1, 1921, of the ownership of a motor vehicle for which a certificate of title has been issued the holder of such certificate shall endorse on the back of the same an assignment thereof with warranty of title in form printed thereon with the statement of all liens or encumbrances. The purchaser shall, within ten days, present the certificate to the secretary of state for the issuance of a new certificate of title to the new owner.

After next July it will be impossible to obtain a license for a motor vehicle without first having the certificate of ownership.

The new law is designed to protect the automobile owner from buying a stolen car and with the easy market for stolen cars eliminated, thieves will not take so many cars, it is believed.

The new title certificate contains a history of the car, with a description of all identifying numbers, and a statement as to ownership. It will be virtually an abstract of ownership from the time the car left the factory. Thus any car can be traced through the succession of owners in the event this may become desirable.

Persons who do not take out the certificate before next July will be liable to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100.

From now on the following procedure will be effective in regard to the sale of a used car, when the dealer has no certificate: When the purchaser applies for a license of transfer he will be required to state of whom he purchased the machine. Then the seller will be given ten days in which to obtain his certificate. At the end of that time, the automobile division will see if he has complied with the law and if not a complaint will be filed against him.

Boys' Population 5810.
Basing their estimate by multiplying her school enrollment by five, Boyne City now claims a population of 5810. The school enrollment on the opening day was 1162.

TAX KICKERS, HOW WOULD YOU LIKE THIS?

If one lives in Germany, he is taxed; if he dies, he is likewise taxed. At least, the city of Frankfurt am Main has hit upon the novel idea of charging a tax upon burials. If one drinks mineral water, he is taxed; and if he drinks schnapps he is taxed more.

If one plays a piano at home, there is another tax; and if one wants to hear music in a theatre, there is still another tax. The tax on "enjoyment" has had the effect of closing more than 100 movie houses there in the past few months, and has driven every circus out of Germany, either to England, France or Holland.

The latest wrinkle in taxes is reported from Saxony, where a head tax is placed upon pigeons, geese, and cats. The tax on geese has caused much objection, for it has struck at the very heart—or rather stomach—of Germany, since roast geese is the Thanksgiving turkey of the Teuton.

Beer, likewise a great national institution, is heavily laden, and the authorities are planning to tax, as well, vinegar, oxygen, coal, wood and advertising posters.

Income taxes will run very heavy. The Saxon premier, for instance, has a yearly income of 76,000 marks—less than $1,000 at the present exchange—and must pay more than a fourth thereof at once in income taxes.

MRS. A. J. BROWN DIED WEDNESDAY

Ill for More Than Four Months at Home in Petoskey.

Mrs. Abbie Brown, wife of A. J. Brown of the Brown garage, Petoskey, died at 1:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon of last week, following an illness of more than four months. She was 39 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown moved to Petoskey last spring from this city, where they had resided for a number of years. Mrs. Brown was taken ill shortly after moving there and had been confined to her bed since July 10. She failed steadily and for a number of days before her death her condition was critical.

Mrs. Brown was born at Boyne City Feb. 27, 1882. She was married to A. J. Brown in Petoskey, November 16, 1902.

Besides the husband she leaves two sons, Lyman, age 18, and Thaddeus, age 15. Two brothers and two sisters also survive her. They are Mrs. Bert Fetters, Harbor Springs, Mrs. Stanley Benjamin, Albion; Roy Couch, Harbor Springs, and Alfred Couch, Petoskey.

Funeral services were held from the home at 1:30 Friday afternoon, and were attended by many Charlevoix friends and relatives.

MUST OBSERVE NEW ROAD LAWS

DRIVERS OF TRUCKS AND WAGONS ARE WARNED.

New Road Law Strictly Limits the Size of the Load Dependent on Tire and Speed.

Drivers of wagons and trucks are cautioned to BEWARE of the law which limits the sizes of loads which can be hauled over the roads of the county. It will no longer be in order for those hauling loads to see how big loads they can haul, for by so doing they may subject themselves to a fine or imprisonment.

Many townships in adjoining counties have already taken action through their highway commissioners to prevent excessive loads. Some have posted notices quoting the law.

Wagon tires one inch wide can carry but 400 pounds to the wheel; 3 inch tires but 1400 to wheel. Trucks with 2 inch tires, running 20 miles an hour, but 700 pounds per wheel; 4 inch tires, running 18 miles but 1900 pounds per wheel; 7 inch tires, running 12 miles per hour, but 3200 pounds per wheel. If he well to look up the exact tables for all tires.

Other limitations are made on account of frosts, rain, etc.

Fines assessed are from $5.00 to $50.00, or imprisonment of 30 days. It is the duty of the sheriff to make all township and district highway commissioners and his deputies to enforce the law.

If the county of Charlevoix and the several townships desire to save from destruction the roads which it has cost many thousand dollars to build, they should at once post notices of their intention and then strictly enforce the law.

BROUGHT HOME SILK RIBBONS

LOEB FARMS EXHIBIT AT THE STATE FAIR.

Fifteen Head of Cattle and Eight Horses Were Shown and 12 Blue Ribbons Won as Prizes.

A couple of hulky envelopes filled with silk ribbons, twelve of which were blue, testified to the remarkable success of the Loeb Farms entries at Grand Rapids, September 19-23. Fifteen cattle and eight horses comprised the exhibit, the horses also in charge of R. V. Otto, Dr. Simmons not having returned from an "important eastern engagement."

"The West Michigan State Fair was well attended, Thursday being a record-breaker," said Mr. Otto on his return. "All exhibits were large, especially cattle, some of which were shown in tents. Many herds shown at Detroit were shown at Grand Rapids."

The undefeated Charlevoix Marbury No. 288868, blue ribbon winner at the National Dairy Show last year, was an easy winner in the 2-year-old class. He also won first at Grand Rapids as a yearling.

Other cattle prizes were: 1st and 4th, senior bull calves, the winner of first also being made junior champion male. Junior bull calves, 1st and 3rd. Junior yearling heifers, 1st and 3rd. Senior heifer calves, 2nd and 4th. Junior heifer calves, 1st and 3rd. Breeders' herd, 1st. Get of sire, 1st, the class consisting of one male and four females by one sire, which, Mr. Otto said, was considered by prominent breeders to be the coveted prize of the show. This gave Mr. Otto's exhibit seven blue ribbons, including one champion. The cattle were shipped in charge of Gus Cellner and Glenn Sanford.

The Belgian horse exhibit in charge of Wm. Stokes and Raymond Bank, as earlakers, supplemented the Holstein-Friesian record by taking five firsts, two seconds and two thirds.

Russell was an easy winner, as was also the young stallion, Col. Loeb, in the over two and under three-year-old class. The mares took three firsts.

"Too much credit cannot be given Mr. Otto and the men from the farms," said R. F. Sloan, commenting on the exhibit. "We shipped by freight 200 miles, arriving Sunday noon, and were judged Tuesday morning. Our competition included local exhibitors who have been breeding and exhibiting Holsteins for years. I understood one prominent Grand Rapids exhibitor showed 18 head without winning a first prize."

MRS. BEDFORD HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Was on Way Home to Grand Rapids
From Charlevoix

According to a news item in Monday's issue of the Grand Rapids Herald, Mrs. Harrison Bedford was more or less injured in an auto accident near that city Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Bedford left Charlevoix Sunday morning at 5:30 a. m. for their home in Grand Rapids, after spending the summer here. They intended to make the drive in one day, and the accident probably occurred just before they reached Grand Rapids. No word has been received by relatives here since the accident, and it is thought Mrs. Bedford's injuries are not serious. The item follows:

"Mrs. Harrison Bedford was bruised about the head last night when an automobile driven by her husband, manager of the Charlevoix hotel, slipped down an embankment on the Rockford road near the Bostwick lake turn. She was taken to the hotel in another car and a physician called. The car landed side down after leaving the road.

"A drizzling rain last night made roads in the vicinity of the city dangerous to traffic, and many cars skidded at wet turns and landed in roadside ditches. Seventeen machines were counted in ditches along the state road between Sand Lake and Grand Rapids by one local motorist."

UPKEEP ON STATE HIGHWAYS

STATE COMMISSIONER TELLS HOW TO DO IT.

Urges County Commissioners to Keep Roads in Good Repair at All Times.

State Highway Commissioner F. F. Rogers has sent out the following circular to all highway officials in the state, urging them to take care of the roads already built. His circular contains many good suggestions, which if followed out, will result in better roads everywhere:

"Even though the state is spending vast sums of bond money in road construction, it is still true that the greatest road tax in Michigan is the tax which the people in rural sections vote upon themselves at the annual town meetings. Last year this amounted to $18,495,380.04.

As much of this money is expended in hauling gravel to roads, a word or two as to the application of gravel and the maintenance of gravel roads afterwards, may not be amiss.

"Too commonly a first class job is spoiled by neglecting the gravel after it is dumped (too often not spread) on the road. In fact it is left to pack itself and immediately becomes full of bumps and hollows which become so hard that they can hardly be smoothed except by using a scarifier.

"This can be easily and cheaply prevented by: spreading the gravel with the use of the four-wheeled grader followed by a spike tooth harrow and the road drag. In fact, the gravel which is placed on each day should be spread in this way and made as smooth as possible before quitting work at night.

"Later the constant use of the road drag would make many of those township gravel roads which have been cheaply built, as pleasant to drive over as many of the more costly highways.

"Probably no implement used in road building or maintenance has done so much to keep the roads constantly smooth as the use of the patrol road drag and grader.

"When to drag: As soon as the frost begins to come out of the ground in the spring use the road drag. Use it frequently, especially after rains, until the ground freezes in the fall. When the road softens during the winter months smooth it up with the road drag so the surface will freeze smooth.

"How to drag: Hitch to the drag in such a way that it will be drawn at an angle, forcing some gravel towards the center of the road. If the drag cuts too deep, shorten the hitch; if too little, lengthen it. Drag one side of the road, then the other, lastly making a trip down the center. If the road is not smooth, ride the drag, stepping around on it sufficiently to vary the cutting depth to work out the high places and fill low ones.

"Strive toward a uniform crown in all gravel roads. When you drive over the road you will readily detect if it is too crowning. If too flat, it will hold water.

"Large stones embedded in the surface should be taken out, as it is impossible to handle a road drag properly when it is hobbling over stones.

"One year's faithful use of the road drag will convince the taxpayer of any township that the money has been well expended. Won't you try it?"

GAMES PLAYED AND FORTUNES TOLD

Miss McMillan Entertains 14 Girl Friends on Birthday

Lila Pearl McMillan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. F. McMillan, entertained 14 of her girl friends at her home Saturday afternoon, it being her seventh birthday. The little guests were all of the same age as the hostess.

Games were played and the most enjoyable feature of the afternoon was the fortune telling tent set up by two young lads. Each had their fortunes told, after which a luncheon of sandwiches, cake and ice cream, with the beautiful birthday cake with its seven candles, was served.

The young hostess was congratulated, not only on account of it being her birthday, but in the manner she entertained her guests.

BOYNE MASONS TO HAVE NEW HOME

Lease Upper Floor of Capelin Block for Temple.

Boyne City Lodge No. 391, F. & A. M. has leased the entire upper floors of the Capelin block. Some partitions will be removed, others rearranged, the supporting pillars taken out, and the rooms handsomely decorated. A porch ten feet wide will extend across the entire back portion of the building at the second floor, this porch will overlook the river and city park and will be a most desirable place on which to spend a summer evening.

The completed lodge rooms will compose a large assembly room, recreation room, dining room kitchen, ladies parlor, mens smoking room and property rooms. These rooms will be newly furnished with rugs, electric chandeliers, chairs and lodge room furniture, and will be classed among the "nicest" Masonic temples in Northern Michigan.

The new temple will be dedicated Friday, October 28, at which time the Masonic Grand Lodge officers of Michigan will be present. The ceremony will take the form of a banquet, at which all the affiliated branches of Masonry in Charlevoix county will participate.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT BAY SHORE

FLAMES DESTROY GENERAL STORE AND HOUSE

Thought to Have Been Caused By Sparks from Chimney—Tillotson's Loss About $10,000

Late Tuesday afternoon Bay Shore suffered a disastrous fire which destroyed the general store of A. T. Tillotson and the house on the adjoining lot.

The fire is thought to have started from sparks from a chimney lighting on the roof of the store building, and fanned by the strong wind, the entire structure was soon a mass of flames. The fire spread to the house on the adjoining lot, which was also burned. Another home nearby was afire, but strenuous work on the part of citizens saved it. As Bay Shore is without fire protection, the flames continued unhampered until both structures were burned to the ground.

A. T. Tillotson, who conducted a general store, lost practically all his stock, the loss being estimated at $10,000 or more. The loss is a severe one, as the stock was only partially covered by insurance.

The store building was owned by Frank T. Burnett, who lives near Bay Shore. It is not known whether insurance was carried on the building or house.

POWER PLANT BONDS BRING GOOD PRICE

State Savings Bank Takes Total
Issue of $50,000

Evidence of the fact that Charlevoix municipal bonds authorized in the recent election to bond the city for $50,000 for a new auxiliary power plant are considered a good investment is seen by the bids received and opened at the council meeting Monday night.

Eight bids were made, all at a good price. The bids receiving most consideration by the council were those of the State Savings Bank and Charlevoix County Bank. The entire issue of $50,000 was sold at the State Savings Bank, their offer being par, a premium of $425.00, the cost of printing the bonds, and a two per cent daily balance. The bid of the County Bank was par value, a premium of $415.00 and the cost of printing the bonds.

STATE LEADS IN SMALL FRUITS

MICHIGAN ADVANCING FAST SAYS U. S. REPORT.

New York and New Jersey Rank
Next in Production of Various Small Fruits.

Michigan is the leading state in the Union in the production of small fruits. While in 1909 it was third, in the decade following it jumped to first place in the total acreage devoted to strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, cranberries, currant and other berries, according to a bulletin made public by the United States census bureau. In 1919 it had 21,021 acres devoted to berry production.

At the time of the taking of the last census the Wolverine state's total production of all berries amounted to 23,946,801 quarts. This was less than the state produced in 1909, but in the decade the state advanced from fourth to third place. Michigan had 8,048 acres in strawberries in 1919, ranking third where ten years previous it ranked fifth. Its production of strawberries was 12,585,543 quarts, being third among the states in strawberry yield where 10 years before it had been sixth.

Raspberry production in Michigan in 1919 amounted to 7,657,019 quarts, only two states having a greater production. Ten years previous the state's production of raspberries amounted to 8,381,943 quarts. Michigan produced 2,452,900 quarts of blackberries and dewberries in 1919, while in 1909 it produced 3,075,954 quarts. It now ranks sixth in production of these two varieties of berries.

The total acreage of small fruits harvested in the United States in 1919 was 249,084 as compared with 272,460 in 1909, a decrease of 23,376 or 8.6 per cent. New York, New Jersey and Missouri rank next to Michigan in total acreage of small fruits. Total acreage of strawberries was 119,395 as compared with 143,043 in 1909. Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas and Michigan are leading strawberry states.

"The acreage of raspberries and loganberries in 1919 was 54,256 as compared with 48,668 in 1909. The production in 1919 was 61,333,509 quarts as compared with 60,918,196 quarts 10 years previous. There were 46,165 acres in blackberries and dewberries in 1919 as compared with 49,004 in 1909. Production was 39,945,078 quarts in 1919 and 55,343,570 quarts in 1909. The total acreage in cranberries dropped from 18,431 in 1909 to 16,804 in 1919. The production fell in the same period from 38,243,060 quarts to 35,260,291 quarts. There were 7,379 acres of currants in 1919 as compared with 7,862 in 1909. The production in 1919 was 7,722,617 quarts compared with 10,448,532 quarts in 1909.

Will Spend $190,000

According to a statement just issued by the state highway department, $190,000 will be spent on trunk line roads in Charlevoix county during the next year. The county's share of this building program will be but 20 per cent.

ONE BRAND- ONE QUALITY- One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Here's another. We put no useless frills on the Camel package. No "extra wrappers!" Nothing just for show!

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

One thing, and only one, is responsible for Camels great and growing popularity—that is CAMEL QUALITY.

One man exhibited a number of domesticated rats at the West Michigan state fair, claiming that such animals find a ready sale as pets. We understand they are useful, too, when allowed to run freely about a house, in ridding a house of women who keep cats.

An Arcadia resident complains of a piece of road near that place which he says is very dangerous and has been in that shape for 30 years or more. What, does he expect us to spend a lot of money improving these detours, which are used only while the main roads are under construction?

A midnight blaze at Detour was the cause of the death of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stange and their infant. All three perished at the doors of the home. All were clad in their night clothes. The fire was not visible from the exterior and the volunteer fire department was some time in locating it. When the doors were broken down, the bodies of the three were found against them. It is thought that mice in a cupboard caused the fire.

Alpena's new Memorial Hall, built at a cost of $35,000 contributed by citizens, will be formally opened to the public. The building has a 178 foot front, a depth of 105 feet and covers 18,868 square feet of ground. One side is the federal building and on the other the city hall. The building will be used as a community center. In the basement is a banquet hall, kitchen, gymnasium, shower baths, etc., on the main floor, auditorium, lobbies, rest rooms, smoking rooms, etc., on the mezzanine floor, balcony orchestra, platform, lobby, rest rooms, smoking rooms, etc.

Earl Girard and Tany Seger pleaded guilty in Cheboygan county circuit court last week to stealing the safe from the Shaw meat market in Cheboygan. Girard had made several attempts to escape from the county jail since his arrest on the charge. He was sentenced to from four to 15 years at hard labor in the state prison at Jackson, the court recommending he serve ten years. Seger was sent to Ionia reformatory for a term of from one to ten years with the recommendation of four years.

Michigan's 1921 potato crop will be at least 6,000,000 bushels short of the five-year average yield, according to A. B. Larga, general manager of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, following a survey of the state. The official crop report predicted a yield of 22,000,000 bushels in Michigan this year, against 28,000,000 bushels, the five-year average.

FIGURES ARE STARTLING.

Possibly you noticed the statement published last week that the Michigan average is one divorce to every six marriages. This figure is somewhat startling, but when you look about you and observe the unhappy marriages that never reach the divorce court the Michigan average may be more of a tribute to the marital relationship than a knock. "If Winter Comes," by A. S. M. Hutchinson, deals with the mismatched couple, or to quote the author, "two people who don't quite click," and no one having a greater degree of charity for the people who go into the courts, most of them reluctantly, for relief. "If Winter Comes" is one of the truly great books of the year.

NATURALIZATION LAWS LAX.

County Clerk Richard Lewis, based on considerable official observation, says our regulations for making citizens are altogether too lax; that the whole proceedings is hardly more than a perfunctory recitation; the procedure to often lacks the earmarks of sincerity on the part of the applicant, while that innate love of country possessed by the native son is entirely absent. "Your boy had to live here 21 years before he could participate in the affairs of the government, which makes the easy manner we use to grant these privileges to foreigners, almost immediately upon their arrival here, seem almost absurd. With the exception of Canadians, who are virtually Americans in their ideals and culture, the great bulk of foreigners are a long time passing through the process of assimilation." This comment by the county clerk recalled an editorial in a southern Michigan paper, trying to find a reason for the terrible triple murder a few weeks ago at Dowagiac. The comment in closing used the following language:

"Instead of bewailing the mounting crime figures, we will do well to make an earnest study of the fundamental causes and to deal directly with them. When we transform the masses of unassimilated aliens who are herded into the slums of our great cities into good Americans; when we pass through our parts only those immigrants who can be depended upon to become worthy citizens; and when we say that the unfit, the degenerate, the half-men and half-women shall not multiply their kind, we shall have reached the heart of the problem of our so-called waves of crime."

DAIRY

MILK DELIVERED TO CITIES

Figures Announced by Department of Agriculture an Total Cost to Ultimate Consumer.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The total cost of milk delivered to the consumer's door in Columbus, O., during the first six months of 1920, ranged from 11.3 cents up to 15.3 cents per quart, if the costs of one company which does business in "certified" milk are omitted, according to the figures recently announced by the United States Department of Agriculture. The cost of the raw milk delivered at the dairy ranged from 8.7 cents to 10 cents per quart. The total cost of operating the dairy plant, including the pasteurizing and bottling of the milk, ranged from 1 cent to 1.4 cents per quart, and the cost of delivering the milk from the dairy to the consumer ranged from 1.61 cents to 3.9 cents per quart.

The item of administrative expense varies widely, being as low as two-tenths of a cent per quart for one small company and as high as 1 cent per quart for a large concern.

Two of the seven companies covered were small concerns which produced their own milk supply. The cost of producing the milk for these companies in 1920 was 8.9 cents per quart, which is very similar to the price paid for milk by the larger concerns.

One of the items of cost which has attracted most attention among students of the milk business is the so-called "bottle loss." The department's study indicates that for the companies covered in Columbus this item ranges from one-tenth to two-tenths of a cent per quart.

Great difficulty was experienced in getting any satisfactory information concerning the shrinkage which takes place in the handling and delivery of milk, but according to the best data available this item amounts to between 2.3 per cent and 5.5 per cent of the total volume of milk.

Columbus is a city of 237,031 population, which is reported to consume about 27,000,000 quarts of milk per annum. This milk is supplied by over 2,000 producers, from 15 different counties, and is transported to Columbus from a territory having a radius of 35 miles. Conditions appear to be fairly representative of many Middle Western cities.

The investigation covered seven companies, which sold about 16,000,000 quarts of milk and cream in 1920, or approximately 45 per cent of the total quantity consumed. The companies ranged in size from a very small one-way concern up to the largest, which operated 40 milk routes.

From the point of view of the farmer and the consumer, the important question is, What does it cost to handle the milk from the farm to the consumer? The cost of raw milk was between 63 per cent and 75 per cent of the total cost of the milk as it reaches the consumer.

During the period under study the retail price of Grade A milk in Columbus, as quoted by the dealers investigated, ranged from 15 cents to 14.5 cents per quart, though during 1920 the two small dealers sold their milk, which comes from tuberculin-tested cows, for 15 cents per quart. At the same time the wholesale price of milk ranged from 12 cents to 12 1/2 cents.

The average number of customers per route in 1920 ranged from 161 to 237, and the number of quarts per wagon ranged from 178 to 378, the average being 262. It is noteworthy that the most profitable company was the one having the largest average wagonload.

VEGETABLE PROTEIN NEEDED

Ground Soy Bean Meal and Cottonseed Meal Will Take Place of Tankage and Scrap.

Practical and experimental work with both chicks and old hens brings out the fact that vegetable proteins like those of ground soybean meal and cottonseed meal can take the place of animal proteins such as tankage and meat-scrap in poultry feeding. Animal proteins, however, cannot be replaced unless the vegetable protein is supplemented by essential mineral elements. Supplying the fowls with granulated bone has been found to be a good way of supplying these elements when a vegetable protein is being fed.

TEACH YOUNG BULL TO LEAD

Calf Can Be Halter Broken With Little Effort if Taken in Hand at Right Time.

A bull that is to be kept for service should be taught to lead while he is a small calf. He can be halter broken at this time with a few minutes' effort. He should not only be taught to lead without a tight rope, but also should be taught to stand. If given this lesson while young, in after life, when he is led out for visitors to look over or to be photographed, he makes a much better appearance.

Your Voice is You

There is a peculiar quality in each human voice that is so individual that the very personality of the speaker is given out.

How often do your friends say to you, "Oh, I knew you by your voice?"

For this reason long-distance telephone conversations have an emphatic value aside from the convenience of an immediate reply to questions and the opportunity for discussion.

Send your own voice over the Long Distance wire in all important transactions and it is as if you had been present yourself. This is the satisfying way—the modern way to transact your affairs.

The following information about different classifications of Long Distance calls will aid you in using the telephone most economically and efficiently.

1. If you will talk to any person answering the telephone, the toll charge will be about one-fifth less than as if you had asked for a particular person at that address.
2. Such service between 8:30 P. M. and Midnight costs only about one-half the day rates and between Midnight and 4:30 A. M. it costs only about one-fourth the day rates.
3. Particular person calls are those in which you ask to talk with a particular person in another city. On this class of calls a report charge is made if the person asked for cannot be communicated with through no fault of the Telephone Company. This charge is not made if the connection is established. The report charge amounts to about one-fifth of the particular person rate.
4. Charges can be reversed only on particular person calls.

NEW M. E. PASTOR ARRIVES WITH FAMILY

Greets Congregation Sunday Morning and Evening

Rev. R. H. E. Quant and family arrived last week from Mason, Michigan and are now partially settled in their new home in this city. Rev. Quant occupied the pulpit at the M. E. church Sunday morning and evening, also at the Barnard M. E. church Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Quant comes highly recommended as a church worker and will without doubt continue his good work while pastor here.

Quoting from the Ingham County News, published at Mason, where Rev. Quant formerly presided:

"It can be said of Rev. Quant that he has given the Methodist church of Mason his best efforts. He has discharged his duties conscientiously and has never swerved from his high conception of his calling. 'You always know where to find him,' was the expression often heard from members of his congregation. Mrs. Quant and children will be missed in the activities of the church."

PROMOTE FRIENDLY RIVALRY

Milk and Cream Contest Are Important Feature in Improvement of Supplies.

Friendly rivalry among milk producers and among dealers is an important feature in the improvement of the milk supplies of cities. United States Department of Agriculture experts assert. Any factor which encourages this rivalry must be given careful consideration by sanitarians and all milk authorities. Since the inauguration of milk and cream contests, in 1906, this method of promoting friendly rivalry has been recognized. At this time, besides State and National contests, a number of cities use such means for grading milk supplies.

Milk and cream contests promote competition among the dairymen, lead to the grading of milk supplies, and through publicity encourage the efforts of producers as well as educate the consumers regarding the value of good milk and where the best can be obtained.

GIFT-GRAIN PLEA LAUNCHED FROM HISTORIC FARMEMERGENCY BOARD ORGANIZES AT HOME OF WHITNEY WAT-KINS IN JACKSON COUNTY;
ISSUES NEAR EAST APPEAL.100,000 BUSHELS REQUIRED TO RESCUE DYING CHILDREN

For the first time in the annals of an American relief organization a farm—one of the oldest and finest in Michigan—served as the meeting place recently of a State-wide group assembled to appeal to their fellow farmers as a class to contribute of their grain against want in a foreign land.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Whitney Watkins, of Watkins Farms, in Jackson County, were luncheon hosts to the Emergency Grain Board of the Michigan Committee of Near East Relief, and immediately after luncheon the board formally organized itself and named an executive committee to launch and manage a campaign among the farmers of the State for 100,000 bushels of grain, or its equivalent, to be sent as Michigan's share of America's gift of 5,000,000 bushels, now being collected, to Armenia, Syria, Assyria and adjacent lands of Asia Minor. Resultant of starvation and exposure there, cholera and typhus have broken out, and thousands of orphaned children and destitute adults are dying in the streets and by the roadsides.

Governor Phelan Board. Kept by official business from attending the meeting as honorary chairman of the Near East Committee, Governor Groesbeck telephoned his regret from Lansing to Watkins Farms, and sent to James J. Spillane, State Director, a letter backing the campaign.

Former Lieutenant Governor Larsen D. Dickinson, chairman of the State organization, presided as temporary chairman, and these officers were elected for the board: Chairman, Herman H. Halladay of Lansing, Commissioner of Agriculture, vice chairman, Professor David F. Hilday, president-elect of Michigan Agricultural College; secretary, L. Whitney Watkins of Manchester; executive committee—Mr. Halladay, Professor Friday and Mr. Watkins. Other members of the Emergency Grain Board are: James Nicol of South Haven, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau; Grant Sincum of Detroit, president of The Glenners; A. B. Cook of Owosso, master of the State Grange; I. R. Waterbury of Detroit, manager of the Michigan Farmer; Forrest Lord of Mt. Clemens, editor of the Michigan Business Farmer; Frank B. Drees of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Bean Jobbers Association; former State Senator Charles B. Scully of Almont; A. Edward Henden of Adrian, farmer, and Alfred Allen, president of the Michigan Association of Farmers Clubs.

Under Historic Roof.

In welcoming his guests Mr. Watkins spoke feelingly of the pride he as a farmer took in having the first meeting of such an organization as the Emergency Grain Board on the farm which his grandfather, coming here from New Hampshire in 1832, had selected, and under the roof which for 64 continuous years had sheltered his parents—the home to which the fourth generation, three sons, will return as farmers when they have finished their college terms. "I have the utmost faith," Mr. Watkins concluded, "in the response the farmers of Michigan will make to this humane appeal for food for a starving Christian people across the seas who are titlers of the soil too, for I know the homely, kindly, sympathetic spirit to help which is to be found everywhere in the farmhouses of this State."

Mr. Dickinson spoke briefly of his complete confidence that the farmers as a class will ensure the success of the campaign for grain.

Divine blessing on the appeal was invoked by the Rev. E. H. Huester of Cleveland, a Near East field worker recently returned from Asia Minor.

Halladay: "Up to Us."

Chairman Halladay expressed vigorously the sentiment: "This undertaking of mercy, here dedicated in this historic farmhouse where sympathy for suffering has abode through the generations, we must push forward, and show that Michigan farmers are prepared to do their full share in the national undertaking."

Director Spillane outlined briefly the immediate need for 5,000,000 bushels of grain from America—100,000 bushels from Michigan.

Former Senator Scully likened America in this undertaking to the "white ship of mercy"—the hospital ship—which follows the fighting fleet. He reminded the farmers of the State that the charge often heard against them in the cities that they in their organizations "never have put anything big across because they never hang together," and he said this was an unequalled opportunity for them to disprove that charge by "joining hands across the farms" and co-operating with the Farm Bureau, the State Grange, The Glenners, the farm clubs and other agricultural organizations for the immediate success of the grain campaign.

Farm Bureau Stands By.

Mr. Nicol, speaking as president of the Farm Bureau, read an adopted resolution of the bureau's executive committee pledging its moral support and the use of its organization channels for collection of the grain or its equivalent in money.

In a discussion developed by Professor Friday the board agreed that one dollar per $10,000 of farm value was a fair proportional figure upon which to base the various county quotas throughout the State; and on this basis the board, operating through the farm organizations, will go to the farmers for Michigan's share in the grain gift.

Mr. Waterbury and Mr. Lord gave assurance that the farm journals of the State will heartily endorse and support the grain appeal, and both were of opinion that the full amount forthcoming.

Letter to Farmers.

At a meeting of the executive committee held immediately after adjournment of the board the following letter was made public:

"To the Farmers of Michigan:
"From the Emergency Grain Board, in meeting assembled on Watkins Farms, Manchester:

"With children dying in their mothers' arms of starvation; with cholera and typhus spreading; with the population perishing in such numbers that in the larger cities wagons twice daily remove the corpses from the streets; with knowledge that food must be procured, transported and carried into the interior before these dread conditions can be overcome, the Executive Officers of Near East Relief recognize the absolute need for an immediate campaign for grain for the lands of the Near East.

"These men, who at their own expense had gone into this region of misery and death to verify the reports of their field workers and to procure facts upon which to base the next year's relief program, realized that not half the story had been told. Unhesitatingly they issued the order for a National-wide grain appeal.

"The wall of the starving people of Armenia and its neighboring lands has been heard throughout America. An organization—in Michigan the Emergency Grain Board—has been created to bring the appeal for these people, of whom eighty-five per cent are farmers, to the farmers of our own State.

In Death's Shadow.

"This year, today, you yourselves suffer the effects of short crops. But over there! The only harvest these unhappy people have had in more than five years has been the daily harvest of the dead; picked up in the streets; by the chill waylades of the wild Georgian Mountains; in the desolate farm valleys of Armenia; on the scorched floor of a desert whose only shadow of refuge for them has been the shadow of the wing of Death.

"We have been chosen to present to you their plight, and hoping of you, we do not hesitate, that they may live.

"The need which America is called upon to meet is for 5,000,000 bushels of corn and wheat. Michigan's allotted share is 100,000 bushels.

The records in the Michigan office of Near East Relief disclose many individual contributions by farmers. But this is the first time in Michigan the call has been sent forth to farmers as a producing class.

"We recognize that you may not be in a position where you can contribute either corn or wheat. You may prefer to make a contribution of money; or you may desire to contribute barley or rye or beans. The choice of your gift rests with you. Our thought is simply this:

"Every farmer in the State should contribute to the success of this appeal in behalf of these starving people—our allies in the World War, the eldest race of Christians.

One Dollar in $10,000.

"The distribution of Michigan's county quotas is fair. It represents a contribution equal to one dollar in every $10,000 of farm value.

"This appeal, to be of any benefit in the present crisis, must be met before November 1, 1921, in order that the grain may be milled, transported across the seas, and delivered into the interior before the snows of early winter block the roads in Armenia and the Near East. This is an opportunity for life-saving service which may present itself but once.

"BUT ONCE—I shall pass through this world but once. Any good therefore that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it—I shall not pass this way again."

"Faithfully and confidently yours,

Absolutely Not Guilty.

"Little Billy had been sent to his aunt's on an errand and told to return immediately. Billy remained one hour. On his return his mother said: 'Billy, what is your object in staying at aunt's when I told you to come right back?' Billy replied: 'Oh-jee, what do you mean object, why, I never even took it with me. I left it home in my tool box.'

Bird Film Artist.

New York has a bird which has started on a successful film screen career. He is a cockatoo called Coco. His beautiful white feathers attracted the attention of the director of a large film company, and now he has a job appearing in all scenery where birds are needed. He gets a good salary.

The Writer and the Reader.

Care should be taken, not that the reader may understand if he will, but that he must understand, whether he will or not.—Quintillian.

Avon in the Dark.

Owing to the inadequate rates prescribed by the authorities, the electric company of Stratford-on-Avon has been allowed to run down so far as the equipment is concerned and it is feared that the plant will go to pieces at any moment and leave the town of Stratford in darkness. As the town is a literary mecca, with tourists in great numbers there all the time, such an incident might prove to be very inconvenient.

Ireland's Many Names.

Seeds may be surprised, but in the days of Ptolemy Ireland was known as Scythia. In fact Ireland has had a number of names. Diogenes Stenhus calls the Irish the Scythians; in the De Mundo, credited by some scholars to Aristotle, it is called Ierne; in the Argonautica of Orpheus it appears as Irimus; Strabo called it Ierne; Caesar, Tacitus and Pliny mentioned it as Hibernia; Mela called it Iuverna. The native names in Celtic are Ir, Eri, Erin. Ptolemy mentions it under the name of Ogygia.

How to Tell.

It is quite easy to tell how long a man has been married by the way he speaks to his wife. If he says "My darling wife," that means three months; "wifey," six months; "the wife," one year; "Mrs. Blank," two or three years; "the missus," five or six years; "mother," seven years; "my better half," ten years; "the old lady," twenty years; "grindum," twenty-nine years; "Mrs. Blank," forty-two years; "dame," fifty years.—Portland Oregonian.

About Pictures.

Nearly all houses have too many pictures. And yet, paradoxical as it may seem, the introduction of a new picture now and then is an excellent plan. What is needed is a drastic pruning in most homes, in which pictures that have no real merit are sent to the limbo of the attic, while new and worth while studies in color or black and white are hung on the walls to give a new interest and a new beauty.

Style in Writing.

In style, as in other things, it is well always to aim at the combination of as many excellences as possible—positive excellences, if they be—those other beauties of prose. A busy age will hardly educate its writers in correctness. Let its writers take time to write English more as a learned language; and completing that correction of style which had only gone a certain way in the last century, raise the general level of language towards their own.—Pater.

Modern Problems No. 5.

How does a fat man dispose in an upper berth?

A Famous Model Improved

The "Four-Ninety" Chevrolet line has been refined and improved to supply such finishing touches as were necessary to make it a thoroughly balanced, reliable, economical and comfortable motor car.

This means that Chevrolet "Four-Ninety", always a good car, is a better automobile than ever before.

It is better in design, better in construction, better in detail of finish, better in every way.

It is a car that stands out head and shoulders above every other car in its class.

It is the lowest-priced, completely equipped, standard built motor car in the world.

With a powerful valve-in-head motor, standard selective type transmission, strong rear axle construction, Timken bearings in front wheels—Chevrolet Model "Four-Ninety" shares the features of some of the highest priced cars.

Judged by any standard, the Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" is a great automobile value.

And here are the improvements which make Model "Four-Ninety" a better Chevrolet:

FRONT AXLE

1—New steering knuckle arms have been installed on the front axle, having a heavier section and made with a tapered shank for attaching to steering knuckle.

2—New steering knuckle with tapered holes, to match the shank of the new steering knuckle arm, have been installed.

3—King bolts in the front axle have been increased from 1-2 inch to 9-16 inch in diameter.

4—New hard rolled bronze bushings are being used to accommodate the new king bolts. These bronze bushings reduce wear and eliminate the necessity for replacement on account of insuface.

5—Timken bearings with smooth bore cones are being used on both inner and outer bearings.

6—Grease cup is now assembled on the steering knuckle, which new construction not only makes it more accessible but assures both upper and lower ends of the king bolt ample lubrication.

REAR AXLE

1—A new rear axle, in which a spiral bevel ring gear and pinion is used, is now a part of the construction. This axle is much stronger and quieter than the old type of straight tooth construction.

2—A new pinion thrust bearing installation with annular bearings has been installed.

TRANSMISSION ALIGNMENT

1—Engine and transmission are now assembled in a unit with their connecting members and are drilled and assembled in a unit jig which gives positive alignment within 5-1000 of an inch. This alignment is retained in the hardest kind of service.

BRAKE ARRANGEMENT

1—New emergency hand-brake lever has been installed with the addition of the hand-brake lever bracket, together with re-design of the pull rods and re-arrangement of the brake pedal parts.

This improved construction means longer life and greater economy of upkeep. Every unit in the Model "Four-Ninety" is designed for perfect co-ordination with the powerful valve-in-head motor. Every part is designed for quietness and wear-resistance.

AT THE MOVIES

Tom Moore has the role of an Irish immigrant who becomes a member of the New York fire department and marries a young society girl, whom he rescues at a fire, in his latest Goldwyn comedy, "Made in Heaven," which comes to the Palace theatre for two days, beginning Saturday. It suits him down to the ground and he is a gale of merriment from his first appearance on an incoming ship until the fade-out in his own little home.

Eddie Polo, Universal serial star, who has dramatized his own life in "King of the Circus," a chaptered drama he now is producing, has the distinction of having played, before three of the crowned heads of Europe. Just three months before the war began, Polo was playing a vaudeville engagement at the Winter Garden in Berlin, and was commanded to appear before the Kaiser and give his trapeze performance.

Polo was known as the "classiest" of athletes, graceful in every movement and lacking the bulging muscles of the European gymnasts. The former ruler of Germany admired athletic perfection, and presented Eddie with a gold cigarette case at the end of his exhibition.

"King of the Circus" at the Palace Theatre. Starting Saturday and Sunday. Second Chapter Wednesday October 19th, and the following chapters will be shown on Wednesday.

To Members and Farmers: If you wish to sell your potatoes and beans, rather than pool them, get in touch with us at once. We pay the highest market prices.—Charlevoix Co-ops. 4111

Protect yourself against the cold by wearing our cold weather garments. Everything for winter wear. Benj. Brown.—Adv. 4111.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The services of worship on each Sunday morning will begin with a period of silent prayer. As the minister enters the pulpit he will kneel by the lecture for a few moments of silent prayer at which time those who are in the church will bow their heads and unite their prayers with his for the blessing of God upon the service. Let the character of the service be our of reverent devotion.

"The Bible, the Christian's Text-book" will be the sermon subject treated.

The minister is very anxious that every member possible be present.

Church school at 12m. Every department of this work is progressing nicely. A special effort is being made to have the children enter the service in the spirit of devout worship.

NEW PALACE THEATRE

Especially Good Attractions For This Week

MONDAY'S AND FRIDAY'S SHOWS HAVE BEEN DISCONTINUED.

THURSDAY, OCT. 13—Realtor presents Bebe Daniels in "Oh Lady, Lady." Supported by Walter Hiers and Harrison Ford. Clever farce evolved from musical comedy. "Oh Lady, Lady" loses nothing and gains many amusing scenes in Bebe Daniels' picture. Also a Rowland comedy.

SATURDAY and SUNDAY, OCTOBER 15 and 16—Goldwyn presents Tom Moore in his latest picture, "Made in Heaven." A comedy drama and one of the breeziest and most human that Tom Moore has ever appeared in. Built for laughing and one of Moore's jolliest pictures.

Also the starting of the Eddie Polo serial, "King of the Circus." Bigger and better than Barnum. Ten times bigger than the greatest show on earth. A marvelous chapter play of eighteen episodes of circus life, mystery and romance packed with tremendous thrills and with the acrobatic Hercules of the films, Eddie Polo, defying death in a series of daring feats of strength, skill and endurance which have never been approached in serial making. If you want to see the absolute limit in reckless chance taking, don't fail to see "King of the Circus. Second chapter Wednesday, Oct. 19, and one each Wednesday thereafter.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18—Realtor presents Justin Johnstone in "The Plaything of Broadway." A tense drama of city life, upper world, lower world, riches, poverty, selfishness, service, stunning contrast with a smashing climax. Also a Hearst News Reel.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19—Metro presents Viola Dana in "Home Stuff." Viola Dana pictures are always good. Also the second chapter of the "King of the Circus." "The Mushroom Ballet." Don't miss this one.

The Test of Character

The president of a big corporation gave this reason why his company employed salesmen on a commission basis only.

"It's the best test of character we can apply. If a man hasn't saved enough money to carry himself for a month or so he's rarely the kind who can measure up to the opportunity we offer."

Why not take a fixed amount out of your salary EVERY PAY DAY and put it to work in an interest bearing account at this bank? It will then enable you to grasp opportunity when it comes.

PAY YOURSELF FIRST—It's the sensible thing to do.

terton warehouse site, said lease bearing date June 19th, 1917. Motion carried.

Moved by Ald. Bergeon, seconded by Ald. Wood, the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, that it be, and hereby is declared of vital importance to this city, the state at large, and the traveling public that this road be constructed of material suitable to the conditions in this section of the state and capable of sustaining the increasing travel with the least possible ultimate expense. That the travel on this trunk line has been steadily increasing within the past few years and the line is bound to become the main line of travel from north to south carrying the larger part of the increasing tourist travel of the Michigan resort region.

Resolved further, that it be resolved to the State Highway Commissioner that the experience in gravel and macadam road construction in this section has not been satisfactory on main lines, and the upkeep has been very expensive. The result has been large expense and inferior roads. That our experience with concrete of which we have over a mile under heavy traffic, has been very satisfactory, with no expense of maintenance whatever.

Resolved further, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the State Highway department with a request that the plan of building this road of gravel be given further consideration with the view of changing to concrete.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the Common Council, held in the council rooms in said city, Monday, October 10th, 1921, by aye and nay vote as follows: Ayes, Alds. Bergeon, Genett, Hamilton, Levinson and Wood. Nays, none.

Oscar E. Wilbur, Mayor.

Archie L. Livingston, Clerk.

Moved by Ald. Hamilton, seconded by Ald. Levinson, the Council adjourn until Tuesday night, Oct. 11, at 7:30 o'clock. Motion carried.

Archie L. Livingston, City Clerk.

Heat Your Home Economically

This can be done if you buy the right kind of heating range or stove, or the right kind of a furnace. Buying cheap heating plants is poor economy. The extra amount of fuel they burn more than off-sets the difference in price. We have.

READY TO RECEIVE CONTRIBUTIONS

Co-Operative Association to Handle Near East Relief

One of the most appalling horrors of history, the death by starvation of tens of thousands of children and even larger numbers of adults, will be enacted in the Near East this winter unless food is sent them by America before snow flies. In the vicinity of Alexandropol alone, Near East Relief with the aid of more than fifty American experienced rescue workers is caring for 20,000 orphaned children, constituting probably the largest assemblage of parentless infants and youth the world has ever known. The whole number of orphans in Near East Relief territory exceeds 100,000.

These are reasons why Near East Relief is calling upon the people of Charlevoix county for $478 worth of corn and wheat to be delivered into the famine regions before the tragedy of early snow descends to choke roads and block transport into the interior.

The county committee has made arrangements with the Charlevoix Co-Operative Association to receive your contributions of wheat, corn, rye, potatoes, buckwheat, apples and beans, and convert them into cash, which is necessary on account of the high freight rate of small lots. They are asking that each farmer contribute one bushel of the crop he is now marketing. All that is necessary to do is to tell the manager of the warehouse to take out a bushel for the starving children. A receipt for the same will then be issued and the same credited to the Near East Relief fund.

BUT ONCE—"I shall pass through this world but once. Any good therefore that I can do or any kindness that I can show to any human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it. For I shall not pass this way again."

Wool garments are health insurance. Dress in our all wool garments. Everything for winter wear. Benj. Brown.—Adv. 41tf.

The J. B. HOWARD COMBUSTION DEVICE

Has Made the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence Famous, and will Heat Your Home at a Cost of $10.50 to $14.00 for the Entire Winter Season

The same result that you get with a Florence, heating 4 or 5 rooms with $14.00 worth of fuel would cost you, if you used artificial gas, $250

The Greatest Stove Ever Made for Burning Soft Coal, Slack or Any Kind of Fuel

THE HOT BLAST AIR TIGHT FLORENCE WILL PAY FOR ITSELF IN A FEW SEASONS IN THE SAVING OF COAL

Come—Let us show you the wonderful HOT BLAST AIR TIGHT FLORENCE and explain—

WHY it burns all the smoke, soot, and gas in the cheapest soft coal or slack.

WHY it burns the cheapest soft coal or slack with the same regularity and cleanliness as the burning of artificial or natural gas.

WHY it burns the cheapest soft coal or slack without any soot accumulating in the inside of the stove, in the pipe, or in the flue.

WHY the FLORENCE is the only absolute practical smoke consuming stove that has ever been created.

WHY no other stove on earth is equal to the FLORENCE.

For the past twenty-one years I have offered $5,000.00 (and make the same offer now until January 1st, 1922) to any stove manufacturer or dealer who would produce a stove or heating device of any kind that depends upon a flue for draft, that will consume all the ingredients of soft coal or any combustible matter, from the moment the fire is started, outside the construction of the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence, but it has never been taken up which proves that the equal of the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence, is not made by any stove manufacturer in this country, or my offer would have been taken long before this, if for no other purpose than letting the world know that such a stove is being made by other stove manufacturers. (Signed) J. B. HOWARD. Inventor of the Hot Blast Air Tight Florence.

No Smoke! No Soot! No Clinkers! No Dirt!

Everything consumed—Ashes as fine as powder—The most Economical and Greatest Heating Stove on Earth

The High Cost of Coal Makes the Florence Necessary

It is not the original cost of a stove, but what it costs to operate it that counts. The FLORENCE is an investment—it pays for itself in a very short time.

THE ONLY JOINTLESS, LEG BOTTOM AND BASE

With full radiation that is on the market, or that has ever been made. The result is—As a fire-keeper it is just as good twenty-five years from now.

REMEMBER

The Florence Heats the Floor

Five or six feet from the stove, which no stove outside of the Florence construction will do, and is the most durable stove that was ever made. THE FIRST FLORENCE THAT WAS SOLD, OVER TWENTY YEARS AGO, IS WORKING WHEREVER IT IS. The reason for this is the Florence burns out the fuel. In all other stoves the fuel burns out the stove.

Operate the Florence According to Instructions

and the No. 151 or 73 will heat two or three rooms all winter with three tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 153 or 75 will heat four or five rooms all winter with four tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 155 or 77 will heat five or six rooms all winter with four and a half tons of slack or lump coal.

The No. 155 Extension Top is used for heating large spaces such as churches, school houses and stores and will only take the same amount of fuel as the No. 155.

The FLORENCE will burn a ton less of hard coal than any hard coal base burner that was ever made with the same size firepot and heats three times the space.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence

will burn anything combustible—hard or soft coal, coal siftings, coal dust, slack coal, coke, wood, sawdust, and rubbish. The fire never goes out, day or night, and a steady, even temperature can be maintained.

G. E. LOOMIS HEADS SCHOOL ATHLETIC BODY

Elected President of Northwestern Athletic Association

G. E. Loomis, former high school principal, now occupying a position of this kind in the Big Rapids school, has been elected president of the Northwestern Athletic Association which includes all towns and cities which meet each other in any athletics. The association extends from Cheboygan on the north to Big Rapids on the south and from Evart to Manistee and Ludington on the west. The object of the association is to aid in the arranging of schedules for baseball, basketball and football.

The association also advises where some school teams are to play and will also give any of the teams information as to teams of their own weight and class. The next meeting of the heads of this association will be held in January at Reed City. Mr. Loomis has had a great deal of experience in athletics. He was a graduate of the Hastings high school and of Olivet college in 1916. He was principal of the Charlevoix high schools for three years and was in the navy one year. He has been in Big Rapids for two years. While attending Olivet college Mr. Loomis played on all of the teams there, also being an all-star pitcher in the M. I. A. A. He was also a pitcher in the North Michigan league for two years. This last season was his best, pitching a no-hit, no-run game against Petoskey. During the last two seasons he has lost but four games.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY

Friends Pay Last Respects to Mrs. D. K. Pierce

Funeral services of Mrs. D. K. Pierce, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Holmes, 314 Clinton street, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., conducted by Rev. James Smith of the Congregational church. Interment was in Brookside cemetery. Della Griffin was born August 22, 1845, in Montreal, Canada. She moved with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Griffin, to Omer, New York, when but a small child. At the age of four years she came to northern Michigan and moved to Charlevoix in 1863, at the age of 13 years, and has since lived here. She was united in marriage to Rev. D. H. Pierce in March, 1864. To this union four children were born, one dying in infancy. The remaining three are Harris Pierce of Norwood and Mrs. L. S. See and Mrs. Albert Holmes of this city.

Mrs. Pierce experienced all the hardship of the pioneer; saw the growth of Charlevoix from one log house to the present thriving city. She leaves a large circle of friends who will mourn their loss.

GEO. W. COOK SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

Deceased Operated First Bus and Dray Line in City—G. A. R.
Veteran

Pioneers in Charlevoix and vicinity and G. A. R. members are mourning the loss of one of the city's earliest settlers and a survivor of the Civil War, in the death of George William Cook.

George William Cook was born December 6, 1838 in New Haven, New York and died at his home on Nichols street Saturday, October 15, 1921, at the advanced age of nearly 83 years. His illness covered a period of eight years.

Mr. Cook served 44 months in the Civil War and at the time of his discharge was sergeant of Company K of the 24th Regiment of the New Volunteer Cavalry.

In 1875 he moved to Michigan coming directly to Charlevoix, where he owned and operated the first bus and dray line, also making trips between this city and Petoskey. In 1877 he joined the local order of I. O. O. F., retaining membership until his death. He was a charter member of the Rebekah lodge and an active worker in the G. A. R. Later he was married to Lois V. Ferguson of Charlevoix to which union three children were born: Mrs. Fred Bergman and George W. Cook, Jr., both of this city and Mrs. David Howard of Muskegon, who beside his wife and several grandchildren survive him.

The funeral was held under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah orders from the Cook home Monday afternoon at 2:30, Reverend James A. Smith officiating. Burial in Brookside.

MICHIGAN POTATOES FIND READY MARKET

Thousands of Bushels Shipped to Neighboring States

Michigan certified seed potatoes are finding a ready out-of-the-state market, several thousand bushels of this stock having already been shipped to Pennsylvania and other neighboring states, according to announcement of H. C. Moore, extension specialist at the Michigan Agricultural College.

There will be approximately 90,000 bushels of Michigan certified seed potatoes for sale this year. The varieties certified are Late Potatoes (Russet Rural), Green Mountain, Sir Walter Raleigh, and Irish Cobbler, with nearly 90 per cent of all the stock being of the Late Potatoes variety. The variety originated in Michigan and has proved so popular that in the lower peninsula it is practically the only late variety grown. Late Potatoes has proved equally satisfactory in several of the eastern and central states.

Inspection and certification, which is carried on by the Michigan Agricultural College in cooperation with the Potato Producers' Association results in a guaranteed stock of dependable seed potatoes and is raising the production standard of the state materially. This year's out-of-the-state demand indicates recognition of the value of the seed stock generally.

Information regarding certified potato seed and its distribution may be had by writing to H. C. Moore, Secretary of the Potato Producers' Association, M. A. C., East Lansing.

INSTITUTE DRAWS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Held in High School Building Tuesday and Wednesday

The Charlevoix County Teachers' Institute which was held in the Charlevoix high school building Tuesday and Wednesday of this week was attended by about one hundred and thirty teachers, representing Boyne City, East Jordan, Boyne Falls and Bay Shore as well as this city all of whom enjoyed the excellent program.

The association was fortunate in securing the services of Professor H. Z. Wilber, of the Michigan State Normal college of Ypsilanti, instructor in education and head of the department of extension and Prof. Geo. B. Randels, instructor in philosophy and education at Alma college as the principal speakers. The annual banquet was held Tuesday evening at Hallett's Inn, music being furnished by the East Jordan high school orchestra. The visiting faculty members were entertained by the local high school students in their homes.

CANCER KILLS 3,109 PEOPLE

STATISTICS COMPILED FOR DR.
ARMSTRONG

"Cancer Deserves the Most Serious Consideration of Medics," Says
Dr. R. M. Olin

Cancer, which killed 3,109 people in Michigan in 1920, was the cause of 161 deaths in the eleventh congressional district, according to statistics compiled by the state department of health for Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong of Charlevoix, district chairman of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, for use during "National Cancer Week" from October 30 to November 5.

This number of deaths corresponds to a cancer death rate for the district of 74.4 per 100,000 population. The average cancer death rate for the state in 1920 was 83.8; for the first 8 months of 1921 the average was 85.6.

Contrasted to this is the state tuberculosis death rate for 1921 of 79.9. "Tuberculosis, it is pointed, attacks its victims from infancy to old age; cancer, however, finds 92.3 per cent of its victims among persons more than 40 years of age, only 7.7 per cent of all cancer deaths occurring among younger persons.

Of the 161 deaths reported in the eleventh congressional district, cancer of the stomach and liver caused 75 deaths, cancer of the intestines 22, of the female genital organs 18, of the breast 10, of the mouth 9, of the skin 7, and of other organs 20.

"Any disease which kills as many people as cancer, confining its ravages generally to a small age group, deserves the most serious consideration of the medical profession and the public," comments Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health.

"Thirty years ago," says Dr. Olin, signs of appendicitis were little recognized and the mortality from the affliction was great. This generation has seen appendicitis controlled by early examination, diagnosis and treatment. It is too much to hope that similar control of many forms of cancer will be effected as soon as the public realizes the imperative need of early diagnosis and treatment."

Stroebel Elected County Cavanaugh and A. A. Metcalf of Boyne City School Examiner

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors convened Monday, October 10th, and have continued to hold sessions daily to date of going to press for the purpose of taking care of the business of the county.

A petition was brought before the board for an appropriation to finish the state rewnal road from Horton Bay north toward Petoskey as far as the county line. This petition was referred to the county road commission.

The report of the committee on insurance was as follows:
Court house building $10,000.
Court house contents $5,000.
Mason street residence $1,500.
Ironton ferry residence $1,500.
Ironton ferry $1,000.
New jail building $7,000.
County school commissioner office equipment $1,100.
County agricultural agent $300.
County agricultural agent's car $450.

County treasurer burglar policy $1,000.
It was approved by the board that these policies be renewed upon expiration and also moved to keep the poor farm properly insured.

The board also decided that the county school commissioner should take up his residence in this city and have rented the J. A. Auld residence on Antrim street for one year.
Jacob E. Chew was declared elected superintendent of the poor for three years, Carl Stroebel elected county canvasser to fill a vacancy and A. A. Metcalf of Boyne City was made school examiner.

Fair at East Jordan was a success in every way; total receipts $7,849.75, total disbursements $2,831.72. The board is still in session.

Auditor General O. B. Fuller now is busy mailing out checks to county treasurers, remitting half of the license fees collected from each county, which go toward county road maintenance.

Following is the amounts collected from Charlevoix county and the share remitted to it.
Amount collected $1,413.54
County's share $706.77.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

School was closed Tuesday and Wednesday of this week on account of the County Teachers' Institute, which was held in this city.

The "Better Speech Movement" is gaining in favor and power all over our country. There was great need for it and every patriotic citizen should put himself in line with it. Our American speech is becoming corrupt and we are helping to corrupt it. Each generation becomes a little more careless than the preceding one in its use and appreciation of its mother tongue. In the hope that we may preserve that language which should be the pride and cherished possession of every American citizen, the leading educators of our country have instituted "Better Speech Week", which will be observed this year the week of November 6th. All wide-awake schools in our land will take part in this observance and Charlevoix will do its bit. A feature of the week will be a play given by the pupils of the Freshman and sub-Freshman classes, "The Downfall of Poor Speech." The play will be given on the evening of November 10th. Save the date.

MICHIGAN FARMERS BID FOR PRIZES

TO ENTER THE INTERNATIONAL SHOW

Won High Honors Last Year—Excellent Opportunity for Grain
Exhibits This Year

A strong bid for prizes offered in the competitive grain exhibits at the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago late in November will be made by Michigan farmers, according to Prof. J. P. Cox, head of the farm crops department at the Michigan Agricultural College. State grainers won high honors at last year's show, and another showing is expected this fall.

Opportunity is open for Michigan to do exceptionally well in the competitive grain exhibits this year, says Professor Cox. "The unusual corn year, particularly favorable in Michigan result in a fine showing. Michigan growers must also be 'up on their toes' to hold their reputation with rye and wheat. While oats and barley were hard hit by adverse seasonal conditions in the state, nearly all other states also suffered. Clover seed is good in Michigan, and with proper entries Michigan should rank high as a clover seed state. Another strong showing at the International will reflect credit to the whole state, and result in additional out-of-the-state business."

Entries from Michigan farmers are being received by A. L. Bibbins, Secretary of the Crop Improvement Association, at East Lansing, and will be shipped to the International in one shipment. Entries should be in before November 15.

An educational exhibit, featuring pure bred grains and pure bred stock, showing advantages of good breeding and accomplishments achieved in Michigan, is being prepared by the college for the International, which is to be held from November 26 to December 3.

VETERANS HELD MEETING MONDAY

Start Digging Into Winter's Activities—Plans Laid

At a well attended meeting of the American Legion held in the club rooms Monday evening plans were discussed and the way opened for certain winter activities.

Rev. James A. Smith, chaplain of the local post, was selected to fill the office of adjutant left vacant by Bert Carey.

It was decided to hold a special meeting next Monday evening at 7:30 at which time a report will be heard that will be of special interest to every member of Leslie Shapton Post. Come out you ex-soldier's and sailors. Let's go!

BOYNE CITY STORE ROBBED

Frightened Away Before Job Was Completed

On Tuesday night, or more accurately stating, about two o'clock Wednesday morning, the grocery store of O. R. Perkins on South Lake street Boyne City was broken into and a quantity of small change taken from the cash register.

The robber gained entrance thru a rear window having broken the glass and released the catch. He was evidently frightened before he completed his job as all the change was not removed from the register and nickels and dimes marked his exit from the cash drawer back to the window.

Delegates Leave for Convention

L. A. Ranney and Joe Moore, delegates chosen by the local order of I. O. O. F., and Mrs. May Bugbee and Milly Hlgman, Rebekah delegates left Monday morning by auto. for Lansing where they will attend the annual Odd Fellow-Rebekah convention to be held this week in that place. They were accompanied by Mrs. L. S. Ranney who will visit relatives in Hastings and Mrs. Grover Genet who will visit her sister, Mrs. Harry Mohrman of Lansing.

SMALL GAME SEASON OPEN

Hunters Flock to the Woods—Birds
Already Shy

Last Saturday, October 15, the hunting season on rabbits, squirrels, and partridges opened. All game is reported plentiful this year and Charlevoix nimrods are looking forward to a season of healthful recreation. There are some changes in the game laws. For instance, you are allowed only seven rabbits in one day and you may have 10 in your possession at one time. Twenty-five is the maximum number you may take in a season.

The law restricts you from the use of ferrets or rodents, but farmers, who find rabbits a nuisance, are permitted to employ this means of driving the cotton tails out if special permission is obtained from the state.

You may kill five fox squirrels in one day, and may have 10 in your possession at one time. The limit for the season is 15.

The state game warden has sent out warnings to his deputies to be on the lookout for violators.

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM BATTLED

HEAVY HARBOR SPRINGS OUT-FIT SATURDAY

Held Them to 20 to 14 Score—Return Game November 5th—Play
Mancelona Saturday

In a game in which Charlevoix was greatly outweighed but not out-fought nor out-gamed, Harbor Springs grabbed the long end of what should have been a tie score by a count of 20 to 14. The Charlevoix machine resorted to much open play which resulted in some spectacular forward passes while Harbor Springs made their gain mostly by straight football.

The game in detail follows:
Game called at 2:35.

Captain Jones lost the toss and Martindale of Harbor Springs chose to receive. Ackert kicked off to Harbor Springs who returned the ball to the fifty yard line.

During the first scrimmage Jones in tackling the Harbor Springs left half back, had his ear torn badly and gave way to Ackert while J. Burns took Ackert's place at end.

Harbor Springs then made some good gains through our line and their end runs were quite effective. Charlevoix then took the ball away from the opposition inside of our ten yard line. Ackert then punted down to the 55 yard line.

With their end runs and line plunges plus a recovered fumble Harbor Springs made their first touchdown and then kicked a goal.

During the second quarter Ackert came across with our first touchdown and also kicked goal. The first half ended with a score of 7 to 7.

The second half was featured by some very good receiving of forward passes by Ackert with some good gains. Marshall did some very spectacular open field running and Akers got away with good gains. During the third quarter the ball was advanced down to the Harbor Springs 15 yard line and then Ackert and Marshall connected again with a pass for our second touchdown. End of third quarter 14 to 7.

The fourth quarter found the heavier weight of Harbor Springs counting for them and they were making longer gains through our line and that coupled with a fake over right guard, gave them their second touchdown. Then after our boys had held them for downs on our ten yard line and with four minutes to play Ackert punted out from behind our goal to the forty yard line. From here Harbor Springs brought it back to the 5 yard line and again our boys held them for three downs. On the fourth down Harbor Springs carried the ball around our end for a touchdown. With 18 seconds to go Harbor Springs kicked off to Charlevoix and we had time for just one play.

The spirit in which the boys fought was most commendable as they were outweighed both in the line and in the backfield. Cooper and Hamilton were shining lights on defense while Marshall as a quarter back cannot be faulted. Ackert seems to possess an uncanny ability in freezing out our passes and intercepting the opponents.

A return game is scheduled with Harbor Springs November 5th. The local boys go to Mancelona Saturday.

CRANE RETIRES AS PRESIDENT

W. S. RICHARDSON NEW STATE BANK HEAD

Central Lake Man Purchases Swinton Interests—Will Make His Home Here

W. S. Richardson of Central Lake, has purchased the Swinton Interests in the Charlevoix State Savings Bank of this city and at a meeting of the Board of Directors, Saturday evening, was elected president of the bank to succeed J. L. Crane who retires.

Mr. Richardson is well and favorably known in banking circles in this part of the state having for 25 years conducted successfully banks in Kalamazoo, Central Lake, Ellsworth, Alden and Rapid City, under the firm name of McPhail & Richardson. He soon will move here with the intentions of making Charlevoix his permanent home.

The officers elected by the Board of Directors at their meeting are as follows: President, W. S. Richardson; Vice-President, A. D. Crimmins; Vice-President, H. S. Harsha, Cashier, Archie Livingston.

Charlevoix is indeed fortunate and the bank directors are to be commended in bringing to this city Mr. Richardson. He will be welcomed to this community and will undoubtedly add materially to this flourishing institution, of which he is now a part and which is enjoying a rapidly increasing patronage under the guidance of Cashier Archie Livingston.

REDUCED FARES FOR KAZOO MEET

Sixty-first Annual Convention October
26th and 27th

The sixty-first annual convention of the Michigan Sunday school association will be held at Kalamazoo, October 26th, 27th, and 28th to which every church and Sunday school in the state is entitled to representation. Kalamazoo is putting every effort to entertain these delegates and the association has secured a number of speakers of note to help. Among these are Daniel Webster Kurtz, D. D., Ph. D., president of McPherson college who will give the opening lecture the afternoon of the 26th. Mrs. Maude Junkin Baldwin, children's division superintendent of the International Sunday School Association. Rev. Samuel Zwemer, D. D., of Hope college. Professor A. M. Locker, field superintendent of the International Sunday School staff; Rev. Lawrence Adelbert Meade; Bishop Theodore Henderson of the Detroit area of the M. E. church, who is well known in Charlevoix, having spoken here on several occasions, and many others.

Reduced fares for the round trip are announced on all steam roads in Michigan upon presentation of the Identification certificate to be had for the asking of your county delegate or at the office of the Michigan Sunday school association, 127 East Allegan street, Lansing.

Every Sunday school needs four delegates to take advantage of the four parallel conferences; children's, young peoples', adult and administrative.

Delegates from local schools are as follows:

Joe Ekstrom of East Jordan was elected delegate from Charlevoix county with Mrs. E. E. Cross as alternate.

NEWBERRY CASE TO BE PUSHED

Progressives Making Effort to Get It to Senate Floor

The Newberry case cannot be dropped. This was the notice served Friday, October 14th, on the administration leaders in the senate by a number of progressive Republicans, who said they had information indicating that the party leaders wanted the celebrated election case closed.

The progressives, including Kenyon, Morris, Lafayette, intend to join with Democratic senators, if necessary, to force action in the open senate upon the report filed by the committee that investigated charges that Newberry spent too much money in getting elected in 1918.

DAIRY POINTS

GOOD OF BULL ASSOCIATIONS

Animals Are of Better Quality Than Ordinary Run of Sires Privately Owned.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A survey recently made in connection with the "better sires—better stock" campaign carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture shows a general ratio of 1 bull to every 18.9 cows. Experience, however, in Pennsylvania, the state which leads in the number of bull associations, shows that 93 bulls are sufficient for the 5,004 cows belonging to members of the bull associations, or an average of about 1 bull for every 60 cows. These figures are taken from the bull-association directory recently issued by the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture.

If the members of these associations owned their bulls individually, at the usual ratio of 1 bull for every 18.9 cows, they would need 266 bulls instead of 93. Yet the 93 bulls give the required service as effectively as 266 would do, and in fact better, because the resulting offspring are better. The association bulls are of better quality than the ordinary run of sires privately owned, and their daughters are apt to be better-producing cows.

Even this does not tell the whole story. After an individually owned sire has been used for about two years it is usually necessary to get a new one. In eight years, therefore, these Pennsylvania farmers, if they owned their bulls separately, would have to provide themselves with four times 266 bulls, or 1,184; whereas in the bull associations at the end of two years they simply move each bull to another herd. The original 93 bulls, if they all live and do well, can be used for the whole eight years. There is quite a difference between the cost of 93 bulls and that of 1,184, to say nothing of the difference in their usefulness.

The members of bull associations sometimes pay less and always receive more for their money than cow owners who go it alone.

Miniature Writing.

Margaret Maynes sent to La Nature (Paris) an ordinary postcard on which she had written a 2,500 words, with a post of 12,000 letters. It is legible and the postcard was returned to her. The average postcard is about 100 words on the face, so she has written about 25 times as much as the average.

BREDNUT

The New Nut Butter

is here, fresh from the churn, ready to surprise and delight you.

Ask your dealer today for introductory coupon entitling you to a pound at the special price of 24c and with the understanding that the 24c will be refunded if you don't like Brednut. We pay the dealer for the coupon

Get your coupon at once. Your dealer has only a limited number.

This offer good for one week only. One coupon to a family.

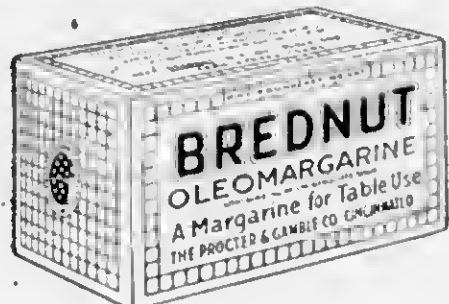

Brednut is simply astonishing in taste, richness and texture. Everybody in your family will think it is fresh creamery butter. Nothing but the choicest butter fresh from the churn can equal it. Nobody can tell it from the most expensive cow butter.

Nothing like Brednut ever made before. Its remarkable flavor is the result of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of nut butter. Its surpassing richness is due to selected cocoanut cream and special pasteurized milk. Its butter-like texture cannot be duplicated—only the Brednut process, Brednut equipment, and Brednut care can produce it.

Brednut contains the same body-building and strength-building elements as creamery butter. It is unsurpassed for young and old. Children thrive on bread and Brednut. It makes the ideal spread for bread.

Brednut is wholesome—easy to digest. Contains no animal fat. Is pure and clean. Nothing more appetizing can be put on your table.

Yet Brednut with all its fresh creamery butter qualities costs you no more than ordinary nut butter. It gives you all the satisfaction of using the most expensive creamery butter on your table and in your cooking but at a fraction of creamery butter cost.

Save the Brednut cartons. A pound of Brednut free for 5 empty cartons

Save the Brednut cartons until you have five, bring them to your dealer and he will give you a pound of Brednut free. This offer good until Nov. 26.

Get coupon from your dealer at once and have Brednut for your next meal. The coupon is good for one week only.

The Famous Brednut Test—Example No. 4, Brednut on Bread

Put a pat of Brednut and a pat of fresh creamery butter side by side. Butter half of a piece of bread with creamery butter and half with Brednut. Take a bite from one piece and then a bite from the other. We challenge you to tell which is Brednut. Brednut is the equal of and is equalled only by fresh creamery butter.

BREDNUT IS THE NEW NUT BUTTER
Special Introductory Offer to Readers of the Courier

Brednut is the result of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of nut butter. It is the final work of an expert who has been responsible for most of the other nut butters now on the market and it therefore is the finest product of the kind that has ever been perfected.

Brednut is not intended to be merely a substitute for butter. It is better than butter in a great many ways. It is absolutely uniform in quality; it is made in a faultlessly clean factory under Government supervision; it is made only of the choicest vegetable products, the cream of selected coconuts being its chief ingredient. In texture, flavor, richness and appearance on the table, not even experts can distinguish it from the choicest, freshest creamery butter. Only 15 per cent of all the creamery butter that is produced can equal Brednut in the qualities required for a perfect butter spread.

Brednut is sold on a strictly money-back guarantee. Any package that is not entirely satisfactory may be returned and the price will be refunded. The manufacturers run no risk in making this guarantee because Brednut is churned fresh daily and stays fresh long enough for even the smallest family to use a pound.

To induce every housekeeper in this city, whether she has been using creamery butter, country butter, nut butter or oleomargarine to try Brednut, all dealers handling this product are making a special offer of a pound of Brednut for 24 cents and introductory coupon, which the dealer will supply upon request.
This coupon offer is good only until October 29, 1921. We therefore suggest that you ask your dealer for one of these coupons and secure a pound of Brednut at the special in-terductory price.

So all housekeepers will give

Brednut a thorough trial, dealers also are authorized to present a pound of Brednut free of charge to every customer who turns in five empty Brednut cartons. This offer is good until November 26, 1921. It thus enables every housekeeper to secure at least one free pound of Brednut.
Homes where a great deal of butter is used will have the opportunity of securing two or more free pounds of Brednut within the time specified. A free pound will be given for every five empty cartons turned in to the dealer.

Uncle Jabez' Will

By FREDERICK CLARKE

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lucy and I looked at each other when the lawyer came to that clause in Uncle Jabez' will. We did not look straight out of the corners of our eyes. At least, I saw that Lucy was looking at me, and so I infer that she saw that I was looking at her. Then we each stared hard at the wall-paper.

"To my nephew, Arthur Bowen, the sum of $14,000 and my property on Madison avenue, consisting of the apartment house known as 'The Maple Vine,' on condition that he shall not marry the said Lucy Stokes within a period of 20 years, and the said property and capital to be held in trust for him during that period and the interest paid to him quarterly," the ferocious old fellow had written. "And to my niece, Lucy Stokes, the sum of $30,000, to be held in trust for her for 20 years following my death, and the interest to be paid to the said Lucy Stokes quarterly, contingent upon her not marrying the said Arthur Bowen.
And should the aforesaid legatees marry during that period the capital and property aforesaid shall revert to the person whose name is in the possession of my lawyer, Mr. Griffins Coleworth."

It did not run exactly in this way, but that was the sum and substance of it. And the point was that Lucy and I had never wanted to marry each other.

It must have been three months later, about the time when I received the first quarterly installment, that I read the account of Mr. Richardson's marriage to Miss Bunting. Oddly enough, I experienced a sudden lightening of my emotions, as though I had been relieved of some dreadful burden. And then I understood. Although I had not been aware of it I had actually been jealous of Mr. Richardson! Yet Lucy and I were utterly incompatible in temperament, as we had agreed a thousand times.

We ran across each other at Athletic, city that summer and stopped to chat.

"Dear old Uncle Jabez!" said Lucy enthusiastically. "Do you know, Arthur—
I don't mind confessing it to you now—at one time I positively had a sort of tender feeling toward you."
"When did this feeling possess you?"
I asked her.

"Oh, ages ago," she said evasively.
"Long, long before dear Uncle Jabez died. I wouldn't have told you only —well, I may be engaged shortly."

"Who is he?" I yelled.
"I don't know why it was, but I felt utterly crushed. And presently I began to realize what was the matter with me. I was in love—and with Lucy!"

I couldn't wait; I hurried after her.
I found her entering her hotel upon the arm of a smart, dark-haired fellow. I wrote her a letter asking for an appointment next afternoon at three o'clock.

At three o'clock I was at her hotel.
Her maid handed me a letter. I opened it.

"I am sorry, Arthur, but I have no engagement with Mr. Clements this afternoon," I read. "Perhaps some other time will do? I am leaving this evening for—"

I dashed the letter upon the floor and strode out of the room. I had reached the front door of the suite when I heard a voice calling me. I looked back. There stood Lucy at the door, dressed all in white and looking like a saint.

"Oh, Mr. Bowen, I didn't go out after all. I had a headache," she said.
"What was it you wanted to see me about, Arthur?"

I reached her in four strides.
"Lucy," I said, making no bones about it. "I have found out that I love you. Will you marry me and let Uncle Jabez go to—the devil?"

I was so keyed up that I didn't know what I was saying. She put her arms round my neck and laid her head down on my shoulder and cried.

"Oh, Arthur," she said two minutes later, "do you know I have loved you all this time?"

So we were engaged, and we took the train back to town next day to see Mr. Coleworth. Mr. Coleworth came out of his office at once and led us back into a cozy corner beside a real, old-fashioned fireplace.

"So you two young people have found out that you are in love with each other," he asked quizzically.

"Yes, and we are going to get married," I answered.

"Oh, please," said Mr. Coleworth.

"I'm afraid that the capital must go to the third party now."

"Who is the third party?" I demanded savagely.

Mr. Coleworth turned round. Mr.
Stokes, he said, "to be frank with you, it was with my conviction that he put that clause in his will. He wanted you to get married and thought that was the best way to bring it about."

"Well, he's had his wish," I answered angrily. "Who gets the money now?"

He pulled the will out of a drawer and read:
"If the said parties shall marry, then I bequeath the said property to the first-born issue of the said marriage to be shared among all the issue of the said parties, the principal to be held in trust for the said lega-tees by the parties aforesaid."

That was the time Lucy looked very hard at the wall-paper.

ROUSED INTEREST OF CHINESE

Appearance of White Traveler Led to Good-Natured Inquisition by Curious Farmers.

A foreign devil—the pleasant Chinese name for all persons of another race—is a rare sight in the interior villages of China; in some he is still known only by hearsay. The European or the American traveler who first enters a remote village excites much the same interest as "the wild man of Borneo" excites in a country town here. In Travel Mr. William A.
Anderson tells how the natives of a certain village in North China received him and incidentally how he was the means of dispelling a most injurious rumor about the Anglo-Saxon knee joint.

Seated upon an old millstone in a shaded corner of the yard, he says, I became the object of a good-natured inquisition by the curious farmers, who casually came to me in ones and in twos until they felt it safe to be bold. Then an old man, wrinkled like the neck of a turtle and with eyes twinkling with humor and curiosity, darted forth an inquisitive hand and pinched me with his bony fingers. Instinctively I lightened my muscle, and he emitted a long and appreciative
"Ah!" I was then politely requested to rise and sit down again. The request was made with such gentle earnestness that I complied.

"Ah!" said the old man again, nodding with satisfaction, "I thought it was a lie."

"What is the meaning of that?" I asked.

"I have always been told," he explained with a deprecating air, "that foreigners had no joints in their knees.
I am now that it must be a mistake, because you can bend yours."

My willingness to enlighten them made us all friends instantly, and they advanced upon me to examine my garments, remove my sun helmet to test its weight, try the feather of my shoes by scratching them, nibbling my coat to see if I wore an undershirt, ask the price of my clothes and enter into a violent altercation as to their advantage over native garments.—Youth's Companion.

The Test of Character

The president of a big corporation gave this reason why his company employed salesmen on a commission basis only.

"It's the best test of character we can apply. If a man hasn't saved enough money to carry himself for a month or so he's rarely the kind who can measure up to the opportunity we offer."

G. E. Scott is confined to his home with an injured foot.

Harold Kingsbury's infected finger has yielded to treatment by Dr. Armstrong.

Monday Dept. K sold a young bull to Dr. George Rycraft of Petoskey and another to Richard O'Reilly of Alanson.

The implement shed on the farm service road has been painted. The south end will be used hereafter as a paint shop under the direction of Czar Merritt Miller.

A friend reports Herb Wakefield inaugurated the hunting season bagging one partridge in 57 varieties of shots. Herb says: "Punk Powder!"

Dept. M is getting the potato crop out of the way. The quality is good, but the yield below the average. Red beets are turning out extra well.

Tuesday evening three automobiles filled with John Knudsen's old neighbors from Eveline township surprised him with a basket supper in celebration of John's birthday. A good time was had by all.

Instructor A. N. Nesman of the East Jordan High School with two girls and nine boy pupils of the class of animal husbandry visited the farm last week for the purpose of demonstrating to the class modern methods of judging Belgian horses. The class was entertained by department heads.

W. Gordon Parker will make a series of cartoons of the Sodbusters. They will be published during the winter in the Courier. The first will appear shortly and will be a sketch from "Life of F. Ransom, entitled: "Clouting Freddie." A brief biography will accompany each picture.

FIND STIRS MEDICAL WORLD

Discovery of Properties of Tree Growing in Bengal May Be of Immense Importance.

Investigations are being made into the medicinal properties of a forest tree indigenous to parts of Bihar and Bengal that reveal the circumstances under which quinine became known to the world as a remedy for malarial fever, says the Chamber of Commerce Journal (Calcutta). The late civil surgeon of Ranchi, Lieut. Col. J. C. S. Vaughan, having noticed the occurrence of a large number of cases of malignant malaria and blackwater fever in that district, made inquiries among the aboriginal tribes to find whether they used any local plant as a cure for these diseases. It appears that there is a tree whose leaves, bark and root are all used, and experiments that have been made with the leaves raise the hope that they may prove to be a valuable addition to our stock of drugs for use in the tropics.

The tree is known by various vernacular names, but its botanical name is Vitis pedunculata. It is found not only in Chota Nagpur but also in eastern Bengal and the Khasia Terai. The simplest way to use it is to make an infusion of the leaves—one ounce of leaves to forty ounces of infusion. The effect has been found to vary, but this is true of quinine as well, and of most other drugs. In most cases larger doses or stronger infusions proved effective where the ordinary treatment had failed, and microscopic examination proved that the malarial parasites disappeared from the blood under the influence of the treatment.

Mephistopheles.

The names given in the Bible to Mephistopheles dark power are Abaddon, Apollyon, Beelzebub, Satan and devil. Mephistopheles is not among them. There were magic books in the sixteenth century dealing with legends of demons in which writers occasionally liked to dip when it suited their purpose to reveal in the occult and to give a toothache effect to their work. It lent a fascinating and fearsome flavoring to a drama or poem to borrow from demonology. Le Sage scored a hit when he made Asmodeus the hero of his "Le Diable Boiteux," translated as "The Devil on Two Sticks." This individual, unexpectedly freed from a bottle wherein he has been corked up for centuries, makes an interesting companion for the young student of Alchemy who liberated him. Mephistopheles belongs to that same mystical company.

Bee-Hunting Profitable Business.

In the swamps of Florida the hunting of "bee trees" is a profitable business. Record of wild honey deposits of more than 300 pounds in hollow trees has been noted. The trees are located by hunters who follow the flight of the bees. It requires keen eyesight and a compass.

One Recipe for Success.

All a man has to do to make a real success in life is to spend 25 or 30 years learning to do some simple thing better than anybody else can do it, and then 25 or 30 years doing it every day, so as to give people a chance to find out about it.—Ohio State Journal.

Only True Reform.

The only reform that really reforms is the reform that comes from the heart of the individual. Not all the king's laws nor all the king's statutes can reform an evil community.—Duke de Boulogne.

A. L. Ely was a Charlevoix visitor on Friday of last week.

S. Ludbrook of Central Lake is plastering the M. E. parsonage this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmon Yettaw of Central Lake spent Sunday with relatives here.

Miss Dee Nelson spent Sunday with her brother Hugh at Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Boss and Miss Blanche Boss spent Sunday with relatives at Petoskey.

M. R. Nelson and Gardiner Miller were at Bellaire on business several days of last week.

Frank Best and George Harriman of Alden were Sunday guests at the Donnell Patterson home.

John Brown purchased a new Chevrolet car from the Ellsworth Garage one day last week.

Miss Emily Wieland left for Grand Rapids on Saturday of last week. She expects to be gone all winter.

Thursday and Friday of this week will be school vacation by reason of the Teachers' Institute at Bellaire.

Miss Bertha Bouman of Grand Haven arrived last week to spend a few days with her sister, Mrs. Roger Speyer.

Mrs. A. N. Nicholls left this week for her home at Lansing after spending the summer here. Mr. Nicholls will remain for a few weeks before he returns.

Jake Klooster and family have rented the Wm. Yettaw residence on Park street and moved there the latter part of last week.

Potatoes are yielding better than expectations and some farmers are reporting upwards of two hundred and fifty bushels per acre. The crop is being hauled as fast as they are dug and a large per cent are being stored. The Ellsworth Produce Co. received 45 loads for a total of 2018 bushels one day last week while the Farmers' Warehouse are receiving from 30 to 40 loads per day.

Move to Oust Antrim Agent

A movement has started, it is said, to oust Leon Drake, county agriculturalist. The local board of commerce has entered the fight to see Drake retained. He has placed Antrim county in the foreground on certified seed potatoes and in other agricultural work. The board of commerce adopted resolutions calling for Drake's retention.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FORCES RALLY

ATTENDANCE SHOWS MUCH INTEREST

Sunday School Revival Reaches Antrim County—Bigger and Better Work Assured

The Michigan Sunday school revival under the new general secretary of the state association, J. H. Engle, has reached this community and county. The county leaders are Rev. C. E. Peterson and E. S. Carroll, Central Lake, and Miss Kate Wilson, county school commissioner, Bellaire.

Last week E. K. Mohr, the state field worker assisted the county officers in organizing the county into eight districts to simplify the work and make the organization effective to every Sunday school in the county.

Wednesday was Ellsworth Day. The afternoon was given to facing the facts in the county and the district itself. Mr. Peterson stated that of the 11,600 county population, 9,800 are not enrolled in any Sunday school and that 2,750 of the school census number are not in any Sunday school. E. K. Mohr declared that if the 584,160 in our state under twenty-five years of age who do not now receive any religious education do not find their way into the church and Sunday school our free American heritage is in peril and may be lost. He then gave a blackboard talk on "Jesus the Greatest Teacher" which was full of wisdom, simplicity, and most convincing for stimulating us for a bigger and better work.

The attendance was very good. Numbers came from the region around. Special music was rendered making the program of unusually high order.

The nominating committee reported the following district officers: President Nick De Young, Secretary-Treasurer Oris Carpenter.

Division Superintendents, Children, Mrs. Fannie Patterson; Young People, Lester Glidden; Adult, E. J. Chellis; Administration to be selected.

The district includes several schools in and around the town.

Ethan Jolliffe was chosen as district representative to the state convention to be held at Kalamazoo, October 26th to 28th. Mrs. Chellis is the alternate.

Mr. Mohr closed the service with his popular and convincing lecture on "Sunday School Evangelism." This day should prove an epoch-making event in the churches and community life of our region.

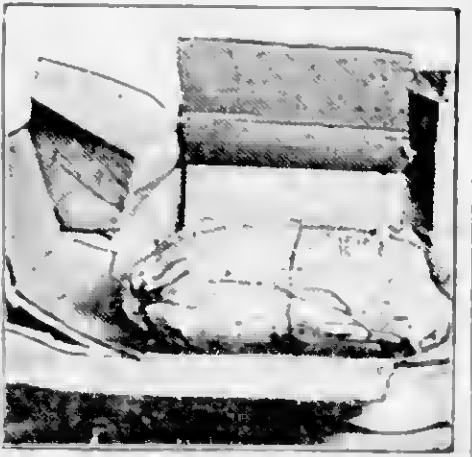

DAIRY POINTS

BUTTER SHIPPED IN SUMMER

Parcel Post Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory if Proper Conditions Are Maintained.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Parcel post shipments of butter are likely to be subjected to conditions, especially during the summer, which may cause deterioration and injury to the quality of the butter. It is highly desirable, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, that every possible precaution be taken before shipment. Particularly is this true of farm-made butter, because conditions affecting its quality and condition usually cannot be controlled as easily as in creameries. Farm-made butter, however, should be marketed just as satisfactorily as creamery-made butter when it is properly made and prepared for shipment. It is necessary to maintain proper conditions in the care of the milk and

When the butter is to be shipped, it should be wrapped in several thicknesses of old newspapers.

Read the Advertisements and Go to the Store With Your Mind Made Up

Sit in your easy-chair and read the advertisements—leisurely. Find out what the merchants have to offer. Make up a list of the things you want to look at or buy.

This will save hours of standing around stores, asking questions of the clerks—MAYBE getting what you want and maybe NOT.

The advertisements are a panorama of dealers' shelves passed before your eye, with the name of the article and its price plainly stated.

If you're in a hurry, make up your order from the advertisements and have it delivered, or at least wrapped up so you can get it without waste of time.

That is easier than running your legs off trying to get this or that article of merchandise. Even though you "love to shop," the advertisements will save you a great amount of time—and money.

being packed, printed and placed in cartons, should be chilled or hardened thoroughly before it is shipped.

One of the most satisfactory ways of preparing butter for shipment is in regular one-pound prints, the standard print measuring 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 by 4 1/2 inches. Every pound print should be neatly wrapped in regular butter parchment or paper. A second thickness of such paper has been found to add materially to the carrying possibility of the butter. Waxed paper may be used for the second wrapping. As a further protection to the print, it should be placed in heavy manila paraffin cartons, which may be obtained from folding paper-box companies, either plain or printed as a stock carton or with a special private brand.

Corrugated fiber-board shipping containers of various sizes may be obtained for shipping one-pound prints of butter. These boxes or containers practically insulate the butter and furnish much protection against heat. Further protection may be obtained by wrapping the container in stout wrapping paper. The whole should be tied securely with a strong cord. In tying the twine it should be drawn tightly around the package so as to insure its proper carriage.

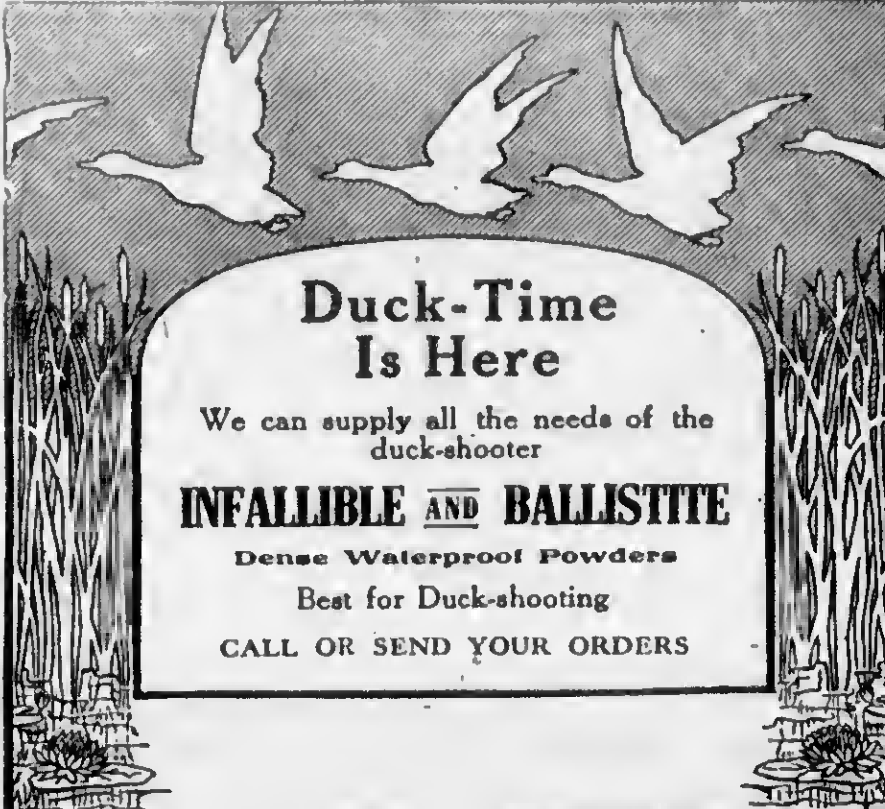

Some persons ship butter by parcel post in improvised or home-made containers. Clean, discarded, corrugated paperboard cartons are obtained from the grocer or other merchant at small cost or frequently without any cost at all. It is possible to cut a piece of paper board in such shape and size that when it is folded it will form a satisfactory carton.

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

Friday the class made a nature study trip. Specimens of 35 weeds and leaves from 15 trees were gathered for identification and study.

Monday the class was required to write impersonations of some objects. The following was written by one of our members:

Impersonation of a Radiator

I am a radiator in the Charlevoix high school assembly room. I can not remember the day when I was placed there but I feel as young as ever. My brothers and sisters are in the same room but I feel very proud to think that I am nearer the teacher's desk than they are.

One morning last winter when the wind howled and whistled around the corners I felt just like singing. So I began and I sang just as loud as I could, I felt so good, and who should come and spoil my good time but the teacher. This had been the least of my expectations because I just loved to make the teacher happy.

She called the janitor and when he came, he studied a while and then began to pound and hammer till I had no breath left with which to sing so I just remained as still as I could until at last I resumed breath and sang just as quietly as I could.

But, do you know? I reached out why that teacher wanted me to stop singing—because she could not hear the gentle voices of the seniors.

Surprise Party for John Sharrow

Fourteen young friends of John Sharrow surprised him at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sharrow, on Sheridan avenue Monday evening the occasion being his fourteenth birthday anniversary. Games were played until a late hour when Mrs. Sharrow served a delightful supper with a birthday cake as the chief attraction.

A Position for the Summer

By RUBY DOUGLAS

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Joan had been invited to lunch at the Civic club rooms. She was the guest of her aunt, and she felt not at all thrilled at the prospect of a couple of hours spent over the lunch table with a half-dozen women whom she had never seen before.

"You may be a bit bored, Joan," her aunt remarked, "but it won't hurt you to know a few influential women. You may even hear of something interesting to do to help with next year's college tuition."

"Interesting or not—I have to find something, Aunt Nell," Joan replied. She was an attractive looking girl, of the athletic type, and the friends of her aunt found her a bright luncheon companion.

"I am trying to get my living expenses in the country this summer, and I'm torn between letting my mother's helper or my chauffeur go," remarked one of the guests.

"It's a far cry from one to the other, isn't it?" asked Joan's Aunt Nell. "Can't you drive—yourself?" asked Joan. Why anyone could have a car and not drive it was beyond comprehension with Joan, who loved to run a car.

"Yes; but I'm temperamentally unfit for it. I'm always in trouble with the village policeman or some one on the road."

"The Train Is Late Tonight."

Joan suddenly had an inspiration. "Why not discharge them both and try-me for the summer?" she asked, half in jest.

Her Aunt Nell looked at her to see if she were in earnest.

"Can you drive?"

Joan nodded. "Anything from Lizette to Rolls Royce," she laughed.

"And—do you know anything about children?"

"I can feed them, bathe them, correct their English, keep them out of harm—that's all. And—I love them," she added.

The elder woman looked thoughtfully at Joan for a moment. "Do you really want to do something for the summer? You're in college, aren't you?"

"I expect to graduate next year, but I must do something this summer to help out with my expenses. I love the country. I love to drive a car—and I adore children. Why couldn't you try me?"

"I could—why not?"

Details were arranged, and inside of a fortnight Joan was established at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jonas as a general companion to the children and a helper.

It proved to be a very satisfactory arrangement, for not only did Joan drive Mrs. Jonas wherever she wished to go, but she took the children with her and kept them happy and well while the mother went her own way. She taught the boy of nine to help her change a tire, she showed the children how to dust out the rugs inside the car, gosh, the windows and do many odd tasks that took time. The boy put the water in the radiator, measured off the oil, screwed up the grease cups and learned to be a great help under the direction of Joan.

"You're a wonder, Joan," said Mr. Jonas when she had met him at the train one night with three nicely dressed and bathed children in the back seat. "Parker had nothing on you as a chauffeur, believe me."

"I'm having a wonderful time and getting fat. I shall be sorry to go back to college in September," she said, skilfully slipping past one by one the cars ahead of them on the road home.

On several evenings when she had to wait for the train and had parked the car at the usual stopping place she observed a good-looking young chauffeur who usually placed his car next to hers. Always this young fellow was reading during his spare moments.

"The train is late tonight," he remarked to Joan one evening as their eyes met. They were both looking down the track for the over-due express train.

"Yes—quite," Joan replied.

From that brooding beginning their conversation grew into intellectual channels and Joan always managed to be at the parking place a few minutes ahead of train time in order to talk with the young fellow in the big foreign car.

She learned that he had been at the French front in the ambulance corps and that, suffering from various after-effects of the war, he had been ordered by his physician to do some easy work that would keep him in the open air.

"Therefore—I chant," he laughed.

"And I? Do you know about me?" Joan queried.

"I know some things," the young man admitted, saying more with his glance than with words.

"I, too, am a chauffeur," she announced. "I'm helping Mrs. Jonas with the children and driving the car while I'm resting," she laughed.

They she told him how she happened to have the position, and it was not many days before they had made a trusting place, as young persons will who have no homes to ask each other into.

They met during the summer evening and strolled along the water front or went out in a canoe.

Joan asked permission to take the children to the beach and frankly told Mrs. Jonas that she was meeting John Moore and that he enjoyed the children and helped to watch them at the water's edge.

"I never realized before what you are to me," Mrs. Jonas told her. "I feel as if I could not get along without you. The children are so happy and they've developed so much since they've been with you. My boy has grown to be quite a man, and he's all wrapped up now in studying about the distance of the sun from the earth, the number of light years Mars is removed from us and all sorts of things he's picked up from you and—"

"From John—please, Mrs. Jonas. He is crazy about astronomy and he teaches Gordon whatever he can. It is lots of fun and—"

Joan was blushing. She had been about to say that it was such a pleasure for her to be with them all.

"Don't worry, Joan," Mrs. Jonas said, sympathetically. "I know how it is. Be happy while you can. Have your youth and romance now. It is summer."

Joan felt as if she could never hear the end of this wonderful season, but as it drew to a close Joan told her that he loved her. He knew that he had no right, as yet, to speak; but he wanted her to know that he would think of her always, of her alone.

"I'll get strong and well, Joan, while you are finishing college. Then I can go back into the game again and—"

Joan had turned away.

EARLY MICHIGAN PIONEER PASSES

DEATH DIRECTLY RESULTED FROM FRACTURED HIP

Mary A. See Born in Michigan in 1836 and Came to Charlevoix in 1868—Aged 85 Years

Mrs. Mary A. See died at her home on Dixon avenue Thursday, October 20, 1921 at 2:00 a. m., after an illness resulting from a fractured hip which has confined her to her bed for the past five years.

Mary A. Preston was born near Marine City, Mich., in 1836 spending her early girlhood there. In 1854 she was married to Samuel M. See in Beaver Island where they lived for three years prior to making their home in Jefferson county N. Y., where Mr. See's parents resided. They remained there during the Civil War, Mr. See serving with four brothers of the deceased. Mr. and Mrs. See then returned to Michigan making their home in Charlevoix since 1868, first on the site of the present Hallett's Inn, then moving to the north side of the city in 1896 where Mr. See died one year later.

Deceased is survived by five of a family of nine, Will H. See of Portland, Ore., Lou S. See of Gateway, Ore., Fred A. See of Waco, Calif., Charles E. See and Mrs. Edward Chaboupe, both of Charlevoix and one sister, Mrs. Alonzo Tisdale of Simcoe, Ont.

The funeral was held Monday, October 24th at 2:00 p. m. from the home on Dixon avenue, Rev. Jas. A. Smith officiating. Interment at Brookside.

Mrs. See, as one of the pioneer mothers of Charlevoix, came to the city when existence was a daily battle, but through hardship she was courageous and with her never-failing smile she was an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact. She was a charter member of the O. E. S. although her devotion to her home and children and her readiness to help a neighbor, whether as physician or nurse prevented any regular attendance. A Christian mother who thanked her God daily for her many blessings, and of the stock who have inspired the successful men and women of today.

ENJOY BLESSINGS OF LIFE BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

Is this right?
Many a husband and wife, inborn almost night and day to get ahead and lay away a little for a rainy day, have forgotten to live as they went along and have become drudges and slaves. Giving themselves up to a constant round of work and worry, they have not taken time for the refinements of life nor given themselves up to the enjoyment of the things that make life worth living.

Recently, a beautiful day we stood out under great trees, whose leaves were turning gold in the October sun and talked to a husband whose wife had just been laid to rest in the nearby cemetery. He gave no spectacular demonstration of grief, but spoke quietly of the overwhelming loss that had come upon him. "Seven years ago," he said, "when we were married I said to my wife that we would live as we went along and not put off enjoyment that so many seem to look forward to late in life. And we have done it. We worked hard together to pay for our farm, but we have always taken time for trips, for reading and for our friends. Just this last summer we made three trips that did us both a world of good."

He paused for a moment as the tears came to his eyes and he tried to control his feelings. "And now she is gone," he said, "I'm not sorry for the way we have lived, nor sorry for the money we spent together to get more out of life, not sorry for the trips and for the sacrifices I have made for her." We said good-bye and left him standing in front of the desolated home, but the words he said have come back many times since. "Wasn't the young man right?"

Husband and wife, take a lesson from the grief of others. To few of us are given the "three score years and seven." The golden wedding anniversary is few and far between for the partners of life are usually separated by the breaking of the "silver cord" long before they have walked the path of life fifty years together.

Learn to enjoy the best blessings of life before it is too late. Don't

CHARLEVOIX GETS CONCRETE ROADS

Means Concrete Highway Through Our County

At the annual meeting of the supervisors of Charlevoix county which has been taking place for the last two weeks at the court house it was decided to permit the road committee to reconstruct several sections of highway in the county besides the maintenance of highways.

In section 25, two and one-half miles north will be constructed a road of concrete, work to be done during the summer of 1922 and the balance to Charlevoix in 1923, same to be built not less than 16 feet in width. The road in section 25 to Antrim county line, known as the "short cut" of gravel; road from the center of section 25 to Norwood of gravel; and the Loeb Farms road of gravel, work to be done during the summer of 1922.

BOOSTERS BOOST NORTH. MICHIGAN

ORGANIZE UNITED CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Meeting in Petoskey Results in Preliminary Committee Work—to Advertise this Region

At an enthusiastic meeting of representatives of four Northern Michigan counties, Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Mackinac Wednesday night of last week at the Cushman house in Petoskey, sixteen men, four from each county, were selected to organize a Northern Michigan Chamber of Commerce. This organization will take charge of the work of boosting these four counties as a summer resort, agricultural and industrial region, with particular attention given to the tourist business. "There were about thirty present."

Speakers included John L. A. Galster, chairman, Mayor A. B. Klise of Petoskey, Frank Quinn, secretary of the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce, W. L. McManus, Jr., Homer Sly, A. L. Ducl, E. J. Hanna and A. B. Backus, Harbor Springs; E. B. Ward of this city and D. J. McDonald and A. H. Weber of Cheboygan. The Mackinac county representatives failed to make connections but telephoned the information that they wished to be included and would take over their share of the work.

E. B. Ward, urged cement roads, more boosting and the proposed local advertising by a Northern Michigan Chamber of Commerce. He said that California appropriated $4,000,000 last year for publicity and that the average daily income from tourists was $2,500,000. He said the automobile was the salvation of the Northern Michigan tourist region and for that reason there must be more and better roads.

Another meeting was called to be held early in November.

LYCEUM COURSE BEGINS TUESDAY

Oceanic Ladies Quintet Present a Varied Program

Three members of the Oceanic Ladies' Quintet, which will be heard here on the Lyceum course Tuesday evening, went overseas during the war and entertained our soldiers in France. Four members of the company made a concert tour of New Zealand last season.

The five American girls who compose the quintet constitute a singing orchestra and present programs of great variety with artistry and vivacity.

Musical impersonations and musical monologues will be included in the program.

Next season the quintet is planning to tour Japan under the auspices of an organization of Japanese business men.

Surprise for Mrs. Ben Nowland

Mrs. Ben Nowland was given a very pleasant surprise party Wednesday evening, October 19, at her home on Carpenter avenue. When her friends and relatives dropped in for a 7 o'clock supper, "The occasion was her 59th birthday. The cake with its 59 candles was made by her daughter, Mrs. Matt Saunders and was indeed a pretty sight in the center of the table. She received many pretty and useful gifts. Music and visiting were enjoyed until a late hour when the guests departed wishing her many more such happy days."

MICH. BOY GETS MEDAL OF HONOR

MARINE REWARDED FOR HEROIC RESCUE

Congress Makes Award to Albert
Smith Who Rescues Comrade
From Burning Airplane

For his courage and devotion to duty Congress has awarded a Medal of Honor to Albert Joseph Smith of Thompson, Michigan, who is now serving with the Marine aviation forces in the West Indies. At the risk of his own life he rescued a comrade from a burning airplane after it had plunged to the earth.

Smith was on sentry duty at Pensacola, Fla., last February when the airplane fell, stunning the pilot and pinning him in the wreckage which was set afire from a gasoline explosion. Smith plunged into the burning mass and was severely burned while cutting the unconscious pilot loose. Just as the rescuer effected a second gasoline tank exploded scattering flaming liquid on both.

Private Smith, who is a son of Mrs. Martha Smith of Thompson, was a printer before entering the Marine Corps in October, 1919. He desired to take up aviation and served at Pensacola, later joining the First Marine Aviation Squadron in Santo Domingo. The Medal of Honor has been forwarded by Major General John A. Lejeune, Commandant of the Marine Corps, and will be presented to Smith officially by Brigadier General Harry Lee, who commands the Marines in Santo Domingo.

It is considered quite a distinction to own one of these medals. Only about 35 of these awards have been made in United States.

POPULAR CHARLEVOIX WOMAN MARRIED

Mrs. Agnes Jarvis United to C. S.
Morrison

Friends of Mrs. Agnes Miller Jarvis were pleasantly surprised to learn of her marriage to Mr. C. S. Morrison of Adrian, Mich., Monday morning, October 24th at the Baptist parsonage, Rev. C. A. Rice officiating.

The bride is a popular member of the city's society and well known in this vicinity having spent her girlhood in Charlevoix as well as making her home here the past few years. She holds the office of secretary in the local chapter of Eastern Star for the year.

Mr. Morrison is a noted composer for the Etude, his "Meditation" holding a world sales record being popular in both Europe and America. He has also held the position of teacher and supervisor of music in the colleges of Illinois, Ohio, and Michigan for the past thirty-five years but was forced to obtain a leave of absence and come north for his health last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison will make their home in Boyne City, where Mr. Morrison holds positions as leader and director of the Boyne City band and the high school orchestra of that city, until next fall when they will return to Mr. Morrison's old home at Adrian.

MRS. SANQUIST PASSES AWAY

Katherine Clifford Sanquist Dies in Washington, D. C.

Word has been received from Washington, D. C., of the death of Mrs. David L. Sanquist in Garfield hospital in that city from tubular enteritis, following an illness of several months.

Katherine Clifford Sanquist was born in Chicago in January 1883, where her father, Captain Walter Clifford died, the family moving to this city soon after.

Deceased is survived by three children, Don, Quincy and Audrey, two brothers, Walter Clifford of New York city and Carl Clifford of Manila besides her husband.

Royal Neighbors Gather for Social Evening

The Royal Neighbors of America gathered at the home of Mrs. D. J. Eckinger on Belvedere Ave. Friday evening, October 21. The regular business was attended to after which games and music were enjoyed.

Mrs. Eckinger served a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Anoa Paulson, who leaves soon for Detroit, where she will spend the winter.

REPORT INCREASE IN INFANT DEATHS

MORTALITY 12.5 HIGHER IN SEP-TEMBER THAN AUGUST

Rural Districts Show Most Severe Increases—Michigan's General
Death Rate was 11.7

Twelve and one half per cent increase in the number of deaths of children under one year of age during September over the number that died in August, is reported by the division of vital statistics of the state department of health.

Passing the most dangerous months of the year, June, July and August, with exceptionally low infant mortality rates Michigan's rate in September jumped to 05.5 per 1,000 births, an increase of 10.8 deaths per 1,000 living births, an increase of 10.8 deaths per 1,000 births over the rate of the preceding month. The state's infant mortality rate for the first nine months of 1921 now stands at 81.2 in comparison to 79.5 at the end of the first eight months.

Rural districts showed the most severe increase in the number of infant deaths during September, the infant mortality rate increasing over August from 81.5 to 94.7, an increase of 13.2; the urban rate jumped from 86.7 to 96.0, an increase of 9.3.

For the first time this year the rural birth rate caught up with the urban birth rate. The general birth rate for the entire state and for both urban and rural communities during September was 25.2 per 1,000 population.

Michigan's general death rate in September was 11.7 per 1,000 population, an increase of 0.7 over that of August and but 0.1 higher than the nine month's average of 11.6.

Enthusiasm Running Strong Among Charlevoix Veterans

A well attended special meeting of the American Legion was held Monday evening at which time a report was heard and adopted to the effect that for a consideration the Leslie T. Shapton post will take over for their club rooms that part of the Masonic Temple in which they have been housed for some time. They will have the sole occupancy. Money to start a club room fund was raised by popular subscription.

A committee was named at this time to meet the committee of councilmen named by the mayor to arrange for and plan a suitable Armistice Day program.

Enthusiasm which has been at ebb since last spring, is manifesting itself again and every Legion member and those eligible are hereby ordered (?) to be in the club rooms at the regular meeting next Monday night. Come on you fellows. Shake off the dog!

W. C. T. U. MEET AT MRS. COULTER'S

Twenty-five Members Hear Reports and Name Committees

Twenty-five members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union went to Mrs. Emmet Coulter's home on Wednesday, October 19th, for an all-day meeting. Delegates elected to the district convention at Boyne City November 16th and 17th were as follows: Mrs. John Burns, Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Blissett, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Alcox.

A committee on law enforcement consisting of Mrs. Saltstall, Mrs. Simmons and Miss Roger were appointed with instructions to have a report ready for the next meeting.

The state and district presidents expect to visit Charlevoix November 18th and plans for making the most of the occasion were discussed and turned over to the executive board.

Mrs. P. D. Campbell gave a brief report of the national convention recently held in Los Angeles and outlined the plans made there for activities essential to maintain the prohibition amendment, secure its enforcement and promote the great principles for which the organization stands.

Mrs. Wilkinson, who had charge of the devotion, urged all members to pray for the disarmament conference which begins in Washington on Armistice Day.

The ladies then adjourned to meet next month with Mrs. Saunders, who is planning to serve a tea after the meeting.

ANOTHER BULL ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED

Loeb Farms to Finance the Placing of Holstein-Friesian Heifers

Another bull association was organized, under plans formulated by R. V. Otto, at the Rock Elm grange Hall Monday night. Joe Secord was elected president and Arthur Shepard secretary. Twenty-four farmers attended the meeting at which a committee was appointed to purchase a registered Holstein-Friesian bull. The subject of importing a load of Holstein-Friesian registered heifers one and two years old was also discussed, ten farmers signing up for one heifer each.

On Tuesday night, Mr. Otto attended a meeting of the North Bay Bull Association at which 10 farmers signed up for heifers to be placed in that locality.

Under present plans Loeb Farms will finance the proposition to handle these heifers. Anyone interested should get in touch with Mr. Otto or call the Loeb Farms city office.

ORGANIZE CHILD WELFARE LEAGUE

FIELD SECRETARY OF NATION-AL BODY HERE

First Meeting to be Held Friday, November 4th at Home of Mrs. Mary Cooper

The applicants for membership to the Child Conservation League of America met Tuesday afternoon, October 25th, 1921, at the court house and organized under the direction of Matilda Mullen, field secretary, what is to be known as the Charlevoix Circle of the Child Conservation League of America with a membership of twenty-six mothers.

The purpose of this organization will be to protect, strengthen and bring to its largest fruition American child life and upon its advisory board are some of the greatest educators and authorities upon child training such as David Starr Jordan, G. Stanley Hall, Ben B. Lindsey, John Webster Melody, Mrs. C. Arthur Varney and many others of equal ability.

It shall be the object of the Charlevoix circle to provide for the physical, intellectual and moral purity, health and strength of childhood and youth and to promote their welfare by means of systematic educational and advisory work designed to guide and stimulate parents and teachers in the acquirement of definite knowledge and a broader culture relating especially to childhood and its needs and whenever practicable by philanthropy legislation and the enforcement of existing laws.

The following officers were elected to act for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Mary Cooper.
Vice-President, Mrs. Hazel McMillan.
Secretary, Mrs. C. A. Rice.
Treasurer, Mrs. Blanche Wood.
Press Reporter, Mrs. Julia Campbell.

Director of Exchange Bureau, Mrs. Margaret Miller.

The first regular meeting will be held Friday, November 4th, at the home of Mrs. Mary Cooper on Ainslee avenue, and the several officers will act as hostesses. A very urgent invitation is extended to each member to be present at this meeting.

The league through its work merits the good will and support of every lover of the home and the children of America.

VESSEL BURNS— TWO MEN PERISH

Steamer Burned Near Marine City
Thursday

Two members of the crew of the steamer William H. Wolf lost their lives when the vessel burned off Marine City Thursday. Captain J. P. Hanson, of Detroit, who escaped by jumping from the deck of his ship to a small boat, suffered fractures of both his legs.

The victims were Edward Henry, of Detroit, first mate; and Tony Smith, Ashland, Wisconsin, wheelman. Henry was trapped in the hole where he had endeavored to extinguish the flames, and Smith lost his life when he became excited and jumped overboard.

The steamer Wolf carried a crew of 22 men and was in flames when she passed a point opposite the Marine City shore.

The ladies of the M. E. church will hold a rummage sale Saturday afternoon and evening of this week in the Benj. Brown Sale room. 4311

MANCELONA WINS FROM CHARLEVOIX

C. H. S. UNABLE TO FATHOM
OLD TRICK

Weather Unfavorable to Lighter Team—No Forward Passes or End Runs

The Charlevoix football squad suffered an awful defeat at the hands of the fast Mancelona team, Saturday, being shut out 40 to 0.

The day was anything but favorable for the game and due to weather conditions the local boys were not able to use their forward passes.

The game was called at 3:00. J. C. Marshall acting as captain during Jones convalescence won the toss and chose to receive. Mancelona kicked off to Marshall who returned the ball to the 35 yard line. Here Mancelona held us for three down and then Ackort kicked to the 30 yard line. But due to Charlevoix being off-side the ball was put in play on Mancelona's 60 yard line. From this time on our boys were on the defense most of the time and due to this were not able to warm up and really get into the game. From the 60 yard line Mancelona went over for her first touchdown by off tackle smashes and end runs. They failed to kick goal.

Again Mancelona kicked off to Marshall who due to poor interference was not able to return it very far. Again they held us for downs. We were forced to kick. From here Mancelona got her second touchdown by a 25 yard run by Rush and a triple criss-cross around our right end.

This is the play that they used so successfully last year against Charlevoix and which gave them three touchdowns Saturday.

The first half ended with the score 20 to 0. During the second half Mancelona scored 3 more touchdowns one coming from blocking our put on the 15 yard line and then falling on the ball.

Be sure to see the game here on November 5th, Harbor Springs vs. Charlevoix.

GIVE ME LIBERTY THEN GIVE ME BETH

Once upon a time when the United States was still wicked and coulduzzle its morning brazer without a visit from the smelling committee, a young man by the name of Pat was united in double harness with a girl by the name of Lucille.

They lived scrappily for several years as Pat was making good money but not much of it. But one night Pat met a beautiful actress whose hair shone like burnished gold and whose eyes rivaled the sky in the blueness. Her name was Beth. Pat fell hard. He neglected his wife and home something scandalous. Even the neighbors ceased in their own family quarrels long enough to notice it.

Then Pat contracted the habit of calling his wife "Lu-silly." That was the last straw. As Pat stepped blithely through the door-way, one evening, she kerplunked him with a rolling pin. He saw the Milky Way.

Pat decided that he would get a divorce. The court wasn't sure he deserved one so Pat said a few words in his own behalf. He concluded a long and impassioned appeal with the flaming words "Give me Liberty, then give me Beth."

He got his liberty but it cost him $30 a week from the on, and when he found out that Beth was only kidding, he took arsenic and died in spasms in the court room.

HALLETT'S INN. CLOSED SATURDAY

General Business Depression Cause —A Popular Hostelry

Hallett's Inn, formerly the Elston Hotel, purchased last spring by J. J. Hallett and sons, was closed Saturday morning, October 22nd, for the winter by the manager, I. L. Hallett, and will not be reopened until June 1st.

Plans are still unsettled as to the advisability of making the hotel a year around proposition but it was thought advisable to close for the coming winter because of business conditions throughout the country.

J. Lenby the Optometrist, will be here more before leaving for the West. He will be at the Hotel Charlevoix, Monday October 31—one day only. 4311

A Mystery Cake

Can you name it?

Here is another new Royal Cake, so delicious and appetizing that we have been unable to give it a name that does justice to its unusual qualities. It can be made just right only with Royal Baking Powder. Will you make it and name it?

$500 for the Best Name

For the name selected as best, we will pay $250. For the second, third, fourth, and fifth choice, we will pay $100, $75, $50, and $25 respectively.

Anyone may enter the contest, but only one name from each person will be considered.

All names must be received by December 15th, 1921. In case of ties, the full amount of the prize will be given to each tying contestant. Do not send your cake. Simply send the name you suggest, with your own name and address, to the

ROYAL BAKING POWDER COMPANY
149 William Street, New York

How to make it

Use level measuring cup for all materials.
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup Royal Baking Powder
1 cup milk
1 1/2 squares (1 1/2 oz.) of unsweetened chocolate (melted)
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening. Add sugar and grated orange rind. Add beaten egg yolks. Sift together flour, salt and Royal Baking Powder and add alternately with the milk; lastly fold in one beaten egg white. Divide batter into two pans. To one pan add the chocolate. Put by table spoonfuls, alternating dark and light batter, into three greased layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

FILLING AND ICING

3 tablespoons melted butter 2 tablespoons orange juice
3 cups confectioner's sugar 1 cup white Powdered sugar may be used but 3 squares (3 oz.)
does not make as smooth icing. Unsweetened chocolate Grated rind of 1/2 orange and pulp of 1 orange

Put butter, sugar, orange juice and rind into bowl. Cut pulp from orange, removing skin and seeds and add. Beat all together until smooth. Fold in beaten egg white. Spread this icing on layer used for top of cake. While icing is soft, sprinkle with unsweetened chocolate shaved in fine pieces with sharp knife (use 1/2 square). To remaining icing add 1/2 square unsweetened chocolate which has been melted. Spread this thickly between layers and on sides of cake.

AFTER EIGHT YEARS

Charlevoix Testimony Remains Unshaken

Time is the best test of truth. Here is a Charlevoix story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

Mrs. John Cook, 307 Mason St., Charlevoix, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney disorder and backache and they have given me splendid results."

OVER EIGHT YEARS LATER, or May 4, 1920, Mrs. Cook said: "I haven't had occasion to use Doan's for some time, as they made a cure which has lasted."

SEVEN DAY BEEF SALE

For Cash Only
HIGH GRADE MEAT AT LOW PRICES

Saturday, Oct. 29, to Saturday, Nov. 5, Inc

Read the following prices which will obtain during this sale of first-class tuberculin tested fresh beef—prices which should astonish the people of Charlevoix:

RIB STEW
at per lb.	6c
BOILING PIECES
at per lb.	8, 10c
ROASTS
at per lb.	10, 12c
STEAKS
at per lb.	15c, 2 for 25c

I purchased several beeves at not enough below the market price to make ordinarily a difference in cost to the public. But I have whacked the selling cost and am going to depend upon the volume of sales to create a profit for myself. Nuff said!

PLEASE REMEMBER. THIS SALE IS FOR CASH ONLY.

New York's Fashionable Fifth Ave. Comes to Charlevoix

The beautiful women of New York, so charmingly and daintily adorned in the mode of the hour, have made that city's Fifth Avenue the Fashion Promenade of the World.

Their remarkably genius for acquiring graceful elegance and beauty, particularly in matters that relate to milady's toilette, is amply reflected in their winsome personal loveliness.

For it is acknowledged everywhere that dainty, fragrant toilette preparations do indeed add much to any woman's attractiveness.

And now, our own ladies here may emulate their New York sisters in every detail of personal beautification.

They can add new subtle touches—delicate, fascinating and alluring—in the same simple manner as the ultra-smart New York woman does—by using the very same toilette preparations which have placed the Diadem of Beauty on her brow.

F. J. FESSENDEN

announces that he is the exclusive representative in this city for the delightful aids to beauty.

For the Face, Skin and Complexion
Skin Invigorator	Henna Shampoo
Astringent Toilet Water	Lemon Blossom Shampoo
Cold Cream (Rose Odor)	Casale Shampoo
Complexion Cream (Locust Blossom Odor)	Pine Shampoo

Foot Powder	Rum and Quinine
Foot Lotion	Hair Colorings
Soap	Hair Lightener
Toilette Soap	Hair Whitener
	Hair Coloring (Seven Shades)
	Magic Fluid (Six Colors)

These toilette preparations, which have held an exclusive place on the dressing tables of the most fastidious, are the products of A. Simonson, of Fifth Avenue, New York, chemist and beauty specialist for 61 years.

Each preparation is the very best that scientific skill and the magic art of the chemist could devise for the particular purpose. Years of uninterrupted use by the famous beauties of the stage, the screen and society, speak eloquently for the quality and effectiveness of A. Simonson's toilette preparations.

Use them generously to win and hold beauty.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The greatest dishonor, declared President Stetson addressing the students of Kalamazoo College at the opening chapel exercises, "is to seek pay without labor." And he might have added, the greatest surprise is to get it.

A citizen of Owosso has been placed under arrest for stealing the trousers of a swimmer so that the latter had to go home in a barrel. The fellow will doubtless be able to prove an alibi, however, by showing that he was absent on a funny page.

"This farm life," comments the Dutch Hill reporter for the South Lyon Independent, "is just one darned thing after another, as Heine Raab remarked as he led the parade with Jupiter, the bull, a close second, with a birded wire for a hurdle. O! draw the curtain."

A citizen of Ironwood was fired upon and received several shots in the neck and shoulder when a hunter mistook him for a bird. Persons claiming to be deer or birds should understand that the burden of proof is upon them, and they must always take pains to shoot first.

"The Detroit candidate for mayor," comments the Muskegon Chronicle, "who withdrew when the attorneys questioned his residence because he had voted in Ypsilanti, has re-entered the race. He probably looked over the field of cities and decided it looked the most likely after all."

An automobile, being driven near Palms, was charged by an infuriated bull and had the radiator, fenders and lights broken and other damages inflicted so that it had to be towed into town for repairs. And the foolish thing would have been nimble enough about climbing trees or telephone poles probably, if there had been no bull anywhere about.

"Last Sunday," says the Elm Grove reporter for the Standish Independent, "one of our fine pure-bred chickens got fighting with some tanglefoot that Bruce Russell sells and the result was that tanglefoot won and we had to separate the fighters, though the pullet lost considerable of its plumage. Here is saying that when you consider goods at a reasonable price it is better than cheap stuff at any price."—Detroit News.

Dr. L. V. Simmons is wearing a real smile. He is located in a home on the north side, and says his wife is the best cook in seven states. Happy man!

C. E. Scott is back at work after an absence of two weeks due to an injury to his foot.

Frank Tubbs has been looking for a letter from Cleveland so long that his face begins to resemble a yard stick.

A Florence farmer has fitted up a hayrack, filled it with melons and attached a sign, "Passerby help yourself." Spoiling everybody's fun, when he could just as well have hung up the sign "Keep out!"

A Kalamazoo church announces that there will be a special sermon for married men on Thursday evening. It is hardly worth while, perhaps, though a prayer might not come amiss.

World's Temperance Sunday Oct. 30. Next Sunday, October 30, is World's Temperance Sunday. Sunday schools all over the world will study the same Bible Temperance lesson and the general topic for discussion in the churches throughout the United States will be reverence for and obedience to the law.

TO MAKE YOU SMILE

A good deal of interest has been aroused over the question of whether Congress is going to place imethyldiamindiphenylmethane and tetramethyldiamindiphenylmethane on the free list or not.

Humor on tombstones is rare, but here is an inscription found on one in a little Connecticut town:

Here lies the mother of children five. Of whom three are dead and two alive. The three that are dead preferring rather To die with their mother than live with their father.

And more than that, a gravestone salesman friend of ours told us of an order he filled. The inscription ran like this:

It was the awful whooping cough. That took our little Willie off. Now he's gone, and gone to stay. Darn the whooping cough anyway.

A red headed boy applied for a job in a butcher shop recently, and was offered the job for $3 a week.

The butcher asked, "Well, what can you do? Can you dress a chicken?" The boy replied, "Not on three dollars a week."

A true optimist, to our mind, is the man who is grateful for small things, and even admits that to have a cold in the head is better than having nothing in it.

Mexico is taking up baseball, we hear. Umpiring in that whimsical republic must be a nice dignified and positive method of suicide.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Missionary Society of the Congregational church has elected the following officers for the year 1922, viz:

President, Mrs. A. F. Bridge.
First Vice President, Mrs. John Burns.
Second Vice President, Mrs. Fred Carter.
Secretary, Mrs. Allen Campbell.
Assistant, Mrs. Walter Rodger.

Treasurer, Mrs. H. S. Harsha.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church have reorganized the circles for the winter's work and officers have been elected as follows:

Mary Brewster Circle, President, Mrs. R. L. Lewis, Secretary and Mrs. Clarence Wood Treasurer.
North Side Circle, President, Mrs. Wm. C. Taylor.
Valley Circle, President, Mrs. R. F. Sloan, Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. George Kelderhouse.

AT THE MOVIES

Wandy Hawley in "Her Sturdy Oak." Trustful Violet was sure her poet must be a great, wonderful, strong hero, because he was so bulky. Sam liked Violet's admiration. But he couldn't earn a living. PETOSKEY GETS CAMP OF I. O. O. F.

Annual 1922 Session Place Changed From Crystal Falls

In May, 1922, Petoskey is to entertain the Grand Encampment I. O. O. F. of Michigan. This information came Thursday morning in a telegram from W. G. Critchell, who is attending the grand lodge I. O. O. F. at Lansing. The Grand Encampment was to have been held at Crystal Falls, upper peninsula, but was changed to Petoskey, that city being more centrally located.

The date, late in May, will find the hotels ready for the tourist season which opens about June 1, and Northern Michigan will be at its prettiest.

Local Odd Fellows are already working on plans to attend this big meeting.

the visitors so well that all will wish to return to Petoskey soon for longer visits.

The Grand Encampment is usually attended by close to fifteen hundred delegates and visitors from Michigan and Canada.

POULTRY CULTURE

Animal Feed is Necessary For Hens
During Winter

During the summer months the farmer's flock balances its ration of grain and seeds with bugs, worms, and green stuff, and the farmer need not worry about egg production if his fowls have been well culled. But winter feeding requires that provision be made to supply the deficiency of animal feed and succulence. The absence of these essentials to good egg production is responsible in large degree for the falling off in yield during cold weather.

Animal feed, or other feeds rich in protein, may be easily supplied on most farms, particularly where skim milk or buttermilk is available. The liking of hens for these dairy by-products is a good indication of the need for what they contain. Meat scrap is another excellent protein feed that has become standard in poultry rations. Clover and Alfalfa leaves provide a combination of protein feed and green stuff. Often enough of them may be swept up from the barn floor where the hay is handled. A good way to prepare them for the flock is to pour boiling water over them, cover the container and let them steam for a time, when they will be ready to feed alone or in a mash.

Sprouted oats have become one of the best-known providers of succulence in winter. Plans for making sprouters may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture. Mangels and cabbage, as well as many other vegetables, are appreciated by the hens.

In general, winter feeding is much the same as summer feeding. On the Government poultry farms the same rations are used summer and winter. Of course, in summer it is unnecessary to feed succulent feed when the birds have range and are able to get plenty of grass, alfalfa, or similar feed. The farmer's flock, however, is an exception to this rule, as in many cases there is enough waste grain, seeds, etc., in summer to supply much of the feed required.

Stock Up By Buying Pullets

The buying of pullets in the fall is preferable in most cases to buying day-old chicks or to hatching chicks in the spring, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Usually little space is available for raising chicks, and, moreover, few city dwellers have had the experience enough to warrant the undertaking. Hatching and raising chicks requires broody hens, or the buying of incu-

Offer No. 2

A pound of Brednut FREE for 5 empty cartons until November 26

THE most fastidious people who have been satisfied with nothing but the finest, freshest, most expensive spread for bread say that they cannot tell the difference between Brednut and the costly product they formerly used. People who have been using nut margarine and oleomargarine say that at last they have found a margarine that satisfies them completely.

The choicest cream of the cocoanut, the most select pasteurized milk and a special process that is the result of twenty years' experience in nut margarine manufacture makes Brednut a product that cannot be duplicated.

WHEN THERE ARE NO PROFITS TO DIVIDE

Orators who address themselves to laboring men frequently declare that labor is entitled to a larger share of the profit of their industry and as a general proposition, that is true. The principal practical difficulty of procuring that share lies in the fact that capital does not as these speakers assume, sit down at the close of each day or week or month and divide the net profits of trade and industry, giving each owner of capital a share. Some enterprises divide a large profit at the end of each month or year, others divide a moderate profit, others break even and many pay an assessment to meet a loss. The few instances of big profits in business attract the attention of all; the much larger number of cases in which commercial enterprises fail, or are indifferently successful, are not taken into account by those who seek to make the worker believe that always his lot is an unhappy one, and he is being imposed upon by the employer.

Suppose an individual were to announce tomorrow that he planned to put a hundred thousand dollars capital into given line of manufacture, that he would be satisfied as his return a moderate salary and five per cent interest on his investment and that in lieu of wages he would divide the profits of the enterprise pro rata among the workers employed. How large a number of men would desert employment at fixed wages to accept the hazard of such an enterprise?

And why would men hesitate to accept such employment? Because every investment in industry or trade is an experiment—a hazard. How many wage earners would be willing to work for nothing in a failing enterprise?

The number of enterprises which are largely successful constitute only a small percentage of the whole number of such ventures. Many men go into business, and struggle with intelligence and zeal all their lives for a competency without securing it. It is estimated that in the state of Colorado a dollar has been put into the ground for every dollar taken up in mining. The only net return of the business has been to the men who have drawn wages for the performance of the work necessary in development. What is true of the Colorado mines is true of the Pennsylvania oil fields. Capital taken as a whole has had no return at all. Labor only has, as a whole, profited by the development.

Many a wage earner has better appreciated the steady income derived from employment after trying the role of employer on his own account. The theory that the mere investment of capital insures a return, or that it may not lead to heavy losses and grievous burdens, sounds well, but it happens to be a wide variance with the facts. If its losses are balanced against gains, the returns of capital invested in trade and industry are not so inordinate as some people would have us believe. This accounts for the small number of co-operative manufacturing enterprises which, if profitable return were certain, would spring up on every hand through the uniting of small holders of capital.

As to the opportunities in employment, the business world in these days is running about with its tongue hanging out looking for men possessing the simple quality of interest and loyalty to their tasks. Reliability, dependability and love of work for duty's sake are more in demand today than ever before, and there are practically no barriers to the possible progress of the man who understands that the success of the enterprise with which he is connected is his own success. There are business institutions so conducted that it is hard for the worker to feel that way about it, but even the selfishly conducted enterprise is looking for the man who toils as the master and not the slave of his task.

Boon to the Armless.

An English machine for the use of armless men consists of a table under which are pegs worked by the toes. The pegs are connected with artificial "arms" above the table, which do almost everything that can be done by human arms. Thus the patient can use a spoon, knife and fork, drink from a cup, pick a cigarette and place it in his mouth, open a box of matches, strike a match and light the cigarette, type, write, turn the leaves of a book, play checkers, wash and dry his face and neck, etc.

Salt and Dampness.

Salt is what is called "hygroscopic," that is, it eagerly absorbs moisture. In fact, both air and salt are absorbents of moisture and it is a contest between them as to which gets it. Results depend on atmospheric conditions. Ordinary atmosphere always contains a proportion of moisture, and warm air is apt to be more humid than cold, as it absorbs and holds water vapor more readily than cold air. Salt has such affinity for moisture that under such conditions it draws it from the air. When the air becomes dry, the moisture is given up by the salt, which in turn becomes dry as it returns the moisture to the air.

Daily Thought.

KEEPING DOWN STABLE FLIES

Give Stable Refuse Proper Care and Stack Straw So That It Will Not Be Breeding Holes.

The numbers of stable flies can be kept down by caring properly for stable refuse and by properly stacking or otherwise disposing of straw in a way that will not make it attractive as a breeding place for the flies. Flies cause much distress among animals and at times heavy losses. Control measures are described in Farmers' Bulletin 1027. It can be had free of charge by writing Division of Publications, Washington, D. C.

BIG VALUE OF FOREST TREES

Material Supplied for Use on Farm, Such as Poles and Wood—Protect Live Stock.

Forest trees grown on the farm add to its value and beauty. They supply material for farm use, such as poles, posts and cordwood; and they afford shelter for live stock, and protect crops and buildings from the hot winds of summer and the cold winds of winter. Moreover, they often can be grown successfully on soils too poor or on slopes too steep for the successful production of the ordinary agricultural crops.

APPLY LIMESTONE ANY TIME

Usually Done to Best Advantage in Late Summer When Teams and Men Are Available.

Limestone may be applied at any time when men and teams are available, but this usually is done to best advantage in late summer, fall or early winter. It will seldom, if ever, pay to put on less than a ton to the acre, and more should be used if the soil is very sour. Applications usually are not made more frequently than once in four to six years. The usual application varies from one to two and one-half tons an acre.

PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

PRIZE ESSAY CONTEST READY

$100.00 IN PRIZES TO CHARLEVOIX COUNTY PUPILS

"Why Charlevoix County Should Build Roads of Concrete Rather Than Gravel or Soft Material"

The Charlevoix County Good Roads Association will distribute $100.00 in cash prizes among the writers of the six best essays on the above subject. While the Association will insist upon good English in all essays, it is of the opinion that in writing on this subject the point to be emphasized is the collecting and formulating of facts and figures pertaining to the cost of construction and maintenance of concrete, gravel and other roads. The data collected must be from specific examples of roads in Charlevoix county. Data regarding well known strips of road outside the county may also be used. The judges will be instructed to grade the papers according to the following plan:

Forty per cent English and composition. Sixty per cent facts and reasoning. The contest and prizes will be divided as follows:

High School Section

This section will include the 9th and 10th grades of the Boyne Falls consolidated school and the 9th, 10th and 11th and 12th grades of the three city high schools. The essays will be limited to 800 words and are to be handed in to the English teacher of each high school who will select the three best and mail to the chairman of the contest committee not later than January 14th. The twelve essays from this section will be judged by Frank Hamilton, chairman of the State Highway Advisory Board, Traverse City. A cash prize of $30 will be awarded to the writer of the best essay and $20 to the writer of the essay winning second place.

Grammar School Section

This section will include the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of the Boyne Falls school and the three city schools. The essays will be limited to 500 words. The three best essays from each of the above four schools must be mailed to the chairman of contest committee not later than January 14th. The twelve essays from this section will be judged by Ernest Peasley, clerk of the county road commission, R. F. D., Charlevoix. The prizes will be: First place $15, second place $10.

Rural School Section

This section includes all rural schools of the county except the Boyne Falls consolidated. The essays will be limited to 500 words. The papers are to be handed in to each teacher who will select the two best and mail not later than January 14th to Supt. E. C. Judd of Boyne Falls. Mr. Judd will select the twelve best and mail to the chairman of the contest committee. The twelve essays from this section will be judged by Dwight L. Wilson, Mayor of East Jordan. The prizes will be: First place $15 and second place $10.

Rules for the Contestants

1. Essays must be written on 8-1/2 x 11 mm membership paper, one side only.
2. No paper should contain any mark of identification except the initials of the contestant.
3. Attached to each essay should be a paper containing the following information: Name, address, age, grade, school, teacher and the exact number of words in the essay.

R. L. Lewis, Secretary.
Contest committee: C. A. Rice, Charlevoix, chairman, A. J. Duncan, East Jordan, A. A. Metcalf, Boyne City, E. C. Judd, Boyne Falls.

PELLSTON MAN COMMITTS SUICIDE

Eats Paris Green Then Shoots Himself with a Rifle

August Henning, Pellston resident, made good his oft repeated threat to take his own life on Monday of last week, and was found in his barn by his wife and little children with a rifle bullet hole through his head. He had also drank a large quantity of Paris green.

According to friends and relatives the man, who for several years served as a watchman at the Jackson & Tindle mill, had on many occasions not only threatened to take his own life, but the life of his wife and children as well. Friends say that he was "queer" and that they had been unable to understand his actions and threats on many occasions.

It is reported he burned all of his clothing except that which he wore, burned all of his papers, including deeds, etc., and other personal belongings. Later he took his family to Carp Lake and collected money owed him there.

He then drove back to Pellston and told his wife he was ready to take his own life. Having on previous occasions made similar threats it is said Mrs. Henning did not give serious consideration to his actions. He went to the business part of the village and secured a rifle and returned to the barn at his home. Here he drank a quantity of Paris green mixed with water, and then sent a rifle bullet through his head.

MAKE GARAGE MEN SMILE

ERICKSON GARAGE PRESS IS A WONDERFUL MACHINE

Local Man Invents a Garage Press
That is Making a Hit Among Repair Men

How many people of Charlevoix are aware that right here at home we have a small industry (small only at the present time) that is producing a machine that is selling as fast as they can be manufactured, and one that as the firm's pamphlets state, is "the press that makes garage men smile."

The Erickson Garage Press has been on the market about one and one-half years and during this time nearly eight hundred have been sold. No concerted effort has been made to date on the sales end, but regardless of this, the contrivance has been sold as fast as manufactured.

Few Charlevoix people are aware that this press is being made at the Erickson & Olmstead garage on Antrim street. But this is a fact, and the process of manufacture may eventually prove to be one of the city's chief industries.

The inventor, Theodore Erickson, perfected his press about two years ago, and immediately had it patented. A few of them were made and sold last year, but during the present year they have been behind in their orders. Last week an order was given them by a Chicago concern for 300 of the presses. Orders are coming in from everywhere. The press is pronounced the best on the market.

The garage press is not the only invention of Mr. Erickson's. He also has an automobile jack that is said to be far superior to any on the market at the present time. This jack, will also be manufactured at the garage on Antrim street, as well as other inventions not yet completed.

Locally, little has been said or done to promote this enterprise. Messrs. Erickson & Olmstead have gone ahead with the work and have experienced no trouble in selling their product. At the present time they are constructing special machinery for the manufacture of the press and jack, and when completed will enlarge their operations.

Would it not be well for the citizens of Charlevoix to at least take the time to visit the garage and see for themselves an industry that will without doubt within a year or so double its present capacity.

Summer Resident Dead

Word reached Charlevoix Tuesday of the death of Mrs. Rose Cody of Chicago, Sunday morning at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. Cody has been a summer resident of Charlevoix for many years and the news of her death will be a surprise to her many acquaintances here. She owned the cottage at the corner of Alice street and Belvedere avenue.

Over Drop Kick That Won
His Game

According to the Ottawa Free-Press Journal, in its issue of October 29th, Harold Hallett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hallett of this city, who is attending St. Bede college at Peru, Ill., made the play that won a hotly contested game between St. Bede and Luther college. Harold was one of the most promising football players ever turned out by the Charlevoix high school, as his playing with St. Bede shows.

The Free-Press says: "The Luther college-St. Bede's football game of yesterday afternoon had a most sensational ending when Quarter-back Hallett of the visiting eleven put over a drop kick from the Luther thirty-eight yard line with only forty-five seconds to play and the score knotted 7 to 7, giving his team a victory over the local college squad by a final score of 10 to 7. The kick was perfect except for the fact that the pigskin just barely grazed the cross beam on the two posts and was a complete surprise to all those who witnessed the game. It was his only chance, and a very slim one, although nobody ever dreamed that the little quarter-back would attempt such a feat. He took advantage of the only means by which his team could win the battle, with the result that he made good.

"The game was a very interesting one from start to finish. St. Bede's was the first to score, when they stacked up seven points in the first five minutes of play. Devinski, playing left half, was responsible for their first tally, by means of some hard-line plunges and end runs. After he had worked the ball up to the P. V. L. C. ten yard line they pulled a fake kick and Devinski dashed through the college defense in easy style.

"Brynstad's men made their only score in the third quarter of the game. Varland, McIntyre and Harrisville, hard hitting backs of the college eleven, succeeded in working the oval up to St. Bede's five yard line. Quarter back Bernie carried the ball over the line on a line plunge, while Varland booted for the goal.

"After that both teams battled in an attempt to untie the score and win the game. Play after play failed on both sides, while pass after pass also failed, and it seemed almost impossible that either team would be able to score against the other. During the last several minutes of play P. V. L. C. back field men were tackled for losses totaling twenty-two yards, which backed up the ball to their ten yard line. Then they punted to St. Bede, who worked the ball up to about the P. V. L. C. thirty-yard line. The time-keeper shouted out that there was only a few more seconds to play. Hallett called signals and ordered the center to 'hurry up.' The ball was snapped, and then came the big surprise when Hallett sent the drop kicked ball sailing squarely between the two posts for a victory."

TIME LIMIT EX- TENDE ONE WEEK

Charlevoix County Falling Short on Near East Relief

An extension in time of one week has been given the farmers of Charlevoix county to fill their quota to the Near East Relief.

To date the quota allotted the county is not more than half filled, but it is hoped by urgent work and hustling on the part of the committee in charge to fill the quota assigned them.

Farmers are asked to donate a bushel of potatoes, or an equal amount of grain of any kind, which will be used for this purpose. The time for making the final shipment is growing near and the need is most urgent, so all are asked to attend to the matter at once.

Given Birthday Party

Glady's Livingston was pleasantly surprised at her home Monday afternoon, the occasion being her birthday. A number of her little friends were present to help her celebrate the happy event. After games were played a dainty luncheon was served and the guests departed wishing Miss Glady many happy returns of the day.

THIRTY COUPLES ENJOY PARTY

HOUSE OF FITCH'S A HOUSE OF WITCHES

Mesdames Cooper, Wood and Lewis Entertain Friends on the Eve of Hallowe'en

"Monday at the hour of eight, On Michigan avenue at 408, We'll all assemble at the house of Fitch's

There to dance with the ghosts and witches. For Coopers, Woods and Lewises ask "That each and every one shall mask." Such is the form of invitation sent out by Mesdames C. G. Cooper, C. F. Wood, and R. L. Lewis to thirty friends to attend a Hallowe'en party given at the home of Mrs. A. L. Fitch, Monday evening.

Each acceptance was to be in verse and the following was chosen as the most clever and adapted to the occasion: "Cooper, Woods and Lewis' ask That each and every one shall mask; Cooper, Woods and Lewis' all Expect me in your spacious hall; With glee and mirth I will assemble; Myne masked to make you tremble. I may arrive a little late, The city duds I meet at eight; Perhaps you've guessed my occupation, I am Bridge-of-the-Lighting Station."

To one entering the house, many a ghost, goblin, or anything else seemed to be missing. A ghost bade you welcome by shaking hands. On your way to the cloak room, in the dimly lighted hall, you passed creepy, crawling snakes, curled to strike you if you lingered on the way. Upon entering the cloak room another ghost greeted you. Ghosts, goblins, ghosts everywhere.

The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. Even the music was weird and ghostly. At the time of unmasking, each guest was asked to walk up a stairway, down a hall, stumbling over hidden objects, falling at every turning a grinning skeleton. Uncertainly yells greeted one from all sides, and bells seemed to ring from all parts of the house.

After going through this ordeal, they were marched down the back stairway to the cellar, into leaves a foot or more deep, confronted everywhere by objects that made one shudder. Truly a more Hallowe'en spirit could hardly prevail.

Luncheon consisting of chicken and nut bread sandwiches, individual pumpkin pies, pickles, fried cakes and coffee was served. Each guest then departed declaring they had had the most ghostly time of their lives.

LEGION IS RECIPIENT OF A FINE GIFT

Mrs. Dan Swartz Presents Leslie T.
Shapton Post with Sofa Pillow

In spite of the fact that Hallowe'en was an evening of parties throughout the city, the regular meeting of the American Legion brought out more than enough for a corporal's guard.

Activities for the winter are gathering momentum. A general discussion was held at this meeting regarding changes necessary to make the winter club rooms in the first floor of the Masonic Temple more like a home than a "dugout."

A surprise came in the gift of a beautiful sofa pillow from Mrs. Dan Swartz. Official action was taken toward the acceptance of this most suitable gift and also that Mrs. Swartz's name be read into the minute book of the Leslie T. Shapton post. Other gifts from anyone that will tend to help the local post reach their ideal in the matter of clubroom furnishings will be accepted in the same manner. These records will be a matter of history. Help the American Legion.

A special meeting was decided upon to be held next Monday night. A vaudeville show to be given by the members of the local post is in the offing and we need talent. O'mon you doughboys, leathernecks and gobs—shake a leg!

DOINGS OF THE COUNTY BOARD

Twenty-four of Twenty-five Members Present at Session

The Board of Supervisors of Charlevoix county concluded its business of overseeing the business of the year with twenty-four of the twenty-five members present; A. J. Sufferin being absent during the entire session.

The report of the Charlevoix road commissioners was read and adopted without recommendation with the exception of the provision, as was also that on printing. It was recommended by the committee on public grounds and buildings that an extension be put on the chimney of the jail, and that the probate judge be permitted to buy a steel case and one sectional bookcase. The report of the secretary of the farm bureau was then heard—itemized expense account of the county agent for the months of August 17, 1920, to September 27, 1921, which totaled $2,162.58 and also list of expense for tubercular eradication work for April 1921, to September 1921, which totaled $1,628.75 and was accepted and placed on file after which it was recommended to apportion the same amount for the county agent for the coming year and $1,000 for tubercular eradication work. A detailed report of the special committee on the fair was given and accepted as was also reports of committees on claims, sinking fund, ways and apportionment.

WM. WILES, JR. BADLY INJURED

FALLS FROM BUILDING ON A SPLINTERED BOARD

Was Repairing Roof on Small Shed
When Accident Occurred—Taken to Petoskey Hospital

A terrible accident took place at the farm home of William Wiles, four miles south of Charlevoix, on the Norwood road, Friday afternoon, when his son, William, Jr., fell from the roof of a small shed astride a sharp board which entered his body terribly injuring him.

Wiles, Jr., has been repairing the building and when getting off the roof slipped and fell to the ground, a short distance. As he fell he struck a piece of splintered board standing upright, which entered his body several inches, badly lacerating his bladder and penetrating his abdomen and causing injuries which may result in his death.

He was immediately taken to the Petoskey hospital and given medical attention. Last reports are that while his injuries are serious, he may recover unless complications set in. The young man is 28 years of age and lived with his father, William Wiles, Sr., at their farm home south of the city.

FARMERS SEEK MICHIGAN LAND

More Than 700 Come into Western Territory in Last Year

Inquiry for farm land in Western and Northern Michigan is setting a new record, according to the Western Michigan Development bureau, which reports having received communications from more than 700 persons in the past three months.

"The back-to-the-farm movement is getting under motion," said William P. Hartman, secretary and manager of the bureau, as he checked over the long list of inquiries Saturday, preparatory to sending out a new directory of prospective settlers and purchasers.

A large percentage of the correspondence come from men now either residing on farms or living in cities in the middle west. However, a number of easterners are manifesting interest in Wolverine lands. One correspondent in New Haven, Conn., is inquiring for a 3,000-acre ranch. Others have shown interest in farm lands in practically every county in Western Michigan.

Baker—Hathway Nuptials

Miss Hazel Baker of Hayes township, and Mr. Hugh Hathway of Petoskey, were quietly married by the pastor of the Petoskey Baptist church last Saturday afternoon. They will make their home in Petoskey.

NORTH. MICHIGAN C. OF C. MEET

NEW ORGANIZATION IS WELL UNDER WAY

Object to Build Up Tourist, Agricultural and Industrial Interest of Section

The board of directors of the new Northern Michigan Chamber of Commerce met for dinner and business at the Cushman Wednesday evening of last week and placed the work of the new organization well under way, as finally completed, is comprised of the following members:

James Doud, Mackinac Island.
C. H. Hopkins, Cedarville (Snow Island).
John H. Thoades, St. Ignace.
P. J. Murray, St. Ignace.
A. H. Weber, Cheboygan.
D. J. MacDonald, Cheboygan.
Samuel J. Smith, Mackinaw City.
F. B. Aldrich, Long Point.
E. B. Ward, Charlevoix.
John H. Porter, East Jordan.
Frank Thompson, Boyne City.
Wm. J. Gallagher, St. James.
W. L. McManus Jr., Petoskey.
J. C. McLin, Pellston.
Thomas Linehan, Harbor Springs.
J. Frank Quinn, Petoskey.

These men were present with the exception of Mr. Hopkins, who was represented by Michael Hoban, postmaster at St. Ignace and Messrs. Murray, Porter and Gallagher who were unavoidably absent.

Mr. Thompson, who is secretary of the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, brought with him to the meeting a number of prominent men who were interested in obtaining closer information of the movement and who were guests of the directors for dinner.

By unanimous choice W. L. McManus, Jr. was made chairman and J. Frank Quinn secretary of the meeting. By-laws for the conduct of the organization, in twenty-four articles, brief but inclusive, were adopted.

These governing rules provide for the continuance of a directorate embracing four representatives from each county participating with a two-year term of office; two members from each county committee to retire each year, unless elected to continue. This governing body will be officered by the president, vice-president and managing director, to be elected from the membership of the board to serve without salary until the organization is more fully developed.

Mr. McManus will serve as president and Mr. Quinn as managing director until the board at a future meeting names permanent officers.

The membership of the organization will be of two classes, general and sustaining. The general membership will be all the taxpayers of each county represented, the supervisors of which appropriate money to the support of the organization, and the sustaining membership will be composed of direct subscribers. The sustaining members will hold the voting power.

The next meeting of the directors will probably be held in Mackinaw City and subsequent meetings will be held in other localities embraced in the organization territory.

Plans for the full financing of the movement will probably be fixed at the Mackinaw meeting which will be held in the near future.

The directors, following the provisions of the by-laws adopted at the meeting will hold quarterly meetings in October, January, April and July of each year, and will meet on special occasions at the call of the chairman.

Everything points to a wonderful development of this lusty infant organization, which will strive by close co-operation to build up the tourist, agricultural and industrial interests of Northern Michigan.

TRAVERSE CITY

RUSTLING LEAVES

Written for the Courier by
W. Gordon Parker

As you have guessed, this is a little story of autumn, and it is staged in the Blue Mountains of Pennsylvania, where the brawling trout streams run to the Delaware river and the chief industries are quarrying and "taking boarders"—the word "resorter" is not used there.

When Horace Greeley, who founded the New York Tribune in 1841, started a little settlement back on beautiful Shohola creek about 1860, he leaned toward community farming on the rugged mountainsides and in the narrow valleys. But the venture was not a success, and 60 years later a young girl from "across mountains" took charge of the little schoolhouse Greeley built, and incidentally a flock of towheads of doubtful nationalities.

No, kind reader, her name was not Eleanor Hastings, or Clarice de Vorme, or anything like that. But she was pretty and slender, with lovely blue eyes and dark brown hair, and was ravishingly pale except when a certain young man of recent acquaintance sent the telltale color to her cheeks. And spring and fall nlike had a way of rouging her lips.

On this memorable Friday morning of a dozen years ago she started for the schoolhouse through a gorgeous carpet of oak and maple leaves. The girl was going across mountains to her home at Twin Lakes over Sunday. It meant a walk of nine miles, with partridges winging to right and left and flaming leaves swirling through the air and rustling at her feet.

From the valley road she glanced up Button Rock mountain to the east at Rattlesnake Crossing. No cheery thread of smoke curled from the chimney. During the week young Durant had left with all his painting paraphernalia. As she came to the bridge she glanced unconsciously down stream to the pool he was was whipping that May morning, "ages ago," it seemed. His fly had caught upon a rhododendron bush and he had said:

"Damn! damn!"

In mock objection to his display of temper, she held her hands to her ears. And as he looked quickly over his shoulder the frown of annoyance traded with a smile. She hurried on, but he plucked out and faced her on the bridge. And they became acquainted.

From the moment of this meeting Durant knew the girl "tugged at his heartstrings," as the novelists say.

But unlike a lot of artists, he was not a dreamer. He worked in charcoal, in black and white, in oils and water colors: landscapes, figures, birds. He believed in commercial art, he said. "It took money to run a home."

During the summer the timber from Grandfather Burton's quarter was sold. John Burton told Jean she could choose her college. Jean hesitated, finally taking the Greeley school.

There had been many picnics and sketching trips, even a fleeting excursion trip to New York.

A well set-up lad with a serious purpose, Dana had played havoc with Jean's college plans. At first she struggled against her lessening interest in a "career," fought her thoughts as they veered inevitably to Dana Durant. Then she just drifted while he painted a large canvas of Shohola Falls.

He had left Tuesday evening, and he hadn't said good-bye! All night old Daddy Curry's high, rasping voice assailed her ears. He too, had blocked her way on the bridge as he told her the news.

"I brought him a telegraph. And as soon as he read it he began to pack up. We put up the board windows and locked up for the winter. A girl can't put no dependence in these artist fellows," chuckled Daddy.

Jean was on the point of saying that Dana Durant was nothing to her, which seemed quite true; but she smiled serenely and thanked Daddy as she passed on.

During the Friday morning classes Jean's thoughts voyaged a hundred miles down the mountains and across the hlenk Jersey marshes to New York. He was there. He was leaving the city on the Port Jervis flyer. He was taking the local. Daddy Curry was putting his bag on the buckboard. It had to be! They would reach Greeley about two o'clock.

And at exactly one-fifty Jean Burton looked down the rocky road. Daddy Curry's old white horse was seen climbing the hill, and there was a passenger! Jean began poking up the morning fire and was hating smoke as Dana hurried in.

"Wonderful news!" he greeted. "I sold that picture of the falls to an Iowa calendar company and I'm going to do another. I want you in every one. That—that bit of scarlet sweater made the thing go."

He held her hand and looked across the valley and up the mountain.

"I see the old shack's still there," he smiled. "I didn't want to tell you anything till I'd made a deal."

Jean gave him a shoulder, her heart leaping.

"I shook my fist at your old studio this morning and vowed I hated men," she confessed. "Artists are very unreliable. Daddy Curry says so."

"Daddy Curry, you're a traitor!" laughed the boy. "Give me back that pipe."

Two hours later they were on their way over the mountains. Now in sunlight, now in shadow, they tramped on through myriads of rustling leaves. The tang of autumn was in the air. Ruffed grouse winged swiftly through the dusk.

And as they skirted Little Twin Lake Jean laughingly eluded him. She hurried down the familiar road and cut through a strip of woods. He was just behind her, and the chestnut bars were up! Breathless, Jean tried to lower the top bar, but he caught her in his arms before she could move it. And he did not release her until he heard her father come out with the milk buckets. Then, stepping into a patch of moonlight, she whispered:

"Is my face red?"

Not Obsolete.

Admiral Sims said at a dinner party in New York:

"Youth is always an extremist. Take, for instance, the battleship question. We middle-aged sailors are just now asking ourselves how much the submarine has impaired the value of the battleship, but youth has got the question settled for good and all."

"What is the value of the battleship today? I said to a naval cadet at a luncheon."

"No damned value at all," he answered.

"Then he thought a moment and added:

"Of course, she's got a very nice deck for dancing."

Smart.

"That lawyer is making a fine speech to the ladies of the jury."

"He's full of guile, too."

"In what respect?"

"He carefully refrained from addressing them as the 'intelligent ladies of the jury,' and thus avoided the insinuation that they might not be good-looking."—Bloomington Age Herald.

So far no real substitute for work has been found. Procrastination is not. Neither is there anything as even resolute as a man's mind. It is not by a mass of Theocratic Government.

Theocracy was the name given to a system of government by ecclesiastical authorities, professedly in the name of and under the direction of heaven itself. The priests claimed to rule under the immediate sovereignty of God, and the revelations announced as coming from the deity were given out as the civil law of the state. The people of ancient Israel were under such a government from the time of the Exodus until the accession of King Saul.

Chinook Language.

The Chinook language is a jargon of Indian, French, English and other words, named after the Chinook Indians of the Columbia river in the state of Washington and in British Columbia. It was once much used by traders and Indians in that region, but is now nearly abandoned. Gill's "Philology of Chinook Jargon" was published in Portland, Ore., in 1891, and Boas' "Chinook Texts" in the Smithsonian report of the bureau of ethnology at Washington in 1894.

Keepers of Libraries.

Those who read many books are like the eaters of hashish. They live in a dream. The subtle poison that penetrates their brain renders them insensible to the real world and makes them the prey of terrible or delightful phantoms. Books are the opium of the Occident. They devour us. A day is coming on which we shall all be keepers of libraries, and that will be the end.—Anatole France.

Still They Are Worn.

Suggestive Reading

You will hear it said that such a magazine prints suggestive stories, meaning that they present corrupting ideas in an attractive dress. But there is a suggestiveness also of quite a different sort—the suggestiveness that quickens the reader's sense of duty, stimulates ambition, gives courage to face adversity, fortifies against yielding easily to temptation. It is this better kind of suggestiveness that you will find on almost every page of The Youth's Companion. Which of these two kinds of suggestiveness would you wish to have ex-

COMMUNAL HOSPITALITY

An automobile tourist, driving east from Salt Lake City, tells an Ohio newspaper: "All along the way, until we struck this section, we found public camping grounds in the towns, maintained by the municipalities, equipped with cookstoves, free fuel, electric lights and shower baths. I wonder why you don't have public camping grounds here like that out here."

The west has been very quick to see and supply the need of camping facilities for this new mode of travel but other sections have been strangely slow about it. A town here and there has established camping grounds, though seldom so well equipped as those of the west. In many places private individuals have provided camps or cabins, for whose use a charge is made. For the most part, there is no provision whatever for the motor tourist in most states except that of the regular hotels, which does not appeal to those who like camping.

Eventually there will be adequate, comfortable municipal camps everywhere. Cities and towns will be driven to it, for self-protection if for no other reason, as the tide of traveling campers swells. A community camp, having trailers camping indiscriminately all over the place. It is much better, from the standpoint of order and sanitation, to centralize and regulate the camping. But as the western cities have found, it really pays to furnish such facilities. Travelers need supplies, and have money to spend. If they are well treated they go away singing its praises throughout the land—and that is excellent advertising.

It is no more than fair that a moderate charge be made for the use of a public camping place, but few western cities are disposed to insist on that. And in offering free shelter, fuel and light, they are really reviving one of the oldest and finest of human institutions, communal hospitality. Our western civilization at last shows itself as generous as the Orient which has always held the entertainment of strangers a sacred duty.

CHIMNEY CLEANING TIME

"Have your chimney cleaned or keep the telephone number of the fire department handy," counsels a fire insurance inspector. It is a friendly tip, and not to be despised, as the inspector goes on to explain.

"It is pretty sure to be one or the other, a clean chimney or a fire. Now before cold weather sets in, is the time to have your chimneys inspected and see that you are all set for the winter. This is especially true if you have been burning gas. Gas eats out the mortar between the bricks if the chimney has not been properly lined. Then you start a coal fire and sparks fall into the attic through the out the mortar between the bricks. It isn't just gas-eaten chimneys that need inspecting. An accumulation of soot in any chimney or in a length of stovepipe is a fire menace always. The kindling of winter's hotter fire sets the soot ablaze. The sparks fly, and the trouble begins, back in the walls or up on the ridge pole of the house where it is hardest to reach.

While the chimneys are being put in order the heating appliances themselves may be well come in for a going over. Defects should be repaired and drafts and checks attended to, so that the family and not the coal men may profit most from the family coal pile.

Charlevoix is Good Enough
"Charlevoix is good enough for me," says Charlie Alexander, who left this city for California September 19th, and returned last Monday. Alexander reports that in San Francisco alone there are 10,000 men out of work, and about the same conditions exist in all parts of the state.

Exhibit Freak Potatoes
The Courier office was the recipient of several freak potatoes last week, brought in by Dave Alexander. Three of them were in the form of a pawn broker's sign, (in three parts), and several were long and had the appearance of several good sized potatoes grown together.

Halloween Birthday Party
Miss Lyla Heise entertained eleven little girl friends at her home Monday afternoon with a Halloween party. The house was prettily decorated and games were played, after which Mrs. Heise served a delicious supper. All report the usual good time.

INCREASED NITROGEN SUPPLY

Element May Be Added by Proper Soil Treatment, Retention of Crops and Phosphate.

The supply of nitrogen, the most costly element of food for plants, can be increased through proper soil treatment, rotation of crops, the addition of phosphate and limestone and the growing and plowing under of legumes. All stable manure is to be utilized, and on the other, worn soils of the East and South some commercial nitrogen may be profitably used. Following a crop that is a heavy nitrogen-consumer with one that is a light user is good farm practice.

PLAN TO DESTROY CUTWORMS

Pests Work at Night and May Be Killed With Aid of Paddle and Flashlight.

Cutworms sometimes give considerable trouble if the nights are cool and the weather unsettled. A good way to get rid of cutworms in the garden is to go out in the evening after dark with a flashlight and paddle and kill the pests. They may be found on the surface at work at night. It will take but a short time to get rid of cutworms in the garden. This is a quick and more reliable way than using poisoned mash.

Few Regions Really Rainless.

RAILROAD PLAN TO GET RATES DOWN

Propose to Reduce Wages and Return All the Saving by Reduction in Charges.

FULL TEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

Statement by Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, on the Situation.

Following a meeting in Chicago, October 14, 1921, of the presidents of nearly all the leading railroads in the country, Mr. Thomas De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, made the following statement:

At a meeting of the Association of Railway Executives today it was determined by the railroads of the United States, to seek to bring about a reduction in rates, and as a means to that end to seek a reduction in present railroad wages, which have compelled maintenance of the present rates.

An application will be made immediately to the United States railroad labor board for a reduction in wages of train service employees sufficient to remove the remainder of the increases made by the labor boards decision of July 20, 1920 (which would involve a further reduction of approximately ten per cent) and for a reduction in the wages of all other classes of railroad labor to the going rate for such labor in several territories where the carriers operate.

To Reduce Rates as Wages Go Down.

The foregoing action is upon the understanding that concurrently with such reduction in wages the benefit of the reduction thus obtained shall, with the concurrence of the Interstate Commerce Commission, be passed on to the public in the reduction of existing railroad rates, except insofar as this reduction shall have been made in the meantime.

The management have decided upon this course in view of their realization of the fact that the wheels of industrial activity have been closed down to a point which brings depression and distress to the entire public, and that something must be done to start them again in operation.

The situation which confronts the railroads is extremely critical. The railroads in 1920 realized a net railway operating income of about $62,000,000 upon a property investment of over $10,000,000,000 and even this amount of $62,000,000 included back pay for prior years received from the government of approximately $61,000,000 thus showing, when the operations of that year alone are considered, an actual deficit before making any allowance for either interest or dividends.

The year ended in serious depression in all branches of industry, and in marked reduction of the market demand for, and the prices of, basic commodities, resulting in a very serious falling off in the volume of traffic.

Roads Forced to Defer Maintenance.
In this situation, a policy of the most rigid economy and of postponing and cutting to the bone the upkeep of the properties was adopted by the railroads. That was at the price of neglecting and for the time deferring work which must hereafter and in the near future be done and paid for.

This is illustrated by the fact that as of September 15, 1921, over 10 per cent of 374,431 in number, of the freight cars of the carriers were in bad order and needing repairs, as against a normal of but one per cent, or two more than 1919, as is further illustrated by the deteriorated and inadequate maintenance of other equipment and of roadway and structures.

Even under these conditions and with this large bill charged up against the future, which must soon be provided for and paid if the carriers are to perform successfully their transportation duties, the result of operations for the first eight months of this year, the latest available figures, has been at a rate of net railway operating income before providing for interest or dividends, amounting to only 2.6 per cent per annum on the valuation of the carrier properties made by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the recent rate case, an amount not sufficient to pay the interest on their outstanding bonds.

Roads' Earnings Far Below Reasonable Returns.

It is manifest, from this showing, that the rate of return of 5 1/2 or 6 per cent for the first two years after March 1, 1920, fixed in the transportation act as a minimum reasonable return upon railroad investment, has not been even approximated—much less reached; and that the present high rates accordingly are not due to any statutory guarantee of earnings for there is no such guarantee.

In analyzing the expenses which have largely brought about this situation, it becomes evident that by far Today the railroads pay out to labor approximately sixty cents on the dollar they receive for transportation services, whereas in 1910, forty cents on the dollar went to labor.

On the first day of January, 1917, when the government took charge of wages through the Adamson act, the labor cost of the railroads had not exceeded the sum of about $1,308,000,000 annually. In 1920, when governmental authority made the last wage increase, the labor cost of the railroads was about $3,008,000,000 annually, or if continued throughout the year instead of for the eight months during which the wage increases were in effect, the labor cost in an annual basis which has been largely in excess of $3,000,000,000; an increase, since the government took charge of railroad wages in the Adamson act of approximately $2,450,000,000 annually.

In the light of these figures, it is manifest that the recent reduction of wages authorized by the labor board, estimated at from 10 to 12 per cent in no sense meets or solves the problem of labor costs and by no way makes it possible for the railroads to afford a reduction in their revenues.

Thousands of Rates Already Reduced.
Indeed, during the past year there have been between four and five thousand individual reductions in freight rates. But some railroads the reductions in rates have amounted to more than the reductions in wages so far made and on many other railroads the reductions in wages allowed no net return on operations but merely provided against the further accumulation of a deficit. The point is often made that agriculture and other industries are suffering the same immediate difficulties as the railroads, why, therefore do not the railroads take their medicine like anybody else. The answer lies in several facts.

1. The railroads were not permitted, as were other industries, to make charges during the years of prosperity, making possible the accumulation of a surplus to tide them over the present extreme adversity, according to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission the rate of return in property investment of the railroads of the United States for the past several years has been as follows:

RATE OF RETURN EARNED BY RAILROADS OF THE UNITED STATES ON THEIR PROPERTY INVESTMENT.

1913	5.15%
1914	4.17%
1915	4.20%
1916 (fiscal year)	5.90%
1916 (calendar year)	6.10%
1917	5.26%
1918	3.51%
1919	2.16%
1920	0.12%

It will thus be noted that during the years when other industries were making very large profits, when the prices of farm products and the wages of labor were soaring to unheard of heights, the earnings upon railroad investment in the United States were held within very narrow limits and that they have during the past four years progressively declined.

Roads Handicapped More Than Other Business.

2. The railroads are responsible to the public for providing adequate transportation. Their charges are limited by public authority, and they are in very large respects (notably for labor) compelled to spend money on a basis fixed by public authority. The margin within which they are permitted to earn a return upon their investment or to offer inducements to attract new capital for extensions and betterments is extremely limited. However much the railroads might desire, therefore, to reduce their charges in times of depression, it will be perceived that the handicaps surrounding their action do not permit them to give effect to broad and elastic policies which might very properly govern other lines of business not thus restricted. It has been urged upon the railroads that a reduction in rates will stimulate traffic and that increased traffic will protect the carriers from the loss incident to a reduction in rates. The railroad management cannot disguise from themselves that this suggestion is merely conjectural and that an adverse result of the experiment would be disastrous not only to the railroads but to the public whose supreme need is adequate transportation. Consequently the railroad management cannot feel justified in placing these instrumentalities, so essential to the public welfare, at the hazard of such an experiment, based solely upon such a conjecture.

Farmers Especially Need Lower Rates.
It is evident, however, that existing transportation charges bear in many cases a disproportionate relationship to the prices at which commodities can be sold in the market, and that existing labor and other costs of transportation thus imposed upon industry and agriculture generally, a burden greater than they should bear. This is especially true of agriculture. The railroad management are feeling sensitive to and sympathetic with the distressing situation and desire to do everything to assist in relieving it that is compatible with their duty to furnish the transportation which the public must have.

At the moment railroads in many cases are paying forty cents an hour for skilled labor when similar labor is working alongside the railroads and can be easily obtained by them at twenty cents an hour. The labor cost of the carriers paid in 1921 a total of considerably over $3,000,000,000 annually. However desirable it may be to pay this or that schedule of wages, it is obvious that it cannot be paid out of railroad earnings unless the industries which use the railroads are capable of meeting such charges.

The railroads, and through them the people generally, are also handicapped in their efforts to economize by a schedule of working rules and conditions now in force as a heritage from the period of federal control and in which the railroad labor boards. These conditions are expensive, uneconomic and unnecessary from the point of view of railroad operation and extremely burdensome upon the public which pays the bill. This schedule of wages and of working conditions prevents the railroads from meeting equitably with their labor costs in accordance with rapidly changing conditions and the great variety of local considerations which must be met by different

The railroads will seek a reduction in wages now proposed by first requesting the sanction of the railroad labor board. The railroads will proceed with all possible dispatch, and as soon as the railroad labor board shall have given its assent to the reduction of wages the general reduction in rates will be put into effect.

AGED WOMAN DIES AT HOME OF SISTER

Funeral Services for Mrs. P. A. Wright Held from M. E. Church

Phoebe Arrilla Wright was born near Vermontville, Mich., May 3, 1810. In 1880 after the death of her father the family moved to Portland, where she spent the greater part of her life until 1895, when she came to Ellsworth.

February 12, 1898, she was united in marriage to A. F. Wisley. For the past ten years their home has been in the northern peninsula and the past three years at Foster City.

Mrs. Wisley was the mother of five children, four of whom survive, one having died in infancy. Two months ago she returned to Ellsworth where she died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Curtis Feltenbarger, October 23, 1921. She leaves a husband and two sons, Charles and George of Foster City, two daughters, Mrs. Lottie Taylor and Mrs. Eva Herrington, of Ellsworth, also two grand-daughters, two sisters and three brothers all of Ellsworth except one brother who lives at Oakville, Wash.

Funeral services were conducted at the M. E. church by Elder N. M. Jorgensen of the Seventh Day Adventist church of Ludington and Rev. Clark of the M. E. church of Ellsworth. The remains were laid to rest in the Boss cemetery.

Mrs. Wisley became a member of the Baptist church at Portland when a girl and about six years ago she joined the Adventist church at Eastport.

Nuts in Immense Quantities.

On the north coast of Guatemala 25,000 tons of cologne nuts are said to be available for exportation annually and with an expenditure of $10,000 for highway improvement this quantity could probably be increased to 50,000 tons per annum. On the Pacific coast the yield of, cones, nuts it is estimated, could easily be increased to 20,000 tons per annum. There is a supply of cheap labor in this southern region.

Energy Needs in Calories.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, a family consisting of a father, mother and three children requires approximately 12,000 calories a day. MORE FOXES AT PETOSKEY RANCH

Ernest Gaffney Arrives With Carload of Breeding Stock

Ernest Gaffney, of the Petoskey Pioneer Fox Farm, arrived home last week from Prince Edward Island where he shipped to Petoskey thirty-six silver-black foxes for the Petoskey ranch. The foxes, most of them pups, were shipped in small shipping cases, fed and cared for during the entire week on the road by Mr. Gaffney. They came through in fine shape and by night were safely in the pens at the ranch. There are now 45 pairs of foxes at the ranch.

The new stock is registered in Canada and officially recognized by the American government as standard breeding stock. Each fox is officially tattooed and lettered on his ears, the official mark of the Canadian registry officer.

CHEVROLET AND TRUCK MEET HEAD-ON

State Street Hill Scene of Another Automobile Accident

Another auto accident which might have resulted disastrously for both parties in the mix-up, occurred on the State street hill late Saturday afternoon when a Chevrolet driven by W. E. Byers hit the Dodge delivery car of Brady & Shapton.

Had either of the cars been running at a fast speed, the collision would have resulted in both cars being more or less smashed up. As it was the tool box on the delivery car was knocked off and slight damage done to both cars.

This point is one of the city's most dangerous intersections and several accidents have been narrowly averted this summer. Had the brakes held Saturday, there would have been no accident, but slippery pavements caused the cars to skid with the above result.

4th GRADERS HAVE PLEASANT SURPRISE

Miss Lydia Sharrow Reminded of Birthday Anniversary

Members of the 4th grade and Miss Lydia Sharrow were pleasantly surprised Monday afternoon in the class room, when their teacher, Miss Thorsen and Mrs. Bert Sharrow arranged a surprise party for Miss Sharrow, the occasion being her tenth birthday anniversary.

Some forty members of the class enjoyed various games, after which a dainty luncheon of pop corn, apples, fried cakes and the birth day cake with its candles were disposed of. The event was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

DAUGHTER ARRIVES AT PARSHALL HOME

Former Norwood Pastor Located at Traverse City

A daughter, Miriam Jean, was born to Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Parshall of 213 E. Thirteenth street, Traverse City, Mich., October 26th, at Johnson hospital, Traverse City.

Rev. Parshall, a disabled World War veteran, was pastor at Bellaire until Easter of this year, when he was unable to continue his work. He was granted the superannuate relation by the recent Methodist conference at Benton Harbor, and he is now living in Traverse City. He was pastor at Norwood, Atwood and Barnard before his enlistment May 4th, 1918.

AT THE MOVIES

"ONE WILD WEEK"

Is the story of a girl who had never had any fun. Brought up by a stern spinster, denied the innocent pleasures and pretty clothes that are a girl's legitimate birthright, Pauline just natchely busted loose when her eighteenth birthday arrived.

But like the Bolsheviks in Russia she didn't know how to use her freedom very well when she got it. So she got herself into a peck of unexpected trouble and kept things lively for a lot of folks during the first few days of her new-found freedom. You'll say she gave 'em "One Wild Week" if you go to see Bebe Daniels at the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

LOEB FARMS NOTES.

Jack Frost and his whitewash brush put in a belated appearance Wednesday morning.

Ross Alexander and his smile—wouldn't he make a fifty end man in a minstrel show?—are now toiling under yard foreman C. E. Scott.

Speaking of smiles, the characteristic keen, expansive grin of Vaughan Orvis has broadened under the influence of a crop report of red beet: "118 tons on an even seven acres," says Vaughan, "is going some!" We agree.

Czar Merritt Miller and his man Friday, Nance Neff, of the painting crew, look like members of the Ku Klux in their roomy white coveralls. (The scribe packs a wicked wallop.)

A private branch switchboard is being installed in the office by affable employees of the Bell company.

The "Swedish Root Cellar" has been completed under Supts. Kling and Metz, and John is happy again.

R. V. Otto, assistant manager of Loeb Farms, returned Wednesday from a trip to southern Michigan and Ohio points in the interests of the Farms. Mr. Otto reported that farming conditions looked about normal and that there was considerable activity in the Holstein-Friesian industry, many registered bulls being placed through bull associations and privately in communities visited.

Plans are now being matured and full details will be given at a later date. The plans, if carried out as now outlined, will be for subordinate lodges to present three prizes to the high school students in their city, for the best essays on a topic that will make for better citizenship and truer Americanism. The Grand Lodge will provide these uniform prizes.

Then after the local contests have been held, the prize-winning papers will be submitted to judges selected by the Grand Chancellor, and the three in the entire state who are selected by the judges as having the best papers, will be invited to appear before the Grand Lodge at Charlevoix next September and deliver their essays as an oration before the Grand Lodge, or at some public function. Their expenses will be paid and suitable prizes presented in addition. This will give three high school students, be they boys or girls, a free trip to the most beautiful summer city in the state, and in addition a prize that will be well worth striving for.

BEAT HARBOR BY 19-0 SCORE

CHARLEVOIX EVENS MATTERS FOR EARLY GAME LOST

Visitors Out-generated and Out-Played from Very Beginning of Game—Play Boyne Friday

The Charlevoix football team met the heavier Harbor Springs aggregation last Friday on the high school field south of town and thoroughly trounced them grabbing the long end of a 19-0 score.

The Charlevoix boys met Harbor Springs there a few weeks ago and lost 20 to 14. At that time our local management tried to schedule a return game but it was impossible. But after Harbor beat Manclona then Charlevoix looked easy so they called up for a game on November 4th.

The game was called promptly at 3:00. Capt. Jones lost the toss and Harbor chose to receive. Ackert kicked off to their fullback, who fumbled on their 25 yard line and Cunningham recovered for Charlevoix. Then with a few end runs and off-luckie plunges Capt. Jones went over with the first touchdown. We failed to kick goal.

The remainder of the first half was featured by tight playing in the line by both teams and the half ended 6-0.

During the third quarter the fans witnessed a run of quarterback Marshall that will remain in their memory for some time. Harbor was forced to punt. "J. C." caught it and with some wonderful interference by Ackert and Lewis, was able to carry the ball 55 yards for our second touchdown. This time Ackert kicked goal.

During the fourth quarter Capt. Jones started his line smashes again and Harbor was not able to stop him, thus scoring our third touchdown. Again Ackert missed goal due to the strong wind.

The time keeper kept us from scoring again by blowing his whistle for another minute of playing would have given us another touchdown.

The game ended 19-0. It would be hard to pick out the stars for the whole Charlevoix squad was fighting the best that they knew how. Capt. Jones and Ackert looked to be the consistent ground-gainers.

EDITOR ASKS SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS

The editor of the Free Press of Fulda, Minn., handed the following list of questions to his readers in a recent issue of his paper:

"When you want newspaper favors, you strike your home paper, don't you?"

"If you want your town boomed and your property increased in value, you expect the home paper to do it for nothing, don't you?"

"You kick because your home paper hasn't as much reading matter as the big dailies, don't you?"

"And you preclude the home paper from thinking this is a good place for it by not giving it sufficient patronage, don't you?"

"And you infrequently sneak off to some big city print shop to get job work done, to save a few cents, don't you?"

"You are mighty free about telling what a good thing for the community a home paper is, but you are backward when it comes to helping that paper with the price of a year's subscription, aren't you?"

"The home paper doesn't charge you interest on back subscriptions, but you wait until the last thing before paying it, don't you?"

"You are mighty anxious to have the home paper spend money with you, but you are careful to spend as little as possible with it, aren't you?"

"You think the publisher can live on promises and pay his bills with the same material, don't you?"

"You think he can forever digest the fact that his paper is a good thing for the community and not receive anything in return. But he can't do it, can he?"

We could add several other questions, but refrain from doing it. We have a lot of kindly feeling for the 317 subscribers who during the past month have responded to our request to pay their subscription to the Courier.

The other 1129 who we billed at the same time, are a source of great worry to us. What if they should all call at the same time and want to settle. But then, we would manage somehow to take care of them.

ers, while Todd and Lewia were very good on defense.

Friday the boys go to Boyne City. We are only hoping to hold them to a decent score as they have the best team in Northern Michigan. Everybody that can get away go to Boyne City on November 11th.

ROSES IN BLOOM NOVEMBER FIFTH

Charles Vosburg Exhibits Both Buds and Full Roses

One reads every once in a while of instances where roses are in full bloom, trees in blossom, ripe fruit of various kinds have been picked and placed on exhibition. These accounts are usually from southern Michigan points and are featured in the daily papers.

But they have nothing on Charlevoix. Roses bloom here, as does the fruit grow, both late in the year. Last Saturday Charles Vosburg brought to this office a branch from a rose bush. On this branch were three full blown roses and several buds. The branch was taken from a bush also contained many other roses and buds.

Other instances have been told us where ripe raspberries and strawberries have been picked, and many wild flowers are to be found in the woods. One instance is reported of a cherry tree being in full blossom. Shucks! We have overlooked it as a news item, but if southern Michigan papers brag of similar occurrences, we will make mention of it any day.

OFF FOR THE NORTH WOODS

CHARLEVOIX HUNTERS LEAVE
EARLY FOR CAMPS

City Will Have But Small Representation of Hunters This Year
On Account of Law

Charlevoix county, especially the city of Charlevoix, will have the smallest representation during the hunting season, than for many years past. One of the chief reasons for this is the one-huck law.

The present law allows each hunter one male deer—a deer with horns three inches above the skull. This law, thought by many to be the solution of game preservation, will without doubt result in the killing of hundreds of deer which will be left in the woods. The average hunter will shoot first, then look for horns. If no horns on the deer killed, he will keep on shooting until he either kills a deer with horns or the closing of the season stops him from hunting.

Whether the new law will be a solution of the matter is a question with many who have spent year after year in the woods. The game wardens are expected to keep close watch on every man who enters the woods and this report will govern future hunting regulations—and the wardens are usually found close to railroad stations. Their report of the killing of deer naturally will be from long range observation. The version of the man who hunts will reveal the situation as it really is, but how far this version will influence the game department is problematical.

One result obtained from the new law, however, is that fewer hunters will enjoy their annual outing this year than ever before, and fewer deer will be killed from men below the straits.

Three parties have left Charlevoix to date. Bert Staley, Elmer Ingalls, Art Staley, Ralph Murphy and Vaughan Orvis will hunt from their old camp in Ontonagon county, seven miles north of Lake Gogiche station.

N. A. Shores, Tim Shores, Irving and John Hallett and Wm. Maybury left Saturday for the Two Heart region, 32 miles north of Newberry.

D. F. Meech, L. VanSkiver, H. A. Mohrman, Isa Alward, and Will and Ed. Ross will make their headquarters at the Meech-Harris camp on the Taquemaqu river, northeast of Newberry.

Others are planning to leave but have not as yet decided where or when they will go.

Attention, People of Charlevoix. The ladies of the Baptist church will serve on Tuesday, November 15, one of their famous chicken pie suppers at the Baptist church. Everything to eat for only 35c. Come. 4511

JOHN REYCRRAFT TO SAVE FOREST

PLANS WAY TO PRESERVE HIS TIMBER

Says He Will Turn It Over to State
For Public Park If State Will Take Care of It.

Just as Cecil Rhodes, South African empire builder, was buried among the rocks and boulders he so dearly loved, so will John J. Reycraft, well-known Petoskey physician be interred in the center of his 200 acres of virgin timber near Zenith Heights, on the shore of Walloon Lake, in Charlevoix county, when called to lay down his many activities.

Like Rhodes, Dr. Reycraft is a native of a British colony. He came from Canada to Michigan in his youth, and knew the forests of Northern Michigan when they were in their glory. Now, when the exigencies of his busy life permit, he drives to his woods for relaxation and meditates amid the largest trees in this part of Michigan, which are said to be the only ones not marked for the woodsman's axe. Some of the maples are three feet in diameter and the sturdy old hemlocks thrive luxuriantly despite their 250 years. Also there are elm, beech and basswood.

Dr. Reycraft will rest in perpetual protest against forest devastation. He will provide that the forest never shall be cut, and he insists that despite dying tips forests will perpetuate themselves if allowed to do so.

"In the days to come I want that there shall be at least one place where children may be taken and shown a bit of what once was Michigan's most princely possession," said Dr. Reycraft in announcing his intentions. "The timber never shall be cut, and if the state will contract to keep it intact I will turn it over at my death to be used as a public park. Michigan has pursued a fatal policy regarding timber and has been very remiss in failing to conserve the interests of the man who would perpetuate it. They produce no income and therefore should not be taxed on their values every year. It is this everlasting taxation that has forced owners to turn their timber over to the men who have made millions of dollars on it. It should be taxed only when cut, and then on its worth. Ever since I can remember they have talked forest preservation and gone on cutting; hence I make this protest."—Petoskey Evening News.

STREET LIGHTING OF CHARLEVOIX

Discussed at Meeting of Association of Commerce

C. P. Murchison, representing the General Electric Co., of Chicago, gave a lengthy talk on street lighting and systems used at the regular meeting of the Association of Commerce last Friday evening.

Mr. Murchison recommended the bracket system for Charlevoix, on account of the numerous telephone and electric light poles on Bridge street. "All poles should be removed before a street lighting system is installed," said the speaker. And the removing of these poles which at the present time adorns Bridge, St. will take at least two years, possibly three.

The bracket system consists of one light of high voltage, attached to the poles at intervals. These could be utilized on side streets should a more expensive system be later installed on Bridge street or other main streets. This system was endorsed by the association.

A resolution was also passed, to be presented to the officials of the Michigan Transit company asking them to so arrange their schedule of the Manitou to allow her time to make the turn in Pine Lake instead of Round Lake, on her daylight arrivals. This would allow the hundreds of summer tourists who travel on this popular boat to see the beauties of Pine Lake thus getting a better impression of Charlevoix as a resort from both of our inland lakes.

The meeting was held at the Masonic Temple and the banquet served by the ladies of the O. E. S. The attendance was up to standard, especially that of the women, who are as much interested in the future welfare of our city as the men. Other topics were discussed which will eventually result in a better community for all.

The next meeting will be held the first Friday evening in December.

Charlevoix County Potatoes Win
Sweepstakes Prize—Now on The Honor List

The showing which the Michigan Petoskey Golden Russet potatoes made at the International Potato Show held at Duluth, October 26-28, has proven a very pleasant surprise to the potato growing interest of Michigan and is quite a decided surprise to the other potato growing states.

Through the co-operation of the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange and the Seed Department of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, D. B. Jewell was sent to the International Potato Show at Duluth with an exhibition of Michigan potatoes selected principally from the great potato areas, Charlevoix, Emmet, Otsego, and Cheboygan counties. Since the Michigan growers have very thoroughly standardized their crops to one variety the entire exhibition consisted of entries of the Petoskey Golden Russet in all possible classes. In one peck exhibition prizes were offered and all of these prizes except the seventh went to Michigan growers, the seventh going to a New York farmer. The first prize in this class was awarded to the Charlevoix county entry while the second and third prizes went to Cheboygan and Antrim counties respectively. The Charlevoix county entry also won the Sweepstakes prize for being the best peck in the show outside of Minnesota. The showing made by this peck of potatoes has placed Charlevoix county on the honor list of potato growing counties of the state.

The international championship association display was won by the Wolverine Marketing association while the second prize went to the Yellowstone Growers' association of Sidney, Montana; the third prize to the Markets Department of the Washington county farm bureau of Reno, Nev., and the fourth to the Meadowland Potato association of Meadowland, Minn.

The fact that Michigan won this prize with Petoskey Golden Russet over all competing varieties excited considerable discussion and won the favor of many of the growers of other prize with Petoskey Golden Russets.

In the 100 pound exhibit for seed purposes for all varieties competing, Michigan won second and fifth competition. As this class was very heavy and due to the bulk, few Michigan growers exhibited. The judging of the exhibition was in the hands of C. L. Fitch, extension professor of vegetables, Ames, Ia., Chas. Brown, potato authority of Minnesota and J. G. Millwood, extension horticulturist, Madison, Wis.

The prize winning exhibitions are being preserved for display at Farmer's Week and Winter Round-up exchanges of the several corn-belt states.

Entertained for Mrs. Tom Shapton. Mrs. Edd Shapton entertained at her home on Hulbert avenue, Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Tom Shapton of Flint. The afternoon was spent in visiting, after which a delightful luncheon was served. Mrs. Shapton left for her home Tuesday morning.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

The President of the United States of America, having set aside Armistice Day, November 11th as a holiday for the observance of the 3rd anniversary of the victory of the Allied forces, and the Governor of the state of Michigan having declared the day a holiday, therefore I, Oscar E. Wilbur, mayor of the City of Charlevoix, do call upon the citizens hereof to faithfully observe the day in the manner prescribed in the President's Proclamation, entering upon a two-minute period of silent prayer at twelve o'clock, noon, the time for which will be proclaimed by the tapping of the Congregational church bell eleven times.

Dated this 7th day of November, A. D., 1921.
Oscar E. Wilbur
Mayor.

FAMILY OF NINE IN NEED OF HELP

Little Children Without Shoes and Clothing

An instance was brought to our attention last week which involves a mother and nine children, who are facing a long cold winter without sufficient means to sustain life and right now at the beginning of winter without clothes or footwear.

There are nine children, the youngest one and one-half years old and the oldest but eleven years. These little tots are running around barefoot, scantily clothed, and have barely enough to eat. The mother is making a brave fight to care for her family, but will need help within a short time. The father has deserted them, and when he left he took everything from the home he could turn into money.

The home is but a few miles from Charlevoix, and the sight of these innocent little children running about the house barefoot, their little bodies wrapped in rags, cannot help but make one realize that extreme poverty exists in many localities right here at home, and should be given immediate help.

Forget for a moment the need of help by the unfortunate and needy in foreign countries, and give this mother the assistance she should have. The Courier will furnish the needed information, and several parties have already volunteered to not only go to the home, but furnish articles of clothing. Who will help?

DWIGHT H. FITCH BURIED SUNDAY

DIED SUDDENLY AT MUSKEGON
NOVEMBER 4th

Was a Former Resident of Charlevoix and East Jordan—Served County as Prosecutor

Dwight H. Fitch, former resident of Charlevoix and East Jordan, lived at the time of his death at Muskegon Heights, died suddenly Friday, November 4th, from internal hemorrhages.

Deceased was born in Livingston county in 1867, and was 54 years of age. After finishing his studies in the local schools, he entered the University of Michigan, taking up the study of law, graduating in 1892. He first located in Howell, Mich., coming to Charlevoix in 1900. After seven years in Charlevoix he moved to East Jordan, where he continued his law practice until about two years ago, when he located in Muskegon Heights.

During the years 1910 to 1914 he faithfully performed the duties as prosecuting attorney of this county, making an exceptional record.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Lewis W., age 16, two brothers, A. L. Fitch of this city, and Homer Fitch of Grayling, Mich., and a sister, Mrs. C. H. Tooley of Boyne City. During his residence both in Charlevoix and East Jordan he made a host of friends who greatly regret their loss of a friend and counselor.

The remains were brought from his Muskegon home to the residence of his brother, A. L. Fitch of this city, on the afternoon train Saturday. Funeral services were held from the home Sunday, at 2:30 p. m. in charge of the Masonic lodge of East Jordan, of which he was a member, Rev. James Smith, assisting. Interment in the Fitch family lot at Brookside cemetery.

MARRIED AT COAST GUARD STATION

Home of Capt. F. C. Partridge Scene
Happy Event

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Capt. F. C. Partridge, of the Coast Guard station, Wednesday evening, November 2nd at 7:30 o'clock when Rev. Jas. A. Smith united in marriage Harry Alfredson and Gertrude Nordling.

The bride's home is in Chicago, but she has spent a number of her summers in Charlevoix. The groom is employed at the local coast guard station.

Out-of-town guests were the mother and brother of the groom. After a three-course wedding supper the young couple left on a five day motor trip through the southern part of the state.

The ladies of St. Mary's church will give a baked goods and apron sale on December 10th. Lunches will be served afternoon and evening. 4515

ARMISTICE DAY NOVEMBER 11TH

CHARLEVOIX WILL OBSERVE
NATIONAL HOLIDAY

Program Under Direction of American Legion from Eleven to One—To Plant Trees

Armistice Day will be fittingly observed in Charlevoix Friday, November 11th, and every citizen is asked to co-operate with the local American Legion in carrying out the program as arranged.

The program will start at 11:00 and continue until 1:00 p. m. Trees planted to the number of each soldier from the vicinity of Charlevoix who lost his life in the great World War. The trees will be planted on Bridge street, between Belvedere and Hulbert avenues, on the east side of the street, and will be accompanied by appropriate ceremonies.

After the tree planting, dedication services will be held in the Palace Theatre, conducted by Chaplain James Smith of the Legion. At this time a short biography of each departed soldier, will be read by individual members of the Legion.

From 12:00 noon until 12:02 all are asked to pause in silent prayer. The time will be proclaimed by the tapping of the Congregational church bell eleven times. This observance is also asked by Mayor Wilbur, in a proclamation published in this issue.

November 11th has been proclaimed a national holiday everywhere in the United States, and a like observance of the day will be held in all parts of the country.

FRED N. CHAPEL DIES AT PORTLAND

Had Been in Poor Health for Over a Year

Word was received here Monday of the death November 6th of Fred N. Chapel of Portland, Ore., a former well known Charlevoix resident.

Mr. Chapel had been ill since December 1920, and in July of the present year his condition was such that he was unable to leave his home. His death was probably caused from leakage of the heart, as that was the cause of his illness when heard from in September.

Deceased was a resident of Charlevoix for many years, leaving here some seven years ago for Portland, Ore. He was the owner of the Central Drug Store, which he sold to the present owner, Mr. Herman, when the Chapel family left for the west.

No details of his death were given, nor time of burial stated. He was a member of the Masonic order here, and later transferred his membership to Portland.

RESTS WITH THE COMMUNITY AND THE PUBLISHER

What is to be the future of the country weekly? This rests with the community and with the publisher. If the community recognizes the value and possibilities of the country weekly and is willing to pay what it is worth, and if the publisher realizes his responsibilities to his community, then its future is bright. It will have an important part in building up a satisfying and wholesome rural life.

First of all, the country weekly of the future will be recognized as a community institution. This means it will be prosperous. The community will realize that it is unwise for the community to have a newspaper which is not prosperous. It is bad for the town and it is bad for the publisher and the publisher's family.

This country newspaper of the future will not be sold as a newspaper, but as a community service, just as the telephone is service. No one thinks a telephone rental of from $12 to $30 a year is high, yet in the service it renders the paper is quite comparable to the phone.

The publisher's salary should not be less than $3,000 a year, and in addition he will make a fair return on his $10,000 investment; for a publisher will need an equipment worth at least that to publish the kind of a paper which will do justice to himself and to his community. This picture may be called fanciful, but on the subject of the future there can be little difference of opinion. For it the country paper of the future is not prosperous, there will be no country paper.—M. V. Atwood, in Cornell Reading Course for The Farm. 4515

The farm bureau meeting November 2nd, was well attended. A very interesting talk was given by the county agent on certified seed potatoes. We feel proud of Charlevoix county taking the prize at the International Potato show as most of the potatoes came from Hayes township.

EGGS PRESERVED WITH LIME

Will Be Found Quite Satisfactory Where Water Glass is Difficult to Obtain.

If water glass is not obtainable, lime may be used for preserving eggs, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is not considered so good as water glass, as in some instances eggs preserved by this method have tasted slightly of lime, although at other times lime-water has proved entirely satisfactory.

To preserve with lime, dissolve two pounds of unsifted lime in a small quantity of water and dilute with five gallons of water that has previously been boiled and cooled. Allow the mixture to stand until the lime settles, then pour off and use the clear liquid. Place clean, fresh eggs in a clean earthenware crock or jar, and pour the clear lime-water into the vessel until the eggs are covered. At least two inches of the solution should cover the top layer of eggs.

STUDY DEMANDS OF MARKETS

Poultryman Should Learn How, Where and When to Dispose of Products to Advantage

A large part of the profit in poultry keeping often depends upon the proper marketing of the products, and the producer should study the market demands as to how, where and when to dispose of the products to the best advantage.

LIFE SAVING CORPS ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscal year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 100 Corps with a total membership of more than 10,000 members, of which 1,275 are sufficiently skilled in the work to act as examiners. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, of what is perhaps the largest life saving corps in the world.

Mr. Cobble's Knows. "I'll have to hire that new hired man," said Mr. Cobble. "What's he been doing?" asked Mrs. Cobble. "Nothing," that's just the trouble. I found him reading a book when he ought to be at work. "Maybe it was a book about farming," father. "No it wasn't. It was a poetry book. There are some verses in farming and there are some in poetry that tells how to do a man's work."

THE CAREFUL HOUSE-KEEPER

The Steam-pressure Cooker is Excellent for Chicken

Those who have pressure cookers will find that chicken cooked under steam pressure is delicious. This method saves time, fuel, labor, heat, and food value. Smothered chicken can be prepared as for frying, dredged with flour, and browned in hot fat in the bottom of the pressure cooker. It is then seasoned with salt and pepper and transferred to the rack of the cooker, with one-half cup of water below. When the cooker is closed it is brought up to 15 pounds pressure and maintained there 40 to 60 minutes, depending on the age of the fowl. The stock should be thickened and served with the chicken.

Roast chicken with dressing and chicken fricassee can also be prepared in the pressure cooker. A lower pressure and longer cooking is preferred when the fowl is left whole.

Surplus chickens culled out of the home flock may also be canned in pressure cooker. The chicken should be disjointed and the oil sac removed. After being washed carefully it is packed, uncooked, in pint jars. The excess fat, giblets, and eggs are not used for canning. The best flavor is obtained when no liquid or only a very little is added. Pint jars should be processed for one hour at 15 pounds pressure.

Old Carpets and Rugs are Worth Re-weaving

Providing floor coverings for the home is often a question of making the best of what materials are at hand. One way of doing this, the United States Department of Agriculture points out, is to have new rugs woven from old woolen carpets and rugs too shabby to be used as such. Factories for doing the work may be found in many localities. The old material is cut into strips about three-fourths inch wide, which then sewed together and twisted make a cord somewhat like chenille and form the filling of the new rug. Cotton string is used for warp. These rugs are heavy and soft, alike on both sides, and durable provided they are cleaned carefully. They are generally rather neutral in color and without a definite design; borders, however may be woven from strips of carpet of solid color, or figured carpet may be dyed for this purpose. In general about six and one-half pounds of old carpet is required to make a square yard of the reweoven fabric, depending, of course, on the weight of the old material.

Another Theory of the Flood.
A new theory of the flood has been discovered in South Africa. Hydrographers investigating the waterways of Uganda have found indications that Lake Victoria and other central African lakes were at one time vast inland seas, which a little excess of rainfall would cause to overflow into the lands to the north. The discovery of primitive stone implements along the old water levels prove these to have been within the "human" period.

Queer Human Ways.
A man is presented to a girl and then if all goes well the girl is given away to the man.

LOEB FARMS NOTES.

The private branch switchboard is in operation.

The nine-hour day started Saturday. Trucks leave Charlevoix at 6:40 and 8:10.

Peggy Johnson and Rita Hebert visited the Farms Monday and gave switchboard instruction. Thanks, girls!

V. A. Orvis left Sunday with his cronies to hunt deer in the upper peninsula. He expects to be gone about 10 days. Bill Erforth will handle the farm crew during Vaughan's absence.

Laura and Grace, the two grand individual cows without record that R. V. Otto, assistant manager procured in exchange for a bull calf arrived Sunday morning. Laura, who has been fresh 3 weeks started on test with about 2 1-2 lbs. butter fat per day after being on the cans three days.

When the pay checks were being handed around Saturday afternoon, the name of Alexander Shearer was called.

"Don't know the man," maintained Sandy, when he was nudged. Then suddenly: "That's me! I haven't heard that name in 48 years. It'll take 7 minutes to endorse that check. Who's guilty?"

Kolrain Marion Finnerne is starting her record in fine shape, making about three pounds fat and 90 pounds milk per day.

"We hope to put Marion's record equal to or better than the Field Farms' cow, Kolrain Finnerne Bess, which is her 3-4 sister, and whose record completed November 1st, is 32,500 pounds milk for 365 days and 1,300 pounds of butter which is a world's record of milk and butter combined. Marion's record was 28,887 pounds milk and 1,048 pounds of butter as a 4 year old.

Ernest G. Loeb left Friday for Chicago where he witnessed the big football game and then accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Loeb, departed for Birmingham, Ala., on a visit to the family of his fiancée, Miss Adele Fies.

"We expect to be married in April," said Ernest, with a nice smile—the only kind he knows—and from the way the work is being rushed on my house we'll move in about July.

"On my return from the south I'm going to work in different departments and get some experience concluded Mr. Loeb." He will live at the "club" in the dairy barn through the winter.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

When the south bound passenger train on the Michigan Central pulled into Wolverine Sunday it stopped at the chute to take on coal. When the coal was rolling into the tender of the engine a chap who was riding blind baggage informed the train crew they were covering up his chum who had nestled into the coal on the tender when they commenced taking on the additional supply. On investigating they could hear the cries of the man under the fuel which was soon removed and the fellow crawled out and shook himself, but not much the worse for his plight. If the buried man's companion had not informed the train crew in time, no doubt the fireman would have uncovered a dead man farther down the road.—Cheboygan Tribune.

W. E. Skowron, member of the Cheboygan county board of poor commissioners and widely known farmer, was badly wounded one day last week by the accidental discharge of his shotgun while bird hunting near his home. He was standing on a stump with both hands over the top of his gun barrel when he slipped and in the fall discharged his weapon. His hands were so badly torn to pieces that it is feared they will have to be amputated.

Notwithstanding this is the closed season for lake trout, large quantities are now finding their way to Cheboygan for shipment to Chicago, New York and Boston markets. The trout in question comes from Canadian waters and are entered at Detroit. In the meantime local fishermen are compelled to quit operations owing to the closed season for this class of fish. However, the season opens again a week from tomorrow. Monday ten tons of Canadian fish arrived at Cheboygan and shipments of trout and whitefish at the present time are large. Within the past three days Ross Bell shipped four cars of trout and whitefish, the latter coming principally from his Hammond Bay fishery. The fish taken by the local fishermen are principally confined to suckers, jacks and perch.—Cheboygan Tribune.

LITTLE PUBLICITY FOR REDUCTIONS

The railroads have made a great mistake in failing to keep the country informed as to the amount of freight rate reductions that have been made since the advance in rates was made a year ago. There was a sort of "blanket increase" in rates because it was impracticable to take up each rate separately. Almost from the day the rates went into effect, there has been a process of adjustment by which hundreds of reductions have been made, chiefly in agricultural products and such coarse materials as coal, petroleum, building stone, etc. In some instances the whole increase of 1920 has been removed. The railroad brotherhoods have given the country the impression that there were no reductions until the strike was threatened Friday for her winter home in Chicago, whereas the records show that many reductions were made by agreement between the roads and the shippers. Because the increase was nationwide and on all commodities, whereas the reductions were by piece-meal, the public observed the increase but did not learn of the decreases. The publicity work of the railroads is not so effective as either that of the brotherhoods or of the Plumb Plan League.

NO COERCION

In enjoining the coal operators from assisting the unions in the collection of membership dues through the check off system, Judge Anderson strikes a blow at one of the most vicious features of union control. There is far more reason for an employer to take part of an employee's wages and turn it over to the latter's wife to buy food for the family and clothing for the children than it is to levy on those wages to pay dues to some organization. What money a man earns should be turned over to him and his family to do with precisely as they see fit. If they choose to turn some of it into the treasury of a union, it is their privilege to do so, and it is equally their privilege and right to retain it for their own enjoyment. Judge Anderson's ruling can work no harm to anybody except the union officials who depend upon a full union treasury from which to draw their salaries.

Cave Farewell Party

Mrs. P. D. Campbell was given a farewell party at her home at 115 River street Tuesday evening. About ten ladies were present. The prayer service will be held Friday evening this week. All those who are interested in the outcome of the Washington conference are invited to be present.

Please do not forget the Armistice Day program from 11 to 1, Friday.

Those who will not wait for our annual fall sale will regret it. When our car loads of merchandise arrive prices will be much less than at present. The reason for delaying this sale is markets on different kinds of merchandise has been dropping and we have waited for those drops and have taken advantage of same. Wait for this sale which will commence soon and profit by our wise buying. S. Orlovski & Son, 4611

Kindergarten Shoes for Children

We have been telling you for the past month or so that we would soon have full line of the famous Kindergarten Shoes. They have arrived at last and are now on our shelves.

The Only Shoe for Children

The Kindergarten Shoe has proven itself the very best shoe for children, as hundreds of Charlevoix people will admit. They may cost a trifle more than some makes of shoes, but you get at least twice the wear out of every pair you buy. Ask any mother or father who has bought Kindergarten Shoes for their children. They all tell the same story. Any size now in stock.

CAREFULLY PREPARING POULTRY INSURES HIGHER MARKET PRICE

Preparing Poultry Under Modern Conditions for Market.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Not a day passes that inspectors employed by city, state or federal government, do not condemn food of one kind or another because it is unfit for human consumption. Sometimes this is due to deliberate adulteration, an intention to defraud the purchasers, but more often it is the result of improper packing, neglect to consider temperatures to be encountered in transporting from point of origin to destination, or failure to consider the time which must necessarily elapse before the product is likely to reach the consumers' tables.

All this entails not only great loss in money, likely to be reflected in prices demanded of the public, but also it endangers the public health, because occasionally some unworthy article slips through inspection and is served as food. Enough food products spoil every week to form a very important part of the amount needed by the people; and practically all of it might be saved through intelligence and care on the part of the producers and shippers.

After your chickens are fattened and ready to kill, it will pay you to study the methods of killing, bleeding, picking, chilling and packing described fully in bureau of chemistry circulars: 8, "How to Pick Chickens"; 52, "How to Wrap Heads"; 61, "How to Kill and Bleed Market Poultry." Issued by the Department of Agriculture, these circulars may be had by application to the division of publications. The man who hopes to succeed should know everything possible about his proposed market, and its demands.

Broilers in Demand.

Ordinarily the demand is for broilers of three sizes—squab broilers, small broilers and large broilers. Squab broilers weigh, dressed, from three-quarters to one pound; small broilers, the size most in demand the greater part of the year, weigh from one to one and a quarter pounds each, and large broilers from one and one-half to two pounds.

Broilers may be sold alive or dressed, in the discretion of the shipper; but if dressed, this should be done according to the demands of the market, and these demands one can learn only by inquiry and study. Getting the product ready for the buyer in the public market has much to do with the price received. The appearance of the article, the manner in which it is packed, and its condition—these are the points that make a reputation for the shipper.

Temperature to Maintain.

The temperature of chickens when they are alive is 104 degrees Fahrenheit. This must be reduced after killing to 32 degrees Fahrenheit or less before they can be packed for long hauls in refrigerator cars. The time required to chill fowls usually is about 24 hours, and the packer must be sure that the body cavity, as well as the skin and flesh, are free from heat before the birds leave the chill room. Failure to observe this requirement is responsible for much of the ill-conditioned poultry found in the public markets. The range of temperature permitted, too, is small. Below 30 degrees Fahrenheit the flesh is frozen; above 35 degrees Fahrenheit decay proceeds too rapidly to permit of long hauls to distant markets. Of course, the birds can be frozen after they are chilled, and so shipped, and this is a very excellent plan, especially if the haul is across a hot country, say the specialists in the Department of Agriculture.

Packing for Market.

It is customary to pack broilers with the breasts up, and the feet hidden. The prevailing method at present, where refrigeration is available, is to pack the chickens in small boxes holding a dozen each, but small boxes suitable for one or two chickens have recently been placed on the market. If the business is to be permanent the containers should carry the farm name, or the name of the shipper if the farm has no name. An attractive advertisement on the box has a great deal to do with marketing, a fact proved long ago to the satisfaction of shrewd business men.

Small packages are becoming more and more popular. Two layers of chickens in a box are being discarded for a single layer. It being realized that refrigeration is more perfect if the carcasses do not touch, and if pressure on such tender tissue as chicken muscle is eliminated as far as possible. On this account heads are wrapped in waxed paper and turned back where they do not rest against the soft flesh of the breast or thighs. No longer does the packer thrust old cocks, broiling chickens and fowls indiscriminately into a big sugar barrel, pressing them down in his effort to pack tightly, and so bruising the flesh and tearing the skin.

GUINEAS FAVOR FREE RANGE

Fowls Can Be Depend Upon to Pick Up Considerable Portion of Their Food.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most guinea raisers allow their breeding stock free range of the entire farm at all times, and this helps to keep the birds strong and vigorous. During the winter the breeders should have been fed a grain mixture of corn, wheat and oats twice a day, and where no green feed was available, vegetables, such as potatoes, turnips, beets and cabbage. Animal feed is essential to best results and can be supplied by feeding meat scrap or skinned milk. Given free range, where the supply of natural feed during the winter and early spring are ample, as it usually is in the southern portion of the United States, the guineas can be left to pick up a considerable part of their feed, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Free access to grit, charcoal, and oyster shell is necessary throughout the breeding season. Avoid having the breeders too fat, but keep them in good, firm flesh.

Like quail and most other wild birds, guinea fowls in their wild state mate in pairs, and this tendency prevails among domesticated guineas, also, provided the males and females are equal in number. As the breeding season approaches, one pair after another separates from the remainder of the flock and ranges off in the fields in search of a suitable nesting place. Once united this way, the male usually remains with his mate throughout the laying season, standing guard somewhat near the nest while the hen is laying, and ready to warn her of any approaching danger.

However, it is not necessary to mate them in pairs under domestic conditions to secure fertile eggs, and most breeders keep but one male for every three or four females. When mated in this way the hens are more apt to lay near home, and several usually lay in the same nest, thus making it much easier to find the nests and gather the eggs.

While guineas can be kept in the best breeding condition upon free range, still they can be confined, if necessary, and satisfactory results obtained. One extensive guinea raiser has confined as many as 45 hens and 15 males in an acre pen throughout the breeding and laying season and been successful. This pen is enclosed with a wire fence five feet high, and the birds are prevented from flying over by clipping the light feathers of one wing. Within the pen is a grass pasture with bushes here and there where the hens make their nests by scratching out a bowl-shaped hollow in the ground. The winters being severe, a roosting shed is provided, having a cleated board reaching from the floor to the roosts for the wing-clipped birds to walk up.

Guineas Can Be Confined if Necessary, But They Do Best When Given Free Range.

GEESSE GOOD GRAZING STOCK

Fowls Play Important Part in Utilizing Waste Grain About Stables and Feeding Pens.

Geese have an important part in the endless war on waste. They are in a class with chickens in utilizing waste grain about stables and feeding pens. In a larger measure than chickens or any other kind of poultry they are a grazing stock, getting their living in large part from the ordinary grasses of the pastures, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When it is considered that the demand for geese is steady, and extended over almost the whole year, not confined to holidays, as in the case of turkeys, that geese excel all other poultry as producers of fat, the importance of geese in the poultry scheme is realized.

Wisconsin Farmer Praises Cow-Testing Association as Guide-Board to Better Dairying.

"When I bought my farm two years ago there was a herd of scrub cows on it," writes a Wisconsin farmer to a field agent of the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture. "I joined the cow-testing association, and soon found that my scrub cows were a failure, so I disposed of them and bought some purebred and grade Holstein cows. The cow-testing association is a guide-board on the way to better dairying and a big saving in feeds, as one can feed to so much better advantage where the production is known. Trying to feed without records of your cows is like feeding in the dark."

GIVE HARNESS PROPER CARE

Made of Good Leather and Heavy Enough, Set Will Last for at Least Fifteen Years.

Harness made of good leather and heavy enough for the work required of it will last for many years if cared for properly. It is more economical to buy harness that is too heavy than to buy that which is too light for the work. With good care, harness of the proper weight and quality will last at least 15 years, and in many cases harness used on the farm has been in service for 25 years or longer.

THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER

$10,000,000 AID FOR VETERANS

Red Cross Provides Friendly Service of Many Kinds to Army of Disabled.

BULK OF WORK BY CHAPTERS

2,397 of These Are Helping Ex-Service Men Obtain Benefits U. S. Provides.

One field of Red Cross service alone, that of assisting disabled veterans of the World War, entails expenditures $4,000,000 greater than the aggregate receipts of the Annual Roll Call of 1920, the American Red Cross announced in a statement urging a widespread increase in membership at the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. At the present time National Headquarters and the nation-wide chain of Chapters of the Red Cross is spending approximately $10,000,000 annually for the relief of disabled ex-service men and their families, while the aggregate receipts from last year's Roll Call were approximately $6,000,000.

It is in the 2,397 of the 3,600 Red Cross Chapters which still are helping solve the veteran's problem of adjusting himself to a normal civilian status that the greater part of the cost of this service is borne. Of the total amount spent for veterans' relief last year, National Headquarters expended a total of more than $2,000,000, while the remaining disbursement of approximately $7,000,000 represents the contribution of Chapters in this country-wide effort to assist the Government in providing the aid sorely needed by these men and their families.

An Ever Expanding Problem
That the problem of the disabled service man is ever-expanding and probably will not reach the peak before 1925, is the assertion of well-informed Government officials and that 2,397 Red Cross Chapters regard it as their most important work is evidence that the expansion is in nowise confined to a particular section but is, on the contrary, nation-wide. At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1921, there were 20,800 disabled service men in the 1,692 United States Public Health Service, Contract and Government Hospitals and Soldiers Homes, and that number is increasing at a rate of 4,000 a month.

Thousands of these men receiving medical treatment, compensation and vocational training from the Government today, started their efforts to obtain them through the Red Cross Chapter. The Chapter, acting as the disabled man's agent in claims against the Government, informs the man as to the procedure necessary to gain for him that which is provided him by Federal statute. His applications for compensation, medical treatment and training are properly filed with the aid of the Red Cross Chapter.

Many Forms of Assistance
If there is delay before the man's claim is acted upon, the Red Cross Chapter lends the man money to meet the imperative needs of himself and his dependents.

Most vital to the man's gaining full benefit from the Government's care is keeping his mind free from worry about his home. Keeping the veteran's family from hardship of every kind and informing him of its welfare is another province of the Chapter. Free from fear on this score, the man's recovery and advancement usually is rapid.

Every month during the last year, the American Red Cross has given service of one kind or another to an average of 129,215 former service men and their families. An indication of the extent of the faith reposed in the Red Cross Chapter is to be found in the fact that there were 350,544 requests for friendly aid in the solution of personal problems.

448 Workers in Hospitals
While the man prior to entering Government care deals largely with the Chapter, afterward he comes into contact with the service provided by National Headquarters. There are 448 Red Cross workers in the United States Public Health Service and contract hospitals and other institutions in which these men are being cared for, whose duty is to provide for his recreation, help him with his compensation claims, keep him in touch with his family; in short, meeting his every need outside of that provided by the Government. While these are a few of the responsibilities of the National Organization, they are by no means

850 DISASTER DEATH TOLL FOR ONE YEAR

Red Cross Gives $1,871,000 Relief When 65,000 Families Are Made Homeless.

Forty-three disasters, resulting in the death in the United States of 850 persons and the injury of 2,500 called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,871,000 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, says an announcement based upon the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. These disasters caused property damage estimated at $30,000,000, affected sixty-seven communities and rendered 65,000 families homeless.

The year's disasters were of varying types, including several which previously had never been thought of as falling within that classification. The Red Cross furnished relief in seventeen fires of magnitude, five floods, seven tornadoes or cyclones, one devastating storm, three explosions, including the one in Wall Street; one building accident, two typhoid epidemics, the most serious being that at Salem, Ohio, which affected 9 per cent of the population; one smallpox epidemic, in the republic of Haiti; one train wreck, the race riot at Tulsa, Okla.; the famine in China, emergency relief in famine among the Indians of Alaska, the grasshopper plague in North Dakota and an earthquake in Italy.

Pueblo Most Serious
By far the most severe of the disasters in the United States during the period covered by the Red Cross report was the Pueblo flood early in June, 1921. The rehabilitation problem confronting the Red Cross in Pueblo was one of the most difficult in recent years. When the first news of the horror was flashed throughout the country, the American Red Cross National Headquarters responded with a grant of $105,000 for relief work. Governor Shoup of Colorado, appreciating the long and successful experience of the Red Cross in organizing disaster relief work, placed the entire responsibility for the administration of relief in its hands.

In response to appeals from President Harding, Governor Shoup and other governors of western states and through local chapters of the Red Cross and other community organizations, public-spirited citizens brought the total contributed for Pueblo's rehabilitation to more than $325,000. The terrible havoc wrought by the flood waters is a matter of record. More than 2,300 homes were affected and 7,351 persons were left homeless. Estimates of $500,000 as an absolute minimum for rehabilitation were made by Red Cross officials in charge of the relief work.

Fast Work in Wall Street
The Wall Street explosion was notable in that relief workers of the Red Cross were on the scene twenty minutes after the disaster occurred. The race riot at Tulsa also was unique in disaster relief annals in that outside of a small emergency relief fund contributed by the Red Cross, the only relief measures outside the city consisted of the service of social workers, nurses and a trained executive whose object was to assist local forces in directing their own efforts.

In decided contrast with the previous year, only one tornado assumed the proportions of a major disaster. This occurred on April 15, in the border sections of Texas and Arkansas with the city of Texarkana as the center. The significant feature of this disaster relief work was the fact that it covered so much rural territory as to make necessary a large number of relief workers.

The famine in China, necessitating relief expenditures totalling more than $1,000,000 by the American Red Cross was by far the most serious of the foreign disasters in which the Red Cross gave aid.

Builds Up Its Machinery
In connection with the administration of disaster relief measures, an increasing effectiveness on the part of the Red Cross to deal with emergencies was manifested during the past year. In 328 Chapters of the American Red Cross there have been formed special committees to survey the resources of their respective communities and to be prepared in case of disaster. In others of the 3,402 active Chapters, a network of communication has been formed through which instantaneous relief may be dispatched to any part of the United States.

That its work in this field may be continued with ever greater effectiveness, the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during its Annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from November 11 to 24.

Mending.

If you desire to mend broken crockery, melt a teaspoonful of alum. Dampen the broken edges in it and hold them firmly together until cold and dry.

SWEET CLOVER IS SENSITIVE

Crop Seldom Makes Profitable Growth on Acid Soil—Proper Inoculation Important.

While it is claimed by some that sweet clover will grow on almost any kind of soil, it seldom makes a profitable growth on an acid soil. It is one of the most sensitive crops to this condition. An application of two tons of ground limestone or from two to three cubic yards of marl is usually necessary to secure a good crop on an acid soil. Proper inoculation is important.

A Nica Toy.

Put up a short line of narrow rope or string twice in a corner of the kitchen or nursery. Make it about three or four feet long. Give the small tots of three or four years of age a handful of clothespins and some old pieces of cloth. The little girls and boys, too, will enjoy banging up clothes "like mother does."

Teating the Hairdresser's Touch.
In Berlin there is a "school" where it is the aim not merely to teach the students what to do, but to instruct them thoroughly in the best way to do it, and there is a test which they all have to meet before they are judged to be competent hairdressers. This machine is specially designed to test the user's ability to comb hair without pulling or jerking or breaking it. By recording the tension at all times during the combing, it gives a complete indication of the manner in which the wielding of the comb progressed.

Shell-Cracking Bird.
Certain species of birds which inhabit eastern Africa possess the largest and strongest beaks known to ornithologists. One of these is the open-bill or shell ibis. It is a long-legged, stork-like bird, which has a beak like a nut-cracker. The parts of the bill cannot be closed in the middle. It eats frogs and fishes, but its favorite food is fresh water molluscs, the shells of which it can crush with the powerful beak.

Among the deer hunters off to the wood this year are Edd. Boss, Wm. J. Boss, and L. VanSkiver, who left last week for the upper peninsula. J. M. Ingalls, who is in the eastern part of the state and James and Clarence Hunt are also spending a few days hunting on the Manistee river.

Calvin Supernaw was at Charlevoix one day last week and purchased a residence where he and Mrs. Supernaw will move some time within the next two weeks. Both Mr. and Mrs. Supernaw have made a host of friends during their stay here who while regretting their departure will wish them luck in their new home.

Ben DeVries, a farmer living about four miles west of Ellsworth, was arrested by Sheriff Andrew Dunsmore on Friday of last week charged with violation of the prohibition law and was taken before Justice E. J. Chellis and released under one thousand dollar bonds to appear before Judge Mynne for trial.

Norman Jensen and Miss Bertha Alward, both residents of this vicinity since childhood were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage on Saturday afternoon of last week.

The groom is the son of Frank Jensen and the bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isa Alward and both the young people are highly regarded by all who know them. They will probably reside in Detroit for the winter but expect to be on the Jensen farm next year.

WILDWOOD

The good weather is very much appreciated after so much rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wannemaker and son, Roy, from Benton Harbor, who have been visiting relatives here for a few days returned to their home one day last week.

The Misses Hecun and Smith, teachers in the Ellsworth schools, were last Saturday and Sunday visitors at the Wildwood Cottage driving with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilson and little daughter, to Elk Rapids on Sunday.

The Wilson homestead taken from the government in '71, also 40 acres, 120 acres in all, was sold last week to Lewis VanHuis who will take possession about November 15th. The Jim Wilson family, however, retain a 40 acre lot by the lake and will be at home to their friends in Wildwood Cottage as ever.

ATWOOD

Peter Faber lost his cow last week. Paul DeVries bought two cows of Jake Bergsma.

Gerrit Essenburg has been working at Ellsworth for a few days.

Red Cross Gives $310,000 to Aid 'Clean-Up' Drive

An appropriation of $310,000 for Red Cross work in connection with the "clean-up" campaign instituted by the Government to bring the claims of all disabled service men who are entitled to Federal aid before the proper government bureau for action, has been made by the American Red Cross. The Executive Committee of the American Red Cross in making the appropriation authorized the appropriation of $310,000 of the sum to the American Legion to defray the expense of the Legion representatives assigned to the various districts of the Veterans Bureau.

The remainder of the appropriation was authorized for appropriation among the several divisions of the Red Cross for carrying on that part of the "clean-up" work that falls directly upon the Red Cross organization.

Young America Sends Vast Relief To Needy Abroad

Various relief projects of the Junior American Red Cross in European countries resulted in helping 237,000 destitute children during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross for that period. The growth of the activities of the Juniors abroad is manifested by a comparison which shows this figure is 200,000 larger than that of the previous fiscal year.

The National Children's Fund raised by school children, members of the Junior American Red Cross, was drawn upon for $420,557 for these projects. Receipts for the National Children's Fund during the last fiscal year totaled $155,317.

America Succors Russians Food, clothing and medical relief costing $700,000 has been provided by the American Red Cross for the thousands of Russian refugees stranded last year in Constantinople and vicinity.

She Carried a Roll. When the personal efforts of the once-famous dancer "Raglan" who died recently in Paris at the age of eighty were sold at auction, an old silk dress was knocked down to a second-hand clothes dealer for a mere price of $1.00. The dress was the property of a French lady who lived in the spring of 1890.

RED CROSS GIVES ANNUAL BUDGET

$19,361,657 Allotted for Current Program of Relief and Service.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Medical Aid for European Children Will Cost $6,000,000 This Year.

Washington.—Expenditures totaling $19,361,657 for carrying through its program of relief and services in the United States and overseas are outlined in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year. This total is more than $5,000,000 lower than the expenditure during the last fiscal year, when the disbursements reached $24,362,741. It is announced at National Headquarters in a statement calling attention to the necessity of continued support of the organization by response to the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. If the vital work of the society is to be effectively carried on.

Outstanding among the items of the domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,000,000 for work in behalf of the disabled ex-service men and his family. This appropriation represents the amount allotted to this work from National Headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent in chapters for relief of the World War veterans. It is in the chapter that the greater amount is spent in meeting this obligation of the Red Cross, the announcement continues, as manifested by figures of the fiscal year 1920-1921 when the total was approximately $3,000,000, of which $2,000,000 represented the disbursement of National Headquarters while the remainder was the chapters' contribution to this field of Red Cross service.

Vast Work for Disabled. Chief among the sub-divisions of the appropriation for work with veterans is that which concerns itself with assistance to disabled men and women in convalescent hospitals. This amount of $1,750,000, an increase of more than $250,000 over the appropriation for the same work in last year's budget, will provide these personal services for the disabled and their families which are indispensable to supplement those provided by the government. The director of the Veterans Bureau has recently expressed his desire that the Red Cross should continue and extend these "humanizing services." Other items of the appropriation for veterans' relief are proportionately increased. An additional appropriation of $400,000 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular Army and Navy hospitals and with the regular Army and Navy.

For disaster relief, the Red Cross has set aside for the current twelve months an appropriation of $543,376, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose for the fiscal year 1920-1921.

More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 3,600 Red Cross chapters by the National organization.

Helping Destitute Children. Other items of the domestic budget include $400,546 for miscellaneous activities, including contributions restricted for special purposes and $765,000 for amusement. Each of these items represents large reductions over similar appropriations of the previous year.

From a fund of $10,000,000, $5,000,000 of which was contributed through the European Relief Council campaign and $5,000,000 allotted by the Red Cross for child welfare work in Europe, there remains $8,765,108 still available, of which it is estimated that $1,000,000 will be required for this work during the current year. For Red Cross participation in the joint effort to relieve famine conditions in Russia, for final work in the China famine, for Junior Red Cross and other overseas activities including the closing of the old general relief program in Europe $4,078,000 is made available.

In announcing the national budget, the Red Cross makes it clear that the figures do not include chapter expenditures or place any cash estimate on the invaluable service of volunteers in chapters.

CARRYING ON SERVICE FOR DISABLED VETERANS OF THE WORLD WAR THAT IS COSTING $10,000,000 A YEAR, THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IS HELPING FULFILL THIS NATION'S OBLIGATION TO ITS DEFENDERS. HELP THE RED CROSS CONTINUE THIS WORK BY ANSWERING THE ANNUAL ROLL CALL NOVEMBER 11-24, 1921.

No chance is worth anything but a fighting chance.

Heat Your Home Economically

This can be done if you buy the right kind of heating range or stove, or the right kind of a furnace. Buying cheap heating plants is poor economy. The extra amount of fuel they burn more than off-sets the difference in price. We have.

BALDWIN RANGES AND HEATERS AND PENINSULAR FURNACES

If you want a range, heating stove or furnace, we have them, in all sizes and prices. We believe we can save you a nice sum on your heating plant purchases.

CURING BALKY HORSES

Some work horses, although a little cold shouldered, will pull when once started. As balkiness seems to be largely a nervous trouble, quietness and kindness must be used at all times, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Before any persuasive treatment is tried the bearing of the harness should be examined to determine if it is hurting the horse and thus causing the balkiness. If nothing is wrong, place a rope or strap around the knees of the horse and pull straight to the front which will generally induce him to move a step at a time, and thus gradually resume his work. Where it is repeated several times this persuasive treatment is usually sufficient to get the horse to pull.

In case the horse is a confirmed balker, throws himself, and refuses to get up, something out of the ordinary must be done to attract the animal's attention. The horse should be hitched with a good pulling animal and when down should be held in that position by having two men sit on his head and neck. Then take a bucket of water and pour a very small stream on the animal's nose, occasionally allowing a little to fall into the upturned nostril. The animal will struggle to rise, but he should be held down for about two minutes, with the water trickling on the muzzle all the time. The horse then should be permitted to get on his feet, and if he goes down a second time the treatment should be repeated. It is only rarely that a balker of this character will throw himself a third time where this treatment is followed.

If the animal still refuses to move forward, however, a loop should be dropped under the tail as a crupper, extending forward though the halter ring, and fastened to a good pulling horse. As the word is given, the horse should be started, the wagon being pulled by the mate of the balker horse and the balker horse being pulled by the horse at the end of the rope. As soon as the balker animal shows an inclination to move by himself, the tension on the rope should be released and should be tightened again only when the balker hesitates or stops. This treatment is generally effective in curing a balker horse and should never be attended by punishment with a whip.

AT THE MOVIES

Big special picture coming to the Palace Theatre next Tuesday night for the benefit Junior Class. "The Heart of Maryland," an elaborate film version of the famous stage play of the same name by David Belasco, will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Tuesday night.

The picture has been made on a tremendous scale, and no expense or time was spared to make the locale and costumes exactly as they were during the Civil War, even to the extent of restoring dilapidated buildings and getting old Confederate uniforms and costumes out of cedar chests.

"Red Courage," a thrilling story of the west, starring the likable Hoot Gibson, comes to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. Peter B. Kyne's "The Sheriff of Cripple Creek" furnishes the story of "Red Courage." Harvey Gates wrote the continuity and Reaves Eason directed this new Universal feature.

Hoot Gibson, with his infectious smile and engaging personality, is at his best in "Red Courage." Action, thrills, man-to-man fights, and an absorbing tender love story, furnishes the virile background in which to smile his way through. Probably the secret of Gibson's success is his almost boyish naturalness.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

The first reports from the college work of our 1921 graduates are very flattering indeed. In the mid-term examination, Katherine Fitch at Oxford College, Ohio, topped her class in French and Edward Hammond at M. A. C. won first place in his class in college chemistry with a scholarship of 97 per cent.

Following is the program for "Better Speech" Week:

Monday—Phila Armstrong introduced "Better Speech" Week in a short talk to the high school in which she explained the purpose and value of the week's work and gave the general plan to be followed.

Members of the senior English class visited every school room in the city, taking "Better Speech" posters and urging the co-operation of all pupils.

Tuesday—Assembly singing led by Miss Oliver.

Rollie Lewis spoke to the assembly emphasizing the necessity of our English in a social and business life, bringing in clever points illustrating things he wished to impress upon our minds. Such attention has never before been given a speaker in the assembly room.

Wednesday—Mrs. R. B. Armstrong representing the Shakespeare Club, will speak on "Better Speech" as a social asset.

At 7:45 p. m. the freshmen and sub-freshmen will give a play.

Candy sale before and after the play sold by the junior class. Tickets will be sold by a committee.

Friday—Tag Day. All pupils in the high school are equally reminded of the fact that this week is being celebrated at "Better Speech" Week. Every class room door is decorated with a most attractive poster or slogan. In each room a slogan is written on the blackboard in some of the most flaring colors to attract the attention of the pupils and to remind them of their English. Clever sayings of great men were tacked on each of the teacher's desks to remind them also of better speech.

Notice! Every pupil better take it upon himself to "crawl out" earlier in the mornings so as to get to school on time or have the exercise of walking back home again.

The junior class has received its rings which are very pretty indeed. Naturally the seniors insist on saying theirs are better looking than the "soph's."

Charlevoix is surely proud of its high school football team. They played Harbor Springs last Friday on the home grounds and almost had a walk-away, although they had to fight for what they got. The score was 19 to 0 in our favor. Much encouragement was given to the boys by the splendid turn-out at the game. The citizens of Charlevoix surely ought to help, encouraging them in their games by taking interest in them. So let everyone be at our next game. It shows you are boosting our school.

GUINEAS UTILIZE ALL WASTE

Fowls Pick Up Material That Escapes Chickens and Turkeys—Are Prolific Egg Layers.

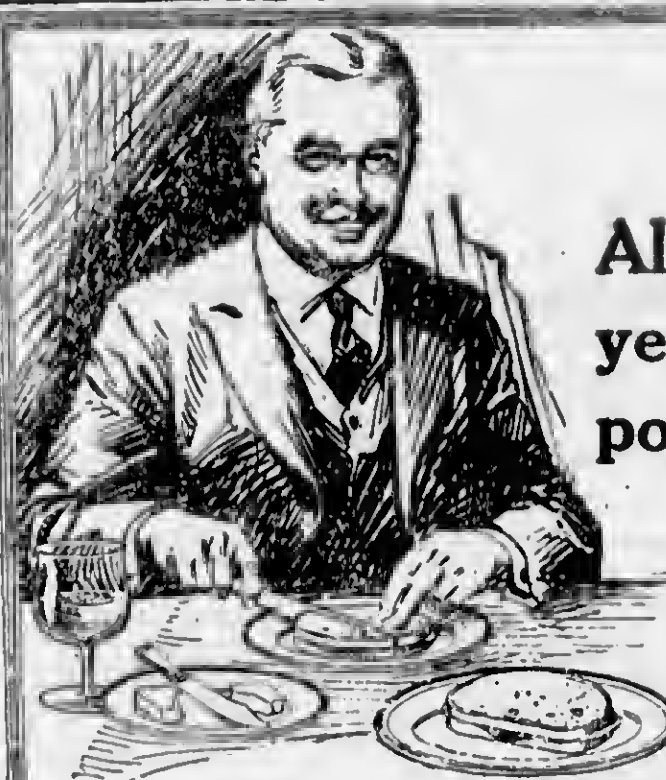

Guinea fowls utilize waste that would escape both hens and turkeys, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Taking a wider range than chickens, and yet not so wide as turkeys, keeping largely to thickets and weed patches, and committing fewer depredations against field and garden than either chickens or turkeys, requiring little feed at any time, being prolific layers during their season of eggs, they are thought by many to have a richer and finer flavor even than hens' eggs, the guinea fowl is well worth considering on any farm where a serious effort is made to convert all waste into meat and eggs.

AIR CONSERVES BOARD FLOOR

Free Circulation Underneath Prolongs Life of Lumber—Closes Openings During Winter.

Board floors usually are short-lived unless air is allowed to circulate under them. This may be provided for by means of openings in the foundation walls, which should be closed during the winter. A board floor covered with one-quarter inch of fine sand, with screeching material on top makes a good floor. The litter and sand can be removed readily when desired, and fresh materials provided. If the wooden floors are constructed within two or three inches of the ground it is essential that the foundation walls be constructed in such a way that rats cannot gain access beneath the floor.

In Terms of Millieuries.
The name of the discoverer of radium is perpetuated in that of the unit used in measuring radioactivity, viz. the "curie." The multiples and subdivisions of the unit are named in accordance with metric nomenclature, the "millieurie," one thousandth of a curie, being the one most frequently used.—Science Service.

Plan Extensive Building Program on Belvedere Avenue

The Booth Fisheries were granted a permit by the common council for the erection of a new ice house and freezer building 61x66 feet and a packing house and office building 50x66 feet on their recently acquired property on Belvedere avenue, known as the L. S. See coal yards.

The building will be of wood construction, modern and up-to-date in every respect. The ice house will face Belvedere avenue and the office building Round Lake. The side walls will be almost continuous from Belvedere avenue to the lake front.

Modern appliances will be utilized in the ice house and freezer buildings and the office equipped with a steam heating plant and modern equipment.

W. E. Parmelee, local contractor, will have charge of the construction work and building operations will commence within the next ten days or so. It is the plan of the company to have the ice house and freezing plant completed in time to put up the ice used for next season, and the office building ready for occupancy early in the spring.

The docks will also be repaired and slips built for the company's boats and when the building program is completed, it is expected the Charlevoix plant of Booth Fisheries will be as good, if not the best plant of the company's numerous holdings.

HERBERT HULME DIES SUDDENLY

Death Came Without Warning Monday Morning

Stricken by a sudden illness Monday morning about one o'clock Herbert Hulme died before the arrival of a physician at his home on west Clinton street. After the dinner hour Sunday he complained of not feeling well, but before retiring for the night stated he felt somewhat better. His death occurred between one and two the following morning, almost without warning.

Deceased was born in Maple City, Mich., July 1st, 1871. He was the son of Capt. William and Esther Hulme, pioneer residents of the Grand Traverse region. He came to Charlevoix with his parents when but a small child, making his permanent home here since that time.

He was a shipwright by trade and for years sailed the lakes with his father and brother. On September 26th, 1911, he was united in marriage to Miss Ilatie Metcalf of this city, who survives him, besides an adopted daughter, Harriet Lucille, two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Beattie and Mrs. M. K. Chew, and a brother, William Hulme of Toledo, O.

Funeral services will be held from the M. E. church, Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. lodge, assisted by Rev. H. R. E. Quinnt. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

The Queen Esther Society of the M. E. church will hold a baked goods sale at the Charlevoix Hardware Co.'s store Saturday, November 12.

SIGNAL CODE FOR HUNTERS

INEXPERIENCED MEN SHOULD READ CAREFULLY

All Men in Woods Would Do Well to Carry Copy of Rules Given Hunters

An army of 50,000 hunters will be scattered throughout the woods of Northern Michigan from Nov. 10 until Nov. 30. Some will be "old timers," other novices. In the mind of everyone is the fond hope of a 10-point buck, as his trophy. The chase of the white tailed deer will lead many miles away from camp, for you can't get your prize sitting around the camp fires.

The great majority of hunters who go out each year after deer are not experienced woodsmen. They are unfamiliar with forests and swamp land. It is extremely easy for them to get "turned around" in the hardwood, the swamp and even the slash- ing. It is when they realize they have lost their sense of direction that confusion sets in and wandering around in a circle looking for camp is the inevitable result. A compass at this time means nothing, for the lost it is a falsifier. The one desire is to reach camp; traveling in a direction and course laid out by a confused mind. Usually it is in a circle.

There would be fewer tragedies in the north woods each deer hunting season if every hunter, experienced or otherwise, would abide by a few simple rules and carry with him the code of signals for the "lost" originated and adopted by the Northern Forest Protective association. These signals are to be used after dark and above all remain where you are, even though it's hours, remain quiet, build yourself a fire and a rude shelter. Don't waste your ammunition and bear in mind, even though you have lost your sense of direction, those searching for your have not.

A copy of this code should be in LATE PETOSKEY POTATOES WIN

Take Grand Sweepstakes at National Show in Duluth

A peck exhibit of Late Petoskey potatoes from Charlevoix county not only took first prize in their class at the great national potato show at Duluth this autumn, but won the grand sweepstakes of the show. Exhibits of Late Petoskey potatoes had all other exhibits "backed off the map," according to D. L. Hagerman, agricultural agent for the Pennsylvania lines, who has just returned from the show. Certified seed as exhibited with the other parts of the Northern Michigan potato exhibit at the show, made a most creditable showing, and certified seed from Northern Michigan is now much more in demand.

Wisconsin farmers and agriculturalists are especially active in securing seed from this region for their 1922 planting, Mr. Hagerman says.

The Pennsylvania Line agricultural agent declares that if the county farm agents of Northern Michigan will make a concerted effort, beginning now, they can make a grand cleanup at the 1922 National Potato show.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT ROCK ELM SCHOOL

Held at Grange Hall—One Hundred Guests Present

Shocks of corn, garlands of witches and black cats, orange-shaded lights and grinning jack-o'-lanterns, formed the setting for a Halloween party given by Rock Elm school and teacher at the Rock Elm Grange hall last Saturday evening. About 100 guests were present.

A large portion of the party were in masks and costumes appropriate to the occasion.

One wall bore an exhibit of work from the school, showing the high grade of work they are doing under Miss Spidle's competent direction.

During the evening a quilt, made by the pupils and their teacher was disposed of, Frank Nachazel being the lucky man to secure it.

A short program of games, dancing and one of Rock Elm's famous suppers completed the evening's entertainment.

The proceeds amounting to about $33 will be used to purchase pictures, Amberola records, and other needed appliances for the school.

FAIR OFFICIALS ELECT OFFICERS

Many Changes in Board of Agricultural Society

Samuel Rogers was re-elected as president, H. B. Hipp, vice-president, Frank Bird, secretary and Frank Wangerman, marshal, at a meeting of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society held at East Jordan on Tuesday afternoon of last week.

David Vaughn was selected to fill the position on the board of directors held many years by E. B. Ward of this city. The same week in October was chosen for fair week as this year, although the dates will be different.

The work of the past year was reviewed and plans laid for the coming year. Every indication points to a success of the fair organization, and next year's fair will be as good if not better than preceding years.

COW GIVES BIRTH TO TWIN CALVES

One Resembles Mother and Other the Sire

Mother Nature is daily revealing her peculiarities and causing unlooked for happenings, but about the freakiest of instances we have so far heard of took place at the farm home of John Nason about a week ago.

One of their best cows gave birth to a calf. Of course, this is not unusual, but just twenty-four hours later she gave birth to another calf, a husky fellow considerably larger than the first one.

The first calf had all the markings of the mother, and the second the markings of the sire, entirely different and not of the same breed. Both calves are alive.

BIRD'S Art-Craft Roof TILE DESIGN

Looks $1,000 Better

HERE are two houses of similar type. The house at the right easily looks to be worth $1,000 more than the one at the left.

The difference is in the roof. At little cost Bird's Art-Craft—the wonderfully popular tile design roll roofing—has been laid right over the old wooden shingles.

Art-Craft gives the look of prosperity to residence, bungalow or cottage. Won't catch fire from falling sparks. Costs less to buy. Costs less to apply. Saves ripping off old shingles. Makes a double roof. Saves time, labor and money. Slate-surfaced in natural red or green.

Come in and let us tell you more why Bird's Art-Craft is the best roofing buy on the market.

CITIZENS MAKE NOBLE RESPONSE

TO COURIER'S APPEAL FOR ASSISTANCE TO NEEDY

Mother and Nine Children Given Help—Distribution Committee to be Selected

Hardly had the Courier reached its hundreds of subscribers last Thursday morning before the telephone began to ring, and since this time the editor and office help have been busy answering inquiries concerning our appeal for the mother and nine children, published in last week's issue.

The people of Charlevoix have always been known to be charitable and willing to help in all instances of this kind, but the response received was far beyond all expectations. Assistance was offered from every point in the city and country, and on Friday a car well loaded with food and clothing visited the home. Conditions were found as published, and taken care of. Later during the week several ladies visited the home and came away with full knowledge of all that was needed. The family of little ones will be well clothed and taken care of before the week ends, and if further help is needed by them, they will not be allowed to suffer.

Such will be the attitude of the citizens of Charlevoix in all instances of this kind. There is absolutely no excuse for any man, woman or child to be without the necessities of life. Hundreds stand willing to aid them. All that is needed is an organization of men or women, or both, who will see to the proper distribution of food, clothing, etc., that will be given for the asking. But if this is not done, there will be a shameful waste. One family will be given more than is needed, while others will go without.

It has been suggested to us that a committee of five or seven men be named to take charge of this work, men who will willingly give their time and see that no case where help is needed is neglected or overlooked. This committee will take all cases where help is sought under advisement, and give the necessary assistance. At the same time a committee, or one person for that matter, should be named from every society, church or social, in the city. If certain articles are needed immediately, all the committees of seven would have to do is to notify the person or persons representing each body, and better and quicker results would thus be obtained.

Since our appeal last week, bundle after bundle of clothing, several boxes, bags of potatoes and vegetables, packages containing groceries and contributions of money have been left with us. These contributions must be taken care of at once. One of the immediate requisites is a storage room, where articles can be sorted over. There is no necessity for flooding one home with articles not needed or that cannot be used, while another may need the very things so misplaced.

The committee of five or seven men will see that this is properly done. If remodeling of clothing is necessary, it can be done by the hundreds of women who stand willing to help. In handling matters in this manner, each person or family asking for aid can be furnished just what they need without delay.

The Courier believes this suggestion should be adopted. Several business men have signified their willingness to serve on the committee. The organization should be made immediately. Before the winter is over there will be many calls for help and by handling our charities in this manner, all will be taken care of.

In the meantime, people desiring to contribute, clothing, bedding, or articles of food that can be held for future use, can leave them at this office. We will take care of them until other means of distribution is provided. We urge, however, the immediate organization of a committee to handle every case of need reported, or appeal for help. Thus by all working together, a greater goal can be accomplished.

K. of P. Feather Party
Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, K. of P., will hold their annual Feather Party in their hall in the I. O. O. F. building, Thursday evening, November 17th, commencing at 8:00 p. m. Lodge will be opened promptly at 7:00 p. m. and the regular business disposed of. Members are requested to be present both at lodge and the feather party.

GASOLINE AND BOOZE IS UNSAFE

Boyer Falls Justice Hands Out Stiff Fines and Jail Sentences

Prosecuting Attorney Rugsesser was called to Boyer Falls Saturday of last week and tried the case of two Antrim county men who were charged with being intoxicated. Weed Patton appeared before Justice E. S. Stacks and pleaded guilty to driving a Ford car while drunk. He was fined $50 and sentenced to spend thirty days in the county—or ninety days if the fine is not paid. Mr. Patton is an engineer for the Antrim Iron company and manager of their boarding house.

Vivian Watson, a nephew of Patton's, who was with him in the car, pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $20 and costs amounting to $14.25, and was sentenced to spend thirty days in the county jail or ninety if the fine is not paid.

Both gentlemen claimed to be on their way to visit relatives in Boyer City. "They picked up strangers near Alba and it was from them they received the 'knock-out', and were found by Constable Henry Fike of Boyer Falls, helplessly drunk about three miles from that village.

Justice Stacks says it is not safe for anyone to mix booze and gasoline and then be brought into his court—he will give them the limit.

VOTE RELIEF FOR NEEDY FAMILY

W. C. T. U. MEMBERS READY TO GIVE ASSISTANCE

Urge Citizens to Observe Prohibition Law and Assist Officers in Its Enforcement

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. E. E. Cross, Friday, November 11th, with Mrs. John Burns presiding. After the scripture reading, several fervent prayers were offered in behalf of the arms conference at Washington, also the spirit of Armistice Day was embodied in the devotionals.

During the business session money was voted for a needy family. Personal contributions were also made to assist purchasing shoes and other wearing apparel.

The Union voted to join the State Federation of Women's Clubs, believing that a broader knowledge of women's work will be an impetus to larger efforts in our community. Other matters of business pertinent to the work were disposed of after which the Law Enforcement committee had charge of a very instructive program.

Lack of reverence for the law is one cause given for the crime wave now prevalent in the world, and not the result of prohibition as some would advocate. Crime is worse in some countries where liquor is not prohibited than it is in prohibited territory. Respect for law should be taught in the homes. The Ten Commandments are simple enough to be understood by all families and should be taught and lived in every home in our land.

Every man or woman citizen who claims the protection of the Stars and Stripes should acquaint themselves with the laws of our land and feel duty bound to keep the law and assist our city, county and state officers in every way possible to enforce the same. Our city and county officers are to be commended for the work they have done in bringing to justice offenders of the liquor law in the past few months.

Every citizen in our county should lend their loyal support to these officers in their efforts to enforce the law and if anyone is in possession of any facts of violation, to acquaint the officers of the same. If all are working together for the common good of our land results are sure to follow.

Mrs. Calkins, state president of the W. C. T. U., gave a very able address in the M. E. church last Sunday evening on law enforcement at the close of which ten new members were added to the Union. The W. C. T. U. stands as a powerful organization for right living.

Thanksgiving Day Proclamation

By the Governor

"Oh, that man would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men."

In accordance with the custom long ago established by our fathers, it is entirely fitting that, at this season of the year, we should set apart a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God, the source of all good, for the manifold mercies and blessings that are ours.

There is an old legend which says that there are two angels whose duty it is to bear from earth the prayers of men. One is the angel of Requests and the other the angel of Thanksgiving. Each carries a large basket as he flies from place to place, listening at the doors of prayer closets. The angel of Requests soon has his baskets filled and heaped up with the supplications of men, but the angel of Thanksgiving, after going all his rounds, has only a few little hymns of gratitude in the bottom of his basket.

Perhaps this fancy is truer than we suppose. People murmur and find fault much oftener than they rejoice and give thanks; but, as we look back over the past year, we have abundant reason for thanksgiving in our individual lives, as a State, and as a Nation. A sufficient harvest has been gathered and we are assured of sustenance for man and beast. Our people, as a rule have been sober and steadfast, honest and industrious. No other land has been so highly favored as our own. We have still many problems to solve, but, gaining courage from the experience of the past, we may go forward in hope and confidence, guided and blessed by the Providence of God.

Alex J. Groesbeck, Governor.

BUSINESS AGAIN CHANGES HANDS

State Savings Bank Disposes of Insurance Business.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank has sold its entire insurance business to the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. The sale embraces the original agency of the bank and also the Myrtle Young & Son Agency, which it recently acquired.

The large business of the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co., which represents a wonderfully healthy growth for the past six years, now combined with the bank's agency gives Charlevoix one of the largest, if not the largest agency in Northern Michigan.

There is no doubting the fact that the larger the business the more capable it should be to render a larger service, and we predict for this company an efficient and bright career.

In commenting on the plans for the enlarged business, R. F. Sloan, states that the company's policies embrace:

- 1st—Ever increasing service to the assured.
- 2nd—Protection of patrons against the insidious "lapse" which has often been disastrous.
- 3rd—Inauguration of fire prevention service, which will secure to business districts long hoped for rate reduction.
- 4th—The assured and agents interests are always mutual.

C. H. S. LOSES TO BOYNE CITY

IN CLOSELY CONTESTED GAME ARMISTICE DAY

Hold Northern Michigan Champions to Score of 13-0 on Field of Mud—Notes on the Game

Armistice Day saw a lot of football games. Probably none was more exciting nor more fiercely contested than that played at Boyne City by teams representing the high schools of Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Boyne City had beaten Petoskey at Petoskey 28-0. They had beaten Traverse City 7-6. They were unbeaten champions of Northern Michigan. They were playing at home. Everything was in their favor.

Yet a green Charlevoix team by virtue of its fighting spirit, was able to hold these champions to a 13-0 score, and should have made it 6-0.

We lost the toss, and Boyne City chose to kick to us. Our offense proved rather weak and a fumble by Ackert gave the ball to the home team in midfield. They started a seemingly irresistible march down the field, making their gains mainly by short and wide end runs. Their passing attack failed miserably in this half although many passes were tried. Their line plunges also netted them but slight gains.

The march continued to Charlevoix's ten-yard line, and then the Charlevoix line became stone. The ball went over on the 5 yard line. One play failed and Ackert punted to the sixty yard line and the punt was returned ten yards.

Again Boyne marched down the field and again they were stopped when within the ten-yard line. Six times, the same thing occurred in the first half. But Boyne lacked punch in the pinches and the half ended with the ball in our territory. The score was 0-0.

We kicked off to Boyne City to open the second frame, and the ball was returned to the forty yard line. Boyne was fighting harder, but so was Charlevoix. The ball saw-sawed back and forth in mid-field several times being well into the enemies' territory, but with no scoring until the middle of the quarter when Boyne, having worked the ball to our six yard line by a combination of passings and running, smashed the line three times with about three yards gain in all, and just barely managed to put the ball on the line on the fourth play. The try at goal failed.

The half was more fiercely fought than the first, being remarkable chiefly for the plunging of Rugg, a half back on Boyne's team. Once again in the middle of the last quarter Boyne's back field eluded Marshall on a wide end run and scored making the try at goal good, and the score 13-0.

We chose to receive and by a series of beautiful passes worked the ball into Boyne's territory, where we lost it on downs. The half ended with no further scoring.

Ackert, who has been one of the best ground gainers for Charlevoix, was powerless against Boyne. In justice it should be said that he was really in no condition to play, being ill the night before the game. However, the boys played the best football they were capable of and they are young enough to be able to learn more. Next time, the score will be reversed.

CHARLEVOIX ROYAL NEIGHBOR LODGE

Hold Weekly Meetings at Home of Mrs. D. J. Eckinger

The Charlevoix Royal Neighbor Lodge held a regular, and also a special session last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. D. J. Eckinger. One visiting member, Mrs. Ted Jones, was present.

After the regular routine business had been concluded, the ladies arranged a surprise on Mrs. Eva Brady, who has faithfully served the order as recorder for the past eight years. A fine pot luck supper was served. Mrs. Brady leaves the first of next week for Chicago, where she will spend the winter.

MUST COMPLETE A FORMER SENTENCE

Young Man Arrested at East Jordan Charged with Forgery

Elver Sweet was arrested a week ago by Deputy Sheriff Cook of East Jordan, charged with passing forged checks, taken to the Charlevoix jail and returned to Ionia to complete a five-year term for robbery.

The young man is about 21 years of age and resided near the old Myers' camps in Antrim county. Some time ago he was convicted in circuit court for robbery and sentenced by Judge Maype to serve an indeterminate sentence of from six months to five years. Last summer he was released on parole after serving seven months of the sentence.

During Fair Week in East Jordan he forged and passed several checks—the checks being made on the exchange bank of Central Lake, payable to "F. A. Parker" and the name of Charles Box forged to same. Several East Jordan merchants, knowing Mr. Box, readily cashed the checks, later to find they were worthless. The matter was laid before Deputy Sheriff Cook who suspected Sweet as he tallied with the description given. During the meantime Sweet had cleaned up and cleared out. On a recent trip through the woods, Cook spotted his man and returned him to Charlevoix.

STATE TO MARK ROADS PLAINLY

TO BE NO LOST TOURISTS IN MICHIGAN

Metal Markers to be Made in Jackson Prison—Plan to Start Immediately

The state administrative board has authorized Frank E. Rogers, state highway commissioner, to install an extensive system of marking on the trunk line routes of the state. If the plans outlined by Governor Groesbeck and other board members mature, it will be impossible for any motorist to get lost while touring in Michigan.

Under the present system of road marking, trunk lines are designated by triangular markers every mile. Curves are indicated and dangerous spots on the road are usually labeled. But several things have been overlooked. For instance there are many towns and cities reached by side roads branching off the trunk and there is nothing on the trunk route to tell the traveler when or where to turn nor how far his destination may be from the trunk road after he does turn. Then there is the difficulty frequently encountered by motorists who in attempting to follow some state trunk line get lost when they enter a city or town and are able to pick up the trunk line on the other side of town only by diligent inquiry.

The idea back of the proposed new system of road marking is to eliminate these difficulties for the motorist. At every side road signs will be placed telling where it goes and how far, the various towns on it are from the trunk line. In every city and town signs will be placed telling the traveler where to go on the city streets so that he will come out on the other side on the desired trunk line. Along the trunk lines themselves will be scattered markers showing the distances between points.

The markers to be used when the new marking system is established will be furnished by Jackson prison. They will be made of metal, with a black background and large silver letters and numerals. It is probable that many of the markers will be placed this fall and winter. Commissioner Rogers originally planned to install the system next summer but Governor Groesbeck and other members of the board believe that many idle men would be glad to work for the state this winter placing markers. If the work is started immediately, they argue, not only will employment be given to some men but when the season opens next year the new system will at least be partially in operation.

Ingram Little, the popular song entertainer, will be among the attractions at the Thanksgiving dance at the Bank Hall, Thursday evening, November 24th. 4611

The W. R. C. will give a 15c tea at the home of Mrs. Dan Swartz at 306 Petoskey avenue, Friday afternoon, November 18th. 4611

SOUTH POINT LOTS NOW ON MARKET

SCENIC BUILDING SITES OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Entire Point Has Been Platted and Building of Hotel, Tea Room and Homes Planned

What is known as "South Point" is now platted into building lots. Mr. Hanson, the architect, has acquired this property through his efforts to bring about the fulfillment of the desires of many summer guests who have asked why that best of all the Charlevoix property was not opened up for use.

We, the people of Charlevoix, well know that the greatest number of our summer people wish to locate on or near Lake Michigan, and we must agree with Mr. Hanson that there is no location more beautiful in northern Michigan than South Point. With the auto service now at hand, these people would rather live a little way out, and this location, with its beautiful lake shore drives, is unsurpassed in natural scenic beauty.

Mr. Hanson says that he has had this property in mind for at least six years, but until now has he not deemed it advisable to go ahead with the platting and building project.

Charlevoix is a resort town and has the finest possibilities to develop it to many times its present capacity. This can only be accomplished by the Charlevoix people helping and pulling together, everyone doing his part. The visitors who come here for rest and recreation, do not wish to promote any of these projects, but are willing to pay their good money if we provide for their wants by showing a disposition to advance our scenic properties. Many of them are willing to buy and build their own homes, provided that we make it possible for them to secure desirable locations which have been provided by nature, and Charlevoix must place at their disposal, while others are disposed to pay good season rentals for suitable cottages. This makes demands upon home people.

A few lots now platted on South Point, are offered for sale at a very reasonable price, either for cash or on time payments to home prospective buyers with a liberal discount to parties who will agree to erect buildings in a reasonable length of time.

The front block of this property is reserved for a large hotel which project is now well under way. Also a large club house is contemplated. A unique tea room and garden has been decided upon, the building will be erected in the early spring. The location has been selected on the west side, and it will most likely be named Sunset Tea Garden. This project is closed. There is also under way a Charlevoix Club, the members of which are considering a location for their building.

H. K. Allen, who has decided to enter the real estate business, will assist Mr. Hanson in the sale of the property.

SACRIFICE SALE VERY SUCCESSFUL

Hundreds Crowd Brown's Store on Opening Day

The Benj. Brown store is experiencing one of the most successful sales ever conducted in the city and hundreds of people are taking advantage of the wonderful harvest of bargains offered.

At the opening hour Saturday, the store was filled to capacity and the many clerks had their hands full to care for the wants of the buyers. The rush continued through the day and many hundreds of dollars worth of goods were sold at greatly reduced prices.

The sale is being conducted under the management of H. K. Allen, one of our fellow townsmen, who for the past year or more has managed sales of like character through the south, east and western states and who has been more than successful in this line of business.

The sale will continue through the entire week, closing Saturday evening. Special hour sales will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, as well as exceptional bargains offered in the various lines.

Announcement of these sales will be found in another section of this issue.

The ladies of St. Mary's church will give a baked goods and apron sale on December 10th. Lunches will be served afternoon and evening. 4515

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. R. B. Armstrong, representing the Shakespeare Study Club spoke to us Thursday morning on "Better Speech." By quoting extensively from Shakespeare plays she showed us how well he had mastered the English language and emphasized how beautiful and flexible the language is.

A very interesting miscellaneous program was given by the junior literary club in the English room, November 10th. William Paddock gave us a good explanation of the Disarmament Conference now in session at Washington. D. C. Vaida Miller gave a book report, "The Marble Faun," by Hawthorne. Eleanor Kelderhouse told us the life of a great singer, Alma Gluck, and illustrated her talk by playing several Gluck records on the Victrola. Then followed a reading by Kay Gaskin, "Two Mexican Men." "The Dissertation on a Roast Pig," recited by Ceell Ogden was very amusing. The program closed with a most convincing appeal for "Women's Rights" by Persis Vanderstreek. Persis has a future.

Friday the high school had the pleasure of listening to an address given by Rev. James Smith, Lieutenant of the 8th Division, who was in France on November 11th, 1918. In his address he related some of his experience on Armistice Day three years ago.

Rev. Arthur Southwick of Pittsburg, representing the National Temperance Club and also the Presbyterian church, spoke to the high school Monday on "Good Citizenship." He said that every citizen has two important duties: first, to obey the law, and second to develop himself, physically, mentally, and morally so that he can take part in the solution of the great problems of the day.

DRIFTWOOD

I have had my faults, but I never painted a house pink.

There's a lot of difference in baking powder, and judging from the biscuits at our house, the wife uses the wrong kind.

A pretty schoolma'am out south might mortgage her dimple and buy a Russian sable coat.

Flippers and flappers (that's the past tense) are as thick as snowflakes on the streets of Charlevoix, and a live matrimonial agent is impending.

If married women knew how it tickles hubby to find the salt cellar empty at the Sunday dinner, all shakers would be made non-fillable.

The prettiest young matron in Charlevoix is stingy with her glances and real niggardly with her smiles; but she did relent.

France and Scotland, Once Allies. French influence is very marked in a number of Scotch words, which is not very surprising in view of the fact that from the early part of the fourteenth century until the accession of James VI to the English throne, France and Scotland were allies.

Red Cross Trains 147 Blind Vets In Useful Work

Training designed to fit them for the battle of life was taken by 147 blinded ex-service men at the Red Cross Institute for the Blind, near Baltimore, Md., during the fiscal year 1920-1921, according to the report of the Institute for that period.

Of this number, 19 have gone on to other institutions, in almost every case to institutions where those having sight are receiving advanced education. The blind ex-service men who have entered such institutions are provided with special textbooks in Braille, reading which they were taught at the Red Cross Institute.

Twelve men have passed from the Institute to successfully carry on some occupation or business for which they were fitted by special training. A few have withdrawn from the Institute because of poor physical condition, 14 are receiving further "training on the job" and 87 are still in training.

Arrow Deadly as Bullet.

A mounted Indian or white man with bow and arrows sometimes could kill more buffaloes than a man could kill with a rifle, says the American Forestry Magazine. At close range the arrow was as deadly as the bullet. It made less noise, and arrows could be discharged three or four times as rapidly as bullets from muzzle-loading guns.

DO NOT CARRY MONEY IN YOUR POCKETS

One interesting thing that has been learned during many of the sales in Charlevoix and vicinity is that a great number of persons are carrying money in their pockets that ought to be in the bank.

We are passing through a depressed financial condition incident to the reconstruction period. Many individual, firms and corporations would like to borrow money in order that they might expand their own business, thus giving employment to more men at good wages, and to just that extent they could relieve our present strained condition. Money carried in one's pocket or stowed away in some "safe place" at home does not have any greater purchasing power than though it were in the bank. Money thus taken out of circulation does not grow of itself but the owner loses the interest on his money, withholds credit from friends and runs the risk of losing the whole sum by fire or theft.

Joseph H. McCoy, government actuary, has prepared for Frank Munsey's Herald exact figures on what one dollar might have meant to Methuselah had he invested it at 6 per cent compound interest when he was twenty-one. Of course, he lived to the ripe old age of 969, but that single dollar would have grown to more than 977 sextillions of dollars. We cannot conceive such a sum, but the interest on it for a part of a second would pay off the whole world's war debts.

America will have some rich families in fifty or one hundred years from now, but that number can be greatly increased if the citizens of today can be awakened to the importance of saving something now. This column is not particularly interested in how this money is saved, but we have found a savings account a mighty convenient way to accumulate enough money to take advantage of some opportunity to talk with any who are interested in teaching their dollars to have more cents through compound interest. You can spend just as much money, even a little more, but when you want to attend a sale you know where you put your money and can rest assured it will be there when you go after it.

FISHING BETTER THAN FOR YEARS

Record Hauls Being Made Daily in Nearby Waters

Charlevoix commercial fishermen report the best fishing in years from waters adjacent to this point, and are making record hauls almost daily.

The Charlevoix Fish company state they have purchased one day catches amounting to over five tons of fish, and numerous other catches of slightly smaller tonnage.

To date George LaBlanc stands at the head of the list in total tonnage, but Harold McCann holds the record for the largest individual one-day catch, amounting to 4,600 pounds.

Fish have been coming in so fast at the Booth Fisheries that they are at the present time unable to state the exact tonnage for the season, but the largest catch they have bought thus far amounted to 36,000 pounds. James Martin marketed a one-day catch with them amounting to 6,000 pounds.

MEETING PLACE HAS BEEN CHANGED

To Be Held at the Congregational Church Parlors

The Charlevoix Circle of the Child Conservation League of America will meet Friday, November 18th in the Congregational church "parlors" instead of the Masonic parlors as stated last week. All members please make a special effort to be present and enjoy the interesting and instructive program that is being prepared.

SOME CHANGE

Speaking of his early acquaintance with Mr. Wilson, Mr. Tumulty says that "He impressed me as a plain, unaffected, affable gentleman, who was most anxious to receive advice and suggestions from any quarters." If that is a true picture of the man when he was a New Jersey politician, a great change took place when he went to Washington.

E. V. Smith will be in Charlevoix about November 17th. Phone or leave orders for piano tuning at Bellinger's. 4611

Kindergarten Shoes for Children

We have been telling you for the past month or so that we would soon have full line of the famous Kindergarten Shoes. They have arrived at last and are now on our shelves.

The Only Shoe for Children

The Kindergarten Shoe has proven itself the very best shoe for children, as hundreds of Charlevoix people will admit. They may cost a trifle more than some makes of shoes, but you get at least twice the wear out of every pair you buy. Ask any mother or father who has bought Kindergarten Shoes for their children. They all tell the same story. Any size now in stock.

Millicent Ends a Feud

By DOROTHY WHITCOMB

(By 1911, Western Newspaper Union.)

The night before my father died he called me to his bedside. He had become conscious at the end, after three months of speechless stupor, just as the doctor had anticipated.

"Milly," he whispered, "when I am dead you will have enough to live upon. I want you to promise never to sell the old homestead."

"I promise, my dear," I answered, and that was all. He seemed to have called himself back to life with one wild effort in order to get my promise. He died at four o'clock in the morning.

"Of course, you'll sell now, Miss Street," my friends told me, and they laughed when I announced my intention of refusing. So did Mr. James' lawyer when he called on me a few days later.

"Well, young lady," he said, setting down his hat and staring hard at me, "you can guess what I have called to see you about, I suppose?"

"Perhaps," I answered enigmatically.

"You know that for seven years Mr. James has been trying to get the Street homestead. The assessed value of your property is, I believe, four thousand dollars. Mr. James offers you fifteen thousand."

"He rose from four thousand to fifteen thousand in seven years," I answered. "But I wouldn't sell it for a hundred thousand. In fact, I won't sell it at all. My father might have sold once, although the homestead was naturally dear to him. But when Mr. James began his persecutions—"

"That was old Mr. James," interrupted the lawyer, frowning. "Mr. Cyprian James had, I admit, a vindictive nature. Mr. Harold James, however, is a fine gentleman. Mr. James is coming South to live, and wants your place for a shooting box."

"No," I answered. "It isn't for sale."

One morning a few days later I saw that a series of boards had been put up all around my little property in the night. I went down to look at them. There were ten in all, and each bore in large letters the words: "TRESPASSERS WILL BE PROSECUTED."

The road led from the garden through a mile of James' land to Heksville. A man was waiting at the gate of the garden, and I hadn't set foot outside before he came hurriedly forward.

"I must ask you to go back," he said, taking off his hat respectfully. He seemed a gentleman, although he was dressed like a tramp. "You may not know that this is a private road. I must request that you step back upon your own territory."

"Indeed, I shall do so such thing," I replied angrily. "I utterly defy you and your old road."

I returned from town about an hour later.

I was very lonely. I had written to a girl chum to come down from Richmond and stay with me until I had decided upon my plans, but I had never contemplated being marooned. What if that wicked Harold James really meant to let me starve to death there? I wasn't too joyful when I awoke next morning.

I looked out of the window. Close to the gate, tied to a short stake by a very long chain, was the most savage-looking bull I had ever seen. He had his head down, and as I approached the garden gate he gave one bellow and began to paw the ground furiously.

I tried to compute the length of that chain.

I saw that he could not reach the garden.

Then I took heart again. The chain was too short. I could pass the bull with several feet to spare.

I felt so infuriated that, as I passed the snorting monster, I snatched my fingers at it. Next instant, with a roar, the creature leaped at me. And then—well, for the first time in my life I faltered.

I could not have been unconscious long, for when I opened my eyes the bull was feeding a short distance away, as peacefully as though it had never had thoughts of violence toward me. And the gamekeeper was bounding over me, a look of agonized reproach upon his face.

"I didn't mean to do it—indeed I didn't," he was saying over and over again. "Won't you forgive me?"

"I suppose you have to earn your wages," I answered curiously.

"Are you engaged?" inquired the man, pulling.

"What business is it of yours?" I demanded.

"Because," he said, "I am Harold James."

"I might have guessed it from your actions," I answered.

And then Mr. Harold James suddenly caught hold of my hands.

"Millicent," he said pleadingly, "don't you remember how we used to be sweethearts when we were at school together and how you promised—some day to marry me? I've been crazy over you ever since. Millicent, may I have a chance to win you?"

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

"I don't know," I answered.

I could not help laughing. "You may call on me next Wednesday evening, after my friend, Miss Jones, gets here," I answered.

Well, the Street homestead is still standing, and it will never be sold as long as I am alive. But it is used now mainly as a shooting box, for the James mansion is so much more convenient and comfortable.

GOOD ROADS SAVE MUCH GAS

Trucks Use Twice as Much Fuel on Dirt Highways as on One Built of Concrete.

That good roads cut the cost of gasoline more than 50 per cent is stated by "Freight Transportation Digest." A loaded two-ton truck was used in a test and in running 100 miles on an earth road consumed 17.3 gallons of gasoline, making an average of 5.78 miles a gallon. The road figured at 25 cents a gallon was $4.33. The same truck was used on a concrete road and traveled the same distance on 8.49 gallons of gasoline, making 11.78 miles per gallon. The cost in this case, figured on the same basis, was $2.12. The net savings in cost of gasoline on the improved highway was therefore $2.21, or more than 100 per cent.

Statisticians could step in here and conjure a colossal sum to represent the savings in gasoline cost if all the highways of the United States were paved, remarks the Columbus (O.) Dispatch. "They could, for instance, assume that all of the one-half million motortrucks in the country were two-ton trucks, and on this basis figure out a saving in gasoline costs equal to a couple of Liberty loan issues."

This enormous reduction in gasoline costs, coupled with the ability to handle loads with less frictional effort, has become one of the strongest arguments for good roads. The two tests cited in this instance show conclusively that poor roads are expensive to the farmer and merchant alike. The farmer who hauls with a motor-truck is getting only one-eighth of the profit he could get and the merchant and intercity freight truck operator are paying out twice what they should for gasoline and are getting only one-eighth of the profit they could get.

GOOD GUIDE FOR TRAVELERS

Arrows on Signs Mark Detours on Iowa's Highways and Point Out Proper Direction.

All detours around roads closed to traffic in Iowa are carefully marked for the guidance and protection of travelers. Signs are erected at intervals so that the proper direction can be taken with the slightest deviation from the regular route. The signs, as furnished by the state to the counties at cost, have a yellow arrow printed against a black ground, with the word "detour" above and below the arrow.

The blank sign furnished to the counties is shown in the upper corner, and as used, in the lower. The larger illustration shows how the signs are disposed to guide traffic around a closed road.

When the sign has been placed with the arrow pointing in the proper direction, the "detour" below is deleted with black paint. The name of the place the arrow is pointing to, and other information, is stenciled inside the arrow.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Hawaii Talks Many Tongues.

Sixty-eight different languages and dialects are used over the telephone lines of Honolulu, according to evidence at the public utilities commission hearing on the Mutual Telephone company's application to increase its rates recently. The list of tongues representing the cosmopolitan conversations of the island include 11 separate national languages, 40 Japanese dialects, seven Chinese dialects—and English. The telephone officials protested they were unable to check the number of business calls separate from social calls because of the babel of tongues.

Forest Fires Spread Darkness. During the occurrence of recent forest fires in Idaho, in August, 1910, the smoke was carried over the whole of the northern United States and southern Canada and far over the oceans. It was observed 500 miles from land. These fires caused "dark days" over a greater area than in any other case on record in this country.

There will be no duplication—no two orders for the same card. Our stock now is complete. By ordering your cards early you will have the pick of many and the order will be certain to be filled before the holiday rush.

THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Legion To Open Finest Hospital For Vets

For the relief of Michigan's tubercular veterans, the American Legion soon will throw open at Battle Creek the finest hospital in the United States exclusively devoted to former soldiers.

The healthfulness of its surroundings, its site on a beautiful range of hills, and the size and character of its buildings combine to give it this prominent position, in the opinion of medical men who have examined it.

The institution will be known as the Roosevelt American Legion Hospital. The buildings and site were originally designed as a hostelry for relatives of soldiers who came to visit and as a place for entertaining the khaki-clad.

Meets Need of Veterans.

The Armistice was signed before the building was completed. But the state had gone so far it decided not to turn back.

For a time, it was turned into a private hospital. Then arrangements were made by Gov. Groesbeck for the state to regain possession of the building. This has now been transferred to the American Legion, along with a fund to maintain the institution.

300 to 500 Patients.

Fred Z. Pantlind, of Grand Rapids, who worked unceasingly for the institution for former service men, is chairman of the committee which will act as the board of managers.

The hospital will accommodate from 300 to 500 patients. Dr. Frank B. Broderick, of Detroit, state welfare officer, estimates that there are between 1,500 and 2,000 tubercular former service men of Michigan. Doctor Broderick's department is separately from the hospital management, but will work in conjunction with it.

Experts for the Staff.

The best tuberculosis experts in the state will be placed on the medical staff. All employees will be former service men and women. Only Michigan tubercular former service men will be admitted, with the exception that some from the United States Public Health Service will seek haven there under special arrangement with the Government.

In addition to the advantages of proper and scientific care, there will be injected an atmosphere of sunshine and cheer, one of the great medicines in fighting the white plague. In choosing its patients, the Legion will pay no attention to a man's membership or lack of membership in any soldier organization.

MATHEMATICS OF BAD ROADS

Farmer Solves Problem of Hours Lost in Making Trip Over Road That Is Deep in Mud.

If it takes a farmer, making a trip through the mud one hour and a half longer than when the roads are firm, how many hours are lost in a year if 1,000 farmers make an average of 12 trips a month? What would be the monetary loss if each 1½ hours lost be estimated at 75 cents per hour for each man and his team? This "two-in-one" proposition gave our old cat considerable trouble, but he finally worked it out thus: One farmer multiplied by 1½ hours multiplied by 12 trips, multiplied by 1,000 farmers, multiplied by 12 months equals 216,000 hours lost; going a step further, and multiplying 216,000 by 75 cents, you have $162,000 per annum lost to the farmers. Our old cat is now pondering how many road bonds this annual loss would float at 5 per cent interest.—Union Times.

HARDING LAUDS GOOD ROADS

President in First Message to Congress Deplores Money Wasted in Improved Highways.

In no uncertain terms, President Harding expressed his opinion of the automobile, motor transport and good roads in his first message to congress. He said: "The motorcar has become an indispensable instrument in our political, social and industrial life. . . . I know of nothing more shocking than the millions of public funds wasted in improved highways—wasted because there is no policy of maintenance. Highways must be patrolled and constantly repaired."

Hens Vary in Weight.

Egg-producing hens vary in weight, the average being about four pounds. The principal breeds of egg producers are the Leghorns, the Wyandottes, the Plymouth Rocks, the Rhode Island Reds and the Minorcas.

Work Is World Wide.

Road construction and maintenance have become world wide as well as provincial problems and foreign governments are doing much work toward highway development.

Fewer people win gracefully than lose gracefully.

SCOTS USED FIRST MACADAM

Resident of Ayrshire Made His First Experiments About 1814—Roads Now Common.

Macadam roads are so common in America that national pride may well lead us to look upon them as a domestic product.

But John MacAdam was a Scot, resident in Ayrshire, where he made his first experiments about 1814, according to the New York Sun. Five years later the first public roads were laid with the pavement and a grateful parliament awarded the inventor a grant of $50,000.

In 1827, after the new pavement had been thoroughly tested, MacAdam was made surveyor general of all metropolitan roads in and about London and the use of his method became general throughout the United Kingdom.

BURNS PURCHASES HAMMOND INTERESTS

Partnership of Block & Hammond Has Been Dissolved

In another column of this issue will be found a notice of dissolution of partnership of the firm of Block & Hammond, proprietors of the Lakeway Garage of this city.

The interests of O. D. Hammond has been purchased by Nat. Burns, who took possession on Saturday last, and the business will, in the future, be conducted under the name of Block & Burns.

Mr. Burns' purchase includes a half interest in the already established garage business, which includes the local agency for the entire line of Chevrolet cars and trucks, and Pennsylvania tires.

The new firm have taken a three-year lease of the building which is owned by Mrs. Hammond and will continue the business at the former location.

Only 10 more days of the free Brednut offer

One pound of Brednut Free for 5 empty cartons presented not later than Saturday of next week

BREDNUT is made especially for the most particular people. Those who have tried the famous Brednut test say they cannot tell Brednut from the finest, freshest, and most expensive spread for bread.

It looks like the costly product when on the table, spreads like it, tastes like it. The texture is the same, and it is equally good on bread, toast, corn, meats—on all cold and hot foods.

Yet Brednut does not contain a trace of animal fat. Nothing but the cleanest, purest cream of the coconut—selected and treated in the exclusive Brednut way under the direction of experts who have had twenty years' experience.

Brednut costs less because it is less expensive to grow coconuts than to feed cows.

The Famous Brednut Test
Example No. 9
Brednut on Broiled Fish

PREPARE one piece of fish with Brednut and another with the most expensive spread for bread. Take a bite of one and then of the other. We challenge you to tell which is Brednut.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for thousands of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, says a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of those countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide the medical assistance needed to restore these children to a normally healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

Tracing History of Cabbage.

The Romans are credited with introducing cabbage into England, and the soldiers of Cromwell carried it to Scotland and made it popular there, as they did also in Ireland, according to tradition.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

John Laprairie has taken the contract from the Mobary-Robinson Lumber company, of Cincinnati, O., to put in 800,000 feet of hardwood logs on Bois Blanc Island this winter. He went over to the island last week to commence getting his camps in shape for immediate operation. The logs will be sawed at the Stafford Mfg. company's mill at Sand Bay. Next summer they will operate camps on the north shore of the island where they have about 3,500,000 feet of hardwood. This will keep the mill running all next season—Cheboygan Tribune.

Judge Mayne is dealing out some stiff sentences to violators of the prohibition law. James Earl of Charlevoix was sent to Ionia for six months to one year and assessed $100 fine. And two men in Leelanau county received the same prison sentence.—Mancelona Herald. At the next term of court we believe there are seven who were convicted at the last term of court who will receive their sentences and there are a lot more to go to trial. Judge Mayne some time ago served notice that persons convicted in his court for violation of the Michigan prohibition statute "will see the walls of prison." This may have a moderating effect upon the census report of a couple of Antrim county townships—Banks and Milton—and there are other towns where something is apt to happen. Some of these people who think they can safely trend where others have nired are due to take a ride.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Albert MacDonald, for more than sixty years a resident of Cheboygan, and said to be more than a hundred years of age, is dead in Cheboygan. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland. Mr. MacDonald, despite his age kept in close touch with the affairs of his home city, the nation and the world. Last week Sheriff Dunsmore and his deputy, John Muckle, with the prosecuting attorney, Mr. Wellman, made a raid on booze at Elk Lake capturing two trucks at one haul, five barrels of wine and hard cider from the Hertz home, where Mrs. Hertz and two men were arrested. Eight barrels of wine and hard cider were taken the same day from the Hansey place and the arrest of Mrs. Hansey and two sons was made. All were released on five hundred dollars bail.—Elk Rapids Progress.

REGISTERED HOLSTEINS AT PRICE OF GRADES

Loeb Farms Management Purchases
a Fine Lot

Members of the North Bay and Lone Elm Bull Associations met at the Loeb Farms, Saturday afternoon to look over the registered Holstein-Friesian heifers recently purchased by R. V. Otto, assistant manager, for immediate resale to Charlevoix county farmers.

This was an exceptionally good bunch of heifers, and after pro-rating the expense of buying and transportation, were delivered to the purchasers' farms at little above the price of grade stuff. It is of course impossible to say what another lot will cost.

R. P. Sloan stated that he was well pleased with the results and was of the opinion that Mr. Otto would be able to secure another lot in the near future. "Our interest in these heifers does not end with the transfer," said Mr. Sloan. "Loeb Farms will continue to take a live interest in the development of this stock and will lend any reasonable assistance toward making Charlevoix county the leader in the Holstein breed."

ACCEPTS CALL FROM CHEBOYGAN

Rev. James A. Smith Soon to Leave
Charlevoix

Rev. James A. Smith, for the past year or more pastor of the local Congregational church, has accepted a call from the First Congregational church at Cheboygan, and will move with his family to that city between the 15th of December and the first of the year. In assuming his new charge Rev. Smith receives a substantial increase in salary.

During his short stay in Charlevoix, Rev. Smith has made many close and intimate friends who greatly regret his departure, especially among members of the American Legion, of which he was a member and held the office of chaplain. He is a hard and earnest worker, both in the church and community and leaves a place hard to fill. The best wishes of his Charlevoix friends follow him.

ANNUAL HUNT AT IRONTON GRANGE

Game Supper To Be Served Thanksgiving Evening

Members of Ironton Grange will hold their second annual community hunt on Thanksgiving Day, and in the evening the supper will be served at the grange hall.

Willard Bird and Harold McMullen were chosen captains, and formed the line-up of hunters, with the agreement that the side scoring the smallest number of points would furnish the entertainment and wash the dishes.

This annual community affair is anticipated, as the rivalry between the two sides is keen.

CONGOLEUM GOLD SEAL ART-RUGS

They're So Attractive—

BRIGHTEN up your bedrooms with one of our attractive Congoleum Art-Rugs. In fact, they are wonderfully appropriate for any room in the house if you want to make your floors cheerful, positively sanitary and easy to clean. And certainly every woman wants to do that.

Here are the prices and sizes:

This offering of the justly famous Congoleum Art-Rugs and Floor-Coverings is an event of unusual importance to everyone with floors to cover.

The Gold Seal on every rug means that you are buying the genuine material—that a damp mop will keep the colors clear and bright without any sweeping or beating—that the surface is wear-resisting—that it will lie flat without fastening and that you can get your money back if you are not perfectly satisfied.

Congoleum By-the-Yard

For those who prefer Congoleum for use over the entire floor—we have a splendid variety of beautiful designs in the usual floor-covering widths. Of course it's guaranteed with the Gold Seal. Bring your floor measurements with you.

MRS. CALKINS GAVE A FINE ADDRESS

State W. C. T. U. President Speaks at M. E. Church

Mrs. E. L. Calkins, state president of the Michigan Women's Christian Temperance Union, gave a fine address at the Methodist church, Sunday evening on "Prohibition and Law Enforcement."

Mrs. Calkins made it plain that prohibition is the result of a long, hard struggle, that various plans were tried such as moral suasion, high license and local option; that scientific temperance instruction was made compulsory in the schools; that the question came up again and again before congress and finally the eighteenth amendment was proposed; that members of congress voted for the amendment because public sentiment demanded it and this was true of the members of the state legislature where it was ratified before it became a law.

The speaker said that law is the foundation of all government and unless our laws are enforced we shall go down in chaos. The wets have not abated their efforts to nullify the amendment and that those who favor law and order must maintain their organization and activities.

The following suggestions were made to those who wish to help in the law enforcement campaign now underway:

First—Know the law.

Second—Stand behind your officers and encourage them in every way in their efforts to enforce the laws.

Third—Use every means to create public sentiment in favor of law enforcement.

TAKES IN TOO MUCH TERRITORY

Man Filled With Booze Defies Sheriff Weaver

Floyd Rice, a former East Jordan resident, now claiming Charlevoix as his home, was found with his car in the ditch near Greenski Hill last Wednesday by Sheriff Weaver. When questioned by the sheriff he showed fight and managed to land on the county official, declaring there were not enough men in Charlevoix county to place him under arrest.

He took in too much territory, as Weaver, with two men called to his assistance, succeeded in placing handcuffs on him and landed him in the county bastille.

He was taken before Justice H. C. Cooper, where he plead guilty to the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and was fined $100 with a jail sentence of 30 days attached. Later the jail sentence was suspended and his future conduct will decide whether he serves it or not.

Two Boyne City men were also arrested charged with liquor law violations and bound over to circuit court.

COMMITTEE OF NINE CHOSEN

TO ASSUME CHARGE OF CASES WHERE HELP IS NEEDED

Members of Committee Should Receive Co-operation of Every Society in City

If the work of caring for Charlevoix's charities is attended to as promptly as the suggestion to name a committee of five or seven men to supervise this most important duty, published in our last issue, there will be little if any suffering among the poor and unfortunate.

All know the work must be done, but just how to accomplish it has been the problem. The naming of a committee of business men, willing to attend to each case where help is needed, was immediately recognized as a solution of the matter.

There has been no necessity of asking one to serve—all have expressed their willingness to do their part, and the following men will carry on the activities during the coming year: P. D. Campbell, Benj. Brown, R. F. Sloan, A. J. Usher, A. T. Jeffery, L. E. Benton, Albert Staley, W. C. Bellinger and Fred A. Myers.

This committee soon to meet and fully organize, will assume the burden of work connected with rendering assistance to those who need it. Regardless of location, any member of this committee stands ready to visit the home of the unfortunate, and see that food, clothing, medical assistance, or for that matter do all possible to aid them.

It must be remembered, however, that no matter how active this committee may be, their success in the work will depend entirely upon the assistance given them by every citizen, all societies, lodges, and organizations in the community. Through co-operation the committee expects to be able to furnish all that is needed in cases where help is necessary.

Their plan is to become thoroughly organized, thus making it a community affair. Each society or organization is asked to name a committee to aid in the work. If certain articles are needed, these sub-committees will be notified by the committee of nine men. If soliciting of funds or for supplies is found necessary each sub-committee will be asked to do their part toward securing the things needed. Thus by co-operation among all, no case where assistance is needed will be neglected.

Chas. E. See has offered the use of the vacant store room in the See block as a storage room. Articles so far donated have been taken there and in the future this room will be utilized as a storage and work room. All articles donated will be sorted out repaired if needed, and placed in homes. People desiring to help in this work can leave their donations with any member of the committee who will see that they are taken care of.

The committee of nine hope within a short time to formulate further plans in connection with the work, which will be announced as soon as completed. In the meanwhile, cases are being reported almost daily where help will be needed, and further calls for assistance from our citizens will soon be asked.

ALANSON BOY DIES FOR HIS FLAG

Parents Just Learn He Was Killed in World War

All uncertainty as to the fate of Henry Howell, of Alanson, who enlisted early in the world war conflict, was ended last week when Theodore C. Howell, father of the soldier boy, received official word that his son was killed in action July 18, 1918.

Howell was first reported as seriously wounded in the early stages of America's entrance in the field, and for a long period no further information could be obtained concerning his whereabouts.

Later official notice was received from the war department that Henry Howell was alive and well, and a member of the motor transport corps doing duty in Belgium, after the close of the war.

The abrupt news was received announcing his death in 1918. He is survived by Theodore C. Howell, father, and three brothers, William, Horace and John.

The W. R. C. will give a 15c tea at the home of Mrs. Dan Swartz at 306 Petoskey avenue, Friday afternoon, November 18th. 461

COUNTY INSPECTION NEXT SUMMER

All Bee Colonies in This Section to be Thoroughly Inspected

Word received from B. F. Kindig, director of apianry inspection for the state of Michigan, states that a complete inspection of all colonies of bees in Charlevoix county will be made next summer. This means that all bee-keepers should know that their bees are in hives, all frames of which can be removed; also to avoid trouble with the authorities he should know that they are free from disease.

To enable the bee-keepers of the county to be entirely prepared for this inspection, County Agent Wing has arranged with Mr. Kindig to conduct a series of bee-keepers schools throughout the county this winter. A two-day school will be held in Charlevoix December 12 and 13th. This school should be largely attended by all interested in bees.

Further announcement of program and place of meeting will be announced later.

NEW SLOGAN HEALTH BOARD

MICHIGAN IS ENDEAVORING TO LENGTHEN SPAN OF LIFE

Death Rate Among Children Being Rapidly Decreased—41.6 Years Average Life

"Lower death rates and lengthen life."

This is the slogan and creed of public health workers who are observing this month the semi-centennial celebration of the foundation of their profession as typified by the establishment of the American Public Health Association 50 years ago.

By prevention of premature deaths, reduction of disease, and promotion of maximum physical health they have helped add 17.5 years to the average life of Michigan residents during the past 50 years according to state department of health records. In 1872 the average length of life in Michigan was 24.1 years; the average length of life now is approximately 41.6 years.

Forty-two per cent of all deaths in 1872 occurred among children less than 5 years of age, and 50 per cent of all deaths occurred before the age of 14. In 1919 only 23 per cent of the total number of deaths was among children under 5, and 50 per cent of the total was not reached before the age of 42.

Physicians and public health workers first concerned themselves with preventing premature deaths which occurred before the age of 14, lowering Michigan infant mortality during the period from 1872 to 1921 from 117 to 81 death per 1,000 living births, scarlet fever from 47.4 to 9.6 deaths per 100,000 population and diphtheria from 29.9 to 21.1.

In curbing diseases of the next age group the small-pox death rate has been reduced from 25.5 in 1872 to 0.4 in 1921, typhoid fever from 52.2 to 6.8, and tuberculosis of the lungs only from 123.8 to 46.4. Anti-cancer campaigns of today are evidence, it is said, of attempts to lower the mortality of diseases common to persons beyond the present average life span.

WINNERS IN CLOSING GAME

C. H. S. DEFEATS EAST JORDAN BY 20-7 SCORE

Vexatious Delay on Part of Visiting Team Keeps Players on Grounds Until Late Hour

The Charlevoix high school football team closed their season last Saturday by defeating East Jordan 20-7.

The weather man did his best to stop the game and succeeded in keeping a number of people at home. The field was covered with snow causing the boys to work fast to keep warm.

The game was called at 3:45. East Jordan stalled around at the hotel waiting for one of their players.

Capt. Jones won the toss and chose to receive. East Jordan kicked to Todd who fell on the ball on the 40 yard line. We lost the ball on downs on the 60 yard line but secured it again through a fumble by East Jordan. Then by plunges, end runs by Copper and a cross huck, Capt. Jones went across for our first touchdown. Ackert failed to kick goal.

Again during the first quarter Capt. Jones gave us a touchdown. This time Ackert kicked goal.

During the second quarter, Cooper playing right half back in place of Joe Hamilton, gave the fans a thrill when on a cross buck he ran 45 yards through the entire East Jordan team for a touchdown. The half ended with the score 20-0.

We were given 3 minutes between the halves. It was dark at the beginning of the second half and we decided to play 6 minute quarters. East Jordan received and by plays that would work only under cover of darkness scored a touchdown and kicked goal. With but two minutes to go Charlevoix received but the game was over before we had time to go more than two plays. Had the game started at 2:30 the time agreed upon by both teams, the local boys could have piled up a 40-0 score.

Following is a result of the games played this year:

Charlevoix 6, East Jordan 2.
Charlevoix 14, Harbor Springs 29.
Charlevoix 0, Mancelona 40.
Charlevoix 19, Harbor Springs 0.
Charlevoix 0, Boyne City 13.
Charlevoix 20, East Jordan 7.

The prospects of a winning eleven next year are very good. We lose two good men in Nordrum and Sinclair by graduating but the remainder of the team will be out in suits next fall.

TWINS AND TRIPLETS ARE NOW ON THE GAIN

According to Report of the State Department of Health

Twin children born in Michigan in 1920 numbered 2,216, an increase of 550 children or 225 sets of twins over the 1919 total of twin births, according to a report issued by the state department of health.

Eleven sets of triplets were born in 1920, compared to four sets in 1919. No births of quadruplets have been reported since 1917, records show. Detroit is credited with 248 of the twin children and three sets of triplets in 1919, and with 638 of the twins and four sets of triplets whose births were reported in 1920. Grand Rapids reported the births of 70 twins and one set of triplets in 1919, and 82 twins in 1920.

With 92,245 births reported throughout the state last year there was approximately one chance out of 42 that twins would be born; in 1919 there was one chance out of 50. It is estimated that two per cent of the population, or 76,361 of the state's 3,817,555 residents, is composed of twins, triplets or quadruplets.

Capability of hearing twins is known to be hereditary, the twinning capacity in some family strains being through the males only, while in others the tendency to twin production passes along the female line. "There is evidence," says one authority, "that a stronger inherited influence is necessary for the production of female twins, and that a very decided prepotency for the production of male twins."

The Ladies Literary and Sewing Club of the M. E. church will hold a fancy goods sale and bazaar December 9th and 10th at the Charlevoix Hardware Co.'s store. Come and buy your Christmas gifts. 462

REMAINS BROUGHT TO PETOSKEY TUESDAY

Daniel T. Bush Dies After Operation in Ann Arbor

Daniel T. Bush, a former resident of Charlevoix, died at the U. of M. hospital at Ann Arbor, Sunday morning at 5:00 o'clock, from the result of an operation for chronic appendicitis.

Deceased was born in Canyon City, Mich. He came to Petoskey 12 years ago, and two years later moved onto the Struthers farm in Hayes township. After spending two years here, he moved to the Paddock farm, now the Loeb Farms, where he spent about three years, moving from there to Grand Rapids, and later to Royal Oak, Mich., where he was employed in the Ford plant.

He is survived by a wife, one son and three daughters, besides other relatives here and numerous friends. Remains were brought to Petoskey, Tuesday and funeral services held Wednesday morning at 10:00 o'clock from Stone's chapel. Interment in Petoskey cemetery.

CASES TO BE HEARD "BY 'CLEAN-UP SQUAD'"

Veterans of World War May Present Case at Petoskey Dec. 5-7

Veterans of the World War who have claims against the federal government will be given an opportunity to present their cases from December 5-7 inclusive, in Petoskey, Mich.

A Clean-up Squad, whose duty is to hear such cases, will listen to veterans from Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

The Squad will hear only those claims which have to do with insurance, or compensation or vocational training. Under these heads, it will hear both new requests and protests from men who consider their present awards inadequate.

Veterans who are uncertain whether they have claims are asked to get in touch with their local American Legion officials who will advise them.

Dr. Frank B. Broderick, state welfare officer of the Legion, sends the following message from Detroit:

"Every veteran who thinks he may have a claim should be ready to present it now. The Legion wants every case of the sort, the country over, heard and disposed of within a year at the outside.

"Veterans should have complete proof of their claims. For instance, if they claim that a present illness is traceable to their service, they should have sworn statements from physicians as to their health before the war, their present condition, and the incidents or circumstances in the service to which they attribute their trouble. They should not bring unsupported statements by relatives, or similar insufficient evidence. They should make their case entirely clear."

STATE GRANGE MEETS AT FLINT

48th ANNUAL CONVENTION DECEMBER 13 to 16

Dissatisfaction Over Lower Prices Voiced by Farmers in Some Parts of the State

The forty-eighth annual convention of the Michigan State Grange, to be held in Flint, December 13 to 16, inclusive, will be one of the most important meetings the organization ever has called, according to A. P. Cook, master of the Grange.

"Several outstanding problems are to be met and solved at this session," Mr. Cook said. "In addition to a number of grave public questions that must be considered, a future course relative to Grange policies and expenses will be decided upon. These changes are necessary because of drafts upon our reserve funds this year."

The Grange is expected to consider in some form proposals that have been made in recent years for a closer touch with the working men in the cities through co-operative markets.

The question has arisen at previous meetings of the Grange. The annual convention of the Michigan Federation of Labor, held in Grand Rapids some time ago, approved the co-operative marketing plan. Representatives of the Grange and other farmers' organizations were invited by the unionists to attend the labor meeting.

One of the big discussions at the Flint gathering is expected to come over the decrease in the price of foodstuffs that the farmer has to sell. Considerable dissatisfaction over prices has been voiced in all parts of the state among the agriculturists and those who have expressed an opinion on the subject, both in private conversations and in farmers' meetings, have let it be known that the farmers as a class believe they are not obtaining their share of the price city dwellers are paying for commodities.

The entire question of prices is expected to be discussed on the floor of the convention and it is probable according to those in a position to know, that resolutions of some sort will be drafted and presented to the Grangers.

Although the program is only tentative so far it has been decided that the first day of the meeting will be set aside for welcoming of the delegates, the annual address of the president, and for conference of the regional district delegates and the visitors.

The second day will be marked by respect of officers, the annual banquet and other features. At the banquet the chief speakers will be President Marion LeRoy Burton of the University of Michigan and Professor David Friday, new president of the Michigan Agricultural College. In view of Professor Friday's new position, his address is eagerly awaited not only by members of the Grange, but by other farmer organizations as well.

The third day's program will be devoted to reports of officers and conferring of the fifth and sixth degrees.

On closing day the committee reports will be submitted and acted upon.

FLYING BOAT HAS BEEN ORDERED

Charlevoix Beach Hotel to Have Added Attraction

As has been previously announced in these columns, Mrs. J. S. Baker, of the Charlevoix Beach Hotel will have an added attraction for the hundreds of resorters who make their home at the Beach during the summer months.

She has placed an order for a large flying boat of the Santa Maria type, which is to be delivered here the first of July, the coming year. The new machine as yet is unnamed and will be manned by an experienced crew. Trips will be made to all lake ports as the ocean demands.

Sears-Boise Nuptials

A quiet wedding took place Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Sears on Dixon avenue, when their eldest son, Franklin, was united in marriage to Miss Irene Bois, Rev. James A. Smith performing the ceremony. Only relatives of the family and close friends were present.

ISSUE SQUARELY PUT

A New York trust company represents the bondholders of the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad. It has filed a petition in a Colorado court praying for an order to close the road or an order to reduce wages and operating costs so that the property can be run at a profit. The move is an indication of what will happen on other railroads unless there is an inducement for capital to continue their operation. The Interstate Commerce Commission may reduce freight rates, and the Railroad Labor Board may maintain high wage levels, but some day they may find that there are no trains and no employees upon which to try their theories. There is no Federal agency and no law that can compel a man or group of men to run a business at a loss.

POISON GAS IN THE GARAGE

Open the garage doors or slip a piece of hose over the exhaust pipe of the car and let that discharge the gas outside of the garage these winter mornings. Running the engine to warm it up in a closed garage is almost as deadly a performance as going to bed with the gas turned on and unlighted in the bedroom. Prof. Henderson of Yale utters the warning.

The exhaust from the car contains quantities of deadly carbon monoxide gas. An average-sized car produces not less than a cubic foot of this gas per minute. The professor calculates that in a 10 x 10 x 20 foot garage, unless there is plenty of access to the fresh air, the gas will reach the deadly point in three or four minutes. In less time than this, headache and serious nausea may be caused.

The number of deaths resulting from starting cars in closed garages always mounts up with the advent of winter. Let the poison out and the air in, and enjoy life a little longer.

County Agent in Dual Job

L. L. Drake, agricultural agent, is busy preparing his program for the coming year's work, when he will serve both Kalkaska and Antrim counties as agricultural agent. Kalkaska county found itself without the services of a farm agent as the result of a continued squabble over payment of such a salary and the two counties now have combined, with the result that Mr. Drake holds the dual position.

THIN ROADS ARE EXPENSIVE

Ordinary Rock Surface Under Motor Traffic Coming in Next Few Years.

MacAdam was years ahead of his age and years behind this one. The builders of the Applian Way knew more about building a road for a motor truck than MacAdam, strange as it may appear. It is the general opinion among road builders—an opinion greatly quickened and altered by the war—that the light stone road, be it surfaced or oil treated in what way you will, is not the road to build in the face of an onslaught of motor trucks that is coming in the next few years. The motorcar brought oil to the road as a necessity. The water bond, which worked so well with iron tires and iron shoe wheels, is useless against the suction of the pneumatic tire. But the oiled stone road that holds the 3,000-pound car with ease will not carry the five-ton truck—and last.

The railroad builders have found that for heavy traffic it pays to use the heaviest steel rails, the finest wood for ties and the best broken stone, and plenty of it, for ballast.

Vegetables in Fall Garden.

It should be remembered that practically all vegetables grown in the spring garden can be grown also in the fall garden, and such vegetables seeds as were left over from spring plantings may be used in the fall.

No Doubt of Need.

There isn't any doubt about the need for more and better roads when automobiles and trucks are the only means of bringing food to your city or town.

Softest Known Wood.

Trees belonging to the genus Jacaranda, growing in tropical America, are remarkable for their soft wood. After part of the bark is cut away a canchete can be shaved to the center of the trunk with ease. The wood when fresh can be cut into blocks with a knife as one would cut up parsnips or turnips. As the wood dries, it shrinks to a small fraction of its original size.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

You are cordially invited to attend this church and if not connected elsewhere to cast your lot in with us. Our work is for the good of the community and we aim to do everything we can to make Jesus Christ the outstanding personality of our services. With the Apostle Paul we say we are "determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified."

Show your interest in philanthropy by taking a membership in the American White Cross. This for one year is but a dollar. "Have a heart" and lift your share of Methodism's hospital work.

This Sunday we will give you the opportunity for general membership in the White Cross. Can we reach our goal of 200?

The subject of the morning service is "The Master's Cause." We would like to greet a full house to listen to the discussion of "The Why of Religion."

The Sunday school is on the rising tide. 245 in attendance last week. Wanted! A hundred men for the men's Bible class.

We run a double service for the evening. We begin with Epworth League at six and follow with evening worship at seven. The subject, "I Bow My Knees." This will be taken up I bow my knees for invention and discovery; philanthropy and reform; settlement of social questions; conviction of sin in the world; direct leading of the Holy Spirit.

Service at Barnard church. 1:00 p. m. Sunday school. 2:00 p. m. preaching.

The Literary and Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. Leon Atchison, Antrim street, Friday the 25th. at 2:30 p. m.

Union Thanksgiving service in our church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Pastor Smith of the Congregational church will give the address. This estimable brother has been called to another field. A good audience ought to give him a rousing hearing.

Are you thankful this year?

A cocky big man is almost insufferable but a cocky little one is impossible.

Minutes of a Council meeting of the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, Mich., held on the 21st day of November 1921.

The following were present: Ald. Bergeon, Genett, Hamilton, Levinson and Wood. Absent Ald. Miller.
The following resolution was introduced by Ald. Levinson seconded by Ald. Wood. The roll call was called, all members voting aye; the Mayor declared the resolution unanimously adopted.

Resolution
Whereas, by a resolution heretofore adopted by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, Mich., the place of payment of the principal and interest on $50,000 of Electric Light Power Plant Bonds of said city, dated October 1st, 1921, and maturing serially in the years of 1924 to 1931 inclusive, is made payable at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Charlevoix, Mich.

Whereas, it is now deemed advisable to change said place of payment and to have said principal and interest made payable at the Continental & Commercial National Bank, Chicago, Ill., or at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, Charlevoix, Michigan, at the option of the holder.

New, Therefore, Be It Resolved, that both principal and interest of the $50,000 Electric Light Power Plant Bonds dated October 1, 1921, and maturing as follows:

$2,000 October 1st, 1924.
$2,000 October 1st, 1925.
$2,000 October 1st, 1926.
$4,000 October 1st, 1927.
$10,000 October 1st, 1928.
$10,000 October 1st, 1929.
$10,000 October 1st, 1930.
$10,000 October 1st, 1931.

shall be made payable at the Continental & Commercial National Bank, Chicago, Ill., or at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, Charlevoix, Michigan, at the option of the holder.

That all resolutions in conflict with this resolution are hereby repealed.

Grover C. Genett,
Mayor pro tem.

Archie Livingston, City Clerk.
On motion of Ald. Levinson seconded by Ald. Bergeon the Council adjourned.

Archie Livingston, Clerk.

Nautical Terms.

Gross tonnage is obtained by dividing the whole cubic capacity of a ship by 100, that many English cubic feet representing a ton. Net tonnage is the gross tonnage less deduction for machinery, crew and other spaces not used for passengers or cargo. Dead-weight tonnage or tonnage capacity is the number of tons which can be carried in the holds when the vessel is charged to the load-water line. Displacement tonnage used with reference to warships is the actual weight of sea water displaced by the vessel when charged with all its weight to the load-water line.

IMPROVED ROADS

ROAD CONSTRUCTION IN 1920

Cost Was About Twice as Much as in 1917 on Account of Distinct Shortage of Labor.

(Prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Every kind of road cost about twice as much to build in 1920 as it did in 1917, according to the chief of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, and highway construction suffered more than any other class of work through railroad congestion, strikes, labor troubles and material shortages.

After the war there was a great public demand for improved roads. Many roads had been seriously damaged by war traffic, and it appeared that the return of men from military service would provide an abundance of labor. The army of laborers which was expected to apply for the work did not, however, materialize. On the contrary, there was a distinct shortage of labor, and wages reached the highest levels attained in the history of the country. In 1917, competent labor could be secured for from $1.50 to $3 per day, but the corresponding wages in 1920 were from $3 to $5 for a shorter day's work.

In proportion to this demand there was also a pronounced scarcity of construction materials. Sand, gravel, stone, and cement, and materials commonly used in road work increased in price between 1917 and 1920 from 50 to 100 per cent. Naturally, these increases in cost were reflected in the prices paid to contractors for road work. Gravel roads increased from $1,500 to $7,250 per mile; concrete from $21,165 to upward of $40,000 per mile, and brick roads from $23,000 to $55,000 per mile.

As funds available for road construction are largely limited by statute, or by the returns from taxation, a majority of the states this year have deliberately withheld work, the plans for which had been completed, until they could obtain a greater return for their expenditure.

Indians Have Curious Numeration.

The Indians of Gabana have a curious system of numeration. They count by the hand and its four fingers. Thus, when they reach five, instead of saying so, they call it a "hand." Six is therefore a "hand and first finger," seven, a "hand and second finger," ten is "two hands." But 20, instead of being "four hands," is a "mug." Forty is "two mugs" and thus they go on by twenties. Forty-six is expressed as "two mugs, a hand and first finger."

"Crepuscular" Sun Rays

"The beams of light sometimes seen radiating from the sun when not far from the horizon are called 'crepuscular rays.' They are due to rays of light passing through breaks in the clouds and made visible by dust or fine drops of water in the air. Their apparent divergence is an effect of perspective. The phenomenon is popularly described as 'the sun drawing water'; sailors speak of the 'sun's backstays'; while Homer wrote of the 'rosy-fingered dawn.'"

To Remove a Tight Can Lid.

Can lids are often difficult to remove. Here is a plan by means of which they can be loosened easily. Tie a piece of stout wire loosely just below the cover, then thrust under the twine a pencil and start to twist this. When the twine is tight, the cover of the can comes away readily.

Milk Toast

ARE you cranky about your milk toast? If you wish to make an interesting test of Brednut, try this: Have two bowls of milk toast prepared. In one place a bit of Brednut; in the other put the most expensive spread for bread. We challenge you to tell which is Brednut.

BREDNUT comes fresh every day from the churns. It stays fresh longer than costlier products, so you are perfectly safe in buying an extra pound or two if it's necessary in order to profit from this offer and get a pound of Brednut free.

Everywhere astonished housewives, including thousands of former users of expensive spreads for bread are telling each other that Brednut is just as good—tastes as good, looks the same on the table, spreads as well, and has all the qualities for which they have had to pay very high prices for years.

None but the finest white cream of selected coconuts is used in making Brednut—and it is treated in the exclusive Brednut way with the exclusive Brednut equipment by experts who have had twenty years' experience and who have produced a nut margarine that is surpassed by nothing at any price.

Brednut is guaranteed to satisfy. Your money back if it doesn't.

Earl Brown living two miles north of Ellsworth was taken into custody by Game Warden Jack Muckle of Central Lake on Monday of this week charged with shooting a ring neck pheasant and when arraigned before Justice Sage of Central Lake pleaded guilty and paid a fine of fifty dollars and costs, the whole amounting to sixty-two dollars and ten cents. This may look like a rather stiff fine, but when it is considered that a number of people have gone to some expense and a whole lot of trouble to hatch and feed and liberate these birds, and in addition to this the birds are so tame and unafraid that they could easily be killed with a club and that the sentence could have been the limit of thirty days in addition to the above fine, the offender may consider himself lucky in escaping so easily. There is little doubt but what others have killed these birds and this may serve as a warning to them especially as Mr. Sage announces that the next person brought before him for this offense will get the limit.

PRETTY WEDDING AT PEEBLES HOME

BRIDE AND GROOM NATIVES OF COMMUNITY

Rev. E. E. Clark Spoke Words That Made Miss Laura Peebles and Emory Wilson Man and Wife

One of the prettiest weddings of the season occurred at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Peebles on Park avenue at 6:30, Wednesday evening, November 16, when her only daughter, Laura, became the bride of Emory Wilson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wilson, whose farm home is two miles south of town. Rev. E. E. Clark presiding over the ring ceremony.

The bride wore a very becoming gown of navy blue silk messaline, trimmed with fringe of the same color and silver braid, and the groom was attired in a brown tailor-made suit and looked the prince he proved himself to be. Miss Edna Julliffe, a cousin of the bride, in a gown of navy blue silk messaline and Edward Bradford, a close friend of the groom, dressed in brown took their parts as bridesmaid and best man in a very graceful and pleasing manner.

After the ceremony the guests which included only relatives of the bride and groom, motored to the Blue hall where they were seated to an elaborate wedding supper prepared by the bride's mother and served by young lady cousins who were dressed in pure white.

Then came liberal treats of cigars and assorted candies which were returned with showers of rice mingled with sincere wishes of all present for unimpaired happiness and prosperity down the stream of life together.

Those from out-of-town attending the wedding were Mrs. Mary Cross, grandmother, Miss Kate Wilson of Bellaire and Mrs. W. D. McDowell of Tarpon Springs, Fla., aunts of the groom.

VOICES

By Emanuel G. Frank

There's a wondrous thrill of pleasure
When you see the form and face,
Of some loved one in whose presence you rejoice;
But the joy there is in seeing
Can't compare with what takes place,
When you hear the magic music of her voice.

Be it mother, wife or sweetheart,
Be it sister, daughter, friend,
As within your waiting vision each appears;
While your heart may leap to see them
What is better in the end,
Than their eager voices sounding in your ears.

But remember as you listen
That these sweet and nameless thrills,
Find an echo and an answer rich and true,
In the hearts of cherished loved ones
Which alone your voice fulfills;
For when all is said, your voice is really you.

So when travel takes you from them
Let them feel how much you care,
Let them know you haven't left them all alone;
Let them feel in fullest measure
You, yourself, are standing there;
Let them hear the voice they cherish through [the phone.

Ultimate Literature.

Criticism is the youngest of all the literary forms. It will perhaps end by absorbing all the others. It is admirably suited to a very civilized society with rich memories and long traditions. It is particularly appropriate to a curious, learned and polite humanity. For its prosperity it demands more culture than any of the other literary forms.—Amade France.

Requiesce the Icon.

When our town was first lighted with electricity two years since, I decided not to have the street lights turned on when the moon was shining brightly. One evening one son noticed that the street lights were not on but that the moon was shining brightly, so he came running in and said, "Oh, ma, they thought they would not turn on the electric lights tonight, so they just turned on the moon."—Exchange.

Flag Etiquette.

When the flag passes in a parade or review, the spectator should, if walking, halt; if sitting, arise, stand at attention and salute. Civilians should remove their hats, although women are expected only to stand respectfully until the colors pass. All men in uniform of any branch of the army and navy are required to stand at attention and salute until the colors have passed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mullen and Mr. and Mrs. Mullen and Miss Rose LaLonde of Traverse City visited at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Addis last Sunday.

Mrs. Bert Mullen is a sister of Mrs. Addis.

Mrs. Art Gidley and Mrs. B. Madill of Ellsworth gave a shower at the home of Mrs. A. Miles last Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Manila Miles. Eighteen ladies were present and Miss Miles received many nice and useful presents. A delicious lunch was served.

ROCK ELM

Miss Cora Metz, Mrs. Smatts, Mrs. Hipp and Mrs. Kowalski visited school Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Teboe and family visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Teboe Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Metz and daughter, Cora, visited Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitfield Sunday.

Cora Metz received a very interesting letter from Teresa Flagg who is teaching in Elk Rapids.

Arthur Secord gave a very interesting and instructive address at the meeting of the Rock Elm Grange Saturday evening. The subject of the address was "Disarmament."

INSURANCE NEWS

New Things Worth Knowing

Suppose that you are insured in the United Life and Accident Insurance Company of New Hampshire for $5,000 (these policies are issued from $1,000 to $10,000) under the Company's Triple Indemnity Plan, what does your Policy agree to do?

ANSWER:

First, It guarantees that in case of death from any cause, $5,000, the face of the Policy will be paid.

Second, That in case of death from any accident $10,000, or double the face of the Policy will be paid.

Third, That in case of death from certain specified accidents, $15,000, or three times the face of the Policy, will be paid.

But this is not all. The Accident Disability Endorsement further guarantees that in case of total disability as a result of accidental injury, the Company will pay direct to you at the rate of $50 a week during such disability, but not to exceed 52 weeks, after which the weekly indemnity will be at the rate of $25 per week throughout the period of disability.

VALUABLE POLICY PRIVILEGES

In addition to the valuable Accident features of the United Triple Indemnity Policy, it also contains all the advantages embodied in modern life policies, as grace in the payment of premiums, incontestability, extended insurance, cash, loan and paid-up values, waiver of premium in case of total and permanent disability prior to age sixty and other valuable privileges.

You May Be Spared

Two men have already this season been shot in Western Michigan in mistake for rabbits. Personally, we have always found it a good idea, when we crawl into a log, or go off hopping through a corn field, or cuddle down under a pile of leaves, to keep calling out that we are not a rabbit, and thus the hunters have spared.

Bank Robbers at Williamsburg

The bank at Williamsburg was looted Friday night of last week. Evidently the work was done by professionals. The acetylene torch was used to open the vault door, but they did not get into the safe. The safety deposit boxes were opened and the contents not wanted strewn over the floor. The loss is not known, a quantity of money being secured.

There was an Odd Fellow dance at the hall that night which closed about two o'clock Saturday morning. The robbery, it is thought, was perpetrated before the dance broke up, and it is possible the safe crackers were frightened away by those leaving the dance. The amount taken is comparatively small. The job is supposed to have been pulled off by a couple of men who had been stopping at a private house since the night before and disappeared during the night.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Attacked by a Bear

While hunting Sunday, Hintz Fenton was attacked by a bear which he had slightly wounded. The shell became lodged in the barrel and it was necessary for Mr. Fenton to seek refuge in a nearby hemlock to prevent being devoured by the maddened animal. Luckily for Hintz, Bill Murphy chanced that way and ended the life of Mr. Bruin. The bear is now on exhibition in the pool room.—Hessel item in St. Ignace Republican-News.

Chicken Thieves at St. Ignace

During the early hours of Monday morning, nineteen fine chickens, owned by George Larely, were stolen from his hen coop. At a previous date fifteen chickens were stolen from the same coop, so the city decided to put a quick stop to such "fowl" play, and acted by securing a bloodhound from Petoskey which arrived there Tuesday afternoon. Within one hour of good work the dog traced the guilty person to a gravel pit on Main street, where he was employed. Chief of Police John Papine took Julius Andrus that same evening to St. Ignace. It is hoped that this case will serve as a lesson, and that islanders may be "lucky" enough to find their chickens in their coops in the morning, instead of the door opened wide and the roosts vacated.—Mackinac Island item in St. Ignace News.

Visitors Have Goods Stolen

Discourtesy to out-of-town visitors is a charge frequently preferred against the people of Cheboygan, and all because some lawless persons fail to take pride in Cheboygan's attractions as a home town resort community and business center.

Shoppers from nearby centers are greatly annoyed by petty pilfering from their motor cars while they are trading with Cheboygan merchants. Patrons of theatres feel uneasy lest when they return to their cars, they will find them out of commission.

Saturday night one of the Onaway guests of the Odd Fellows lodge parked his new car near the foot of Pine street. When he and his party were ready for their return trip, he found that some one had stolen his cushions, jack and pump. The cushions had been exchanged for small old ones.—The Cheboygan Tribune.

Partridge Commits Suicide

Jay Parmanter of the Healy Tire store, of Boyne City, went hunting last Friday morning in order to get his share of the meat for the Odd Fellows game supper. He discovered a bird in the woods, but a pile of brush was between him and it and he could not get a clear shot. While reconnoitering for an advantageous position from which to shoot he was disturbed by hearing the crash of breaking glass from the direction in which he had left his car. Fearing someone was putting his bus out of business he made a race for the road where he found that his bird, wearied by his delay in using his gun, had committed suicide by flying directly through the windshield of his automobile. Mr. Parmanter had his bird, but it proved an expensive bunch of feathers.—Boyne Citizen.

LOEB FARMS' COWS AGAIN MENTIONED

Champion Milk Producers Win Approval of Noted Breeders

The Loeb Farms at Charlevoix, Michigan, are mentioned in the official bulletin of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, published bi-weekly by Malcolm H. Gardner of Delavan, Wisconsin, which reports the milk and butter production of cows under official supervision. They have two of their pure bred registered Holstein listed.

Their best cow, Kolrain Eleanor Pontiac Korndyke, is reported as having made at the age of seven years and seven months, a record of 553.6 lbs. of milk and 20,647 lbs. of butter fat, in seven days, equivalent to 25.8 lbs. of butter. Her 30 day record is 2083.1 lbs of milk and 77,421 lbs. of butter fat, equivalent to 96.7 lbs. of butter.

Their other cow, Charlevoix Ormsby Oberland, made a record in seven days at the age of two years of 383.7 lbs. of milk and 17,601 lbs. of butter fat, equivalent to 22 lbs. of butter. Her 30-day record is 1612.0 lbs. of milk and 69,796 lbs. of butter fat, equivalent to 87.2 lbs. of butter.

The champion Holstein for Michigan in the full-aged class for seven-day production is Northern Fobes Denver, whose record of 563.1 pounds of milk and 31,899 pounds of butter, fat, equivalent to 39.8 pounds of butter, surpasses all others, according to the records of the Holstein-Friesian association of America. This record production was made at the Emblagaard Dairy, Marquette, Mich.

The state championship in the junior two year old class is credited to Pauline De Nijlander, whose seven-day record is 437.2 pounds of milk, and 20,901 pounds of butter fat, equivalent to 26.1 pounds of butter. This record was made at the G. L. Spillane Farm, Flint, Mich.

Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois is president of the Holstein-Friesian association of America. This association has a membership of over twenty thousand breeders in the United States, and is the largest pure bred cattle association in the world, representing nearly one-half million pure bred animals.

AT THE MOVIES

If you think that film comedy must depend on a chase and a lot of more or less funny falls, go to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday and see Mary Miles Minter in Realart's "Her Winning Way."

It's the comedy of manners now, and this one contains the guffaw, although the more refined chuckle predominates.

From the time that Miss Minter as a young newspaper girl, goes out to interview a shyly unwilling young novelist, the comedy grows apace, all based upon situation.

WINDSOR MISSES HIS PANCAKES

SAYS PARIS LACKS GOOD AMERICAN "EATS"

Writes of Conditions in Devastated France and Work of Reconstruction—Visits Germany

Windsor F. Aldrich, well known Charlevoix summer resident, writes an interesting letter of his travels through devastated France, also of the reverse conditions obtaining in Germany. Windsor has grown tired of French foods and cooking and refers to good, old American pancakes. His letter follows:

Paris, France, November 15th

Dear Charlevoix Courier:

After a busy day of sight-seeing, I picked up my Courier at the Hotel which I could not very well do without as I had it mailed to me every week. I never get homesick when away in many parts of the world, but tonight in reading your paper it made me realize what the dear little city of Charlevoix, where I have spent almost 35 years resorting, means to me. I see Wilbur's dock pays 66 cents a hundred for apples. Tried my darndest to get a good apple today in Paris. Just one red, rosy apple and they wanted a franc and a half, about 10 cents present exchange. Also noted "buy buckwheat flour at Argos for pancakes." We don't have them here—and the high school team loses again, and my dear friends the Hallett family close that good Inn for the winter. Sorry you folks don't keep a good hotel going—also notice that "Uncle George" will be pleased to learn that there will be some more concrete roads at Charlevoix. Hurrah! We need them.

Please, Mr. Editor, cut out referring to apples, buckwheat cakes and all the good things your people are enjoying. It makes me homesick.

Paris, however, is very gay, business good, only 18,000 unemployed in the whole state, while England has 1,750,000 and U. S. A., last I read had 5,000,000. They try to forget the war, work and save and really are a wonderful people.

I spent last week in Germany, a few days at Coblenz with the American officers. My hotel bill for two days was 16 cents (thanks to exchange) three marks for a cent. Haircut and shave 1-1/2 cents, tip one-half cent; dinner party for five, four courses, champagne and trimmings, about $1.75. Railroad fare three miles for a cent. Hard to believe but very true. The Germans don't know they're licked yet. Business brisk, buyers from all over the world picking up everything very cheap. In six months goods are cleaned up, no more raw material, no more credit. What then? If the mark does not come back to a better position, nothing but close up and bust.

Travel over here is hard. While France has done wonders in rebuilding its railroads they use second-hand locomotives that Germany gave them and while you travel on trains called "express" it reminds me of our day train on the old Pere Marquette which stops at every woodpile and often when there is not even a woodpile.

The view I have had of the battle fields is heart rending and it makes me very sad, but France is a great state. Only on the east of Paris is the desolation and the fields are being cleared of the debris, factories are established, working night and day and it won't be long before they put things in order again. But how they need the 2,000,000 men who were lost.

Life in Paris, however, is much as it was before and to sit at the "Cafe de la Paix," sipping your beer, cape or cognac (now I make my wet friends jealous) you would think there had been no disturbance.

Well, I am not your "Uncle George" and I am not a newspaper writer, but please while I am over cut out referring to buckwheat cakes and all the good things your dear people are enjoying, while I must content myself with "Red Rouge," which is not very satisfying.

Your Summer Resorter,

Windsor F. Aldrich. P. S.—Don't forget, my Charlevoix friends, I, as other summer visitors, expect Bridge street to be lighted up as well as "Pine de la Concorde," Paris, with our additional plant. I sincerely hope one can walk on Saturday night from Hallett's Inn to the bridge and that it will be bright enough that one can recognize their friends when they pass them.

City Fathers, you might extend those lights, or at least a few of them up Belvedere avenue. We have felt our way along there for many years, while our Jewish friends on Dixon avenue have had all your attention (perhaps you have houses rented over there) but remember there are a few of us left on the South Side and we would appreciate a little attention very much. And for heaven's sake, let's have water galore. I love to sprinkle and keep that lawn green from Belvedere avenue to Round Lake. Let's not re-strict—and let's have water to sprinkle with when we feel so inclined. Not 7:00 a. m. to 8:00 I forget to wake up, or 5 to 7 p. m. We are surrounded almost by water, let's use it and have a wild time at least for two or three months every year with all the power, all the water we wish. My greatest pleasure when I am on my summer vacation is to sprinkle. (Ask my neighbors.) Cut out all restrictions. Let the water hum, and let's be green, be beautiful and worthy of the name "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

HAGERMAN HERE MONDAY EVENING

ONE OF BIGGEST ATTRACTIONS ON LYCEUM COURSE

Has a Unique Faculty of Clarifying Problems Ordinarily Complex and Confusing

Dr. E. T. Hagerman, well known lecturer, who comes here Monday evening on the Lyceum course, should be heard by everyone who can possibly be present, for he comes so highly accredited that there can be no question but what he will be one of the greatest attractions on the entire Lyceum course this season.

Dr. Hagerman has a unique faculty of clarifying problems which ordinarily seem complex and confusing, and he possesses also a gift of wit and humor which enables him to make his lectures entertaining in a high degree.

"Doctor Hagerman," says one who has heard him many times, "has a philosophy which is as simple and yet as profound as like itself. He speaks out of the depths of an experience that makes him the companion of all men. He has a great heart and never fails to deliver a thrilling challenge to the best that is in any man."

A lecturer like that of Doctor Hagerman's is a distinct event in the life of any community.

HUNTING PARTY STALLED IN LAKE

Spend Hours Trying to Start Engine on Return Home

Poor luck at hunting, engine trouble resulting in being stalled in Pine Lake for three hours or more, and missing a fine Thanksgiving dinner was the experience of Bert Beaudoin, Harry Gregory, D. J. Eckinger and Wm. Duba.

The bunch started early Thanksgiving Day for Oyster Bay, with the expectation of killing the limit of rabbits. They faithfully promised their wives to be home at one o'clock. They hunted and hunted, trapped over acres of jungle, and from all accounts failed to get a "bunny."

Disturbed with their luck, and knowing that a fine dinner awaited them at home, they started for Charlevoix. For a mile or so the gas engine purred and spit in the usual manner, then—stopped dead right in the middle of Pine Lake. They cranked it, then talked to it, primed it, patted it, but the engine said "whoof" when it should have said "Wheel!" Eckinger thought the trouble laid in the exhaust pipe while the others laid the trouble to various causes.

They wig-wagged for help, and finally some one ashore noticed their queer actions and notified the Coast Guard station. The Guards immediately set out to rescue them, when the gas engine finally decided to quit its balking and the home run was made.

They reached home at 5:30, found a cold dinner, and as we have been informed it took hours of enjoining on the part of their wives to bring them back to their usual good humor.

Your sweetheart will be sweeter if you give her a box of our delicious Laguet's Candies for Christmas. Metcalf's Drug Store. 481p

DEATH CAME WITHOUT WARNING

GEORGE DURANCE STRICKEN THANKSGIVING DAY

Expires But a Few Minutes After Leaving Table—Resident of Community Over 33 Years

The announcement of the death of George Durance, a pioneer resident of Charlevoix, who expired suddenly Thanksgiving Day, east a gloom over the festivities of the day, and most forcibly brought one to the realization that the final call is quite liable to come at any moment.

In this instance it took a man who had spent more than 33 years in this vicinity, and who numbered his friends by the score. George Durance had occupied a prominent place in the development of Charlevoix, and held various offices in the township he lived in. For many years he had conducted a truck farm, specializing in berries, and disposed of his product to both residents of Charlevoix and among the summer colony.

The end came almost without warning just as he left the dinner table Thanksgiving Day. At previous times he had been troubled with his heart, but his condition was not considered serious. On the day of his death he had remarked that he had not felt as well for sometime.

Deceased was 71 years of age. He was born in Canada and located in southern Michigan at the age of 16. Three years later he located in northern Michigan, where he has since lived. He was married in 1885 to May Isabelle Cook. To this union ten children were born, four of whom are still living.

Funeral services were held from the Congregational church, of which he was a member, Sunday, November 27, at 2:30 p. m., conducted by the Rev. James A. Smith. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

"CLEAN-UP-SQUAD" WILL DO WORK

EX-SOLDIERS URGED TO PRESENT THEIR CLAIMS

After Squad Leaves It will Be Unable to Write Government Officials for Corrections

Emmet Chapter, American Red Cross, calls the special attention of all disabled soldiers in this district, especially Charlevoix and Emmet counties, to present their claims to what is known as the "Clean Up Squad," which will be Petoskey, December 5, 6 and 7.

The letter below explains the situation and world war soldiers will do well to follow the advice given therein:

We have just received word that the Board from the U. S. Veterans Bureau, known as the "Clean-Up Squad" will be in Petoskey, December 5-6-7, making their headquarters at the office of Dr. Van Leuven. They will have with them the necessary members and doctors, and we understand will handle 35, or more, cases a day.

This Board is authorized to take up the cases of Charlevoix and Emmet counties, and we wish to give the greatest publicity possible to this meeting. Our time is short, and we would ask that you assist us all that you can in this.

We are told that about 200 names have been filed. We have these names, and we are sending cards to them direct. Any others wishing to file claims, and anyone having any question arising under their claim, should take it up under this Board at this time, as we are told that after this Board leaves here it is almost useless to write to Washington, or to ask for anything regarding their claim.

In the interest of the disabled soldier we wish you would assist us, and give all the notice that you can along the above line.

Sincerely yours,
American Red Cross,

Emmet Chapter.

Dr. W. W. Mitchell, commander of the American Legion Post of this city, announces that the "clean-up squad" will be at Dr. Conkle's office, Boyne City, Friday and Saturday of this week, December 2nd and 3rd. Every ex-service man is urged, who has a grievance, insurance claim or other matter that has not been satisfactorily settled, to present their claim for adjustment. Now is the time to attend to this matter, while those who can give the necessary assistance are here.

PHEASANT WALKS DOWN BRIDGE STREET

Beautiful Game Bird Gives the City the "Once Over"

Saturday morning early arrivals on Bridge street were greeted with a rather unusual sight, and everybody, no matter how busy they were or urgent their business, stopped for at least a minute or so to get a good look at a hen pheasant who evidently was giving the city the "once over."

The pheasant strolled about the street, unafraid, and probably wondered why such a fuss was made over her visit. She visited the Sugar Bowl, looked the theatre entrance over, visited the Courier office, and would without doubt, upon invitation, have spent several hours shopping about the town.

Possibly she was looking for a certain barger who has been relating a peculiar experience with a night prowler while on a camping trip in the upper peninsula. She created considerable comment anyway, whatever her reasons were for the visit.

The bird is but one of hundreds of the same kind in this vicinity, and if left alone will within a few years take the place of the prairie and quail as a game bird.

PRICES CUT ON GOODYEAR TIRES

Another Big Reduction Announced by Manufacturers

Following the reduction in prices this week of passenger car tires, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company announced today a new schedule of truck tire prices effective Monday. The all-weather tread solids are cut 15 per cent, pneumatic tires are 10 per cent below former prices, pneumatic truck tubes are reduced from 10 to 15 per cent and the smooth solids are reduced approximately 0 per cent.

All types of cushion tires are cut 10 per cent.

"The all-weather tread solid tire which was put on the market last spring has met a very favorable response from the public and for some time past, we have been continually over sold on this type of tire," said W. C. Behoteguy, manager of tire sales.

"The constantly increasing sales in this line have warranted the installation of additional equipment to meet this growing demand."

The Benj. Brown Auto Sales are the local distributors for Goodyear makes of tires.

FOURTEEN MILLION JEWISH RELIEF

AID MUST BE GIVEN OR THOUSANDS PERISH

"People in America Living in Heaven" is Statement of One Just Returned from Europe

"The people of America do not know that they are living in heaven." Such are the remarks of Abraham Shehan, just returned from two years' service in Central and Eastern Europe.

"My work was with the Jewish refugees who are pouring out of the starvation districts of Russia," he said. "None of these border countries want them, and they are kept on the move. There are 35,000 refugees in Poland now, homeless, wretched, unwelcome foreigners."

The American Jewish Relief Committee with headquarters in New York, is making a national appeal for 14 millions of dollars for relief of Jewish sufferers from the war. The appeal is non-sectarian. The greatest effort has been put forth to reach this goal and beyond. In Michigan the appeal ends December 10th.

It has only been within the year that relief could be made in Russia, and when such relief was started, the scenes witnessed were almost beyond comprehension. Thousands of people were aimlessly wandering about, seeking food of any sort. Children were perishing by the hundreds. It was a most terrible state of affairs. A great deal has already been done, but a great deal more will have to be done. Food must be given them, shelter and clothing must be furnished. Medical aid is an absolute necessity. The saving of these people for humanity's sake is not only a responsibility for one group of people, but for all.

M. A. Levinson has been appointed chairman of Charlevoix county for this appeal. Any donations which anyone might wish to give for this worthy cause will be gratefully appreciated.

REGULAR MEETING POSTPONED A WEEK

Association of Commerce Meeting to be Held December 9th

On account of social functions and numerous other meetings, the regular monthly meeting and supper of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce has been postponed from Friday evening, December 2nd, to Friday evening, December 9th.

The meeting will be held at the Masonic Temple and the ladies of the O. E. S. promise a fine fish supper. The regular election of officers will also take place at this meeting and it is the duty of every member of the association to be present.

President E. B. Ward announces that members of the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce will be present besides members of other nearby boards of commerce.

POWER PLANT WELL UNDER WAY

CITY'S NEW ELECTRIC STATION TO BE A MODERN ONE

Every Effort Being Made to Complete Building Before Cold Weather Stops Work

Are you watching the progress being made in the erection of Charlevoix's new electric power station, now under construction just north of the old sugar beet station?

City officials promised plenty of electric current for the future and from all indications are making good their promise. If the present weather continues for a few days longer, outside work on the building will be completed, and inside construction can go on without interruption regardless of climatic conditions.

The new building is 106 feet long and 50 feet wide, built of brick and tile, finished in Kelly stone, and the roof covered with fire-proof asphalt shingles. On the east side of the main building, directly connected, is the home of the man in charge of the station, 16 x 30 feet, two stories with basement, containing three rooms downstairs and three up stairs, with bath, toilet, etc.

The main building is divided into sections as follows: Engine room, boiler room, transformer room, office, machine shop, garage and coal room 16 x 38 feet, with windows opening onto the railroad track.

The engine room is 34 x 40 feet, boiler room 34 x 44 feet, with 18 foot ceilings in the engine room and 26 foot ceilings in the boiler room. Cement foundations in each of these rooms are from 28 to 40 inches, according to the weight of the equipment in each room, all reinforced with steel.

The machinery to be installed will be one 300 h. p. Sterling and one 200 h. p. Sterling water tube boilers, capable of producing better than 500 h. p. for power purposes. The electric equipment will be two 300 h. p. Skinner uniflow engines, direct connected to two 240 k. v. a. General Electric generators. It is estimated that this equipment is capable of producing practically double the capacity of the Belaire water plant.

The plant throughout when completed will be about the last word in modernism. Nothing has been overlooked, and while not the largest plant of its kind in this section, will compare favorably with anything in this part of the state.

Charlevoix has in the past years been sadly lacking in electric power. The new auxiliary steam plant in connection with the water plant at Belaire will furnish all the power we need, not only at the present time but for natural increase of its use from year to year.

This is one of the improvements Charlevoix has needed for many years. When completed, there will be no reason why sufficient power cannot be generated for every call made. In former years, especially last season, we were short on both power and water. Next season you can sprinkle your lawns any time you want to. There will be no restrictions, unless something unforeseen takes place.

MUST KEEP YOUR FERRETS AT HOME

Unlawful to Hunt with Them in All Parts of Michigan

The Central Lake Torch has the following to say about the use of ferrets in hunting:

"Our deputy game warden, John Muecke, has been bothered considerably since hunting season opened by having the question asked him: 'Is it lawful to hunt rabbits with ferrets?' He being unable to give a decisive answer, wrote the state game warden for information, which he received last week on the matter. It is this: The hunting with ferrets in Central Lake township, as in all other townships of the state, is unlawful."

Keep your ferrets at home or the game warden will get you. You can get plenty of rabbits without their use.

THE "OLD" AND THE "NEW" IMMIGRATION

The immigration problem is still an active volcano in this country, and will continue to be so until the contending factions agree upon a course of action which will be for the good of humanity. Many views, some selfish and some considerate, have been given to the public concerning the number and the kind of immigrants who may come to our shores. Not yet as a nation have we thoughtfully determined the mental, social and civic qualifications of the foreign-born who wish to live in this country. Our whole attitude in this respect has been passive rather than active and remedial.

To appreciate the task of transforming our recent invaders into genuine Americans let us note the difference between the "old" and the "new" immigration. By the old immigration we mean the people from northern and western Europe who came in increasing numbers from 1820 to 1890. These immigrants, many of them escaping from the oppression of unjust governments, from religious persecution and intolerance, and from famine and bad economic conditions, possessed numerous virtues of the early builders of America. They had social and political outlooks, customs and ideals, and a cultural background much the same as those who were here. Consequently they were easily assimilated and therefore labeled as desirable citizens.

The "new" immigrants from southern and eastern Europe started in 1890 to flow into this country like huge tidal waves, and they are still stampeding Ellis Island. As evidence of these human waves for each of the following years: 1905, 1906, 1907, 1910, 1913, and 1914, over a million foreigners entered the United States. At least 75 per cent of them came from Austria-Hungary, Italy, Russia, Greece, Serbia, Roumania, etc. These Slavic and Mediterranean races, who crossed the Atlantic mainly because of better labor opportunities here, are quite unlike the old immigrants in social and political ideals, in standards of living—yes even in racial traits. Certainly they have not shown much capacity for self-government and free institutions. Moreover, these newcomers do not readily assimilate with our population. Instead they tend to remain clannish. Also the high rate of illiteracy from 29 per cent among the Russian Jews to 56 per cent among the Ruthenians (1907), has made for considerable crime, poverty, and degeneracy. Then why should we not pass reasonable restrictions upon the admission of such immigrants or like immigrants? The answer to this question ought to be obvious to every fair minded American.

Our present immigration laws should be retained and supplemented by more stringent tests for biological and social fitness. These tests should be scientific and applied by well trained immigration officials at ports of embarkation, to prevent needless hardship. There is also an urgent need to control the volume of the immigration stream, depending upon the labor supply. And lastly, by no means should we allow an element which will in time create a hornet's nest in our midst.

POULTRY

NO BEST BREED OF POULTRY
There Are Three Classes Specially Adapted to Production of Eggs and Meat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
There is no best breed of poultry. That, at least, is the opinion of men to the United States Department of Agriculture who have been studying the business for years, and have had experience with all varieties of all breeds in America. To go among your friends and ask for advice about the kind of chickens to start with would be about as productive of conflicting views as if you asked for help in buying a motor car or a typewriter. Every man has his likings, and some have good reasons for them, but in the end the beginner will have to be the judge; wherefore the opinion of the department specialists will be about the best guide. Keep only one variety of breed, and select the breed that suits your purpose best. Be sure of one thing—have a standardized male at the head of the flock. Such a bird will improve the quality of the stock materially. A mongrel male will produce no improvement.

These are the reasons: Standard-bred fowls produce uniform products which bring higher prices. Standardized stock and eggs sold for breeding purposes, bring higher prices than market quotations.

Standardized fowls can be exhibited, and thus compete for prizes.

Eggs and stock from mongrel fowls are not sold for breeding purposes.

Mongrel fowls are not exhibited in poultry shows or exhibitions.

General-purpose breeds are best suited to most farms where the production of both eggs and meat is desired. The four most popular representatives of this class are the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Orpington, and Rhode Island Red.

All these breeds, with the exception of the Orpington, are of American origin. They are characterized by heavy yellow skin and legs, and lay brown-shelled eggs. The Orpington is of English origin, has a white skin, and lays brown-shelled eggs. You can get a detailed description of all fowls of American origin in Farmers' Bulletin 806 on "Standard Varieties of Chickens." 1. The American Class, which may be had upon application to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture.

The Mediterranean or egg breeds are best suited for the production of white-shelled eggs. Representatives of this class are bred largely for eggs rather than for meat. Among the popular breeds are Leghorns, Minorcas, Anconas and Andalusians.

An outstanding characteristic of the egg breeds is the fact that they are classed as monstries; that is, as a rule they do not become broody and hatch their eggs. When fowls of this class are kept, artificial incubation and brooding usually are employed. Farmers' Bulletin 808, "Standard Varieties of Chickens." 2. The Mediterranean Class, tells about this class.

Langshans, Brahmas, Cochins, and Cornish fowls belong in the meat breeds, rather than for eggs, and although classed for meat are sometimes kept as general-purpose fowls. They are all heavier and larger than the egg breeds, or those of the general-purpose class, and lay brown-shelled eggs. Farmers' Bulletin 1052, "Standard Varieties of Chickens." 3. Asiatic, English, and French Classes, describes the breeds in this class.

Fowls for breeding purposes should be strong healthy, vigorous birds. The comb, face, and wattles should be a bright red, eyes bright and fairly prominent, head comparatively broad, short, and not long or crow-shaped; legs set well apart and straight, plumage clean and smooth.

The beginner in poultry will be careful to have a home ready for his flock before he gets it. Farmers' Bulletin 880 contains suggestions, plans, and directions every poultry keeper should have. The Division of Publications will send it upon request.

The world is filled with failures who think everybody is against them but who failed because they were given certain tasks to perform and went joy-riding instead of performing them.

SEE BLOCK OPEN TO CIVIC SOCIETIES
Can Be Used Free By Payment for Light and Heat

Charles E. See has asked the Courier to announce that any civic society or organization of any kind can use the empty store room for their meetings by payment only of the light and heat used.

This offer remains good until the store is leased or occupied by some permanent business. The offer of Mr. See will be greatly appreciated by the various societies who have no regular place to meet, especially organizations whose only aim is for the relief of the needy poor.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that the co-partnership known as the Lakeway Garage, consisting of Henry Black and Oakley D. Hammond, the partners therein, has been dissolved. All accounts of indebtedness to said firm and against the same will be collected and assumed by a new firm known as the Lakeway Garage, consisting of Henry Black and Nasser Burns.

ARTICLE PRINTED IN LITERARY DIGEST

Jacob L. Crane, Jr., Writes on Rebuilding of Halifax

The Literary Digest, in its issue of November 19th, contains an article from the pen of Jacob L. Crane, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crane of this city. The article carries the caption, "Rebuilding Halifax on a Scientific Basis." Besides being an engineer, Mr. Crane has just returned from Europe, where he has spent some time studying city planning. The article covers points on city rebuilding from many angles and contains the very latest ideas from an engineer's standpoint.

Purchase Ford Trucks
B. O. Yettaw and Charles Heise of the Charlevoix Transfer and Ice company, recently organized, have purchased two Ford trucks from the Northern Auto company, to take care of their ice and transfer business. The new firm will commence operation the first of the year and will store their ice in the old beet sugar factory.

At this meeting the annual election officers will take place, routine business transacted, and every member is earnestly requested to be present. At the close of the meeting a fine supper was promised. H. E. Co-blentz, secretary, asks for a good attendance.

More Signs of Open Winter

We wonder what the weather prophets will have to say about this? Buds on ash trees almost ready to burst, also on the lilac bushes. The samples were taken from the cemetery by Charles Myers, and are on exhibition at this office. Maybe we will have an open winter, after all.

COUNTY CLERK'S POWER LIMITED

Will Not Permitted to Sign Affidavits Unless a Notary

County clerks acting as managers of state department branch offices in Michigan will not be permitted hereafter to administer an oath to an affidavit on an application for license issued by the state department unless they are authorized notary publics according to a ruling made public November 25th.

Recently a question was raised as to the authority of a county clerk to administer an oath. The attorney general was asked for an opinion and he has ruled that "a county clerk acting as a state department branch manager, has no authority to administer oaths except as may be expressly conferred by statute."

The state department in a bulletin sent out the 25th of November set forth the ruling of the attorney general and says it "cannot accept applications for any license issued by this department if the affidavit is signed by a county clerk or his deputy or such."

Heretofore branch managers who are county clerks have been signing affidavits attached to license applications.

DRAINAGE INCREASES YIELDS

Lands Uncertain in Production Are Made Productive and Aids in Tillage of Crops.

Drainage usually increases the yields and profits of crops. It makes lands that are uncertain in production produce crops every year.

It brings into cultivation lands otherwise worthless, and improves the physical condition of soil by making it more granular, porous and friable.

Drainage warms the soil, and by warming it causes the seed to germinate more readily, producing a better stand and a prompter growth.

Drainage aids in the preparation of land and the tillage of crops, permitting earlier plowing or cultivation after a rain.

It improves health conditions by removing the sources of malaria.

BUSH FRUITS NEED MOISTURE

Raspberries and Blackberries to Make Good Crop Must Have Supply of Water.

Bush fruits, particularly raspberries and blackberries, require a heavy and constant supply of moisture during the fruiting season in order to make a good crop, whether considered from the standpoint of quantity or quality. Quality berries can never be produced where the moisture supply is limited, and often when the season is amply supplied with moisture the bearing period will be prolonged an extra week or so. Cultivation will tend to conserve the natural moisture in the soil for the benefit of the berries, but it is a tedious job, involving a great deal of time and labor at a season when it can hardly be afforded, due to the general rush of farm work.

BAGGING GRAPES IS FAVORED

Good Thing for Farm Where There Are Few Vines Even if There Were No Black Rot.

Bagging the grape clusters is a good thing for the farm with a few vines, even if there were no black rot; but spraying with bordeaux mixture is the sovereign remedy for this disease, as well as for grape-foliage diseases. Spray just as the buds are swelling, and repeat several times during the season.

If leaf-eating insects commence to make trouble, add arsenate of lead paste to the bordeaux spray—one pound of the paste to 20 gallons.

Conscience.
That uncomfortable possession, a conscience, holds us back from many a coveted thing, saves us from many a sin, and drives us in many a path we would never be good enough or unselfish enough to take if only its child-like voice would be as none. We give ourselves too much credit for our good behavior when we forget that our uprightness has brought into our house of life a personality we cannot disobey if we would live at peace.

PROFITS DEPEND ON PACKING

High Percentage of Rejections of Fruit Shipments Is Due Largely to Carelessness.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Carelessness in grading, packing and loading are largely responsible for the high percentage of rejections which occurs in the handling of fruits and vegetables, say marketing specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Satisfactory compromises can be made only where both the shipper and the buyer are broad-minded and willing to make reasonable concessions.

Scene in a Fruit Packing House.

A very common source of misunderstanding is shrinkage. A shipper who sends fruits or vegetables to market cannot understand why his shipment should weigh so much less on arrival than it did at the point of origin. Thus the twelve weight of a car of bulk apples shipped from southwest Missouri on October 16, 1914, was 22,427 pounds. These apples arrived at market on October 23, and were reweighed, barreled and sold. The weight of the apples at destination was 17,351 pounds, indicating a loss of 4,456 pounds, or 19 per cent, due to shrinkage in transit and to the discarding of a small quantity of culls and spoiled fruit. Very few shippers could be made to believe that a legitimate loss as great as this could occur, even though the shipment was graded and loaded carefully.

THAT DULL ACHING

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and aching backs, your neighbors recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Read this statement:

Mrs. Leo Allard, 210 W. Upright Ave., Charlevoix, says: "There was a constant, dull heavy ache in the lower part of my back. My kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Metcalf's Drug Store, cured me."

Notice

Before me, a notary public, personally appeared William J. Bolton of Norwood township, Charlevoix county, Michigan, making the following statement: He says he does not own one dollar's worth of real estate nor personal property in the world and a very little currency; he has not signed any notes nor made any assignments to any bank nor company in the world by signing any of the following names: J. W. Bolton, W. J. Bolton, William Bolton or William Joseph Bolton, which has all been used for his name, William J. Bolton. Nor does he owe one cent to any person or persons on the face of the earth, and if he should be found dead, there will be no property to probate.

Signed,

William J. Bolton.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 12th day of November, A. D. 1921.

How the Foreman Beat Ep

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

The face of Riffkin, the little foreman, was set and resolute when he entered Ep's office in the Salt Emporium. Ep owned the emporium, with its stock of cheap, shoddy goods, over which half a score of girls sat toiling at their machines from eight till six, and sometimes later.

"Well, Riffkin?" asked Ep, without looking up from his ledger.

"Well, Mr. Ep, it's this way," began the foreman. "I come to you this and again about my girl, Marla Spulza. Me and she want to get married and we want to set up house-keeping. Last year, when her scalp was torn in your machine because you were too stingy to install a guard, you promised to settle for nine hundred dollars. And every time I speak you put me off with promises. Now, Mr. Ep, unless you pay, we go to law."

Ep smiled sourly and, rising to his feet, took the excited little man's arm. "See them goods?" he asked pointing to a series of shelves. "Four thousand dollars' worth of Paris style gowns, and useless. Why? Because they've got wide sleeves and the fashion has changed. Look here!" He pointed in another direction. "Four thousand dollars' worth of Paris style gowns that will go like hot cakes. Why? Narrow sleeves—new style. Now, my friend, if I sell every one of them new gowns, I just clear my losses on the old ones. And where's your profit? Presently—"

"No more presently," Riffkin shouted. "I hear that went too much. Next year, maybe, you settle—what?" Ep shrugged his shoulders. "You can't get blood out of a stone. Riffkin," he said. "Unless a fortunate accident happened—well, in that case I'd do handsome by you both. The old stock's insured for full value and the new ain't insured for a cent. Sure enough, my luck would be that if a fire burst out the new gowns would go up in a flash and the old stock wouldn't be touched by as much as a drop of water. If I wasn't an honest man—"

He scowled angrily at the old stock, neatly wrapped upon the shelves.

"I wish you was honest enough to pay your debts," growled the foreman, turning away.

Marla Spulza, his sweetheart, worked on one of the machines. A year previously half her scalp had been torn away by an unprotected rod. It had been replaced by skillful skin-grafting and her beauty was not marred, but the pain and anguish were worth the pretty $900 that Ep had promised to pay. A jury would award $2,000.

"I'm going to quit and sue him, Marla," said Riffkin during the noon half hour.

"No, don't, Louis," pleaded the pretty Italian girl. "I know he means to do fair by us."

Everybody knew that Louis and Marla had been sweethearts for two years.

The day passed as usual. At six o'clock the girls ran clattering out of the building. Usually Mr. Ep was the last to leave, locking the office after him, and then the factory door, but on this occasion he hurried past Riffkin with averted face, leaving the little foreman a prey to wild astonishment.

He switched off the electric light and instantly a red spark shot out upon the floor. Riffkin stared at it in horror. It was the lighted end of a cigarette, and was burning merrily, the end of the snail portion near a waste basket containing—oil paper!

Riffkin saw the scheme in an instant. He had not understood that Ep was proposing that he should burn down the factory that morning.

Soon the whole place was aflame. The flames had gained the end of the factory and were crawling up the walls. The glare was perceptible all down the street. Riffkin heart shouts underneath the windows.

Then he ran down the stairs to the street, where the firemen were already busying from their engines.

"Seventh floor!" he gasped. "I tried to stop the spread, but it was beyond control. Hurry!"

They did not need to hurry. In five minutes more only a mass of black and cooling smoke showed where the conflagration had been.

The crowd slowly dispersed. But Riffkin waited. He knew that Ep would come to see his handiwork. Soon he perceived him skulking in the fringe of the crowd.

The two saw each other simultaneously. Ep came forward with assumed anxiety.

"This is terrible, Riffkin," he said. "How can it have happened?"

"Let's go and see," said Riffkin, and took Ep by the arm.

"Mr. Ep," said Riffkin, "I saw that cigarette. It ain't my business—but I want nine hundred."

Ep attempted to bluster; then, checking himself, sat down and quietly wrote out the check upon his blackened desk. Riffkin read it and pocketed it.

"I'm sorry it was the wrong stock, Mr. Ep," he said.

"What d'you mean?" shouted Ep.

Riffkin pointed through the smoke clouds. As these rolled away, Ep could see that the new gowns had been wholly consumed; but upon their shelves, neatly folded and protected from the water from the hose, the old insured gowns with the wide sleeves reposed in their pristine quality.

Sundial Really of Little Use.

The sundial is nothing like so efficient as a watch. It never was very much of an aid to man as a time indicator. It never professed to do more than tell the time of day, because it could not tell the time of night, and on old sundials, as well as on many new ones, is this sentence, often in Latin: "I mark none but sunny hours." So that on foggy days, or on days of gloom and cloudy skies, the "gnomma," which is that triangular piece whose shadow points out the time on the dial, casts no shadow.

Fundamental Business Principles.

From a purely coldblooded business point of view, honesty is the best policy. To treat the other man as you would have him treat you is an equally fundamental business principle. This does not mean that you should surrender your rights or neglect to avail yourself of your opportunities. It simply means that in the game of business, the same rules of sportsmanship should prevail as in boxing, football, or in a match of golf, or in a football game.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

IMPROVED CRATE IS URGENT NEED

Manufacturers Should Make a More Rigid Inspection of Materials Put Into Boxes.

NAILING IS BIGGEST FACTOR

Consideration Should Be Given to Methods of Construction Which Will Lessen Possibility of Loss in Shipping.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Important factors affecting the successful use of crates in marketing fruits and vegetables were carefully studied by a specialist of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture, during a recent trip. The first of these is the need of manufacturers making a more rigid inspection of materials used.

While most manufacturers make an effort to have their stock inspected and to use only good material, in some cases this attempt is frustrated by the failure of the workman to understand and appreciate the ideal which is guiding his employer. Many crate-makers employ men to check the old idea that because the crate is a gift package it should be made as cheaply as possible, using any sort of material so long as there is a chance of its holding together, thus reducing the cost to the grower and shipper.

The Grower's Responsibility.

The crate manufacturer having done his part in providing materials free from defects, the grower or shipper should see to it that the crate is not spoiled in being made up in his packing house or field.

Growers and shippers should remember that the nailing together of the crate is one of the largest factors in determining whether the container is to be strong and substantial or weak and productive of damage claims. Cement-coated nails, not less than four-penny in size, should always be used, and care should be taken to see that they are properly spaced and placed.

Greater care is perhaps necessary in nailing up crates for express shipments than for carlot freight shipments, due to the more frequent handling they must undergo. For either method of shipping consideration should be given to methods of construction which will lessen the possibility of loss.

Showing Results of Poorly Crated Lettuce.

ability of loss. An instance of this is the use of the "web" or slatted side for celery crates. The slats are stapled to the cleats in the factory, making but one place to each side to bundle in the field instead of three. It also insures even spacing of the slats and gives an extra thickness for holding the nails, thus counteracting any tendency of the slats to split and come away from the nails.

Some celery growers are experimenting with a patent crate which is reinforced with wire around the ends and the body of the crate. In actual use the end wires were twisted together to close the package, it being found impracticable, owing to the height of the celery, to twist the center wires together. There is no doubt of the strength of this type of crate.

Need of Co-operation.

Whenever the type of crate used, it is the duty of the manufacturer to supply good material, accurately cut and properly put together. This much the purchaser of crates should demand and should expect to pay for. Having secured it, he should do his part by seeing that the crates are made up in a workmanlike manner, and, after packing, that they are properly closed and fastened for shipment. By such co-operation manufacturers and growers can feel better assured that the crate will measure up to the ideal of a firm and vegetable package; that it shall carry the commodity intact from the grower through the wholesale market to the retailer.

Mollie, the "Traitor"

By WILLIAM FALL

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

He crouched in the undergrowth, cautiously parting the bushes with one hand to peer out down the mountain side. He had escaped from the state penitentiary three weeks before and his pursuers had never been able to discover his secret hiding place upon Bear mountain.

He looked round cautiously. No one was in sight. High up on the opposite hill he saw the outlines of a tiny cabin. It was his sweetheart's home—Mollie Stark's. It was to avenge an insult to her that he had shot and crippled Seth Baldwin.

But since his flight he had not dared go near her home. It was too desperate a chance to take. But a visit on his part to the wild glen in which they had plighted their truth had resulted in the finding of a package of food placed there by Mollie. In it was a little note.

"Dear Ben," it ran, "I hid this and brought it here thinking you would come here. Come to the cabin on Monday night at nine. Lovingly, Mollie."

He was within ten yards when the door opened. His heart leaped. Mollie stood in the doorway, her arms outstretched, to welcome him. The shadow of a man had passed the candle; another, and another. He halted in his tracks. Behind Mollie he saw a rifle barrel.

With an oath he flung back into the brushwood.

Mollie was a traitress! He would show her! He would show them! What should he do?

For an hour he lay thinking, gnawing his lip in rage. He had recognized one of the men in the parlor as Frank Merriam, the sheriff. He had been a snail for Mollie's hand before she promised herself to Ben. Doubtless he had persuaded her.

Ha! He had his plan. He dashed into his brain revery forged in the furnace of his wrath. Doubtless Merriam would be at her home the following night. He would steal in and kill the man before Mollie's eyes—and then—then—cut off her hair, leaving her to the derision of the hill folk.

An hour later he was lying upon his stomach outside the cabin. Inside he saw Frank Merriam, smoking in one corner. Mollie was laying the supper table.

He sprang to his feet and rushed through the open door. Next moment, Ben had his hands on the sheriff's throat.

To and fro they wrestled. Ben felt his enemy weakening. He had him at his mercy now. Suddenly a tremendous blow fell upon his head from behind. The last thing that he saw as his senses left him was the faint glimmer of the rifle candle and Mollie's agonized face, in its aureole hair.

"Ben!"

He started out through the whirling phantasmagoria that surrounded him. He was dizzy and deathly sick. Gradually, as the fog cleared from his brain, he realized that he was lying in Mollie's room, and the face that he loved best in all the world was bending over him.

"Thank God he is coming to, Frank!"

"You had better leave him for the present." It was the voice of Merriam.

"Well, young fellow," Merriam was scowling down at him. "You've done for yourself pretty well now," he continued. "If my nephew, Walt, hadn't had the gumption to come up at the right moment and snatch my rifle you'd have had a murder charge against you. I thought you were gone when I saw the whack he gave you that night."

"That night? When?"

"Two weeks ago tomorrow. Yep, I reckon you're kind of lost count of time," he continued, smiling less evilly. "You've been mighty near death, young fellow, let me tell you."

"Well, I guess you've won," said Ben feebly. "When are you going to take me back to the penitentiary?"

"When will you be ready to start?" he asked.

"You'll have to put me in a cart, I reckon," answered Ben. "Frank," he continued, "I'm likely to get a life sentence now and we aren't likely to meet again. I want to ask a promise of you. Treat Mollie well. She's the finest girl in the world, and if she was false to me—well, I reckon it was for your sake, Frank."

The sheriff stared at him. He went to the door and called the girl. Ben heard him whispering outside. And presently he was aware in his weakness, that Mollie was bending over him again.

"Ben!"

"Ben, dearest. Did you think I had betrayed you, Ben? Did you dare to think that I was untrue to you?"

He felt her tears drop on his face.

"I love, Ben! You are free. Free to go where you will. When you escaped the newspapers took up your case. They demanded that you should be set free. The governor was appeased to. He said that you had been punished enough. Your pardon arrived the week before you first came to the cabin. That was why I went to the mountain. I should have told you, but I wanted it to come as a surprise. That night Mr. Merriam was waiting here to hand it to you. You are free, Ben, free to go where you will—free to—free to marry me—do you want to?"

DAIRY FACTS

SUCCULENT FEED FOR DAIRY

Modern Machinery for Planting and Cultivating Roots Makes Work Less Laborious.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the development of the silo many dairy cow owners have overlooked the value of roots as a succulent feed for cattle. Mangel-wurzel, beets, carrots, and turnips are the principal roots grown for this purpose. They are particularly adapted to the cooler and more moist portions of the country. The principal drawback to their use is the labor of growing, harvesting and storing them. On the other hand, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, root crops have a distinct advantage for small dairies, as it is generally accepted that a silo will not prove economical where less than six animals are being fed. Roots may be stored in a proper cellar, or buried in the ground, and can be taken out in any desired quantity without injury to the remainder.

A surprising amount of roots can be produced on a small acreage. A yield of 25 tons per acre of mangel-wurzel is nothing unusual, while in England, where roots are used almost entirely to supply succulent food, the yield per acre is increased still further by intensive farming.

Other kinds of beets, and also turnips and carrots, may be used. Turnips, however, should be fed after milking rather than before, as they give a milky flavor to the product. Yellow carrots impart a desirable color to the milk. For feeding purposes the mangel-wurzel probably is found the most practical beet. Among carrots, the Long Orange is recommended because of its large size and heavy yield. It forms a long, thick root, and is very easily grown. The White Yorgos or Belgian is grown extensively for stock, and is an even heavier yielder. The rutabaga is recommended as a good turnip. The same soils and methods of cultivating are adapted to all three kinds of roots.

The soil should be well enriched, and should be one that warms up quickly in the spring. Most growers regard sandy loam as best adapted to the culture of root crops, this being particularly true of the early spring crop.

From 20 to 35 pounds of sliced or pulped roots, with a proper grain ration and dry foliage, is a day's ration for an ordinary dairy cow. Thus it will be seen that 2½ tons will carry a cow through the usual five-months' winter feeding period. An acre or two of beets, carrots and turnips should be enough to supply any herd which is not large enough to make a silo profitable. With the development of the sugar-beet industry many implements and methods of culture have been devised which reduce the labor required to grow root crops.

PAUL A. MARTIN

Paul A. Martin, state commander of the American Legion, states that his organization plans for itself the "greatest program ever undertaken by any soldier organization" to see that every ex-soldier in Michigan who has a valid claim against the federal government, shall receive his due within a year.

In private life, Mr. Martin is a newspaperman in Battle Creek.

BONUS HELPS TRADE AS DOUGHBOYS BUY

What do Michigan ex-soldiers do with their bonus?

Blow it in? Quit their jobs until it is spent? "Shoot their roll" in gambling?

All these dire possibilities were forecast by the foes of the state bonus, and are being repeated by the enemies of the national bonus. But Dr. Frank B. Broderick, state welfare officer of the American Legion, who comes in contact with more ex-soldiers than any other individual in the state, says:

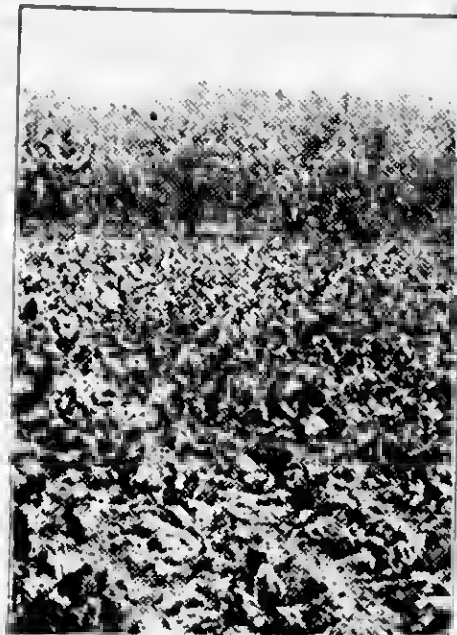

"They pay up old bills. They put it in saving banks—30 per cent of them—for insurance against unemployment. They buy needed clothing, which stimulates trade. Some get married and set up housekeeping. Not one man in a hundred 'shoots his wad'—and no one who really knew the sensible, sober dough-boy ever thought they would."

Alfalfa Came From Asia.

Alfalfa is a native of Asia, but has been cultivated in Europe since before the time of Christ. The Spaniards introduced it into South America until some time between 1850 and 1860, when it was brought to California. Since then it has become the most extensively cultivated forage crop in the United States.

Wasted Man Power.

Those accustomed to the good old ways are always insistent in their declaration that the claims of the efficiency experts have been greatly exaggerated. New methods, whatever their virtue, are not always popular. It is observed that it still requires the services of two willing adult workers to display the wonders of a three-ring circus satisfactorily to one youngster. —Christian Science Monitor.

An Acre or Two of Roots Will Feed a Small Dairy Herd.

For later crops heavy soils can be employed, and much soil is widely used for the midsummer and fall crops. Land that is in good physical condition as the result of early and proper handling, well supplied with available plant food and rich in organic matter, is essential to best results. Applications of stable manure at the rate of 20 to 30 tons per acre are advisable, and this may probably be supplemented by the use of commercial fertilizer containing at least 2 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphoric acid, and 4 per cent potash.

The seed is sown in rows at least 30 inches apart if hand cultivation is practiced, but under hand cultivation they need not be more than 15 to 18 inches. Ordinarily about 6 pounds of beet seed per acre is required. Seed is ordinarily covered to a depth of 1 to 1½ inches. As beet seed is rather slow in germination, the practice of sowing some quick-sprouting seed along with it is sometimes followed. These plants serve as markers for the rows before the beets are up, so that cultivation may be begun before the beets show above the ground. Rutabagas are frequently used for this purpose.

Beet seeds come in clusters, and it is inevitable that thinning by hand will be required.

Roots intended for winter storage are allowed to stand in the field until just before heavy autumn frosts occur, when they are pulled and stored in pits or cellars, requiring much the same treatment as potatoes and similar root crops.

RED CROSS WORKING FOR HEALTHIER U. S.

Thousands Aided by Instruction
In Care of the Sick, Food Selection and First Aid.

How the American Red Cross guides thousands of persons to health is shown in a summary of the society's activities in the health field based upon the annual report for the last fiscal year. Through its Nursing Service, its Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick courses, nutrition classes, First Aid classes, Life-Saving classes and Health Centers and in numerous other ways designed to acquaint masses of citizens with proper methods of living, the Red Cross carried its message of health into all parts of the country.

The work of the Red Cross during the war in its traditional field of nursing, furnishing the military and naval establishments of the nation with 19,877 nurses, is well known. And there are today 37,787 nurses registered with the American Red Cross and subject to call in emergency. During the fiscal year, 1,531 Red Cross nurses were accepted for assignment to Government service, 388 by the Army and Navy and 1,143 by the United States Public Health Service.

In addition to the nurses enrolled by the Red Cross for Government service, the Red Cross itself employed a total of 1,348 public health nurses in the United States and Europe. By far the greatest number was employed in the United States, 1,257, while 91 were in foreign service.

Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick classes, giving thorough instruction in the proper care of the sick in instances where the illness is not so serious as to require professional nursing care, during the fiscal year numbered 5,179. A statistical picture of the Red Cross operations in this field follows:

New classes formed during year 5,179
Classes completed during year 6,229
New students enrolled 101,068
Students completing course 73,432

What the Red Cross accomplished in giving proper instruction through its Nutrition Service is indicated by the following table:

New classes formed during year 142
Classes completed during year 158
New students enrolled 2,341
Students completing course 2,013

ONE-MAN ROAD GRADER PAYS

Profitable Plan for Farmers in Community to Get Together and Purchase Implement.

Once two teams of horses and at least two men used to be required to level and grade roads. Now we have the one-man machine, which does the job in half the time and never gets tired. Like all modern devices of this nature, it is, of course, driven by gasoline.

The single operator manipulates all the levers that control the cutting blades and also takes care of the engine. All the controls are placed at his elbow.

If you live in a community where it is the custom for each man to contribute his share of labor toward keeping the roads in condition, it will pay the men of the neighborhood to get together and purchase a one-man road grader and reduce the time and labor ordinarily necessary for this task. —Popular Science Monthly.

Christmas Greeting Cards

Enable the senders to identify their Christmas cards more closely with themselves; to lend a purely personal touch to every greeting; and to be sure that every card is socially acceptable.

Sit down and think of your old friends—who should be remembered, the next door people, the neighbors and the friends you made last summer, the members of your church and clubs—don't forget a soul—and then order a few extra for the friends you are sure to forget until the last minute.

There will be no duplication—no two orders for the same card. Our stock now is complete. By ordering your cards early you will have the pick of many and the order will be certain to be filled before the holiday rush.

BETTER ROADS HELP BABIES

Farm Is Made More Accessible to Doctor and Nurse—Danger in Travel Is Reduced.

It may seem a long way from good roads to better babies, and yet the two are closely connected.

America has a great rural population, throughout which babies are being born every day.

These babies and their mothers need care, the visit of the nurse, the services of the physician, often of the surgeon, and how are they to have it if between the miles of road impassable alike to automobile or buggy?

Of what use is the little hospital at the county seat if the woman whose life depends upon its care cannot be taken there swiftly and comfortably?

What difference does it make that the town physician may be a very wizard at treating diphtheria, if long before he can arrive at the farm the little throat has been closed by the deadly film, or the little heart stopped by the depressant poison?

Medical and surgical honors are generally claimed for the city—when as a matter of fact the country doctor is often possessed of a skill as complete as his heart is big.

Make the farm accessible to the doctor and nurse, make the hospital and the health center accessible to the farm. Nature and skill will do the rest.—Concord Monitor.

Bird Incubator.

The first and original incubator seems to have been the clever invention of an Australian bird of large size called the "brush turkey." It saves the fowl a great deal of time and trouble. The hen turkey lays her "clutch" of eggs in a neat circle, and then she and her mate scratch together a big pile of leaves and other forest trash to cover them. Decomposition of this vegetable material produces heat, whereby the eggs are kept at proper temperature for incubation. From time to time the male bird gives the heap a scratching over, as if to make sure that the temperature developed is neither too high nor too low. He does not permit the newly hatched young ones to emerge, however, until they are fully fledged and able to take care of themselves. Then he helps them to get out.

Getting On.

"How are you getting on with your new production?"
"We're all through with the most important part," replied the musician manager, "we have found a fifth that suggests all sorts of shocking possibilities."

The appearance of success without the backing, brings bankruptcy as often as it brings real success.

FARM POULTRY

ARRANGEMENT OF DUCK FARM

Should Be Located on Light, Sandy Soil, With Convenient Facilities for Watering.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Duck farms are usually located on light, sandy soil, preferably on sloping land, where the droppings will leach freely into the soil, so that the land keeps sweet and clean. The farm should have good shipping facilities to aid both in shipping products and in buying supplies. The arrangement of the buildings should be planned to economize labor and allow for future increase of the equipment.

The incubator cellar should be convenient to the brooder house, the brooder house to the growing house the outside yards, and the arrangement of the buildings should be planned so that the ducks may be easily driven from house to house as desired. The feed room or house should be centrally located.

Convenient watering arrangements are essential where large numbers of ducks are kept, as they require a large amount of drinking water. Many poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, while ducks may be kept successfully under very intensive conditions, it is advisable to allow considerable yard space. Double yards, which may be rotated and planted to quick-growing crops, such as oats, wheat and rye, are good for intensive duck farms.

It is advisable to have a pond or stream for the breeding ducks, as they usually give better fertility under these conditions, although on some successful duck farms the ducks are always kept on dry land. The young green ducks on some farms which have a pond are not allowed to go into the water except to bathe and clean their feathers just before marketing. Other growers, however, allow the green ducks free access to ponds or streams until they are marketed.

CHEAP COOP FOR BACK YARD

Inexpensive House Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory Where Small Flock Is Kept.

It is not necessary to spend much money for housing if you are going to keep a small flock of hens in your back yard. Indeed, it is unwise, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. One or two plans easy or a large packing box may often be made into an acceptable home. But whatever your build should be made dry and free from drafts, and have good ventilation. The United States Department of Agriculture has numerous bulletins giving directions for this kind of construction, and any of these are available for the asking, or for a very few cents where a charge is necessary. A card to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will get you what you need.

Avoid Staleness.

You can avoid staleness if you have will power enough to assert yourself. Like the faded hero of the adventures who grew stronger every time an adversary threw him to the ground you can "come back" if you go to mother earth. Get out into the open. Go in the afternoon where the flies play. Climb the hills where you will be compelled to put good air into the lower lungs. Chase the wild things of the forest and then retreat onto the thunders with untroubled hollows and see what untold will do for you. There's something in the endless play of nature that puts stress into the whole man.—Litt.

First Papermaker.

The original papermaker is the paper spider, in the dense woods in the interior of Africa, that large spider building its home from fine paper of its own making, when it selects a smooth surface about two inches square, covering it with fine threads that are papery, placing its 50 eggs beneath, then spinning a thin border that pastes it down tight until the eggs hatch in three weeks.—Indianapolis News.

Lifted Horizons.

While all melts under our feet, we may well grasp at any exquisite passion, or any contribution to knowledge that seems by a lifted horizon to set the spirit free for a moment, or any stirring of the senses, strange dyes, strange colors, and curious odors, or works of the artist's hands, or the face of one's friends.—Walter Pater, in The Renaissance.

Guid Concl't of Himself.

Mother was telling her father how she had sent one of her six-year-old boy's bright remarks to a newspaper and received a dollar for it, when the little fellow entered the room. Overhearing her, he said: "Mother, if you'll just listen to all I say and send it to the paper you'll make enough to support the whole family."—Boston Transcript.

Avoid Being Irritant.

Some folks are just plain irritants. You don't know why it is you don't like them. But you surely don't like them. My word and deed they get under your skin and you feel mean, at being so touchy. But it can't be helped—they irritate. Do your best to get beyond the irritation stage. You can put up with a lot when you train yourself to it. In the end you may find that part of the irritation belongs to your self. Come on. Be a sport. Buck up.—Grit.

The Dark Ages.

The Dark ages is the term applied to that portion of the Middle Ages which reached from the decline of classical learning to the renaissance. It embraces the period from the Fifth to the Fifteenth, or more narrowly, from the Fifth to the Eleventh century.

Quicklime for the Old Wall.

Instead of tyrannically try quicklime to get rid of an old unsightly wall. First drill in the wall a bottle-shaped hole having a small opening. Fill this with lime, and enough water to shake it, and close the hole with a snugly fitted wooden plug. The resultant pressure will easily take down the wall.

Weather Deck.

A "weather deck" in ship building terms, is a deck with no overhead protection.

FOCH TO DEDICATE NEW HOSPITAL FOR VETERANS

Marshall Foch, who as generalissimo of the Allied Armies, was the supreme officer over all American boys, was chosen to dedicate the American Legion hospital for tubercular veterans at Battle Creek.

To pay this tribute to Michigan's veterans, Marshall Foch rejected many other pressing engagements, and arranged his American tour so that this date could be kept beyond all doubt.

In urging upon him this course, the American Legion reminded the distinguished visitor that the Battle Creek hospital is the first enterprise of its kind in the United States—a hospital for veterans, conducted by veterans.

A bronze tablet on the hospital will attest to the historic occasion of its opening with the legend: "Roosevelt Hospital of the American Legion. Dedicated by Marshall Foch."

CHRISTMAS IS ALMOST HERE

P. O. DEPARTMENT HAS BIG JOB AHEAD

All Packages Should Be Well Wrapped, Addressed Plainly and Mailed Early

Office of Postmaster General, Washington, December 1, 1921. To the Boys and Girls of the United States:

Christmas is almost here. Your great Postoffice Department has a big job ahead and needs your help.

Think what it means to be Santa Claus to our 100,000,000 people and to deliver Christmas parcels to every family in this great country within the short space of a few days without disappointment.

It can be done, and we're going to do it if we may have your help. I want to enlist the active assistance of every boy and girl in the schools of our country in getting parcels mailed this week to relieve the rush that comes directly before Christmas.

Will you go home today and take this message to your parents and friends:

"Our postmaster has asked us to mail our Christmas parcel this week, for, unless we do, Uncle Sam's load may be so heavy, the last few days before Christmas that he won't be able to deliver all the presents by Christmas eve."

The parcels must be well wrapped and tied and addressed plainly in order that they may arrive in good condition with their Christmas appearance unspoiled. You can put on your packages, "Do not open until Christmas."

And there must be a number on your house and a mail receptacle too, for, if there isn't, Santa Claus's messenger, your letter carrier may not be able to find the house where the present belongs.

There are some other things, too, in which you can assist in improving the mail service and in saving our great government millions of dollars a year that is now wasted because of our carelessness—yours and mine.

Every day that you drop a letter in the mail box 40,000,000 other letters are already pushing and jamming through the postal machinery. One letter a day for each family of five persons in the United States is given to Uncle Sam to deliver.

When you send a parcel to the postoffice for mailing any day there are about 8,000,000 other parcels ahead of yours passing through the postal hopper. This is in ordinary days; at Christmas time it is multiplied many times.

One family in about every ten puts a badly addressed letter in the mail every day. This mixes up over 2,000,000 half addressed letters with the 20,000,000 fully addressed letters. That means that the fully addressed letters just like the larger boys and girls are delayed by a bunch of "bad kids" tagging along.

You boys and girls can help the Postal Service and save your fathers some money, because he has to help pay the cost of searching addresses on letters and parcels sent out by this one careless and thoughtless family in every ten.

First, find out if your family is the careless one, then bear in mind that your letters must be handled by skilled mail distributors standing in postoffices and on swaying postal cars of a mile-a-minute mail trains, often under poor light.

The address on every letter, card or package must be correct, complete and legible, including the house number and name of street, and the "from" address should be in the upper left hand corner so that the mail will be returned to you in case it is not delivered. Do not abbreviate the names of states, because so many look alike when abbreviated.

Put the proper amount of postage on your letters and wrap the parcels carefully. Avoid fancy writing, which causes postoffice clerks and letter carriers to stop and study, and thus lose time. Make the address plain and easily read, and always use pen and ink or typewriter and light-colored envelopes so as to save the eyes of the postoffice clerks. Do not use envelopes of unusual size. The little ones that are so frequently used for cards and notes at Christmas and other holiday times cause an untold amount of trouble and labor as they will not fit our cancelling machines and must therefore be cancelled by hand. Because of their size and tendency to slip out of a package these small envelopes are more likely to be overlooked or lost. Mail your letters and packages early in the day, because this avoids overloading and delaying mail at the end of the day.

Your local postmaster and your teachers will tell you more about the postal service. Do these things and you will win the grateful appreciation of the people in your postoffice and especially of Your Postmaster General, Will H. Hays. P. S.—Don't forget to mail Christmas packages THIS WEEK.

NEIGHBORS HAVE BARN RAISING

Twenty-five Gather at the Home of Chris Lynklop

An old-fashioned barn raising was held at the home of Chris Lynklop near Ironton, on Thursday of last week, some twenty-five neighbors taking part and helping to make the event a success.

Considerable work was accomplished, but the rain greatly hindered the work, and the job was not entirely finished. The wives served dinner at the noon hour, and lunch at five o'clock. However, despite the inclement weather, everyone was satisfied with what was done and the good time experienced by all.

HOW TO SECURE AUTO LICENSES

OUR COUNTY CLERK LEWIS HAS RULES WHICH WILL HELP

Says All Spaces on Application Blanks Must be Filled—No C. O. D. Orders Taken

When asked regarding any rules and regulations necessary in securing an automobile license, County Clerk Lewis who has charge of the Charlevoix county office, said that if applicants for license would observe the rules given below they would facilitate service and avoid much trouble, confusion and delay. The office opened December 1st.

"Fill out all blank spaces on application blank, as every item asked for is important in checking up, and he sure to have application sworn to before a notary public.

"Cash, draft, money order or a certified check must accompany the application and if plates are to be sent by mail, add 5c extra for parcel post.

"A notary fee of 25c will be charged by this office for notarizing applications. A person cannot be sworn by mail. They must appear in person.

"Applications for truck license must be made out on white blanks and must be accompanied by weight bill.

"One person cannot procure license for another unless authorized as his or her agent in writing."

"The new plates have red background and white letter and figures."

LADIES' GUILD IS REORGANIZED

New Officers Elected and Held Meeting December Seventh

The Ladies' Guild of the Episcopal church reorganized at a meeting held last week and elected the following officers:

CITY PURCHASES EMERGENCY PUMP

COMBINATION GASOLINE AND ELECTRIC AUTOMATIC

New Equipment Will Protect City From Fire Should Electric Plant Be Out of Order

With the installation of the new pump purchased by the city council at its regular meeting Monday evening, Charlevoix will be amply protected from fire, even should both the new steam auxiliary electric plant and the water power plant at Bellaire be put out of commission by fire, storm or accident.

The pump ordered is a Manistee Iron Works Co., Roturbo, 500 gallons per minute capacity, with General Electric Co. 75 h. p. electric motor and automatic pressure governor control, also an 85 h. p. Sterling gasoline engine attached to the same shaft for emergency service.

The new pump will be installed at the plant near the Coast Guard station upon its arrival, and will greatly add to the present equipment. It will be remembered that it is the plans of the council to remove all the present buildings, that is with the exception of the power station and dwelling house, and make the present water works site a place of beauty and cleanliness, which has been impossible to do in the past on account of the steam boilers, thunderous gas engine, and other equipment which has more or less been in use there.

When this work is completed which it is hoped will be during the early spring months, it is thought that all our recent source of water contamination will be removed, or at least so minimized that no trouble will be experienced from this source.

Charlevoix was brought into the limelight last summer by reports of contaminated water. That the water was slightly contaminated, no one denies, but the source of this contamination has been removed, recommendations of the state board of health complied with, hundreds of loads of sand removed from around the wells and replaced with clean sand. Chemical analysis of the water is being made and within the next ten days a complete laboratory installed enabling those in charge of the water station to make daily, or hourly analysis.

We also hope to be able to announce within a short time that the contract has been let for the drilling of a six inch deep well. Charlevoix MUST have a pure water supply, no matter what it costs in dollars and cents, and this will be accomplished as soon as possible.

The power shortage has been taken care of. We will have all the electricity we need for next season and for the future seasons. And we will also have a pure water supply if it can be accomplished.

W. C. T. U. Meeting The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet Friday afternoon, December 9th, at the home of Mrs. Daniel Swartz, 306 Petoskey avenue. A very interesting program has been arranged. All ladies very cordially invited.

LONE STAR BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE

Was on Way to East Jordan for a Cargo of Lumber

The barge Lone Star, owned by John Roen of this city, burned to the water's edge late Sunday night, at the Eveline Orchards dock.

The boat left for East Jordan Sunday afternoon about four o'clock and was compelled to lay up for minor repairs at the Eveline Orchards dock. Captain James Mudge and engineer Roy Pant retired for the night about nine o'clock. Later Mudge was awakened and discovered the boat on fire. He aroused Pant and both made their escape, although Mudge was severely burned about the face and forehead.

The boat was valued at $4,500 and carried a small amount of insurance. They were engaged in hauling lumber from East Jordan to be used in the erection of the new Booth Fisheries Co. plant, under construction here.

MASONS ENJOY SOCIAL EVENING

NEW ENGLAND PARTY HELD LAST WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Excellent Supper Served at Six-thirty. Followed by Program and Dance

Charlevoix Masons and their wives enjoyed an old fashioned New England party at the Temple on Wednesday evening of last week, fully two hundred members of the Masonic and O. E. S. being present.

Members gathered at the hall at the supper hour, and shortly before seven were seated at tables fairly groaning under the weight of good things to eat. Every chair was filled and several were forced to wait for the second table.

At the close of the supper, the room was cleared and the members again asked to gather in the big dining room, where a very enjoyable program took place.

Mrs. D. C. Nettleton, welcomed the guests in a most cordial manner, at the same time giving a short history of the O. E. S. from its inception to the present time.

Mrs. Adm M. Shockley had charge of the program which followed, she in herself rendering several selections that were repeatedly encored.

Mrs. R. V. Otto and daughter, accompanied by Miss Isabel Mitchell, an pianist, rendered two songs which were very pleasing.

Following this were songs by Dr. F. H. Wilkinson, Mrs. A. M. Shockley and Mrs. N. A. Shores.

Then followed the mock wedding, which was the sensation of the evening. It is hard to describe this affair, for each one taking part were in themselves a scream. The sympathies of the audience, however, were with the blushing bride, M. A. Levinson.

Costumes bringing back to memory the early colonial times were worn by a number of the ladies, and were greatly admired, both for simplicity and quaintness. In all, the evening was one of the most enjoyable ever held. Dancing followed the program, all taking part and thoroughly enjoying themselves.

LOCAL K. OF P.'S TO VISIT EAST JORDAN

Grand Lodge Degree Team to Put on Work Thursday Evening

East Jordan will be invaded by Charlevoix Knights of Pythias Thursday evening of this week, the object of the visit being to help East Jordan Pythians entertain the Grand Lodge degree team, who will put on the amplified rank lesson of Friendship, at an open meeting.

The work will be put on in the new high school auditorium, Charlevoix furnishing seven or eight candidates and East Jordan a like number.

Supper will be served to Knights of Pythias at the K. of P. hall at the close of the work in the high school auditorium. Charlevoix is planning on attending the meeting as least fifty strong, and members of the local lodge are asked to meet promptly at the hall not later than 6:30 p. m. Thursday evening. Cars will be provided for all who wish to go.

Another Birthday Party

Kny Caskin entertained the following, Phila Armstrong, Edith Hanshaw, Gladys McGeagh, Hilda Myers, and Helen Webster with a six o'clock dinner in honor of Elineor Finucan the occasion being her birthday. The evening was spent in music and dancing.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet Friday afternoon, December 9th, at the home of Mrs. Daniel Swartz, 306 Petoskey avenue. A very interesting program has been arranged. All ladies very cordially invited.

BILL BOARD OWNERS MAKE PROTEST

Recent Destruction of Signs Along Highways and Streets

Owners of advertising signs in and around Charlevoix are up in arms over the malicious destruction of their advertising matter, and sooner or later someone will be hauled into court to pay for their fun.

On nearly every corner and along roads leading into Charlevoix signs have been placed by both local and outside firms, the cost of which amounts to many dollars. Investigation has revealed that many of these signs have been riddled by shot, someone having made a target of them.

In some cases not only have the signs been riddled, but the supports shot away. Several instances have been reported where individual owners estimate their loss from $50 to $100.

It must be remembered by those who seemingly enjoy and indulge in the practice of exhibiting their marksmanship on road signs, that the offense is as great as if they deliberately shot up a man's house or barn.

The destruction of this property has been reported to the county officials, who are on the lookout for the offenders, and if apprehended, they will pay dearly for their fun.

MANY SOLDIERS' CLAIMS ADJUSTED

CALLS OF VARIOUS NATURE ADJUSTED

Visit of "Clean-Up-Squad" Has Been Beneficial to Ex-Service Men

Now at Petoskey

The "Clean-up Squad" of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, hailing from the 8th District, which comprises the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan, with headquarters at Chicago, visited Boyne City on Friday and Saturday of last week, transacting their business in the office of Dr. C. C. Conkle, Masonic building.

The personnel of the squad was W. C. Carlock, in charge of claims for compensation, vocational rehabilitation and insurance; Dr. A. M. Hume, medical officer; Dr. L. T. O'Brien, assistant medical officer; C. W. Nelson, secretary and stenographer; Clarence W. Austin, district welfare officer of the American Legion; and Miss Hodson, representative of the American Red Cross.

Fourteen cases were presented to the Squad on Friday evening and eighteen on Saturday, making a total of thirty-two contracts. The calls were of various natures and in some cases the men were sent for hospitalization or special examination to other places in Michigan.

Undoubtedly the squad has been greatly beneficial in results to the ex-service men of Charlevoix county. The squad left Monday morning for Petoskey where they will remain three days, from Petoskey they go to Cheboygan.

The object of sending these squads into every state in the Union is to expedite action on claims for the ex-service men of the late World War, new claims are filed and prompt medical examinations given, and the cases sent to Chicago for action; complaints are heard in cases where a claim has been filed and no action yet taken by the Bureau or an award has been reduced and the claimant desires to appeal. The squad assists in getting affidavits and other necessary proof in these cases in order that the claim may be intelligently presented to the Bureau for action.

PHONE GIRLS ENJOY PLEASANT EVENING

Help Ma Marshall Observe Her Birthday Anniversary

Local Michigan State Telephone operators enjoyed a very pleasant evening Monday, at the home of Miss Ma Marshall, 503 Antrim street, the occasion being Miss Marshall's birthday anniversary.

The evening was spent in music and dancing after which the hostess' mother served a delicious supper. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed, regardless of the fact that someone made away with lovely fruit salad placed on the back porch to cool.

Miss Marshall was presented with a beautiful stationery kit, as a token of remembrance.

Order your hand-printed Christmas cards early. I make any design you want. Edith Adams, phone 240f3, Charlevoix. 1923

BARGE ASHORE ON WHISKEY REEF

FRIDAY'S STORM RAISES HAVOC WITH LAKE BOATS

S. S. Hydrex Goes Hard Aground on Whiskey Reef, Between Trout and Whiskey Islands

The S. S. Hydrex, a four hundred foot steel barge owned by F. K. Scott & Co., Chicago, Illinois, went hard aground on Whiskey Reef, between Trout Island and Whiskey Island, some eight miles from St. James early last Friday morning.

The barge was on her way to Chicago, light, and attempted to take what is termed by navigators as the short cut between the above named islands, with the result that she hit the reef, almost in broad daylight. Shortly after going on the reef, Friday's big blow began, and the barge was in a most dangerous position and likely to pound herself to pieces.

Aid was at once asked for and the big lake tug Favorite, the tug usually sent for, was found to be at the Soo. A tug from Cheboygan was then sent for, but up to the time we go to press, the barge is still on the reef. Several barges, among which the Peter Reese and another big liner, are rendering all assistance possible, but it is not likely the Hydrex will be pulled off the reef until the arrival of the Favorite, reported to be on her way to the scene of the accident.

The barge being light, was filled with water in an attempt to keep her from pounding on the rocks, and indications are that she will be floated upon the arrival of tugs large enough to pull her off.

Friday and Saturday's blow was about the worst so far this season and many boats that did not heed the storm signals displayed at every port, have been in more or less trouble.

Members of Beaver Island Coast Guard, Capt. Ward C. Bennett in charge, accomplished all that could be done by them, but were powerless to aid the barge other than stand by to rescue the crew in case the boat went to pieces.

LEGION TEAM LOOKING FOR GAMES

Traverse City Basket Ball Players Open to All Comers

The Courier is in receipt of a letter from the manager of the American Legion basket ball team in Traverse City, asking to be put in touch with any basket ball team in this section, with the object of scheduling a series of games.

From all accounts, the Traverse City American Legion basket ball team is a good bunch of players and will give any team a run for their money.

Just at present, no team has been organized in Charlevoix, but it is sincerely hoped one will be. For several seasons we have had a good independent team besides the high school team, and enthusiasm run high, the citizens supporting each team.

Charlevoix's team of five seasons ago were about the best ever in the city, and as there are plenty of good players here, there should be no reason why a good independent team is not formed. Go to its boys.

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

Our family circle is again complete. Alice Chew returned Monday.

At last! We have received a splendid new cupboard. Each individual now has plenty of room for his necessary "junk."

The class has made some very attractive candle shades in art class.

We are working on a play which will be given early in January.

We consider it a kindness on the part of our teacher to give us enough work to do to keep us out of mischief. Wouldn't you?

The 5th grade in the training room are laying special emphasis on artists and their work. They have completed the study of Raphael, Landseer, Willet, Rosa Bonheur, and Breton.

The 2nd grade are making raffia picture frames in industrial art.

It is generally believed that students do their best work when visitors are present. If that is true give all extra credit to Supt. Rice.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

The English IV class is studying modern poets. Much interest is being shown in this work. Some special features last week were readings from Riley and Field given by Mrs. Rotert and Mrs. Rose. They were very much enjoyed and greatly appreciated by the class.

After spending Thanksgiving vacation in Chicago, Phila Armstrong returned home last Monday. While there she had the opportunity of visiting the Oak Park high school. It is one of the largest and finest in that city. Miss Armstrong spoke to our English class Tuesday, about the Shakespeare room. It was very interesting to know that in this room they have a large fire place, with brass candlesticks, red tile floor, and the Shakespeare coat of arms on the wall. Her report was full of interest.

The football pictures are on sale at Priest's Studio and are also on exhibit in the assembly room.

The play entitled, "Why the Chimes Rang" will be presented by the high school December 20th, at the M. E. church.

The first debate of the season will be held Friday night at Boyne City. The question is, "Resolved that the closed shop should have the support of public opinion."

The affirmative will be upheld by Helen Mason, Franklin Lewis and Kay Gaskin. Try to go and boost for the home team.

Last Friday morning R. L. Lewis addressed the student body the occasion being the awarding of letters to the members of the football squad. Mr. Lewis brought to our attention the men who had won their letters from the high school and are now holding prominent position in the business world of today.

Those receiving their letters were Airl Cooper, Ed. Shanahan, Leonard Burns, John Nordrum, Gordon Todd, Alex Sinclair, Franklin Lewis, J. C. Marshall, Joe Hamilton, Harold Jones, Marshall Ackert, John Burns, Orin Cunningham. Those receiving their "R's" were Hugh Mayne, Louis Bourisseau, Bernie Ward, Nelson Christenson.

LOEB FARMS NOTES.

Much of the outside work has been completed and the force will be reduced.

Wolf Galinski of Petoskey bought 40 fat hogs of Dept. O Tuesday.

Joe Cogswell was called home Monday by the illness of his daughter.

Rial Crandall of Dept. B will take a course in butter making at East Lansing this winter.

F. Wurn has sold his baled straw to Dept K and is delivering it.

Billy Cowan has returned to work after a week's vacation.

There will be a box social held at the Marion school or "Loeb" school Tuesday evening, December 12th to raise funds for Christmas. All are cordially invited.

Insect Powder From Flowers. Insect powder, which is made by grinding the flower heads of certain species of pyrethrum contains a volatile oil which acts upon insects by asphyxiation. It is harmless to the higher animals, including man. The workmen who make it suffer no more inconvenience than do millers or others engaged in dusty trades. The plants are fed to horses and other stock after the flowers have been gathered.

Entered at Charlevoix Post Office as second class matter.

CAN YOU NAME THEM?

A contemporary daily has suddenly found itself besieged with calls from high school pupils for the names of the president's cabinet. A teacher explained the situation. "Civics classes have just reached the stage where teachers are saying 'I shall expect every pupil in the class to know the names of the members of the cabinet tomorrow morning.'"

The paper decided in self-defense, and in the educational interest of the young citizen, to publish the list without further delay.

If the older members of the family knew the names, the younger ones would not have to storm the newspapers. We don't know just how far along the civics classes are in this town, nor just how well posted the home folks are, but because one community is pretty much like another we print the list herewith, refreshing our own memories at the same time.

ELECT OFFICERS AT FRIDAY'S MEETING

Charlevoix Association of Commerce
Meets in Masonic Temple

Officers for the ensuing year will be chosen at the regular monthly meeting of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce, held in the Masonic Temple on Friday evening of this week.

Reports of activities of various committees of their year's work will also be made, and the meeting should result in more than usual interest.

Various matters are scheduled for a discussion among which will be the annual regatta of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, to be held in August of the coming season.

Representatives from both Petoskey and Boyne City chambers of commerce will be present to discuss matters of importance to each individual city.

The ladies of the O. E. S. promise one of their famous fish suppers, which has previously made a hit with the members of the association. The importance of his meeting is such that every member should be present.

WOLVERINE GIRL BURNED TO DEATH

Trapped in Indian River Hotel When Flames Destroy Building

Miss Lillian Schuh, age 22 years, daughter of Deputy Game Warden Michael Schuh, of Wolverine, was burned to death in the fire which destroyed the Pinehurst Inn, Monday, a pretty summer tourist hotel at Indian River. The body of the girl was found in the smoking ruins after the fire had burned itself out.

Mrs. Gale French, owner and operator of the hotel, barely escaped in her night clothes, after being severely burned about the face and hands. Four guests of the hotel received painful burns in escaping from the burning structure. One guest was forced to leap from a second story window.

Summer homes near the hotel were saved by a crew of fire-fighters. The hotel building loss is estimated at about $9,000 and is covered by insurance.

The Old Folks' Christmas Present

By DELYSLE FERREE CASS

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union)

THE old folks always had wanted a baby girl, even long after Henry had been born. But the years rolled by, their boy grew up big, handsome and strong, always cheerful and helpful about the farm, and they tried to resign themselves to the fact that their humble hopes never would be satisfied. Old John Barker never referred to them, but every once in a while his wife would catch herself brooding, misty-eyed, of the sure day when young Henry would marry and leave them alone on the big farm for which there was no other heir.

Her sole comfort in the thought was that he would undoubtedly marry one of the honest, hardworking daughters of neighboring farmers, who would be content with country life and not expect to take him too far away from them in their old age.

Then came the great war, and Henry went overseas with his regiment as did most of the other true American boys. The old folks parted from him courageously—old John with a stern grip of calloused, toll-worn hands, and Ma Barker with tears steadfastly hidden behind her faded, loving eyes. He was their all and they gave him.

In the anxious months that followed the old folks' life held the same hard routine as ever on the farm. Old John drove to town oftener than usual—sometimes even twice a week—to see if any letters had come from mysterious, sinister places in France, and he and mother would pore over the few that did arrive in the proud knowledge that their Henry was a "good" boy and was doing his duty. They prayed each night that the Lord would keep him safe to come back to them and to keep him from temptation while away from their care.

Then one day, like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky, came a terrible letter from France, which said: "I have found the sweetest little girl in all the world, and I'm bringing her home with me as a Christmas present to you. The regiment is now at Rest for overhauling and we'll surely be home for the holidays. . . . She is awfully pretty; black hair, big eyes and always wanting to be kissed. Her name is Angelique. . . . Of course she can't speak anything but French, but, dear mother and dad, I just know that you'll soon learn to love her as much as I do."

The old folks were stricken with consternation. Their Henry bringing home a French girl—a foreigner who wouldn't understand their simple, old-fashioned ways, and to whom they never could reconcile themselves! Such a one—accustomed to the wicked frivolities of Paris—never would fit in on the farm, however modest or "nice" she might be. More likely she would despise it, and then, and take their boy away to live in some big city—leave them lonely in the old age that was now upon them.

The old folks bowed their grayed heads beneath the blow, nearly heart broken, although they tried bravely to conceal their most harrowing fears from each other.

"Maybe she won't expect to wear silk underwear all the time and will be willing to help you wipe the dishes evenings, mother," old John finally tried to console his wife as they sat alone in the farmhouse kitchen one night after chores were done. "And maybe, after all, she won't want to smoke cigarettes before people when she finds that American girls around here don't do that sort of thing."

Ma Barker shook her head sadly. "I'd do anything almost to make our boy happy, pa," she said, while the tears gathered in her faded eyes. "We must do our best not to let him notice how disappointed we are. Only I'm afraid she'll never be content here on the farm with us."

Ma Barker went about preparations for the big Christmas dinner with tearful premonitions, heavy hearted. She was nervous; wanted to sit down and cry, but felt she had to keep up before pa, for Henry's sake, if only big else. She knew of old, exactly all the good things that her boy liked for the Christmas dinner—juicy black fruit cake, steaming plum pudding, odoriferous brown-roasted turkey, and but oh! she didn't know what to prepare for her—couldn't get any frog legs if she had wanted to. And the geography said that frog legs were a favorite French dainty.

Oh, whatever would the minister say? . . . yes, and Sally Howarth, too, when they heard about—about "Angelique!" Sally had been "sweet" on Henry, and poor old Ma Barker had hoped—

But, ah well! She mustn't let her dear boy know! He and his Angelique would be there tomorrow.

Christmas eve the old folks decorated the house with fir boughs, holly and strings of colored popcorn. They even trimmed a tree as they had done for Henry ever since he had been a little boy. Ma Barker thought, with a rising lump in her throat, that maybe the French girl would look on it all as silly; would curl her lip at their homely endeavors, but . . .

Christmas morning Jed, the hired man, drove off in the sleigh to meet their boy and his bride at the station in town. The odor of savory good things on the kitchen stove permeated the whole farmhouse, and the big open fire in the dining room crackled in comfortable contrast to the sparkling cold of the snow outside. Ma Barker bustled about, sadly setting the table with her best dishes. She caught old John stealthily coming up the basement stairs with a dusty dandy.

"Why, Pa Barker!" she exclaimed. "What's that you've got there? I do believe it's that cider that fermented so we couldn't use it!"

"Yes, 'tis," admitted old John prettily shamefacedly and shuffling his feet to hide his embarrassment. "But you see, I . . . I thought that maybe as Henry's girl is a French woman, she'd rather like hard cider, seeing as we haven't any light wines nor champagne for her to drink."

A few minutes later they heard the sleighbells jingling, the snort of the horses and the crunch of runners on the snow in front of the house. Instantly the old folks forgot the dread that had been overshadowing them since the letter came. Ma Barker, with trembling fingers undid her apron, smoothed her hair "so that Henry's girl would see her looking right," and rushed out of doors. Old John followed more decorously and stiffly, for his rheumatism had been troubling him more than ever lately, making work harder for him about the farm. Yes, he certainly was going to miss Henry's help when—

"My boy! my boy!" cried ma as she threw herself into the extended arms of the sturdy young soldier in khaki as he leaped out of the sleigh behind the broadly grinning Jed. They clung ecstatically together for a few minutes until old John forced them apart to pump his son's hand up and down and mumble something about the bright sun on the snow making his eyes water.

SMALL FLOCK IN BACK YARD

Two Hens for Each Member of Family Are Recommended as Best by Poultry Specialists.

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least 10 dozen eggs per hen per year from his small flock in the back yard. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about halfway between the average of farm and city consumption. No backyard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Every backyard poultry keeper should try to get us much more as possible. To provide an egg a day for each person, two hens would have to lay 184 eggs each a year.

From the depths of the hooded sleigh he bundled a diminutive figure, swaddled in furs and laprobes, with two big, sparkling round eyes beaming on them and red lips curved up into an adorable smile.

Angelique was a four-year-old baby girl whom he had adopted from a war-devastated village near the front. "Her people were all killed by the Germans," Henry explained apologetically, "so I thought I'd bring her along instead of letting her be sent to some orphanage."

Ma Barker gave a choking sort of cry and caught the baby girl for which she had prayed so long to her relieved breast. As for old John, he swallowed hard, winked broadly at the grinning Jed beside the horse, and said:

"We've got some hard cider in the house, Jed. Better come in with me and have a nip before you put the horses up. Gosh, but come to think of it, Santa Claus' presents always are supposed to be surprises anyway, aren't they, Jed?"

Can You Solve This Puzzle?

Here is a puzzle that everybody should try. The other night at the "Movies" the operator wanted to try a new "fun," so he rearranged the names of some of the famous actors and actresses and threw them on the screen like you see in the picture. Everybody had "loads" of fun figuring out the correct names. See if you can do it yourself. No. 1 is Dorothy Dalton. If you can solve them all you can win $1,000 or a Hupmobile.

Though you probably know the names of all the popular actors and actresses we'll name a few of them just to refresh your memory:

Mary Miles Minter, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Juanita Hansen, Buster Keaton, William B. Hart, Clara Kimbrell Young, Tom Mix, Mabel Normand, Thomas Meighan, Douglas MacLean, Bryant Washburn, Dorothy Dalton, Harold Lloyd, Pearl White, Jackie Coogan, Gloria Swanson.

110 Points Will Win First Prize

For each name you can arrange correctly you will receive five points or fifty points if you solve them all. You can earn 50 more points by qualifying your answer. That is, by proving that you have shown a copy of The St. Paul Daily News to five people. The first 25 points will be awarded by the judges, who will be three well-known St. Paul business men.

IT COSTS YOU NOTHING TO TRY

You do not have to subscribe to The St. Paul Daily News nor spend a cent of your own money to win a prize. We have given away a great many wonderful things and you can be the next winner if you send in your solution to this puzzle at once. Be sure your own name and address is on your solution to the puzzle and don't forget—YOU CAN WIN. Get the family together, solve the puzzle and mail your answer NOW.

Santa's Red Guide

By R. RAY BAKER

HE tall, rawboned sailor stopped whistling when he saw the automobile, although his lips remained pursed and vapor continued to form before his mouth.

He halted midway between the fog-hell and the lighthouse, and stamped his feet impatiently on the beaten snow path, for they were cold in spite of heavy overshoes.

"Ben Clark's automobile," he said, and he did not say it joyfully. "He's callin' on Marie ag'in."

The door of the dwelling part of the lighthouse opened and a young man, dressed in a fur coat, came out, placing a cap, also of fur, on his head. He paused when he saw the sailor.

"Merry Christmas," said the fur-clad one, grinning, and he passed on to the automobile, climbed in, and soon was whirling away.

"Same to you," sang out the sailor, although he scowled as he approached the door through which the other had emerged. "Seems he's gettin' in a hurry about it. Christmas don't come till tomorrow."

There was nothing about the sailor to denote that he was a seafaring man, unless it was his rolling gait, far be it from him to be as the other man, although his coat, instead of being fur, was an old fuzzy blue one.

Navigation had closed some months ago, because a large share of the lake had an icy blanket, and Harry Hammond was obliged to find other pursuits till spring. So he fished through the ice and helped keep the village at Bennett supplied with food.

His knock was answered by a dark-eyed girl of three years, who smiled brightly.

"Hello, Emeline," he said, and he took her in his arms and asked her about Santa and what she expected.

perform. About five o'clock, through the storm, Marie heard an automobile horn, and presently came a knock on the door. Ben Clark, blanketed with snow, stood there when she opened it.

"I can't stay," he said, "or I won't be able to drive back, because the road is drifting badly. I came because I heard some news you'll be interested in. Harry Hammond went out on the ice this morning with his dog team, and up at the village a fisherman just came in with the news that the ice had cracked and part of it went out. Hammond didn't have a chance in a thousand, especially in this storm. He surely must have drowned."

Marie started back, horror in her eyes.

"Harry drowned!" she cried. "It doesn't seem possible. Are you sure? Can't you do something? Take me out on the ice in your car. Perhaps he's still alive, lying somewhere on the ice freezing. The ice must be firm for a long ways out."

"What?" exclaimed Ben. "Go out there in this howling blizzard? The ice might hold up for a long ways, but I'd ruin the car and we'd stand a good chance of getting pneumonia, if we didn't get lost and wander into open water."

Early that night the villagers were startled to see a red bar of light shoot from Clayton Point. It was the first time in history that that light, which had guided many a ship through summer gales, had shone forth into a winter night.

Up in the light tower stood Marie looking through the great glass wall, striving to pierce the darkness and storm with eyes that were red from weeping.

"There's not much hope," she mused, "but there's just a chance he's still alive and the old light might help him."

For hours she remained at the post, watching and waiting, all but hopeless. Midnight found her asleep in a chair close by the light, exhausted by her long vigil.

A scream from below made her wide awake. She stumbled down the stairs and groped her way to Emeline's room. To her surprise a lamp was burning and there was Emeline seated on the bed, hunched a doll, fully as large as herself, on her knee.

"Santa came!" cried the little girl, and now Marie realized that it had been a scream of joy that awakened her.

"Santa came!" repeated the tot. "I found this right on my bed!"

Unable to understand, Marie went out into the living room and lighted a lamp. On the lounge lay a man, his clothes crusted with ice.

She went to him and put her arms around him.

"Harry," she sobbed. "They told me you were dead; that the ice cracked and let you through."

The big sailor opened his eyes and yawned.

"I'm dead, all right—dead sleepy," he grained. "The ice opened up, all right, but I was on the other side of the crack, an' by drivin' the dogs like the dickens I got over the danger place before she cracked on the other side. I got to Sloan City without trouble, an' comin' back I skirted the shore. At that, I'd got lost only for the ol' light."

She took one of his hands and found it cold, and rubbed it vigorously.

"But why—why did you go?" she demanded.

He tried to stifle another yawn, but didn't succeed.

"Well, Emeline, was lookin' for Santa," he answered, "an' I couldn't let her be disappointed."

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

This Sunday is Missionary Day. The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies are out for their thank offering. The pastor will give the address of the morning specially adapted to missionary enterprise. The woman's work comprises missionary activities worldwide and gives opportunity for following the command of Jesus: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

The Sunday school hour is at noon. It calls for Bible study and challenges the best in us for service among the young. No Christian but can but profit in this school of biblical instruction and no person but ought to be at least identified with the Sunday school movement. Remember our motto: "Every person a member of some department of S. S. activities."

The Epworth League meets at 6 o'clock and has not only become a training school for the young people but is a splendid introduction to the evening church service. The Epworth Herald will be given some publicity in this meeting. In clubs of ten it costs less. Good reading is the boon of youthful training. In the words of an apostle we would ask "How readest thou?"

Remember the evening church service. The subject, "The Bible Theme this Night—Its Words and Works." Shall we not commit its words and practice its works?

Prayer meeting this Thursday at 7:30 p. m. We will listen to the subject discussed, "The Tithing," in the part "It Pays God." We believe in the prayer meeting, where prayer is wont to be made. Come in and rest and pray awhile.

The Ladies Literary and Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. James Simmons Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Remember that this club has a fancy goods sale Friday and Saturday of this week to be held at the Charlevoix Hardware Co.'s store.

On February 6th this organization will bring to us the Albion Glee Club for an entertainment to be given in the church. This will be of the highest class. Twenty-one young men with songs, music and recitations will keep things merry throughout the evening. Mark your calendar and keep the date open.

The children are practicing for Christmas. Soon the Santa Claus stories will be told again and the little old man will be visioned among us.

J. E. BAYLISS GETS HIGH POST

Made Investigator in West Michigan for Dept. of Justice

Joseph E. Bayliss, of Northern Michigan political fame, has been appointed to the position of federal department of investigation to succeed Franklin L. Dodge, who has been transferred to the department office at Cleveland, O.

Mr. Bayliss comes originally from Sault Ste. Marie. He was in the United States border customs service for four years, served as sheriff of Chippewa county for four years and during the war was employed by the Dow Chemical Co. at Midland. He is a former president of the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs and Prosecutors and served one term as representative from Chippewa county in the state legislature.

Mr. Bayliss is widely known as a progressive leader. He managed the last Roosevelt presidential campaign in the upper peninsula and while in the legislature was constantly in the public eye because of his aggressive fearlessness.

LOCAL DELEGATES TO ATTEND GOOD ROADS CONGRESS

ROAD MACHINERY EXPOSITION, COLISEUM, CHICAGO

This city and county are being urged to make suitable provision for sending delegates officially to the Twelfth American Good Roads Congress and Thirteenth National Good Roads Show to be held under the auspices of the American Road Builders' Association at the Coliseum, in Chicago, January 17, 18, 19 and 20 next.

The mayors of more than 5,000 American and Canadian cities and the boards of commissioners in 3,000 counties have each been asked to appoint from three to five delegates. In many cases the delegates will be headed by the mayors and the commissioners themselves.

An exhaustive program dealing with the latest methods developed in the construction of all types of roads and streets, safety on the highways, road taxes, street assessments, highway bond issues, road administration and maintenance, traffic regulation, highway transportation and numerous other subjects of vital interest to the officials who deal with public thoroughfares, as well as contractors, engineers and good roads advocates generally, has been prepared. Twenty thousand delegates are expected to attend the congress.

The big exposition of labor saving machinery, methods and appliances, which will include many things that are new, will be the greatest of the kind the world has ever known. Enough space has already been engaged by exhibitors to fill the Coliseum and Annex, breaking all previous records for this exposition and making it necessary for the Road Builders' Association to lease adjoining buildings in order to house the overflow.

ROAD BUILDING

ITALY WANTS BETTER ROADS

Experimental Institute Promoted for Study of Materials for Improved Highways.

The Italian Touring club has recently promoted an experimental institute of roads for the study of materials employed in the construction and maintenance of highways.

The objects of the institute will be to carry on laboratory experiments on the physical and mechanical characteristics of road materials; to help the progress of experimental techniques relative to highway surfacing by reproducing and studying samples of pavements worn by traffic or deteriorated otherwise; to form a collection of material samples suitable for Italian road construction; to collect all descriptive and statistical matter appertaining to Italian roads; to furnish public bodies with useful advice relating to construction and maintenance of roads, and to forward by every other means the development and betterment of road work in Italy.

The institute publishes monthly reports of its proceedings. The institute is financed by annual contributions from the Touring Club of Italy, by an annual subsidy from the ministry of public works and by annuities, gifts and charges for material tests.

The institute is under the direction of Sig. Elio Vambone, formerly chief engineer of the province of Milan. More detailed information regarding the formation of this institute is given in a recent bulletin of the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses.

HARD ROAD IN NEW ZEALAND

Sum of $146,000 to Be Spent in Construction of Strip of Concrete Six Miles Long.

Approximately $146,000 is to be spent by the city of Wellington, New Zealand, in building a concrete road, 25 feet wide, to the suburb of Petone, which is six miles distant.

The new paving will occupy the center of a thoroughfare 100 feet wide which is now macadamized. Only vehicles, such as cars, motorcars and small motorbuses will be allowed on the concrete way. A special vehicle tax in addition to the present one, will be levied by Wellington, the proceeds of which will be devoted solely to the upkeep of this road. This tax applies to all motor-driven cars, and among them are also included motor-cycles.

Carfare and Interest.

The story goes that John Hopkins, the founder of the university that bears his name, was accustomed even when of venerable years and more or less infirm of body to walk to his office. Questioned by a friend as to why he did this he replied: "I never forget that a carfare represents an entire year's interest on a dollar. The interest on a dollar is worth saving."

$100 Reward, $100

IMPROVEMENTS ARE TO COME

Establishment of Motortruck Trains Bound to Cause Reconstruction of Surfaces.

With the establishment of motortruck trains operating on a fixed schedule throughout the country improvements are bound to come. Not only will surfaces of the highways be rebuilt, but in many instances routes will be shortened to save time and money.

These improvements should be regarded as vital to the success of every community and as a necessary factor in the prosperous era before us. They represent benefits in which not a few individuals but the community at large will share.

Teach Highway Engineering.

Schools and colleges throughout the United States are to be enlisted in a national way to teach the coming generation all about highway engineering, automobile transport, traffic regulations and safety.

Dixie Highway Leads.

Of the 9,630 miles of roads to be constructed throughout the United States through the aid of federal appropriation, the Dixie highway leads the list with 835 miles.

Lightning Rods.

If a lightning rod is properly grounded, the danger arising from the use of non-insulated fasteners is negligible. Years ago the use of glass insulators set in outriggers was very common. It was a good but perhaps an unnecessary practice. If a rod is well grounded in wet earth a bolt of lightning is not likely to leave a good conductor and enter a poor one.

Soapmakers.

In the village of Kington, Warwickshire, England, the women save all the pieces of fat and make soap in their homes. They supply the whole village with soap, both for toilet and household purposes.

A TALK WITH A CHARLEVOIX MAN

John McCall of 110 E. Upright Ave., Tells of His Experience

There is nothing like a talk with one of our own citizens for giving hope and encouragement to the anxious sufferer from the dread kidney disease. We, therefore, give here an interview with a Charlevoix man:

"My kidneys were weak and irregular in action," says Mr. McCall. "Dizzy spells bothered me, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they completely and permanently cured me of the trouble."

This Christmas give her a Hoover as a lasting reminder of your thoughtfulness. Give her the joy of an immaculate home, with rugs that are ever clean and attractive. Transform her hours of drudgery into hours of ease and leisure. All these a Hoover means, and more. For this efficient cleaner also lessens many household expenses as well as repeatedly pays for itself by its guaranteed ability to extend the life of rugs. Gently it beats out all nap-wearing grit from rug depths. Electrically it sweeps up stubborn litter, erects crushed nap, and freshens colors. Powerfully it suction cleans. Only the Hoover does all this. "Give her a Hoover and you give her the best."

King Split-Log Drag Was the Invention of a Missouri Man—Its Construction Explained.

The King split-log drag is a good drag made of a split log, and originated by Mr. D. Ward King of Maitland, Mo. Mr. King explains the construction as follows: "Take the two halves of a split log, ten or twelve inches thick and seven to nine feet long. Set the halves flat sides to the front, fasten 30 inches apart with strong stakes, the ends of which are wedged in two-inch auger holes bored through the slabs. Put a solid platform on the stakes for the driver to stand on. The hitch is made of strong wire or chain, the long end fastened to stake over the top of the front slab, the short end put through a hole in center of the slab and near the end to prevent the back slab tilting forward. Place four or five feet of the ditch end of the front slab with front. An old wagon tire, worn share of road grader, or any piece of flat steel, will answer for this purpose."

CUT GRASS AND WEEDS AWAY

Area of Two or Three Feet Should Be Kept Free From Growth of All Vegetation.

Keep the grass and weeds away from the trunks of young fruit trees for a distance of two or three feet at least. Keep this area free from growth of all kinds, even if it is necessary to do so with a hand hoe. Where cultivated crops are planted in the orchard, from one to three rows of the crop will be omitted at each tree row, and under this condition, the tree row will be kept free from weeds and grass, except possibly right against the tree trunks. It is safest in the long run to hoe away this grass when it cannot be removed with a cultivator.

MULCHING OF SMALL FRUITS

Most Practical Way for Farmer to Insure Profitable Results—Keeps Out Weeds.

Mulching of the small fruits is the most practical way for the farmer to insure himself results. One application will be sufficient for the season, and it will, if properly applied, conserve the moisture even better than cultivating. The mulch, properly applied, will keep out practically all weed growth and such as do appear can easily be pulled by hand when passing through the patch.

FRUIT AND POULTRY RAISING

Where Land Is Intensively Cultivated Fowls Have Been Found Quite Profitable.

On fruit farms where land is intensively cultivated, flocks of poultry have been found very profitable as producers of fertilizer, to say nothing of the greater value that comes from their eggs and meat. Poultry raising is almost as important a side-line in the fruit business as bees.

Cleaning Marble.

To clean marble mix with water five parts of soda, two and a half parts of powdered chalk and two and a half parts of pumice stone (powdered); spread on the marble and wash off with soap and water. The consistency of the mixture when applied should be that of a thin paste.

Find Silica of Value.

Silica is claimed to have produced remarkable effects in many cases of arteriosclerosis. French physicians report that sodium silicate, applied by mouth or injections into veins, has brought some bedridden patients back to active life, and relieved others of headache and dizziness, and lessened their insomnia.

HARD ROADS SAVE GASOLINE

They Also Result in Much Less Wear and Tear on Tires, Springs and General Comfort.

In tests recently made at Cleveland, O., a five-ton truck carrying a full load averaged 11.78 miles per gallon of gasoline over a concrete road and but 5.78 miles per gallon over an earth road in average condition.

The truck was tested over seven different kinds of highway. On the earth road the mileage per gallon of gasoline was as above noted, 5.78. On fair gravel, 7.19 miles per gallon; on good gravel, 8.39 miles; on fair macadam, 9.48 miles; on fair brick, 9.88 miles; on good brick, 11.44 miles, and on concrete, 11.78 miles per gallon of gasoline.

According to the above figures, for a man who drives his auto 8,000 miles during the year and assuming that 4,000 miles of the total will be over medium to poor roads, the balance over fair to good roads, the cost of gasoline would be $40 to $50 in excess of what it would be if all of the road was made of concrete.

Besides the extra expense for fuel, there would be a big saving on tires, springs, general wear and tear and comfort.

Cotton Plant Pest.

The moth known as Alabama argillacea, a serious pest of the cotton plant, is one of the most prolific of insects. In the Gulf States it produces at least seven generations annually, and in the end of the fourth generation the progeny of one moth, if they all survived, would amount to over 100,000,000,000 individuals. INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Pie Taste Causes Trouble

Last Friday night five young men of Boyne City, having heard that a number of delicious, scientifically built pies reposed peacefully in the domestic science room of the high school, could not, according to the complaint and warrant resist the temptation to sample them. They are charged with breaking into our "seat of learning" with a determination of purloining the culinary art pieces. However, their fleeing expedition was interrupted when the crash of a broken lock called teachers to the scene. Two of the boys spent the night in the local jail and all five are under arrest. Not being old offenders the publication of their names is suppressed.—Boyne Citizen.

Hunter Fined $50.00

Deputy Game Warden E. Duell and Charles Hicky arrested Pat Burke, Ben Allen and Bert Brooks near Watershed Ranch at Frederick for shooting a duck fawn. Allen and Brooks were acquitted, but Burke pleaded guilty, and drew a sentence of $50.00 fine and costs.

Tubers Stored at Elk Rapids

The Elk Rapids Co-operative Marketing association has taken in 21,000 bushels of potatoes and of that amount has shipped only 2,000 bushels, holding the remainder in storage. The association also has shipped three cars of stock, two cars of beans, one of rye, is holding another car of rye, likewise one of wheat, and has sold $1,000 worth of poultry.

Lights on Bicycles

An effort is being made in various towns and cities to enforce ordinances requiring the use of lights on bicycles. The state law, which presumably applies to bicycles as well as to other vehicles, would likewise be none the worse for a little enforcing. Not infrequently the motorist on a main cement highway, driving at high speed, sees a shadowy figure jump out of the darkness ahead of him, and has only just time to swerve before he passes a whole row of boys pedaling along lightless and silent, on their return from some holiday expedition. One may or may not like to run over boys, but even if he does he prefers not to have the exercise forced on him in this unexpected fashion.

Then All was Darkness

Waking at 2 a. m. a Fenton young man found himself without a light in a strange room, and after stumbling over seats and chairs, reached a lock-window where he yelled and pounded until some one came and let him out of the church where he had fallen asleep the day before. He had heard the minister say, "I take my text from the umph verse of the 'steenth chapter of—'" and then suddenly all was darkness.

STATE FARM BUREAU NOTES

The sample potatoes selected by County Agent Wing and sent to the International Potato Show won first in class and sweepstakes for the best peck in the show outside of Minnesota. The International includes all the United States and Canada. Some advertisement for Charlevoix county's greatest cash crop. Can we do it again next year?

Why not seed with alfalfa alone next year? Plenty of proof this year that alfalfa seedling will stand more adverse weather conditions than red clover. Alfalfa will do well on practically any of our soil if sowed in well prepared firm, clean seed bed absolutely free from June grass.

Certainly some of our farmers belong to a cow-testing association. The best butter-fat record made in the association this summer was by a cow owned by Elmer Ingalls, Charlevoix, 73.6 pounds in one month. The best milk record, 2,043 pounds in one month, made by a cow at the Breezy Point Farm. Sure a number will think they have cows that will beat these records, but have you the records to prove it? You will have if you get into the testing association work. A new year began December 1st, and there is an opportunity for a very few more to join. If you want to know about it, telephone County Agent Wing, Boyne City, at once. You won't have time to write. Cow-testing work takes work out and puts business into dairying.

Practically thirty-five hundred head of cattle have been tested for tuberculosis since the campaign started last May. The per cent of disease found is less than one and one-half. Have all the Farm Bureau members taken advantage of their opportunity?

Beekeepers' school will be held at Charlevoix, December 12-13 and at Boyne City December 16-17. Another opportunity for all interested in bees. Word from office of Director, Apiary Inspector says a complete inspection of all colonies in the county will be made next summer. Better attend one of the meetings and find out if your bees will pass inspection. State Director Kindig, will conduct the schools personally.

Charlevoix county is now represented in the certified potato seed industry of the state. Five growers have had their crop certified. We can grow the quality here as was proven at the International Potato Show. All we need is the men with the ambition to grow the best potatoes grown. Some have said, "Too much bother and red tape." Ask any of the men who grew the crop this year and they will tell you that there is nothing required that ought not to be done to insure a good commercial crop. The growers are: F. W. Dilworth, Boyne City; James Seccord, East Jordan; Enos Schafer, Phelps; Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix; and F. J. Bartholomew, Charlevoix. Regulations for next year require that the growers plant certified seed in addition to the other requirements. If you are interested in this crop, better secure your seed from one of the above growers before they are gone, or get in touch with your county agent.

FOOTBALL AS PLAYED BY BOYS

Two Red-hot Games Played by Local Teams Thursday

The boys of the Catholic school and a Protestant team played a game of football last Thursday afternoon, which resulted in the defeat of the former team by a score of 24 to 18.

Another team called St. Mary's eleven and the Lisle Beaudoin team played the same day, and the score stood 24 to 6 in favor of St. Mary's. We are publishing the scores as given by members of each team, but assume no responsibility in case of error. We understand that real old-fashioned football was played and no serious damage resulted to the players.

PRESIDENT MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

OF ALL ACTIVITIES DURING THE YEAR OF 1921

Officers Chosen to Carry on Work of Association of Commerce—in Good Financial Condition

The attendance at the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce, held in the Masonic Temple last Friday evening was above the average, and showed that our citizens were alive to the fact that through organization, a great deal of good could be accomplished.

A detailed report was read by President E. B. Ward, covering the activities of the association and its various committees, which was followed by reports from Secretary and Treasurer Robert Bridge, and assistant secretary, Miss Adeline Holley. The latter reports showed the amount of funds disbursed, dues collected, and other details. The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance to the credit of the association, with all indebtedness cancelled.

Representatives of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, both from Charlevoix and Boyne City, were present, and explained in full the proposition submitted by that body. Efforts have been made to make Charlevoix the termination point of the Chicago—Mackinac Island yacht race, which takes place each year in July. The race will be run from Chicago to Mackinac Island, thence from the Island to Charlevoix, where participants will take part in the annual regatta of the local association. This means that Charlevoix will be visited by at least fifty of the finest yachts on the great lakes. A banquet will be held here at the close of the race at which it is estimated at least 500 people will be present. The Association of Commerce was asked to aid in the raising of funds to the amount of $500.00 to make this event possible, and without doubt next season Charlevoix will witness the finals of one of the biggest events of this kind on the great lakes.

E. B. Ward was unanimously elected as president, to succeed himself, as were Dr. W. W. Mitchell and Chas. E. See as vice-presidents. P. D. Campbell was elected secretary and treasurer to succeed Robert Bridge who bank duties compelled him to relinquish this position.

The ladies of the O. E. S. served a fish supper, which made a hit with the members. The next regular meeting will be held the first Friday in February.

President Ward's report follows: To the Officers and Members of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce:

I feel it to be my duty to submit to you at this time a short report of the work of the past year, that due credit may be given those who have carried out of the work that fell to their lot, and the city received much benefit therefrom.

This association unlike the Associations of Commerce of our sister cities, does not employ a paid secretary, who can spend all his time and energy in behalf of his organization, but we must depend on the voluntary work accomplished by individuals. (Continued on page eleven.)

URGED TO BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

The dread white plague destroys 150,000 human lives every year in the United States. Tuberculosis spreads its darkening clouds over millions of people in this country alone. Many of these lives are made hopeless by the presence of poverty, for tuberculosis strikes hardest and most frequently in the homes of the poor. Their hopelessness, too often, is due to their helplessness.

In every community there are many victims of the disease in need of home care and instructions as to how they can cure themselves and protect others.

The organized fight against tuberculosis needs your aid. Will you help fight the white plague? It has been made very easy for you to aid in the battle.

The least you can do is to invest in Christmas seals, the money going to the public health nursing service, for the work of free dispensaries, and open air schools. Your money will go to aid human beings, who, more than any other need aid.

Put a Christmas seal on every letter, on every package. It is your Christmas gift to the victims of tuberculosis.

COUNTY AGENT WING RESIGNS POSITION

Charlevoix County Farm Bureau Accepts Resignation

The executive committee of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau at its meeting in Boyne City on Wednesday of last week, accepted the resignation of Agricultural Agent C. W. Wing, effective January 1st.

Mr. Wing and his family came to this county in April 1919 from Antrim county. They readily made friends and Mr. Wing proved himself an efficient agriculturalist, one who it will be difficult to replace. Mr. Wing is not ready to announce his plans for the future.

W. C. T. U. ADDS NEW MEMBERS

At Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. Swartz

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dan Swartz on Petoskey avenue, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong giving a very interesting account of the State Federation of Women's Clubs meeting in Grand Rapids.

Our Greetings In the Meaning of Christmas

IN THE true spirit of the occasion and with due appreciation of all it implies, we extend Christmas greetings to the readers of this publication. Christmas has a meaning possessed by no other holiday throughout the world: America has its national and special days, other countries have theirs; Christmas is the only one alike in spirit and celebrated in all Christian lands. So pure is its principle that it commands respect and admiration among people who worship their Creator in different ways from ours.

Christmas typifies all that is best in mankind. It is the culmination of the human mind throughout the ages dwelling upon the wonders and mysteries of existence, turning to a reverence for God and His representative on earth. It expresses the ascendancy of spirit, the realization of men of their interdependency and their duty to one another; and so it is marked by the bestowal of gifts and other sentiments of benevolence and well wishing.

The makers of newspapers, concerned as they are with the doings, manifestations and thoughts of their respective communities and the world at large, and recording them in their more important aspects for the information, mayhap the education of readers, are brought into an intimate sense of the spirit and meaning of Christmas. Would that we could express to you all the good that we see in the hearts of men and the increased brilliancy behind a few shadows of the light which has upheld the world for so many centuries. In the happy auguries we see for the future, there is every reason to be merry.

Our Yuletide thoughts go out to the people of this community and our thanks are due the patrons and kind friends who have given us practical support or extended encouragement during the year. May this be the best Christmas you have ever spent, is our wish to all.

CITY TO DRIVE A DEEP WELL

IN EFFORT TO SECURE PURE WATER SUPPLY

Council Determined to Furnish Citizens and Resorts With Pure Water at Whatever Cost

What would it be worth to Charlevoix if the result of driving a deep well would be the finding of a flowing well, or water supply adequate for all needs? How many people would then even question the purity of this most important and vital necessity? Just imagine being able to say to all "that our water supply is absolutely PURE. Send a sample of it anywhere you like for analysis, and as often as you want to, the one answer will 'absolutely pure and fit to drink.'"

The city council at its regular meeting Monday evening, ordered a test well to be driven near the municipal plant. Orders to the men in charge are to drive until an abundant supply is found, no matter how deep it will be necessary to go down.

And this is just what we have long been waiting for. Charlevoix must have a pure water supply, regardless of cost. Last season's experience and trouble must not happen again; or Charlevoix, as a resort, will be a thing of the past.

We must be able to say: "Come to Charlevoix where you will find pure air, pure water, plenty of electric power, and an ideal place to spend your summer," and say it with truthfulness. Pure water is the most essential thing we must have, and have it we will if it is to be found.

The power problem has been taken care of, and the condition and supply of water will be solved within a short time. We pledged this to our summer visitors last fall, and they left for their home with this understanding. And we will keep our word. Ask any member of the council regarding progress towards this end. The information you will receive will be dependable.

HAD BEEN ILL FOR PAST FIVE YEARS

Death Relieves Sufferings of Mary Mason Beattie

Mary Mason Beattie died at her home on Garfield avenue Monday morning, December 12th, from an illness lasting over the past five years.

Mary Eveline Mason, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Mason, Charlevoix pioneers, was born in Point Aux Barques, Mich., May 25, 1855, but moved to Charlevoix with her parents when two years of age and has since made her home here.

In 1893 she was united in marriage to Captain John Beattie, who died several years ago, and to this union a daughter Eliabeth, now Mrs. Ernest Nowland, was born, who survives her. Other survivors are three sisters, Mrs. John Ackert, Mrs. Julia Ackert, and Mrs. Judson Mnrkham all of Charlevoix and three brothers, A. E. Mason and Oscar Mason of this city and John Mason of Mercedes, Tex.

The funeral was held from the home on Garfield avenue Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Jas. A. Smith officiating. Interment in Brookside.

STORES READY FOR CHRISTMAS BUSINESS

Charlevoix business places are ready for the Christmas business, and many already report good Christmas sales.

The holiday spirit prevails in practically every business place and numerous window displays are being highly complimented.

Before this issue of the Courier reaches its readers the stores will be ablaze with Christmas colors and resplendent with Christmas gifts, ready for the great tide of holiday business.

It will be to the advantage of everyone if the people will make their selections now—early as possible. You will have a more complete line to select from, and aid greatly in lessening the mad rush of the last few days. Purchases will be stored and cared for until Christmas Eve when desired.

LOCAL K. OF P.'S VISIT EAST JORDAN

Enjoy Meeting Grand Lodge Officers and Supper

Over thirty members of Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, Knights of Pythias, visited the East Jordan K. of P. Lodge on Thursday evening of last week, and witnessed the first degree work put on by grand lodge officers in the auditorium at the new school building in that city.

After the meeting at the school house, a social session was held in the K. of P. Temple, followed by a supper and smoker.

East Jordan Pythians will visit the local lodge here on Thursday evening, and assist in giving the first degree work to a class of 15 or more new members.

WIVES ENTERTAIN THEIR HUSBANDS

Members of M. E. Missionary Society Meet at Church Parlors

The officers and members of the M. E. Missionary Society feel very pleased with their annual birthday gathering at which time they entertained their husbands. The tables were arranged in a square and decorated with cut flowers, when all were seated ninety-four persons were at the tables. The supper, sociability and program were all that could be desired.

The birthday offering was over twenty-three dollars. Then on Sunday Mrs. Quant, the queen of the parsonage gave a splendid thank offering address on the missionary work in the foreign lands and some of the home work. All were well pleased with the address and the speaker who has such a pleasing personality. In response to her question, "Does it pay?", the thank offering was thirty-nine dollars which will all go into the work of bringing souls to the Master.

At the two meetings the society secured fifteen new members.

Morris L. Wooley Dead
Died, on December 2nd, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. O. Davis, Toledo, O., Morris L. Wooley. Deceased was born February 28, 1859, and was 62 years, nine months and four days of age at the time of his death. Direct cause of death was cancer of the stomach. Mr. Wooley was a resident of Charlevoix a number of years, leaving here some ten years ago.

Annual Election of Officers

Leslie Shapton Post, American Legion will hold their annual election of officers on Monday evening of next week. Every member is urged to be present at this meeting and help choose the men who will head the organization the coming year.

Around the Christmas Tree

Furnished Flat to Let

By FREDERICK HART

Carlisle Henderson read the advertisement again. It seemed worth while investigating, even though he had followed up many promising trails only to find that they ended in disappointment. Still, this was what he wanted—if only it was like what it said it was.

"43th St., 14 West—completely furnished apartment; 3 rooms, bath, kitchen, elevator, telephone. All conveniences; $100. Sublet till October."

He clipped the scrap of paper from the journal in which he had found it, put it carefully in his wallet, and started out on the trail once more. For two weeks he had sought a place to live, and had found the various alluring advertisements smokes and delusions. Either they were not what he wanted, or else they charged enormous prices for ridiculously inadequate rooms. He had not much hope; but an inner urge prompted him to follow up this lead. It might be the thing—and the price was certainly low enough. Most of them wanted nearly double that sum for an unfurnished barn of a place.

The bus carried him up the avenue to the cross street he sought. He rang the bell and as the maidly vehicle slowed he swung expertly from the steps. A short walk westward brought him to the number.

From the outside the place looked bright and clean. Big windows, he noted approvingly; the apartments on the lower floors, which were occupied, showed glimpses of tastefully furnished rooms—not the green-plush and gilded oak horrors among which he had lived for so many weeks. He mounted the steps and rang the bell. A trim maid answered the bell. He produced the clipping.

"Two flights up," she said. "Just knock—apartment 24."

He climbed the stairs. They were white, deep-carpeted, quiet. The whole house breathed an air of refinement. And there was a three-room apartment here for rent at $100 a month! His mind instinctively took up suspicions. There must be something wrong with the place at that price. Perhaps there were conditions attached—certainly it couldn't be very nice. . . . Still he had come a long way, and there was no use in backing out now—he might as well see it. Another flight of stairs, and he was standing before apartment 24.

There was no card in the little holder, but a gleaming brass knocker invited use. He rapped tentatively. Footsteps sounded on the other side of the door, and in a moment the handle turned, and he was bade a cheerful "come in!"

The light of the room after the dimness of the hallway dazzled his eyes for a moment, and he could not make out the features of the girl who confronted him. He noted that she was small and slim, and dressed in a businesslike suit of dark material; then his eyes roved about the beautiful little apartment with its wicker furniture, its comfortable looking couch, the shaded electric lights. It was what he wanted, all right. . . . His eyes returned to the girl, and he saw that she was standing with her back against the wall, one hand clenched at her side, the other at her throat. He saw that her face was white—and then he saw that he knew her.

"Alice?" It was a mere whisper. The shock of surprise nearly stunned him. "Alice—you—how did you get here?"

"Carlisle, I—" The words came with difficulty. "I came last year. I—I've been painting—not very well, I'm afraid—" with a little nervous laugh. "At least, no one wants to buy my pictures. I had a little money, but it's nearly all gone, so I had to submit this paper. Did you see my advertisement in the paper?"

"Yes, I saw it—but—Alice—I—do you remember when I last saw you?" She looked away.

"Yes, I—I remember," she said at last.

"Well, I want to say—why didn't you answer my letters?"

"I—I don't know. I was hurt, Carlisle—hurt and proud. Oh, I was wicked not to write! I know it now. And then you stopped writing, and I couldn't stand it any longer. And I came here to work—and to forget. And now you come here!"

"Alice—Alice, dear, I want to ask your pardon for the things I said and did that night."

With a little cry she flung herself into his arms.

"Oh, Carlisle, Carlisle, it's I who should ask pardon. I was wrong—hopelessly, bitterly wrong—and I see it now. I saw it months ago, but I couldn't bring myself to write. And then you changed your address, and I couldn't find you again. And I was so miserable. Carlisle, dear, won't you kiss me and say that it's all right?"

"Alice, it never was anything but all right. I've found you now and I don't intend to let you go. Let's let bygones be bygones, and not think any more of that bad old time. You're mine now, and you'll never get away again."

There was silence for a moment. Then she raised her head from his arms.

"You're not going to leave me?"

"Never! You must keep this apartment. By the way, how did you come to advertise it at such a crazy price? It's worth twice that, furnished as it is."

She blushed. "I'll confess. I didn't know where you were and I couldn't find your address, but I met a girl the other day who said she knew you were hunting for a place to live, so I advertised at such a price that I was sure you'd come to investigate. I've had that ad in all the papers for a week, and I've had the most fearful time telling everybody who came that the place was taken. But I was sure you'd come."

A rap at the door interrupted them. Alice opened and admitted a large man who puffed from his stair-climbing exertions.

"I see you've got a place to sublet," he began; "can I look at it?"

Before Alice could answer Carlisle stepped forward.

"I'm sorry, sir," he said. "The place is taken."

HOME MADE

"Making many Christmas presents this year?"

"Yes. It's much cheaper than buying them."

Chain Bracelet Gifts.

Such a gay, trifling, and sure-to-be-liked gift for a young school girl would be a very fine chain bracelet of white gold. It must be as fine as to be a mere thread, and from it should swing several of the little Parisian novelty animals in gold or enamel. For the girl who dances, there's a dainty little French diamond-shaped bag of black velvet or brocade which is extremely new. Inside are tucked a wee mirror, powder puff and lip stick and a miniature change purse.

The Things Us Men Folks Like To Get

It ain't the biggest things that puts most comfort in yo' soul.
An' it ain't the weight of money bags that makes this old world roll.
I'd a heap more value to a word kind-spoke and fair,
Than to all the gold and glitter of the crown I couldn't wear.

An' when Christmas time comes round again with all its joy and cheer,
The things us men folks like to get the most ain't always dear—
For their cost don't make much difference, cause you measure love and thot
In a gift, not by its price tag, but the pleasure that it brought.

Don't hesitate, come in today and buy that box of cigars, that pipe, or tobacco for his Christmas.

Say Boys, you might want to buy her a nice box of chocolates for her Christmas, if you do, just remember we have a good assortment of fresh box candy just the kind she will like.

THIS THING OF GIVING

"I do not understand it, any more than do you, but there is something about this thing of giving that blesses us.

"No man has ever impoverished himself by giving. It cannot be done.
Those who give most, have most left.
No man has ever died poor because of that which he gave away. No one has ever gone hungry after giving away his bread; some way, somewhere, bread has been provided for him.

"Misery is upon the war-torn world as it never was before. What is almost universal in the countries that have been ravished. They call to us from every quarter of the earth for help. They cry aloud, or moan in tone subdued. The grim and famished, the lean and weary, the sick and wounded—they hold their outstretched, empty hands toward us, and beg for help. And we,
of all the people in the world are in a position to relieve them.

"I believe that every one who gives a penny will get it back a hundredfold. I believe that every one who dries a tear with his assistance will be spared the shedding of a thousand tears. I believe that every sacrifice we make will so enrich us in the future that our regret will be we did not sacrifice the more. This thing of giving! A glorious privilege it is. How meaningless now is money that is hoarded. How hateful to himself and to his fellows is he who does not answer to the call for aid.

Give—and in the giving live the life
a human being is entitled to enjoy.
Give—and let no thought of sorrow abide with you because you did not give. Give—and somewhere, from out the clouds, or from the sacred depths of human hearts, a melody divine will reach your ears, and gladden all your days upon earth."

CARE OF TIRES DURING WINTER

What to Do When You Lay Your Car Up

If you are going to put your car away for the winter, there are a few important rules to follow if you want to find your tires in good condition when springtime comes again, says the United States Tire Company.

The tires should be cleaned thoroughly to remove oil and grease. If you want to be especially kind to your tires, remove them from the car, deflate them, wrap them up in paper or cloth and store them in a cool, dry place away from the sunlight.

If you do not want to go to the trouble of removing the tires, jack up the car, deflate the tires, and wrap them in covers of paper or cloth. Do not let the car stand on the tires all winter or you will need a new set of tires in the spring.

It is essential that tires be deflated. In cold weather an inflated tire has a tendency to "set," a condition under which the rubber is likely to break if bent or twisted out of the position or shape in which it has stood for a length of time.

MARRIED THURSDAY

Newlyweds Will Spend the Winter in Florida

News of the marriage of Miss Katherine Mobio, former stenographer at the office of the county clerk, to Alfred C. Raymond of East Jordan, in that city, Thursday morning, December 8th, comes as a surprise to her many Charlevoix friends.
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond expect to leave in a short time for St. Petersburg, Fla., for the winter.

THAT BAD BACK

Do you have a dull, steady ache in the small of the back—sharp, stabbing twinges when stooping or lifting—distressing urinary disorders?
For bad back and weakened kidneys
Charlevoix residents recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Charlevoix woman's statement:

Mrs. John Weideman, 707 Bridge
St., says: "I suffered awfully with my back; it was stiff and lame. The irregular action of my kidneys had me down. I purchased a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills at Hines and Doan's Drug Store and they cured me.

EAST JORDAN BANKER GOES TO JACKSON

Has Accepted Position as Cashier of National Union Bank

R. O. Bisbee, for many years connected with the People's State Savings Bank of East Jordan, has accepted the position as cashier of the National Union Bank of Jackson, Mich., and will assume his duties with the beginning of the new year.

Mr. Bisbee, however, will retain the vice-presidency of the East Jordan bank, as well as his other banking interests in Charlevoix, Emmet, and Mackinac Island. This change will establish a city connection for the East Jordan bank, which will prove an immense advantage.

Roscoe Mackey, who has been a director of the bank at East Jordan for the past two years will now become actively identified with the organization and will act as field man for the different banks. Mr. Mackey's business ability is well known and his judgment and experience will make him a valuable addition to the system.

Mr. Bisbee will keep his home in East Jordan which will be occupied by the family during the summer months.

STUDY CLUB HOLDS ENJOYABLE MEETING

Program One of the Special Features of the Afternoon

The Shakespeare Study Club met
Monday at the home of Mrs. H. S.
Marsha on State street to close the business of the quarter. The special feature of the afternoon was a review of the brilliant comedy of errors—"Mr. Pim Pass By," given by Mrs. Robert Bridge, and was followed by a letter from a personal friend of Mrs. Bridge's, Phyllis Povall, who acted in the original production of the comedy. The 20th Century Theatre was also reviewed in connection with the reading.

MEETS FRIDAY WITH MRS. BAILEY

Regular December Meeting of Historical Society

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet with Mrs. C. E. Bailey on Friday evening, December 16th.

A program has been arranged as follows:

Music, Christmas Carols, by a quartet.

Paper, "The Wild Life of Michigan," by Arthur Fitch.

Social intermission.

Music by a quartet.

Reading, Mrs. Harry Nicholls.

Pleasant Surprise Party

Friday evening, December 9th, a very pleasant surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.
H. Saunders, near Ironton, it being the 19th birthday anniversary of their son, Mark. The evening was spent in card playing and music after which a midnight lunch was served.

Spend Afternoon Sewing

Ten friends and neighbors surprised Mrs. Louise Ulrich, Thursday,
December 8th, at her home on W.
Hurlbut street. A pot luck dinner was served at noon the remainder of the day being spent in sewing for Mrs. Ulrich, who on account of a long illness has been unable to use one hand.

Showers of Toads and Fish.

It is on record that toads and small fish have fallen from the clouds. Such occurrences have been explained by the supposition that the animals were taken up in violent whirlwinds and perhaps transported a considerable distance before they were dropped to the earth.

Notice to Taxpayers

I will be at the Charlevoix County Bank, Saturday, December 31st and Saturday, January 1st from 10 a.
m. to 2:30 p. m. to receive taxes.

Mrs. Cornelia Rodgers,
Treas. Charlevoix Township.

WHAT TO BUY

Where Do You Do Better?

We ask you this question: "Where do you do better when making your daily household purchases?" Day in and day out, you find our prices average as good or less than those of the average merchant. We do not claim to be the cheapest place in the city to trade, nor do we admit we are high priced. But we do say our prices will run below the general average of Charlevoix meat markets and grocery stores.

Christmas will soon be here. You are now planning what to serve at that Christmas dinner. We ask you to remember that we will have everything you need in its preparation.

SELECTION OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Stocks Displayed Should Make Shopping an Easy Matter

The leading question among all just now is "what to buy and where to buy it." Charlevoix stores are well supplied with merchandise of all kinds, many having on display special offerings for the Christmas trade.

Among these are C. R. Bellinger, Charlevoix's pioneer jeweler. While his stock may not be as large as that of stores in nearby cities, the values are there, and the buying of jewelry of Mr. Bellinger is about as safe as investing in government bonds, as far as value is concerned.

Mr. Bellinger has been in the jewelry business in Charlevoix for many years, and during this time has acquired a reputation for selling only those makes which he knows will give satisfaction. The purchase of gifts in the jewelry line is a safe bet if guaranteed by the Pioneer Jeweler.

To the Taxpayers of Charlevoix: Notice is hereby given that the December 1921 Tax Roll of the City of Charlevoix has been delivered to me and that the taxes therein levied are payable at my office at any time on or before the 9th day of January 1922 without charge for collection. On all taxes remaining unpaid after the 9th day of January a collection fee of 4 cents on the dollar will be charged.

CARING FOR GROWING CHICKS

Essentials to Best Growth Are Good Coops, Cleanliness, Feed, Water and Free Range.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The care of growing chicks, especially during warm weather, is most important, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Every boy or girl member of a poultry club should give them the best of attention if success is to be had. The baby chicks may be smart little fellows from strong vigorous parent stock, but they may have been brooded carefully for the first two or three weeks but unless they receive proper care and management during their later growing period they will not develop properly, and many of them will be lost through disease or sickness. The chief essentials to proper growth are good coops or houses, cleanliness, proper feed and water, shade, and free range.

Every coop or poultry house used for growing chicks should be kept clean at all times. Sickness or disease starts usually in unclean quarters, and in such places lice and mites are always more plentiful. Coops and houses should be cleaned and sprayed once a week, and clean shavings, chaff, or sand put on the floor. Examine the chicks and houses often for lice and mites, and if found they should be got rid of at once by following the directions in Department Circular 16, Lice, Mites and Cleanliness, which may be had, free, upon application to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture.

A variety of feeds, with fresh, clean water, is necessary if chicks are to grow properly. Perhaps the three most necessary for rapid growth are grain feed, green feed and dry mash. Poultry specialists of the department say that in addition to the green feed and dry mash, which should be provided regularly, a grain mixture should be fed night and morning, giving as large a quantity as the chicks will eat clean, but no more. A good grain mixture for growing chicks consists of three parts cracked corn, two parts wheat and two parts hulls or oats. When available, kafir or rolled or hulls barley may be substituted for hulls oats. In localities where hulls oats, kafir, or rolled barley can not be obtained, or are too expensive, a mixture of cracked corn and wheat only may be fed until the chicks are old enough to eat whole oats, when two parts may be added to the corn and wheat mixture.

A reasonable supply of fresh green feed is almost as necessary as grain for growing chicks. If allowed liberty they will get much of it for themselves, but if confined, or if in quarters where green feed is not abundant it should be supplied regularly. Lawn grass, beet tops, cabbage and lettuce are excellent feeds. When chicks are confined to brood coops with runs, they should be placed on ground where the grass is green and tender, and as fast as it is eaten off, the coop and run should be moved to a place where the grass is plentiful.

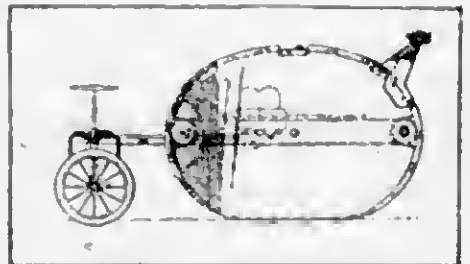

In addition to green feeds and grain dry mash should be kept before growing chicks at all times after they are three or four weeks old. It is best to feed it in a hopper inside the building, or where it will not be exposed to rain or wet. Here is a good dry mash mixture: Two pounds corn meal, two pounds middlings, one pound oatmeal, two pounds wheat bran, one pound beef scrap and one fourth pound charcoal. Grit and oyster shell also should be provided.

Davil's Food Cake.

Beat to a cream five level tablespoonfuls of butter and one cupful and a quarter of sugar. Add 3/4 squares of unmelted chocolate, three unbeaten eggs and one teaspoonful of vanilla and beat together until smooth. Stir 3 1/2 level teaspoonfuls of baking powder with one-half cupful of flour and stir in with the butter, sugar and egg mixture. Then add alternately milk and flour until you have used three-quarters of a cupful of milk and one cupful of sifted pastry flour. Beat smooth and bake in a loaf in a moderate oven. Pastry flour is always better for cake than bread flour.

OLD AND NEW CHRISTMAS DAY

Nobody Has Been Able to Decide Whether January 6 or December 25 Is Correct Date.

CHRISTMAS day seems wedded to December 25. A summer or a springtime Christmas, with no holly, no mistletoe, no frost, no snow, would not be the real thing at all, observes London Answers.

The majority of our beautiful Christmas carols, too, redolent as they are of the winter—"Sung Amid the Winter's Snow"—would be hopelessly incongruous. Emigrants to Australia from the mother country have confessed that it has taken them many years before they could get in any way used to what is practically a mid-summer Christmas.

Yet December 25 is merely an accommodation date for the birthday of Christ—Christmas day. The year, too, is wrong. Most people would take it for granted that Christ was born in A. D. 1—literally, of course, the year of our Lord, No. 1.

But our chronology is four years out. This should be 1025 and not 1021, because Christmas day could not, on indisputable historical testimony, have been later than February B. C. 4!

That settles the year of the first Christmas, but all attempts to fix the actual day and month of Christmas have failed.

And, as regards the present date, Christmas, like Easter, took some centuries before a settlement was arrived at. In the first centuries of Christianity several important Eastern churches observed January 6 as Christmas day. The Armenian Christians do so still.

Gradually, however, uniformity was attained, but not before the fifth century. In that connection it must be remembered that for quite a long period this country was divided on the question of Christmas. Some people persisted in observing "old" Christmas day.

But all will agree that December 25, even if it is not the actual date of Christ's birth, is a happy choice. Our present day Christmas, festival and holiday, breaks the long winter, and what better time could there be for family reunion? The cold and unpleasantness outside makes it all the more agreeable to keep warm and snug inside. It keeps us together in every sense.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE CUSTOM

Use of the Young Evergreens Is Regarded More as a Matter of Sentiment, Not of Economics.

VERY few years some mathematical calculator figures out that this country would be several millions richer if, as a nation, we abolished the custom of the Christmas tree. Yes, in actual dollars and cents, the custom of our natural resources the United States probably would be more wealthy for the continued growth of the evergreens. However, we believe no better return ever came from trees than the true joy which all mankind gets from Christmas trees at this the greatest of all holiday seasons.

Nearly 5,000,000 young evergreens go upon the Christmas-tree market each year, 1,500,000 in New York and the New England states alone, and it is an easy matter for an enthusiast who is quick with the pencil to figure up the waste in our natural resources by the annual loss of this embryo timber. The economic consideration is not entirely indefensible, for in the Northeastern states particularly a big proportion of the trees come from pasture land or that which would be cleared in the ordinary course of improvement. Later, these trees would be cut anyway. Of course, wholesale destruction over watershed areas should be discouraged as in any forestry activity, but it must be remembered that the Christmas-tree custom is one of sentiment, not of economics.—American Agriculturist.

Honey Drop Cakes.

One cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of honey, one-half cupful of shortening, four eggs, two cupfuls of milk, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla, one-half teaspoonful of salt, four cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cream the honey, sugar and shortening together; add well-beaten eggs and vanilla; sift dry ingredients and add alternating with the milk. Mix well; bake in greased muffin tins. These are good if flavored with chocolate, using four squares of baking chocolate or ten tablespoonfuls of coco for this large recipe. They are good indeed.

Christmas.

If we were to fancy a wholly Christianized world, it would be a world inspired by the spirit of Christmas—a bright, friendly, beneficent, generous, sympathetic, mutually helpful world. Let us cling to Christmas all the more as a day of the spirit which in every age some souls have believed to be the possible spirit of human society.—George William Curtis.

DAIRY FACTS

DISPOSING OF MILK SURPLUS

Conditions Likely to Exist in Well-Developed Dairy Districts During Summer.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

For the first time since the beginning of the World War there is developing in this country a surplus of milk, according to reports recently received by the United States Department of Agriculture. Specialists of the department state that this condition probably will be only temporary during the "flush" of the season, and that it is most apparent in well-developed dairy districts. It may continue during the summer months, but is expected to adjust itself by fall, when demand will overtake the surplus of supply. The situation is largely due to the falling off in the demand for milk in the manufacture of condensed products, milk powders, casein, and similar products, for which there was a large export outlet.

The department points out the advisability of using as much milk as possible, in fluid form and otherwise, as a human food. Within the last generation an increased knowledge of the value of milk in the diet has resulted in an almost doubled per capita consumption of milk, and consumers who purchase milk freely thereby encourage production. This is believed to be the best safeguard against a milk shortage and high prices resulting from the withdrawal of dairymen from the business during periods of large production and low farm prices for milk.

But when the limit of human utilization is reached dairy producers necessarily must decide how to dispose of the remainder. In many cases this will be a decision between selling whole milk, selling cream, or even to use a moderate quantity of whole milk for feeding, especially to young animals. In any event, a more liberal use of milk on farms should reduce the surplus, even though not solving the problem entirely.

As a guide to persons deciding to utilize surplus milk as a live stock feed, the department makes the following recommendations, which may be supplemented with literature issued by the department.

Milk from a dairy herd which is not deliberately known to be free from tuberculosis should be scalded before being fed. A dry feed cooker is a practical means for scalding milk. This process is approximately equivalent to a period of two weeks, and at the end of that time to change gradually to an equal amount of skim milk. The skim milk should be gradually increased as the calf grows until about 15 pounds per day is fed at the end of three months. Feed the milk warm and regulate the quantity according to size and vigor of the calf.

For pigs three weeks old or more, three parts of skim milk mixed with one part of shorts, is useful in keeping them growing. Skim milk may be fed with corn and other hog feeds in various practical combinations.

To poultry feeding both skim milk and buttermilk are excellent feeds, and can now also be purchased as a nonperishable commercial feed, which is sold in large barrels as semisolid buttermilk. Skim milk and buttermilk may be fed alone or mixed with other feeds, but feeders should observe their flocks carefully to avoid giving too much milk, or bowel trouble may result. This is caused principally by birds eating spoiled clabbered milk remaining from a previous feeding.

While to live stock owners numerous reasons for the use of milk as a stock feed it may appear somewhat expensive, there are advantages which milk feeders quickly recognize. In addition to utilizing the surplus milk that would otherwise be wasted, young stock generally make a very rapid growth. This means early maturity and early usefulness, compared with stock that have developed more slowly. At least as a temporary measure there is a real opportunity to improve farm live stock, in addition to relieving a local milk surplus, by using skim milk rather liberally in proper combination with other feeds.

FACTORS IN PRODUCING MILK

Series of Studies Conducted by Department of Agriculture in Western States.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

What does it cost to produce milk? This is the question that has brought increasing concern to each dairyman. In answer to it, the United States Department of Agriculture, through the dairy division, conducted a series of studies to give dairymen reliable information on this subject. These studies were begun in 1915, but the most recent upon which any data have been published was begun in 1917, in Skagit county, Washington, about 50 miles north of Seattle. The report of this study is contained in Department Bulletin 919, "Unit Requirements for Producing Milk in Western Washington."

A study of the results given in the bulletin shows that at the time of the study 56.4 per cent of the total cost of producing milk at the dairies investigated was for feed and bedding, 23.5 per cent for labor, 15.6 per cent for other costs, and 2.5 per cent for depreciation. The requirements for other costs, $9.750. During the summer, milk could be produced at much less cost, there being required a comparatively small amount of concentrates.

During the two years covered by the study, 44.5 per cent of each year's income from milk was obtained during the winter. During the first year records were obtained on 17 herds having an average size of 31.3 cows, with an average annual production of 7,333 pounds of 3.74 per cent milk per cow. During the second year 18 herds, 15 of which had been in the first year's work, had an average of 28.6 cows and produced an average of 8,323 pounds of 3.53 per cent milk per cow. From each 100 cows in the herds during the two years, 55 freshened during the winter six-months period, and 42 during the summer season, while three cows did not calve during the year. Nearly one-half of the cows freshening dropped their calves during the months from February to May, inclusive.

Most of the milk in this section is sold for condensing purposes, and is delivered by motor truck to large condenseries. All the herds selected for study were representative of dairy conditions found in that section.

In western Washington the pasture plays a very important part in milk production, according to the findings. With cool weather throughout most of the summer, plenty of moisture, and a rich soil, there is abundant pasture available in the fall. During the pastures season almost 60 per cent of the milk for the year was produced, and at one-third of the yearly feed, bedding, and pasture cost. The annual pasture charge per cow amounted to 1.1 acres or $23.01. Such items as veterinary fees, medicine, disinfectants, and other items, amounted to $1.45 per cow per year. It was found that the number of hours required to care for a cow did not differ materially between the summer and winter seasons. However, due to the increased flow of milk in summer, the time required to produce 100 pounds of milk in that season was materially less in summer than in winter.

ENCOURAGE FENCE JUMPERS

Dilapidated Fencing Is Source of Constant Trouble for Owner of Dairy Herd.

Half broken down fences help to teach the cow to be fence jumpers. Herds that are constantly jumping the fences in easy places are difficult to break in later life and nothing is more wasteful of time and patience than constantly chasing your cattle out of your neighbor's crops or your own. Good fencing is necessary equipment for the dairyman and poor fencing is a constant risk.

ISLANDERS MAY LOSE MILLIONS

MACKINAC ISLAND PROPERTY DISPUTE IN COURTS

Park Commissioner Contends That Strip of Land Along Water Front Belongs to State

Nearly one million dollars worth of property on Mackinac Island, upon which is situated more than 50 buildings, some of them mercantile and some resort, is involved in a suit now pending in the Ingham county circuit court, brought by the Mackinac Island park commission to oust the present tenants from the land, which, it is claimed, belongs to the state.

The history of America, dating back to 1796, when Mackinac Island was given to the United States by England in the Jay treaty of that year, will come up during the hearing. A motion to dismiss the suit has been set for a hearing December 20th.

Mackinac Island first belonged to the French. It was made into a fortress and colonial troops were quartered there. England took the island from France and after ceding it to the United States reoccupied it during the war of 1812. In 1816 the island again came into possession of America.

During the many transfers of the island a large number of early settlers squatted in the vicinity of the military post on the land on the south side of the island facing Mackinaw City. After the island came into possession of the United States in 1816, the government surveyed the holdings of the squatters, issuing them a patent for the land, but reserving a strip 100 feet wide along the water for a roadway.

The roadway eventually was established. A small strip remained between it and the lake. The property owners began using this land. The rolling waves added to the beach in some instances and in others the land was extended by the driving of piling and filling in with earth. After many years a considerable strip of land was created and built upon. It is this land that the park commission now is trying to gain possession of, the island including the old military reservation, having come into possession of the state in 1895, to be used as a state park.

The present holders of the property are claiming title to the land in the old patent grants and by adverse possession.

In preparing the case for trial it has been found that the old parade ground at the fort, consisting of about four acres, upon which the soldiers of three nations drilled, has been plowed up. It is being used for the growing of potatoes with the exception of one year, when it was grown to alfalfa.

Just who is responsible for this desecration of the historic ground no one seems to know. While there are more than 1,000 acres of land on the island the old parade ground seems to have been singled out by some employee of the park commission and instead of standing as a memorial to the soldiers of three nations, it is now used to grow crops. This condition has been called to the attention of the commission and it is probable that next spring work of putting it back in its original shape will be taken up.

An old Michigan veteran who has resided on the island for many years and who himself drilled on this historic parade ground, cried while in Lansing last week in relating the use to which it is now being put.

LOCAL FREIGHT CAR BURGLARIZED

Between Ludington and Traverse City—Merchandise Stolen

Somewhere between Ludington and Traverse City, a Pere Marquette freight car was entered by thieves and a quantity of merchandise stolen, among which was a goodly number of shoes for the Campbell Boot Shop of this city.

Merchandise was scattered all over the car floor and cartons mutilated badly. The shoes that were left by the thieves were scattered around the car, but Mr. Campbell states they were practically uninjured. They were all men's and boys' work and school shoes of the solid leather type.

No trace of the men or boys who pulled the job has been found, but it is hoped that the railroad detectives will be able to apprehend them before long.

CANTALOUPE OF FINEST QUALITY

Early Picking Is Reason Given for Melons Reaching Market in Inferior Condition.

AVOID BRUISING IN PACKING

Load Immediately in Iced Refrigerator Cars and Furnish Ample Ventilation—Floor Racks Are Also Recommended.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Fully 10 per cent of the cantaloupes produced in the western states reach the consumer so green that they are practically worthless for food. If only 1 per cent were picked and shipped unripe it would mean transporting and marketing more than 40,000 crates, for more than 20,000 carloads—or four-fifths of the production of the United States—are harvested in Colorado,
New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, and California, and shipped on a six to twelve-day journey to middle western and eastern markets.

During three recent shipping seasons specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture conducted investigations in the western producing sections and chief eastern consuming centers, in order to determine the most satisfactory methods of handling cantaloupes for long-distance shipments. It was found that too early picking was one of the chief reasons why melons reached the market in an inferior, tasteless condition.

When to Pick Melons.

Green melons have a depressing effect on both demand and prices.
While it is necessary that they be picked before they are entirely ripe, in order to provide the essential keeping qualities in transit, they may be picked at a stage of maturity that will afford good flavor as well as keeping quality when they reach consumers.
Cantaloupes should be picked just after they will slip cleanly from the stem; that is, at the full-slip stage of maturity.

If properly handled and promptly loaded they will carry in satisfactory condition, even to long-distance markets. Allowance must be made, however, for a certain amount of rough eating quality, but in carrying quality.

The keeping and carrying qualities of cantaloupes are directly dependent on the care exercised to prevent mechanical injuries in harvesting and preparation for shipment.

Use Care in Packing.

During the operation of packing, melons should be placed carefully in the crates, and not dropped or tossed into place, as is frequently done. Injury caused by squeezing can be prevented if packers are careful not to force in over-sized melons when finishing the crates.

The reduction of serious market losses from over-ripe and decayed melons is dependent to a large extent upon the promptness with which they are placed under refrigeration. They should be loaded immediately in iced refrigerator cars, and, while being hailed from packing shed to the car-loading platform, should be covered to protect them from the sun.

Cantaloupes should preferably not be wrapped. They do not refrigerate so well in transit nor do they reach the consumer in so good condition as unwrapped melons. Loading different types of packages may obstruct air circulation and thus seriously retard refrigeration. In cars equipped with these racks, as well as basket bun-ders, salt may be effectively employed to hasten refrigeration. The ability of refrigerator cars to cool melon shipments quickly and to maintain desirable temperatures in transit depends directly upon proper bunker and bulkhead construction, and upon the quantity and quality of the insulating material used.

MOLTING PERIOD IS TRYING

Feathers That Must Be Made Are Rich in Nitrogenous Substance—
Coated With Oil.

Many owners of hens think that because the hens are not laying during the molting period, they do not need feed. This period is harder on a hen than heavy laying for the feathers that must be made are rich in nitrogenous substances and are coated with an oil.

Does Your Home Receive a Christmas Gift?

Many homes have adopted the custom of a Christmas Gift to be given by members of the home. There is no more welcome gift than a bedroom suite, a fine table, a desk, a sofa, a beautiful rug, or a HOOSIER KITCHEN CABINET. A "house gift" of this character is an expression of good will and at the same time a practical benefit to each member of the family as well as to the home as a whole. We want to show you our splendid stocks of appropriate gifts—gifts at all prices. You will be surprised at their variety and how they differ from the usual Christmas Gifts.

Buy the Home a New Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet

The reason there are more Hoosiers in use than any other Kitchen Cabinet is because every detail of this great kitchen convenience has been carefully developed for the sole purpose of making woman's work easy.

Just the one detail pictured above—the Hoosier tool compartment tray, illustrates the thoroughness with which every Hoosier improvement has been worked out. The tray is provided with a separate compartment for each kitchen tool, and if you desire, it will be completely outfitted with the ten kitchen tools most frequently required, at an additional cost of but $2.50 above the price of the cabinet you choose. The regular price of the Kitchen Set is $7.50.

Come in and let us show you our complete line of Hoosier porcelain tables cabinets and other pieces of furniture suitable for Christmas Gifts.

ual members, often at great inconvenience to themselves and their business.

In the early part of this year, at which time the necessary advertising matter should have been prepared, the question of available funds to finance their publication was a grave one for the executive committee to wrestle with, and when the matter was finally brought to a settlement so much of the season had elapsed that it was impossible to prepare any suitable advertising for use during the season of 1921. This has been a serious hindrance in the campaign of advertising, and should be remedied before another year.

Early in the year the matter of the Hotel Michigan remaining vacant another year, was referred to the industries committee with a request to use their best efforts to secure a purchaser and encourage the opening of this much needed hotel, and the results of their work was very satisfactory to all.

The need of an office where supplies and material belonging to the association could be kept, claimed our attention in the early part of the year, and to meet this need an office was rented for one year for the sum of $156.00 which was the same rent that was paid for the three summer months of 1920. Arrangements were made with Miss Holley to occupy this room and do the work of assistant secretary in charge of an information bureau under the agreement that she should do the work of the association, and have the use of a portion of the room for her goods in return.

This arrangement has enabled us to get our office cared for this year at a very reasonable cost.

A number of projects were brought to the attention of the association and referred to the committees to which those subjects belonged, and received proper attention. Some of those on investigation were not deemed to be to the best interests of the city and were abandoned, while some were even to be found of such a nature that they might become a menace to the future welfare of the town and it was just as essential to safeguard the city against this class of projects, as it is to encourage and secure the desirable ones.

Through the effort of the various committees it has been possible to secure a tourist camp, a visit and entertainment of the Shriners, the presence of the Roseworth airplane, the visit and demonstration of the flying boat Santa Maria, and many other things which have added greatly to the pleasure of our people and has been all done at a small outlay financially.

The work of the coming year should produce much greater results as our organization is becoming a better working force each year, and capable of doing greater things for Charlevoix.

In a general way, the coming year should be dedicated to the betterment of Charlevoix, making it a better home for our citizens, for they should receive the first consideration, and then, encourage the bringing about the most favorable conditions to welcome and make permanent the visit of the summer tourist and a live town always appeals to them.

This condition can only be brought about by the united effort of all our people, working together for the best interests and the lasting welfare of Charlevoix-the-Beautiful.

day in Charlevoix and will preach at 10:30 and at 7:00 p. m.

The Sunday school convenes at 12 o'clock. A fine Christmas program is being prepared entitled, "It shall be to all people."

The Y. P. S. C. E. will meet at 6 o'clock. Topic, "Conscience." Leader, Miss Jean Swinton.

The women of the church will hold their missionary meeting on Friday afternoon, December 16th at the home of Mrs. Horace Fowler. A paper on "Community Leadership," prepared by Mrs. E. E. Cross will be read. The secretary and treasurer will give their annual reports and committees will be named and plan of work outlined for 1922.

The new pastor, Rev. C. W. Long, expects to begin his work here on Sunday, January 1st.

DRIFTWOOD

Merry Christmas, folks! Have you spent your last sou?

It will be appropriately described at our house as a "skim-milk Christmas."

We include in our greetings some nice Charlevoix people who are as easy to meet as the Sultan of Timbuctoo.

The wife feels repaid for her efforts when Billy (rude boy) scrapes his plate and declares with sparkling eyes: "Some pie!"

Old Lake Michigan is playing a doleful ditty these days, but we doubt if it will be able to drown the reverberations that are sure to follow when 25 gallons of home brew "take a." Down in Kansas they'd have a little cyclone insurance on this mixture.

The slave on the auction block Saturday night caused one youngster to exclaim: "What is it?" This innocent query started a sophisticated titter from the blasé knickerbocker squad down in front.

The show as a whole was very good May McAvoy, very pretty, was entirely too innocent as a boarding school girl, and her young lover not very convincing. But the other parts were excellent, the settings luxurious and the photography fine.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The thank offering of last Sunday was a total of $40.00 and ten new members were added to the missionary list.

The sermon for Sunday morning is from the text: "He himself knew what he would do." John 6:8. Christ is the living supply for our food, for our instruction, for our vocational leading, for our progress, for our comfort and for our eternal interests. Come to church Sunday morning and hear about it.

You will find a hearty welcome at the Sunday school. The lesson is entitled, "Paul's Last Words." Few men of any age fought the odds Paul did and at the end of life could say, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." And wasn't it splendid of him to include us? For he said: "There is laid up for me a crown of righteousness and not unto me only but unto all those also that love his appearing."

Epworthians are called to the 6 p. m. service. Fine crowd last Sunday. The leader will begin the discussion: "The Ten Commandments in the light of today." These ten commandments are the basis of today's law and Jesus added one other, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

At 7:00 p. m. we will continue our study of the Bible. This theme is, "The Rhetorical View." We would appreciate the presence of the school teachers, the school board, the high school students and the literary clubs. We will think of this great book from its literary value, in figures of speech in its value to the English language, in its masterpieces and from what great men have said about it. Have you a bible? Do you read it?

The Christmas exercises for the kiddies will be in the afternoon of Friday, December 23rd. It will have the nature of a Christmas party with a tree and pretty colors, Santa Claus etc. The older boys and girls and adults will get theirs in the evening.

Guage your gift making by the need of the world and not by what you may receive. The "White Gift" of our church asks that all Sunday schools make their gifts to the needy children. The offering of this year will not be teachers in classes and classes to the needy children of the world. Our particular wards are in France, where our Eculli Orphanage was recently destroyed by fire and is awaiting our help in rebuilding; in Naples, where we provide for the work in Signor Sante's orphanage; in Trent in our Cesare Battisti School for the children of Italian patriots, and in Vienna, where many of our Methodist children are hungry because of the conditions of destitution among them. We must remember all of these in our Christmas giving.

HIS REAL NAME

Young January being poor wears nothing but his skin, While February in a robe of ermine rare comes in. March shivers in a worn brown cloak, and April, frail and fair, Is folded in a rainbow scarf with snowdrops in her hair. May dons the apple blossom's pink and June the rose's red, July in faded overalls picks cherries for his bread, And August treads the sunny fields a stately Indian queen. Appareled like the standing corn in silken gold and green. September, garbed in purple, bears a basket piled with grapes, Dark amethystine globes from which a juicy dew escapes. October is a cavalier, so flaunts a crimson plume. November, telling beads of rain, is cowed in fog and gloom. But when December comes, behold! he's whiskered, booted, furred, His ringing laughter like the sound of merry bells are heard, His arms are filled with many gifts and holly wreaths because The little children knew him first and named him Santa Claus.

BOAR'S HEAD AT CHRISTMAS

Ancient Custom Which Is Now Believed to Be Observed Only at Oxford University.

RINGING in the boar's head at Yuletide is not celebrated widely in Great Britain today, and probably the only place where it survives with something of its old-time glory is Queen's college, Oxford university.

The custom is believed to antedate Christianity; in fact, is said to have come down to Englishmen from the Druids, the Druids recall Freya, goddess of peace and plenty, was always represented as riding a boar, and the Druid priests are believed to have made yearly sacrifices of boars to this divinity in order to win her good will.

At Queen's the procession of the boar's head forms in the buttery. A soloist, who usually is a former student of the college, heads the line. Behind him march two or three broad-shouldered youths who bear the boar's head, mounted on a silver salver. In the old days the head weighed as much as eighty pounds.

Flags and pennants of the college flutter about the head, which is crowned with gilded sprays of rosemary, bay, laurel and other evergreens. A lemon or an orange, the old Norse symbol of plenty, is placed between the tusks.

Behind the bearers of the salver march the surpliced men and boys of the choir and the organist in a robe of an Oxford doctor of music.

On a dais at the end of the dining hall the provost and the principal guests stand. The provost says grace in Latin; the call to dinner is sounded with trumpets through the cloisters and the procession starts through the cloisters.

Origin of the Word Yule.

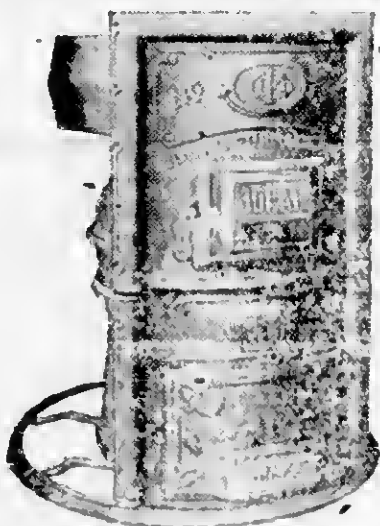

Many explanations are given of the origin of the word Yule. One of the most probable is that it is derived from the ancient Gothic word, Yul or Yul, the origin of our word wheel. The Yule festival is said to have received its name from being the turning-point of the year—when the sun apparently turns back from the south and begins to set each evening farther and farther to the north until in June it goes down almost in the northwest. In the old clog almanacs of the Middle Ages a wheel is the device used for marking Yule-tide or Christmas.

Chocolate Sea-Foam Fudge.

Put over the fire in a clean saucepan one cupful of light brown sugar, a half-cupful of water and a third of a cupful of grated chocolate and boil without stirring until it spins a thread from the point of a spoon. Have beaten stiff the white of an egg; pour the boiling mixture upon it and stir until it begins to stiffen. Drop from a spoon on waxed paper in little lion bones, or pour into a greased pan. Before it begins to stiffen and harden, square with a buttered knife. Delicious.

More Than Ever Then.

Beware of the man who knows it all, especially if it happens to be your self.—Boston Transcript.

FAILURE OF SWINE TO MATE

It May Be Caused by Improper Functioning of System Brought About by Improper Feed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Failure in the ability or desire of swine to reproduce may be caused by any of several conditions, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It may result from a disease or injury that seriously affects or destroys the secretory reproductive organs. It may be caused by improper functioning of the system, which in turn is often brought about by unsuitable feed or faulty elimination of waste products, or it may be due to a general lowering of body vitality.

There are also cases of sterility or impotence for which definite causes are difficult to find. Failure to breed quite frequently occurs in boars and sows which have been fitted and kept in high condition for show purposes. In some instances the sow fails to come in heat, or perhaps indicates that she is in heat and is successfully served by the boar without resulting conception. In other cases the boar shows no desire to mate, or acts ineffectively.

The first step in overcoming the trouble is to find a positive cause, when possible, by making a thorough examination. This should include a search for physical defects, the presence of disease, the results of injuries, or lowered vitality from any cause.

When, from such examination, it appears that proper treatment will prove successful, remedies should be administered promptly. But if the cause is obscure, or if there is little likelihood of correcting the defect successfully, it is best to remove the animal from the breeding herd. Boars may be castrated and fitted for slaughter as market hogs. Similarly, sows should be discarded when they become uncertain breeders.

When there is no apparent cause for failure of swine to mate, experts of the United States Department of Agriculture frequently have observed a lazy or sluggish temperament. These hogs generally are of the type known as "hot-bloods." They are fat and show an unwillingness to exercise. The tendency is more common in mature hogs and increases with age, but is frequently found in young stock. Careless and unwise inbreeding practices tend to produce hogs of this type, but inbreeding does not necessarily bring about the condition.

When the lack of sexual vigor is seen in only an occasional animal it may be possible to recognize the fault in blood lines or type. But when failure to mate occurs frequently and when the type is right, the indications are that the system of management is fundamentally wrong.

Upon the appearance of this condition an effort should be made to correct it by a restriction or modification of the diet and an abundance of exercise. The ration must have the fat-producing feeds largely reduced and protein feeds plentifully supplied. Pastures should be provided where possible, but when these are not available then the ration should consist of alfalfa meal, alfalfa, soybean or clover hay to supply protein and vitamins, high-grade tankage, fish meal, floured meal, or a good grade of white middlings and whole oats—with but small amounts of corn or ground barley, together with a good mineral mixture. In addition an abundance of daily exercise must be given. This will probably have to be forced by driving the boar or sow about the paddocks or pastures daily until the animal is tired.

By maintaining the digestive functions in a proper manner, by causing abundant exercise and by supplying proper nourishment, there will be brought about a proper elimination of the body wastes and a rebuilding of the tissues. This should cause the reproductive organs to function properly and bring about a toning up of the system in such manner that breeding operations will be successfully conducted.

Swine breeders must be alert to the necessity for ruggedness in herd boars in addition to other qualifications. Breeders must refrain also from too great a degree of fineness and smoothness in the selection of their breeding animals, or loss of breeding power will ultimately develop in their herds.

TOP-WORKING OF OLD TREES

Grafting Must Be Done During Dormant Period, but Budding is Done in Midsummer.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As competition in the fruit industry becomes more intensive it is necessary that growers give more heed to the choice of varieties of fruit in their orchards, especially adapted to soil and climatic conditions, as well as to market requirements. As it requires several years to establish and bring an orchard up to the age of production it is not always possible to anticipate the requirements of the market at the time of planting the orchard, and it therefore becomes desirable in some instances to change the trees which have been planted from one variety to another better suited to the market or home requirements.

Besides the question of suitability of the variety to the needs of the market it has been found with citrus fruits that there are strains of otherwise good varieties which do not produce paying crops. When trees of such strains are found in the orchards in any considerable number the production of the orchard is reduced in quantity as well as quality. This makes such areas less profitable than they otherwise would be if the unproductive trees could be replaced by those which bear abundantly.

There are different methods of accomplishing this result. The important thing, however, is to determine which of the trees in the variety list are undesirable either from the standpoint of production, either in quantity or quality, of the individual tree, and after having determined which of the trees are "border" trees, in the language of the dairyman, the orchardist should proceed to eliminate these undesirable orchard citizens by either grafting or budding into the tops of the trees which are to be changed species or buds of a variety, or a strain, which is known to be adapted to the requirements of the particular region and market.

In pear, apple or plum trees of mature size the changing of the top from one variety to another is, as a rule, most satisfactorily accomplished by grafting by the method known as cleft-grafting. On younger trees the same thing can be accomplished either by whip grafting or by budding. With peaches, however, it is generally more satisfactory to replace the undesirable varieties by young nursery trees of desirable sorts, rather than to attempt to transform mature trees into other varieties either through budding or grafting.

Grafting of practically all styles adapted to the transformation of mature trees must be carried on while the trees are in their resting or dormant condition, and while the seasons to be used in grafting are in the same condition. On the other hand, budding is in the main done during the period of active growth, while the bark of the bud-stick, as well as of the tree to be re-budded, is as the nursery men say, in a condition to "slip."

Operations of budding and grafting are not especially difficult. They require attention to special details and those who have had experience in the work can accomplish more than the novice will be able to when he first undertakes the operation.

When the operation is properly performed, and the condition of the stock and the season are satisfactory, a good budder will secure 75 per cent of a stand in his work in citrus trees, also in certain species of deciduous trees, such as peaches, apples, pears and plums in the nursery row. In fact, it is usually considered easier to secure a "stand" of buds or scions on nursery stock than upon more mature plantings.

Those having trees which are not producing satisfactory varieties, and those having seedling trees which are of no value because of the inferiority of the fruit can, by budding or grafting these individuals with scions or buds of desirable varieties, make them productive units in the home fruit planting or in the commercial orchard.

For detailed information concerning budding and grafting of deciduous fruits write the Department of Agriculture for Farmers Bulletin No. 157, "Propagation of Plants."

WHEN HEARTS ARE TRUMPS

Tragedy if Child Should Have Christmas Come and Go Without an Ecstasy.

IF YOU have no child of your own, you must borrow or beg one for Christmas eve; for it is the time when the world lights its happiness with a child's joy, writes Dr. James I. Vance, in the Illinois State Journal.

Only a child may have the right of way on Christmas eve. If you do not stand in with the children, you must stand aside.

It is the hour when the world makes a cradle its shrine; when not only wise men from the East, but grown-ups from all points of the compass slip down over the hills of mercy toward childhood's dawn, saying under their breath: "We have seen his star in the East and are come to worship him."

What a wonderful thing is this yearning of the old world for the happiness of children that climaxes at Christmas! The better side of human nature comes to the front. We throw off our cynicism. Meanness is shamed into generosity, and for a little while on Christmas eve the tightwads of earth have a look in on paradise.

Was there ever a sweeter eagerness, a higher joy, a heavenly anticipation, than that which all through the house is felt on Christmas eve? Every one is thinking of making somebody happy. The delicious secretiveness of it intensifies the thrill. Care is forgotten. Expectation is ringing the bells. Peace is over all the world. And the hero is a child.

Thank God for children! "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." It is a sin to disappoint a child. Then it must please God when we make the children happy.

If there is no child in your home, maybe there is one on your doorstep, waiting for you to be its salut on Christmas eve. There are certainly some there in the street. They are looking at the toys in the window with wistful faces, and wondering what the lover of children will bring them. It is your time to play, and hearts are trumps!

What a tragedy if a single child in your town should have Christmas come and go without an ecstasy!

The proletariat in Russia is used to denote the lowest and poorest classes. It is derived, through the French, from the Latin proletariat, the name given in the census of Servius Tullius to the lowest of the centuries, who were so called to indicate that they were valuable to the state only as rearers of offspring. The word has come much into use in the literature of socialism.

Shot By a Moose Hunter

According to the Cheboygan Tribune, Ab. Flack, former Cheboygan resident, was recently shot and killed while hunting in the woods of the Lake Superior region of Canada. Mr. Flack is reported to have been working on a string of traps when he was wounded by a moose hunter. The man, whose name is not given, carried the wounded man to the Flack homestead and gave him every care. He died within a short time. With Mr. Flack was a brother made helpless by injury. This man the hunter has provided for during the remainder of his life. Authorities at Fort Francisco exonerated the hunter of all blame in the accident.

Clarion Pioneer Dead

Frank W. Hankins, for forty years a resident of this vicinity, passed away Tuesday at his home in Clarion at the age of sixty. His death was due to heart trouble and came while Mr. Hankins was working about the barn. He is survived by the widow and a number of sons and daughters.

Some Truth in This

There's a grain of truth in this too, if you think it over. "The war that made $2 wheat and $20 pork," states the Richmond Review, "also killed 6,000,000,000 good men. Dollar wheat and the chance to live out our lives aren't so bad. Let's all quit kicking and make a go of peace."

At the Movies

"A Divorce of Convenience," with Owen Moore in another of his delightful comedy characterizations will be the feature photoplay attraction at the Palace Theatre next Wednesday night.

The story is one that was written especially for Mr. Moore by Victor Heerman, who both wrote and directed Owen Moore in his recent triumph, "The Chicken in the Case." Photoplay fans who witnessed that performance remember it as one of the bright comedies of the past year. In constructing this new farce the author concentrated his efforts about the particular talents of the star with the result that no picture in which Mr. Moore has yet appeared was quite as suitable for him.

Can a girl have two souls—one good, one bad? More remarkable than "Trilby," or "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is this drama of a young girl who, under the malevolent influence of a traveling hypnotist, was transformed by moods from a gentle lovable character into a saucy, lawless demon. This strange girl with two distinct souls furnishes Constance Binney the triumph of her career, "The Case of Becky," at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

Is There a Santa Claus?

Classic Answer of a New York Journalist Affirming a Little Girl's Belief

ONE of the finest things ever written about Christmas was the editorial printed 20 years ago by the New York Sun in answer to the earnest appeal of a little New York girl to be told whether Santa Claus really exists. Its author, Frank P. Church, was an accomplished journalist and wrote much on many subjects, but his fame will rest chiefly on this beautiful setting forth of an eternal truth. With Dr. Clement Clarke Moore's "A Visit From St. Nicholas," it is one of the great classics of the Christmas season.

The answer to the eternal question as printed in the Sun follows:

"We take pleasure in answering at once, and thus prominently, the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor—I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says: If you see it in the Sun it's so. Please tell me the truth: is there a Santa Claus?" VIRGINIA O'HANLON, "115 West Ninety-first Street."

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus come down the chimney, what would that prove? No-sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not; but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world.

Did Somebody Call Me?

"You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God, he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay 10 times 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

What is a Weed?

According to Webster's International dictionary there are two definitions of a weed: 1. Wild growth in the nature of rank grass, undergrowth, or the like. 2. Any plant growing in cultivated ground to the injury of crop or desired vegetation, or to the disfigurement of the place; an unsightly, useless, or injurious plant. The following note is added: A weed is a plant that is not wanted. There are, therefore, no species of weeds, for a plant that is a weed in one place may not be in another.

Christ Is Born

by Louise F. Elmiendorf

The world, late racked with pain through bloody years, Has climbed its weary long-pathed Calvary, Where millions died, as Christ, that they might free Others from wrong and black oppression's tears. Once more now through the world comes to our ears The song of all the ages, "Christ is born."

Fruits longed to notes of joy have been the bells, And only childhood and old age dared try To sing, so near the threatening battle sky. The song that told, though dulled by shrieking shells Whose bursting turned a thousand homes to hells, The wonder of the ages, "Christ is born."

Our faith in God has brought to us the goal:

War-weary lands have peace on earth again; And in the scarred and fire-purged hearts of men, Made sweet and strong by suffering of the soul, Through travail of a world once more made whole, Anew in human hearts the Christ is born.

Dear God, the Christmas songs are fraught with prayer That Thou wilt be with those whose hearts still pay That we may have the glory of this day; That men may live their thanks; That lives may bear Eternal witness for Thee, everywhere Proclaiming that in us the Christ is born.

A Lone Star Sign of the Times. It has just about gotten so in this country that when a married woman has candy it's a sign she bought it herself.—Dallas News.

START PLANS FOR LONG LAKE CHAIN

INLAND NAVIGATION TO BE OPENED IN SPRING

If Petitions Sent Out From Bellaire to Join Intermediate and Great Lakes Mature

A dispatch from Bellaire says: First steps in opening the chain of intermediate lakes in Antrim county to Great Lakes navigation have been launched at the county seat there. Petitions are being widely circulated and freely signed, and it is planned to commence work on the necessary locks next spring.

With the completion of the proposed plans, visitors to Michigan, and thousands of resorters who flock to this section annually, would have opened to them a stretch of inland navigation which nature lovers declare is unparalleled in Michigan.

The proposed inland waterway, according to the present plans, will make it possible for craft drawing five feet of water and under to traverse the entire chain of lakes and connecting rivers.

The first lock will be installed at Elk Rapids, situated on beautiful Elk Lake and Grand Traverse Bay. The Elk lake outlet now is dammed by the Elk Electric Co. for power purposes and the proposed locks will in no way detract from the present waterfall.

The other lock to be installed is necessary only at Bellaire where another dam exists for power purposes.

Navigation then can be enjoyed inland from Elk Rapids, through Elk Lake, the connecting river into Round Lake, up Torch river into Torch Lake, noted as the Lake Geneva of North America, over its 17 miles of various colored waters into Clam river, thence into Clam Lake thence into Grass river to Grass Lake, through the pretty Intermediate river into Intermediate Lake, and ending at Six Mile Lake.

LAWYERS TAKE A DEFINITE STAND

American Bar Association Passes a Strong Resolution

It has long been the custom to slur the legal profession, as tricky and insincere. We are glad therefore to quote the strong language of a resolution adopted by the American Bar Association, with reference to the prohibition law:

"When for the gratification of their appetites or the promotion of their own interests, lawyers, bankers, merchants, manufacturers and social leaders disobey and scoff at this law, they are aiding the cause of anarchy and promoting mob violence, robbery and homicide; they are sowing dragon's teeth and they need not be surprised when they find no judicial or police authority can save our country or humanity from reaping the harvest.—(Printed by request of W. ENTERTAIN WITH BUNCO PARTY

Popular Hostesses Entertain at Charlevoix Hotel

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridge and Mr. and Mrs. Will Mitchell entertained Saturday evening with a bunco party at the Hotel Charlevoix, the dining room of that hostelry being cleared for the affair. Ray Faulkner with Miss Isabel Mitchell made the best score and secured the prizes, Mr. Faulkner being presented with a set of dice and Miss Mitchell with a telephone doll.

Late in the evening the hostesses served a lunch of ice cream, cake and coffee.

CHARLEVOIX STORES CLOSED ON MONDAY

Charlevoix stores will be closed on Monday of next week in observance of Christmas, which comes on Sunday, Monday being a legal holiday throughout the country.

All stores will be open until a late hour Saturday evening to give all an opportunity to do their week-end shopping, and it must be remembered a two-days' supply of must be ordered to last until Tuesday.

The closing of the stores will give both employer and employee an opportunity to spend the day as they wish.

Free! A Christmas present for everyone visiting our store either Friday or Saturday, December 23rd and 24th. Essenden's.

WARM FRIENDS

The Christmas Feel

They's a kind o' feel in the air to me,
When Christmas time sets in;
That's about as much o' a mystery
As ever I've run a'gin!

For instance, now while I gain in weight
An' general health, I swear
They's a goneness somer's I can't just state
A sort o' feel in the air.

They's a feel in the Christmas air goes right
To a spot where a man lives at!
It gives a feller a appetite—
They ain't no doubt about that!

And yet they's somepin—I don't know what—
That follers me here and there,
And ha'n'ts and worries, and spares me not,
A kind o' feel in the air.

They's a feel, as I say, in the air that's jest
As touchingly sad and sweet!
In the same rash as I feel the best
And am spryest on my feet.

They's allus a kind o' sort o' ache
That I can't locate nowhere;
But it comes with Christmas and no mistake!
A kind o' feel in the air.

Is it the racket the children raise?
Why no! God bless 'em no!
Is it the eyes and the cheeks ablaze—
Like my own wuz, long ago?

Is it the bleat o' the whistle, and beat
Of the little toy drum and blare
O' the horn? No! It is jest the sweet
The sad sweet feel in the air.

—James Whitecomb Riley.

WOOD BROS. TO OPEN HARDWARE

IN STORE ADJOINING THEIR PRESENT QUARTERS

Will Open in Near Future With Complete Line, Giving Charlevoix
Additional Shopping Facilities

Shortly after the beginning of the new year, Charlevoix will have another hardware store, Wood Bros., having decided to occupy the vacant store room in the Masonic Temple formerly occupied by A. E. Mason.

This is a step which has for some time been contemplated, the present unsettled conditions being the only reason for not entering into business before this time.

The hardware store will be conducted in connection with their rapidly growing and well established electrical business, which during the past three years has experienced a phenomenal growth, and today is considered one of the best if not the best equipped store of its kind in northern Michigan.

A complete line of hardware, builder's supplies, roofing, paints and oils will be stocked, and the best of these lines carried.

Announcement of the date of their opening will appear in these columns in a later issue.

Dance Christmas Eve., Saturday, December 24th, Mont's Orchestra of Petoskey will furnish the music, Admission $1.00. Extra ladies 50 cents.

NAMED PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE FRATERNITY

Betty Candler Highly Honored at Hillsdale College

Betty Candler of Charlevoix, is prominent in college affairs at Hillsdale College. She was recently elected president of the Germane Sodales Literary Society and presided at the recent annual oratorical contest of that society which resulted in favor of two Petoskey girls, Miss Geraldine Pagel winning first honors, and Miss Alice Moore second. Miss Candler is vice-president of the senior class and, as a senior student in Household Economics, lives in the Ambler Practice House where she is one of a dozen senior girls under Miss Black and Miss Tucker, instructors, to manage the house, plan and serve the many luncheons and dinners for which the Ambler House is now noted, and to make this house the most unique and the most popular of the home of Hillsdale College folk.

LEGION DANCE AT BANK HALL

Boys of Local Post Will Hold Christmas Party Monday Evening

There will be a big Christmas dance at the Bank hall, Monday evening, December 26th, under the auspices of the local American Legion, and a general invitation is extended to all to attend.

The best musicians obtainable will furnish the music and Clyde Fairman will entertain along musical lines. Dances put on by the Legion boys in the past have been a success, and this should be well patronized.

I. O. O. F. Holiday Benefit Dance at the Bank Hall, Friday evening, December 30th. Every dollar of the proceeds of this dance will be used to help those in need to tide over a hard winter. We trust that all will buy a ticket whether they attend or not. Good music and good order. Only 50 cents per couple. 5112

DIED AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

MARETTA L. COOPER A CHAR-VOIX PIONEER

Came to Charlevoix During Early Days of 1867—Funeral Held
Tuesday Afternoon

Mrs. Marett L. Cooper died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harrison Bedford, at the Hotel Charlevoix, Grand Rapids, December 18th, 1921, at the advanced age of 83 years, 6 months and one day.

Mrs. Cooper was born in Utica, Mich., January 17th, 1838, and was united in marriage to Richard Cooper in 1854, after which she and her husband made their home in Little Traverse, now known as Harbor Springs. On July 1, 1867, they moved to Charlevoix, taking over the Fountain City House, the first and only hotel in the city for a number of years, afterward purchasing the building. After the death of Mr. Cooper in 1897, Mrs. Cooper has made her home with her son, H. C. Cooper, of Charlevoix, later moving to Grand Rapids, to be with her daughter, Mrs. Bedford.

Deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Harrison Bedford of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Annie Crane of Boyne City; one son, Henry C. Cooper of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Campbell and Mrs. Harrison Bedford of Charlevoix; four grand children and seven great-grand children.

The body was brought from Grand Rapids Monday and the funeral was held from the home of H. C. Cooper at 2:30 p. m., Tuesday conducted by the Rev. H. R. E. Quant. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

STATE HAS BIG ROAD PROGRAM

$13,000,000 IN WORK PLANNED
FOR YEAR 1922

Mackinac and Clinton Counties are Leaders in Mileage—Charlevoix Gets 21 Miles

More gravel road will be constructed in Mackinac county next year than in any other county in the state, according to a $13,000,000 work schedule for 1922 just prepared by the state highway department. Thirty-six miles are promised the northern county. Sanilac with 28 miles, will run a close second. Other counties to which generous appropriations have been made are, Charlevoix 21 miles, Houghton 20, Benzie 17 1-4 miles, Cheboygan 10 1-2 miles, and Montcalm 13 3-4 miles.

According to the schedule 543.93 miles of gravel highway are to be laid next year. The total cost which is divided between state and county, will be in the neighborhood of $6,000,000.

The mileage will be divided as follows:

Alger 2, Allegan 8 3-4, Alpena 3 3-4, Antrim 15 1-2, Arenac 10 1-2, Baraga 7, Barry 13 1-2, Benzie 17 1-4, Cass 7, Charlevoix 21, Cheboygan 16 1-2, Clare 14 1-4, Clinton 5 1-2, Crawford 9, Dickinson 10 1-2, Eaton 1, Gladwin 15, Gogebie 9, Grand Traverse 4 1-3, Gratiot 9 1-2, Hillsdale 9, Houghton 2, Ingham 1, Ionia 7 1-2, Isosco 14 1-2, Iron 16, Isabella 10 1-4, Jackson 8, Kalamazoo 7, Kent 1-2, Keweenaw 8 3-5, Lake 12, Lapeer 15 1-4, Leelanau 8 1-2, Livingston 13 1-3, Mackinac 36, Mason 1, Mecosta 8, Midland 13, Missaukee 6 9-4, Montcalm 13 3-4, Montmorency 2 1-2, Muskegon 1, Newaygo 14 3-4, Oakland 1 1-2, Oceana 5, Ogemaw 9, Ontonagon 1 1-2, Osceola 1, Oscoda 3, Otsego 8, Roscommon 13 1-4, Saginaw 4, Sanilac 28, Schoolcraft 4, Tuscola 5 1-2, Wexford 5 1-2.

Clinton county will lead the state in miles of paved highway to be constructed in 1922.

The schedule gives that county 21 miles of pavement. Altogether 294.57 miles of hard surface road are contemplated. The paved mileage is to be divided among counties as follows:

Alger 9, Allegan 2, Antrim 1-2, Barry 2 1-2, Bay 9 1-2, Calhoun 10, Cass 3 1-3, Charlevoix 1-2, Chippewa 9 1-2, Clinton 21, Delta 7 1-2, Dickinson 2, Emmet 5 5-6, Genesee 6 1-4, Gladwin 1, Gogebie 3, Grand Traverse 3 1-4, Hillsdale 2 1-4, Huron 2 3-4, Kalamazoo 6 5-6, Kent 10 1-2, Lapeer 3 1-2, Lenawee 6, Livingston 1, Macomb 13 3-4, Manistee 2 1-2, Marquette 15, Mason 1 1-2, Midland 1-2, Monroe 16 1-2, Muskegon 11, Newaygo 2, Oakland 3-4, Oceana 1-2, Ogemaw 1-4, Osceola 1-2, Ottawa 12, Saginaw 14 1-2, Sanilac 3, Schoolcraft 3, Shiawassee 13, St. Clair 17, St. Joseph 9, Tuscola 1 1-3, Van Buren 8 1-4, Washtenaw 6, Wayne 7.

DEATH CAUSED FROM CANCER OF STOMACH

Mrs. Henry O'Leary Had Been Ill for a Long Time

Mrs. Henry O'Leary died at her home on Mason street, at 11:30 o'clock Saturday evening, December 17th from cancer of the stomach after a long illness.

Margaret Gordon was born on Beaver Island, May 22nd, 1865, where she lived until the family moved to Charlevoix, about three years before her marriage to Henry O'Leary in October 1902.

Deceased is survived by two brothers, Charles Gordon of Chicago, and James Gordon of Beaver Island and two sisters.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning, December 20th, from St. Mary's church, burial in the Catholic cemetery.

MANY BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS NUMBERS

The Courier extends hearty congratulations to the Boyne Citizen on the excellence of its 32 page Christmas edition. The Citizen has really beaten itself on this occasion.

The Gratiot County Herald also issued a 24-page Christmas number, brimful of advertising and reading matter. The Herald always issues a good paper, 52 weeks in a year, but the Christmas number of course, was a little better than usual.

We congratulate our Brother Eds. and wish them every success during the coming year.

CORRESPONDENCE

DEER LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Will Korthase are the proud parents of a son, born Sunday, December 11th.

A fine Christmas program is being prepared by the Deer Lake and East Deer Lake schools which will be given at the Grange hall Christmas Eve.

A large number of grangers attended the Grange School of Instruction held at Deer Lake Grange hall, December 8th and were much pleased with it.

Mrs. W. A. Munday passed away at the home of her son, Will Redfield, near Springvale last Sunday afternoon. She had been ill for several months with heart trouble. Those who survive her are a husband and son together with many friends who mourn her loss.

At the last regular session of Deer Lake Grange the following officers were elected:

Master, Roy Hardy.
 Overseer, Herman Barber.
 Lecturer, Sidney Lumley.
 Steward, Bert Lumley.
 Ass't Steward, Loyal Barber.
 Chaplain, Emma Hott.
 Treasurer, Wilbur McGeorge.
 Secretary, George Barber.
 Gate Keeper, Herbert Sutton.

EFFORT

He brought me his report card from teacher and he said

He wasn't very proud of it and sadly bowed his head.

He was excellent in reading, but arithmetic, was fair.

And I noticed there were several "unsatisfactory's" there;

But one little bit of credit which was given brought me joy—

He was "excellent in effort," and I fairly hugged my boy.

"Oh, it doesn't make much difference what it written on your card," I told that little fellow, "if you're only trying hard."

The "very good's" and "excellent's" are fine, I must agree,

But the effort you are making means a whole lot more to me.

And the thing that's most important when this card is put aside

Is to know, in spite of failure, that to do your best you've tried,

"Just keep excellent in effort—All the rest will come to you.

There isn't any problem but some day you'll learn to do.

And at last as you grow older, you will come to understand

That by hard and patient toiling men have risen to command,

And some day you will discover when a greater goal's at stake,

That better far than brilliance is the effort you will make."

DRIFTWOOD

Merry Christmas, you!

We reluctantly admit that Christmas holidays have lost some of their zest since the kiddies became wise.

At a recent gathering of the youth and beauty of Charlevoix, "the orchestra" reported in poor voice. Naughty Victor!

Oh, lookit! A young woman regularly employed on Bridge street is to receive a highly important proposal some time during the winter. (She doesn't even suspect.)

We respectfully submit wife's Christmas fund for the booby prize. On December 19th, before any purchases, it contained $1.16.

A widow gets a lot of sympathy but did you ever notice, that is if she is not too badly hampered, she generally has more money and better clothes after her loss than before?

BELIEFS OF THE PEASANTS

Odd Christmas Superstitions Handed Down From Past Ages to the Ignorant Europeans.

THE peasantry of Europe have had certain Christmas superstitions handed down to them from past ages.

Just how far these simple folk can be fooled is to be wondered.

If the light is let go out on Christmas morning, you will see spirits.

If you are born at sermon time Christmas eve, some one in the house will die within the year.

If you steal hay the night before Christmas, and give the cattle some, they will thrive and you will not be caught in any future thefts.

If you eat a raw egg, fasting on Christmas morn, you can carry heavy weights. It is unlucky to carry anything from the house on Christmas morning until something has been brought to.

It is unlucky to give a neighbor a live coal to kindle a fire with on Christmas morning.

If the fire burns brightly on Christmas morning, it betokens prosperity during the year; if it smolders, adversity.

If a dog howls the night before Christmas, it will go mad within the year.

If you steal anything at Christmas without being caught, you can steal safely for a year.

On Christmas eve thrash the garden with a flail, with only your shirt on, and the grass will grow well next year.

The wet strawbolls around the orchard trees on Christmas eve nod it will make them fruitful.

On Christmas eve put a stone on every tree, and they will bear the more.

Beat the trees on Christmas night, and they will bear the more.

If after a Christmas dinner you shake out the tablecloth over the bare ground under the open sky, crumb-worm will grow on the spot.

If on Christmas day or eve, you hang a washcloth out on the hedge, and then croon the horses with it, they will grow fat.

As often as the cock crows on Christmas eve, the quarter of corn will be as denr.

If you burn elder on Christmas eve, you will have revealed to you all the wifeness and sorcerers of the neighborhood.

Lake Lower Than a Year Ago

According to the geodetic survey, Lakes Michigan and Huron are 0.22 foot lower than last month, 0.66 foot lower than a year ago, 0.67 foot below the average stage of November of the last ten years, 3.28 feet below the high stage of November 1876 and 0.46 foot above the low stage of November 1895. During the last ten years the November level has averaged 0.2 foot lower than the October level, and 0.1 foot higher than the December level.

Vote Increase in Capital

The Grand Traverse Packing Co. has voted an increase in capital from $100,000 to $200,000. Organized a year ago, the company has enjoyed a good year's business. A CHRISTMAS WISH

(Johnny Hobo is preparing his Mulligan in a tomato can at a campfire in the switch yards.)

Through plumes of blue from the rail yard's camps,

Past a sea of tracks and ahunted cars,

With their twinkling lights and cringing tramps,

I drift to by-gones beneath the stars!

I can feel the dew-drenched clover at my feet;—

My mother's arms about me soothe and quell

Me into sleep at twilight when we meet

In her armchair to lover for a spell.

Make me a boy again, aflame with joyous youth,

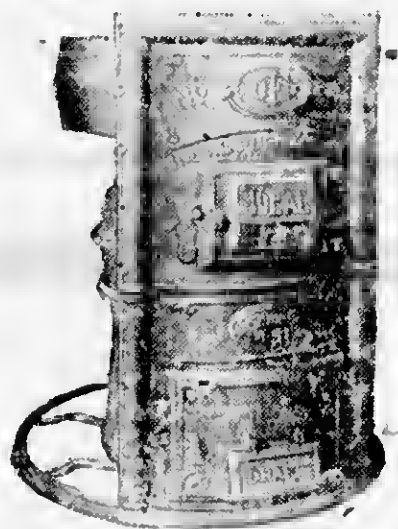

And turn me free on hillside fresh and fair;

Give back the years that vanished, those years of wild untruth,

Flung out upon a city's tinselled glare!

—W. Gordon Parker.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES
We wish you all a very Merry Christmas.

Come to church Sunday morning with the spirit of Christmas filling your every net. Christmas means the incarnation of Jesus Christ in the world. He who was rich yet for our sakes became poor that we through His poverty might become rich. Christ's coming to earth and living and dying made possible the salvation of the human race. His gift to the world suggests our gifts to others. Opportunity will be given in the morning service for gifts to the unfortunate orphan boys and girls of our Methodist orphanages. It is suggested that you bring a gift for the above mentioned purpose equal to one day's wages, i. e., we give to the needy children one day of our year's earnings. Every Methodist—adults and children, will you give heartily in making this a large offering for so worthy a cause.

The sermon will be preached from the text, "Opening their treasures, they offered unto him gold and frankincense and myrrh." The wise men gave their best. Shall we give anything less?

Christmas Sunday, ought to call everybody to Sunday school. It is possible to make this a big day in attendance.

Be in the church promptly at 10:30 o'clock for the preaching service and remain for Sunday school.

Leaguers! Notice the topic: "Following the star what do we find?" Come to Epworth League prepared to tell what you found when you saw His star in the east. The young life of today needs just the sort of training the Epworth League can supply. Make this League interesting because you give it your best.

At 7 p. m. get in early for a good rousing song service and study with us the Bible. We will take up some thought on "Its Translations." The King James' version of 1611 is the best version of its time and the longest in use. The English version of 1889 was short-lived. The American revised version, 1900, is standing up well and holds fair to be the universal be for the good of the Orientals. version. What the world wants is the Bible revealed by the Holy Spirit preached by the Ministers of God and lived by all its readers. Slip in to the service and give us the inspiration of your presence.

Prayer meeting this Thursday at 7:30 p. m. We are still studying "The Tithes." This week its system will take our attention. Too much haphazard about church contribution. The system of giving that always proves satisfactory. 1922 is to be known in Methodism as "stewardship year." It is the aim of our leaders to enroll one million tithers. The storehouse plan will be suggested that is all the tithe in the storehouse. Methodists must be methodical, hence the need of this system.

Barnard will have its Christmas exercises on Thursday night. All the kiddies are invited. Grown-ups will also be expected. Everyone turn out to this night Christmas celebration.

The exercises here will be in double form. At 2:00 p. m. the little tots will have a party; at 7:30 the boys and girls with adults will meet for an entertainment. Better be on the lookout for Santa Claus.

Barnard Sunday school at 1:00 p. m. and church at 2:00 will also observe the White Gift and make offerings for the orphans of our world parishes.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Sunday school Christmas program will be given on Saturday evening beginning at 7:00 o'clock. This will be followed by a visit from Santa. Everybody is invited, especially the parents and small brothers and sisters of the members of the school.

The church will not be open for any services on Christmas day, next Sunday.

Then let every heart keep is Christmas within,
Christ's pity for sorrow, Christ's hatred of sin,
Christ's care for the weakest,
Christ's courage for right,
Christ's dread of the darkness,
Christ's love of the light.

To the Taxpayers of Charlevoix
Notice is hereby given that the December 1921 Tax Roll of the City of Charlevoix has been delivered to me and that the taxes therein levied are payable at my office at any time on or before the 9th day of January 1922 without charge for collection. On all taxes remaining unpaid after the 9th day of January a collection fee of 4 cents on the dollar will be charged.
5012 John Cook, City Treas.

ORIENTAL IMMIGRATION
For the last half century the Asiatic immigrants have been irritating some of the Americans living on the Pacific coast, particularly in economic and social matters. The complaints frequently made by the westerners are that the Japs and coolies work for wages below those of a white man, and hence make a decent living more difficult for the natives; that they do not contribute to the general welfare of the country, but rather exploit it; that they become grossly immoral in our large cities, and lastly that they do not readily assimilate, but cling to their language, religion, and customs of the ancient world. Some of these accusations are no doubt true and deserve attention, but the weight of these grievances depends upon the number of those immigrants here and their rate coming into this country.

Between 1852 and 1900 China sent us 310,000 immigrants; and during the last two years, 1919 and 1920, over 8,000 of them came to the United States with the intention of living here permanently. Although the Chinese at the present time form a small part of our population, indications are that they intend to come in increasing numbers. As evidence of this we only have to note how some of them try to force in, squeeze in, steal in, or even smuggle in via the Mexican border, despite the Chinese-exclusion act. The main reason for this aggression is that labor opportunities here are far better than they are in the Orient.

Between 1892 and 1921 Japan sent us 238,462 of her people, or nearly 11,000 per year for the last two decades. Even during the war period, when immigration was at low ebb, this Mongolian race sent us an average number of about 9,000 immigrants per year. Here again, we have a people who are more persistent to enter the United States than are the Chinese, in spite of the "gentlemen's agreement."

It is quite plain that the orientals are desirous of an open door in America; and that they are coming in sufficient numbers to warrant the enactment of a carefully planned immigration policy, not a policy of national selfishness but one of national integrity. To bring this about there is urgent need for a public opinion that will crystallize itself into legislative action.

We are not intimating the people of the Far East are inferior to us, only that they have a different racial heredity and a different type of civilization from ours. Look at poor old lumbering China with her 400,000,000 people, a land of superstition, Confucianism, Buddhism, Taoism, ancestral worship, ordeals, graveyards, ques and foot binding. Japan is also saturated in superstition and antiquated customs; it is the land of peculiar Mongoloid mixture where Shintoism and Buddhism hold sway. Only centuries of time can bring those countries out of their apical and religious lethargy; and then it is doubtful whether they will be able to transfuse occidental culture into Oriental veins.

In view of these facts that the Chinese and Japanese, and their kindred differ greatly from us in cultural development and biological traits, the wisest immigration policy in the long run would be to exclude all Asiatic laborers and possibly those wishing to enter business pursuits. Our course of action in this respect ought to be immediate but deliberate, tactful but firm, friendly but congruous. Undoubtedly this would be for the welfare of the white race and very likely it would

AMERICAN LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS

Work of Past Year Reviewed and Post Found in Fine Shape

Leslie T. Shapton Post, No. 226, American Legion, held their regular meeting and annual election of officers at their club rooms in the Masonic Temple last Monday evening.

The activities of the post for the past year were reviewed, all indebtedness paid, and still there is a fair bank balance with which to start the coming year.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered the outgoing commander, W. W. Mitchell for his faithful discharge of the manifold duties of the past year in behalf of the local post.

Officers elected for 1922 are as follows:

Commander—Leo Powers.

1st Vice-Commander—F. Fowler.

2nd Vice-Commander—Roy D. France.

Adjutant—Edward Edwards.

Finance Officer—Clarence Henshaw.

Historian—Roy D. France.

Chaplain—Dr. F. F. Wilkinson.

COUNTY BEE KEEPERS IN CONVENTION

Meeting Groundwork for Extensive Summer Campaign

The state department of agriculture held a two-day apian convention Monday and Tuesday of last week at the Charlevoix county court house in this city for the general education of beekeepers and is the groundwork for an extensive campaign to be held next summer.

Twenty county beekeepers were present to hear the discussions, the purpose of which was to get the interest and co-operation of said keepers in recognizing and combating bee diseases, as well as caring for the bees, and regulating honey production. The lectures were illustrated with lantern slides, photographs and bee equipment and many individual problems discussed. The schedule for other schools held was as follows:

These conventions will also be held in other northern Michigan counties at a later date.

ANOTHER PIONEER RESIDENT GONE

Mrs. Oscar Tillotson of Hayes succumbed to Long Illness

Mrs. Oscar Tillotson passed away Saturday noon at the family home in Hayes township. She was born in Shefford Vale, Province Quebec, July 22nd, 1849. On February 10th, 1869, she was married to Oscar Tillotson in Allegan, Mich.

She leaves besides her husband, A. G. Tillotson of Bay Shore, Margaret Tillotson of Bay Shore, J. E. Tillotson of Petoskey, N. A. Tillotson of Charlevoix, Oscar S. Tillotson of Levering, Mrs. Sarah C. Hubbard of Mangelona; 14 grand-children, and eight great-grand-children, a sister, Mrs. J. C. Lindsey of Leominster, Mass., a brother, Edwin Geer of Worcester, Mass., and a host of friends which have been very kind during her long illness.

She was one of the early pioneers of Hayes township and a woman of sterling qualities, loved by all who knew her.

LOEB FARM NOTES

Dept. M. finished plowing December 17th. Vaughan Orvis says he thinks this is a record for late plowing hereabouts.

Wm. F. Johnson sold a load of fine clover to Dept. K. Tuesday.

Theodore Lew sold his baled straw to Dept. K.

John Dunlap of Eveline township also sold baled straw to the Farms.

It is reported that our genial friend, Ray Boak, is to take the matrimonial plunge in the near future.

There will be a school entertainment at the Marion No. 5 district school Thursday night. Everybody invited.

FIVE LOEB FARMS COWS ARE WINNERS

Butterfat Test Ran High During Past Year

In a recent letter to R. F. Sloan, H. W. Norton, Jr., secretary of the Michigan Holstein-Friesian association, states that in going over the butterfat tests reported for Michigan Holsteins during the past year he finds that five of the cows at Loeb Farms are among the winners as follows:

10 months Senior, 4 Ashmoor Pontiac Houwtje, third.

10 months Junior, 4 Flint Maple Crest Lady Lavers, first.

10 months Senior, 3 Flint Maple Crest Nina, third.

365 days Senior, 4 Kofrain Marion Finner, first.

365 days Senior, 3 Queen Pontiac Hengerveld Apollo, first.

According to custom, the state association will give out a list of the winners at the time of the annual meeting in January, with prizes for first and second in each of the different age classes. This year a printed list also will be gotten out, Mr. Norton requesting photographs of cows, which will be sent to appear in the booklet.

Marriage gets to be an old story about the time the husband runs out of new stories to tell her about himself.

Free! A Christmas present for everyone visiting our store either Friday or Saturday, December 23rd and 24th. Fessenden's.

If you didn't belong to the Christmas Club at the County Bank this year you missed it. Don't lose out again. Join today.

AT THE MOVIES

One of the biggest outdoor sets ever constructed for a motion picture was made necessary while filming the new Conway Tearle picture, "The Fighter," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Wednesday.

The set when finished constituted a big hunting lodge which is the background for some of the biggest situations embodied in the story.

Tom Mix, the clever William Fox cowboy star, is coming to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday in another thrilling western picture called "The Night Horseman." The story is based on Max Brand's novel "Wild Geese," and is a sequel to "The Untamed," in which Mix gave extraordinary entertainment in the character of Whistling Dan. In "The Night Horseman" he is again Whistling Dan, that wild-natured man whose love of the wilderness makes him forget love and friends to follow the flight of the wild geese north in spring and south in autumn.

There are said to be some big riding scenes in this picture and some bigger human nature thrills.

To Marion Tax Payers

I will be at the Charlevoix County Bank Saturday, December 17, 24, and 31, and on Monday, January 9, from 9:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. for the collection of taxes for Marion township. Sam Straw, Treas.

same is hereby amended to read in the sum of Twenty-seven Hundred Dollars including costs of surveys, plans and supervision.

Resolved further, that the cost of construction of said sewer be borne and defrayed as follows:
1st. That one-sixth of such cost according to said amended estimate, namely the sum of Four Hundred Fifty Dollars be borne and paid out of the general sewer fund of said city.

2nd. That the remainder of such cost, namely the sum of Twenty-two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, be borne and paid by the lands abutting on either side of said part of said street as above described according to benefits to the several lots, parts of lots, lands and premises thereof, the same to be made by a special assessment on said lands as provided by law.

Resolved further, That the Board of Special Assessors of said city be and hereby is directed to make such special assessment of said sum of Twenty-two Hundred Fifty Dollars and spread said sum upon the lots, parts of lots, lands and premises, according to benefits according to law, said lands being described as Lots 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, and Lots 147 and 138 excepting the East 100 feet thereof, all of Upright and Hurlbut's Addition to said City of Charlevoix.

Resolved further, That the City Clerk be and hereby is instructed to deliver a true copy of this resolution, together with the plans and plans of said sewer on file in his office.

Resolved further, That said Board of said Assessors be directed to meet in the office of the City Clerk, on Wednesday the 21st day of December, 1921, at nine o'clock a. m., for the purpose of making such assessment, and upon the completion of the roll of such assessment to file the same in the office of said City Clerk.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the Common Council of said City held in the Council Rooms in said City on Monday the 19th day of December, 1921, by aye and nay vote as follows: Ayes, Ald. Levinson, Bergeon, Miller, Geneit and Hamilton. Nays, none.

The Indian's Vigil.

In a book of sketches of upper Canada, a pretty incident is cited of the writer meeting an Indian at midnight, on Christmas Eve, during a beautiful moonlight, cautiously creeping along, and beckoning him to silence. In answer to an inquiry the Indian said: "Me watch to see the deer kneel: this is Christmas night, and all the deer fall upon their knees to the Great Spirit and look up."

ATWOOD SCHOOL

Lester Harwood was in Charlevoix Friday.

Mrs. Harry Elzinga has not been very well of late.
John Parsons, Sr., is visiting his children near here.

The grade stakes are being put in at present on the state road.
John VanderSlik returned from southern Michigan last week.

Miss Helen Bouma is spending the holiday vacation with her parents.
Mrs. Ethan Jolliffe, Edna and William went to Charlevoix Thursday.

Albert Harwood bought a driving horse from Tony Clark last week.
Frank Supernaw of Charlevoix called on old friends here Saturday.

A. Bos & Son sold three veal and seven hogs last week to H. Klooster & Co.

Albert Elzinga has a large gang cutting wood on his place this winter.

Bert DeYoung is home from a visit to Grand Rapids and surrounding places.

John VanderSlik and Peter Van Unen are cutting wood for A. B. Sneller.

Several loads of our people attended the basket ball games at Ellsworth Friday night.

John Fyn spent a few weeks here with friends on account of not having work at the camps.

The Atwood school will hold their Christmas exercises next Thursday evening at the townhall.

A number of Atwood folks attended the basket ball games at Ellsworth last Friday evening.

The boys are organizing a basket ball team. They hope to have more and better games than last winter.

Klooster's and Sneller's stores have a nice display of Christmas goods. Do your Christmas shopping there.

A. W. Martwell had a chance to sell his place a short time ago to M. Wynama but the deal did not go through.

Rose Klooster is home from near Ellsworth where she has been helping care for her sister-in-law, who is very ill.

The ladies of the Christian Reformed church here have organized a Ladies' Aid and have nineteen members.

Rev. S. Bouma and B. DeYoung attended a meeting of the classis of the Christian Reformed churches at Muskegon last week.

The Atwood school will have its Christmas program Thursday evening, December 22nd, in the hall at eight o'clock fast time. Everyone invited.

Here's hoping the largest part of Banks township voters and tax payers will support a movement to improve the road from the Catholic church to Bert DeYoung's swamp next season. In view of the fact that the state road will be improved it would seem foolish to leave about a mile and one-half of almost impassable road between Ellsworth and the state road. About the only course now as we understand the township can pursue will be to borrow the money for one year to build this road after which the county takes it over. That is a lot cheaper than leaving a stretch of road for another year in the hope that it is at present, and getting worse all the time.

Miss Smith—"There is no 'i' in needle."
Tango—"Tain't no good then."

"So your mother doesn't say much when you stay out late?" Chick remarked enviously.

"No, she doesn't say much," Songs answered bitterly, "but she keeps on eternally repeating it."

"Why, Bruce?" exclaimed Miss McElroy, "you've been walking too fast for grandpa. You must remember that he is very short of breath." "Short of breath nothing," he's been breathin' a lot more'n I have."

Spike—"Would you scream if I kissed you?"

The basket ball game with the Alba high school has been cancelled because the Alba team could not arrange to get here.

ROCK ELM

The school Christmas exercises will be held at the Grange hall Friday evening.

Miss Oneita Secord, who is attending the state normal at Kalamazoo came home Friday to spend the holiday vacation.

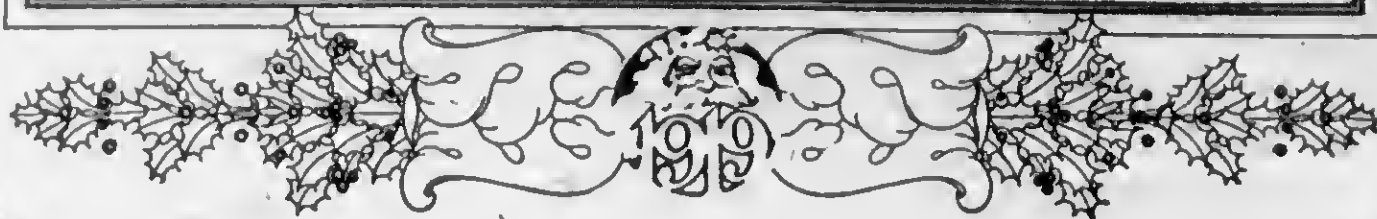

Several members of Rock Elm Grange attended the Grange institute held at Deer Lake, and found it both interesting and instructive.

The Rock Elm Grange held its regular meeting Saturday evening. Twenty members were present, each of whom helped to make the lecture hour pleasant and profitable.

FIRST GAMES IN NEW GYM

ELLSWORTH BOYS LOSE WHILE GIRLS WIN

Both Games Fast and Clean—Match for Return Game Friday, January 6th

Ellsworth's first basket ball games were played last Friday night when our high school boys and girls met the high school teams from Alden.

The girls' game was called at 8:00 o'clock fast time, and was a good close game all the way. At the end of the first half the score stood 8-9 in favor of the visitors but the last half our girls were right up and coming, and the game ended with a score of 12-17 in favor of the Ellsworth girls. This was a good clean game and both teams showed that they knew how to handle the ball. Five fouls were called on the home team and eight on the visitors.

The line-up was as follows:
Ellsworth: E. Ruis, L. F. B. Comstock, J. Groenink, J. C. I. Moore, S. Klooster, C. F. Hawley, P. Johnston, R. G. D. Main

C. Elzinga, L. F. N. Best
In the last half Ellsworth substituted M. Aardema for E. Ruis and A. Nelson for S. Klooster. Philie Alden substituted F. Boggs for B. Comstock and C. Leonard for D. Main.

Immediately after the girls' game closed the boys' game was called.

The boys' game was even closer than the girls' with a score of 4-5 in the visitors favor at the end of the first half and 6-8 in their favor at the end of the game.

At several times during the game the score was a tie and excitement ran high. Both teams played a very good defense there being three field goals made, Ellsworth making two and Alden one. The Ellsworth boys lost the game, however, on fouls which gave Alden the lead on free throws.

The Ellsworth team made 16 fouls and Alden 9. Alden made 6 free throws out of 16 tries and Ellsworth 2 free throws out of 9 tries.

The line-up follows:
Ellsworth: H. Elzinga, R. F. Perkins, M. Elzinga, L. F. Aldabaugh, Griffin, C. Keller, Chellis, R. G. K. Comstock, D. Yettaw, L. G. Best
In the last half Alden substituted A. Leonard for Perkins. The Ellsworth line-up was the same for the entire game.

Mr. Derrer of Atwood refereed and Mr. Kaiser of Elk Rapids umpired both games.

Alden has very good teams and Ellsworth boys are determined to turn the tables when they go to Alden on January 6th. We consider it a pleasure to be able to play games with such good clean players as Alden, but are determined if practice can do it, to make it a different story next time.

TEACHERS MEET IN TRAVERSE

Northern District to Hold 1922 Convention in That City

Through the co-operation of Supt. Charles L. Poor and the Chamber of Commerce, the annual convention of District No. 5, Michigan State Teachers' association, will be held in Traverse City next October. The exact date of the meeting will be fixed later.

From 1,000 to 1,500 teachers from this part of the state will gather there for a two or three-day meeting one of the largest conventions ever held in that city. The district comprises counties of the northwest part of the state and will draw from Cadillac, Manistee, Petoskey and other cities in north Michigan.

The annual convention of the Michigan State Teachers' association has grown to such proportions that only Detroit can accommodate the thousands of delegates who attend. Upon the recommendation of Supt. Poor, who is retiring president of the association, the state was divided into districts and each district will hold its own convention. The same talent will be sent around the convention circuit.

SATURDAY'S STORM WORST IN YEARS

Central Michigan Even Harder Hit Than This Section

Saturday afternoon and night's storm, general all over northwestern Michigan, blocked railroads and country roads to a considerable extent, especially in the north central part of the state.

Automobile travel Sunday was almost impossible, many cars becoming stalled on the Petoskey and Boyne City-East Jordan roads. On the road to East Jordan in some places snow was blown into drifts to the depth of several feet, and practically every cut was filled.

In the Ellsworth and Atwood territory snow is reported to the depth of one and one-half to two feet.

At South Boardman two boys, aged 8 and 13 years respectively, caught in the storm while on a hunting trip, were found Monday frozen to death about three miles from their home.

The high winds on Tuesday filled in all places where roads had been shoveled out, and traveling on country roads made harder than ever.

Cookie Rocks.

One and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, cream. Add three eggs well beaten, three cups of flour, one teaspoonful of soda in a tablespoonful of hot water, one pound of dates cut in small pieces, three-quarters pound of shelled walnuts (one and a half pounds in shell), one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of allspice. Break the nuts in large pieces and cut the dates about the size of raisins. Drop this stiff dough from a spoon on buttered tin in the size of walnuts. Bake in a slow oven.

Russia's Christmas Comes Late.

In Russia Christmas occurs 13 days after our own. Perhaps one of the most interesting customs of the season is Russian Christmas feast, for old and young alike, for which they dress themselves in various masquerading costumes and visit house after house, accepting the hospitality of their neighbors. The Christmas season is also notable for the fact that the young girls try to find out whether they will be married during the coming year or not. Some of them at twelve o'clock on Christmas Eve, secretly go out into the street and ask the first man they meet what his name is. Whatever name he gives will be that borne by their future husbands—such is the belief. Some of the girls are very much disappointed when the name is not a nice one, or when the man, as he will sometimes call himself Satan or something similar.

CHRISTMAS BAN IN 1643

Yuletide Observance Was Not Permitted by Edict of "Roundhead Parliament" in England.

IN THE northern part of Europe the ancient people kindled great fires to their gods, Odin and Thor, and sacrifices of men and cattle were made. The ancient Goths and Saxons termed this festival or feast "Yule," and we still use the word "Yuletide" in our day. Among the Teutons this holiday season was celebrated by decorating giant fir trees, nuts, balls, golden apples and animals. These were to symbolize flashes of lightning, moon, stars and sun, while the animals represented sacrifices.

Christmas was not among the early festivals of the church. We find the first evidence of the feast from Egypt, according to the historians of the church, and December 25 was not the day on which it was universally celebrated. It was not until the fourth or fifth centuries that the celebration of the festival on this day spread to the East. The Nativity was celebrated December 25 at Rome before 354, and at Constantinople, not prior to 373.

As paganism began to be supplanted by Christianity, many of the old customs were taken and handed down through the generations. In the Anglo-Saxon days of King Alfred the holiday season began December 16 and closed January 6. When Puritanism arose in England the fate of Christmas was threatened for a time, and even extended to this country. Since the Puritans brought along with them to New England a feeling against the celebration of Christmas.

In 1643 the "Roundhead parliament" in England put a ban on the observance of Christmas. The court of Massachusetts in 1659 followed England's example and Christmas was put under a ban there. With the restoration of the English monarchy the observance of Christmas was brought about, and Massachusetts again followed England's example and in 1681 the ban was lifted. From this time on Christmas has remained, and is now celebrated throughout the entire civilized world.

Adeste Fideles

THIS well-known and greatly loved Christmas hymn was used at Benediction at Christmas tide in France and England since the close of the eighteenth century. It was sung at the Portuguese legation in London as early as 1797. The most popular musical setting was ascribed by Vincent Novello, organist there, to John Rending, who was organist at Winchester cathedral from 1675-81, and later at Winchester college. The hymn itself has been attributed to St. Bonaventura, but is not found among his works. It is probably of French or German authorship. It invites all the faithful to come to Bethlehem to worship the new-born Saviour.—Catholic Encyclopedia.

Roast Pig.

Have your butcher prepare the pig for roasting and lay him in cold water for fifteen minutes. Dry him inside and out with a soft cloth. Make a stuffing of bread crumbs, seasoned to taste with salt, pepper, parsley, sweet marjoram and thyme; moisten with butter, and work into the dressing two beaten eggs. Stuff the pig so that he will hold his original size and shape, and after sewing him up bend his fore legs backward and his hind legs forward under him. Skewer or tie him in this attitude and after dredging him well with flour put him, with a little water, in a covered roaster. Roast for an hour and a half before removing the cover, then rub him well with butter, baste him with the gravy in the pan and roast half an hour longer, basting twice during that time. Apple sauce should be served with him, a lemon should be in his mouth, cranberries in his eye sockets.—The Delineator.

DEATH CAME CHRISTMAS MORN

TO ONE OF CHARLEVOIX'S BEST KNOWN CITIZENS

Capt. William Finucan Stricken on Way Home from Early Mass at St. Mary's Church

Captain William Finucan, for years prominent in all civic affairs and one of the city's most respected citizens, dropped dead almost at the threshold of his home Christmas morning, while on his way home from early mass at St. Mary's church.

Mr. Finucan had not been in good health for the past year, but was able to be about, and the general public knew but little of the seriousness of his condition. The announcement of his death, coming as it did, cast a gloom over the city, especially among the many friends with whom he came in daily contact.

William Finucan was born at Prescott, Canada, September 2, 1859, and was 62 years of age. At the age of 16 he entered his life's occupation, that of a sailor, his first employment being with the Ogdensburg Transportation Co. on the Str. New York. He continued with this company for several years, and at the time he came to Michigan was chief on the S. S. Burke, owned and operated by the same company.

He came to Michigan 37 years ago and entered the employ of the Northern Michigan Transportation Co. as mate on the Str. St. Lawrence. Continuing in the employment of this company he was rapidly advanced and was considered one of their most trusted and competent men.

After the burning of the Str. Champlain in 1887, this boat was rebuilt and christened the Charlevoix and Capt. Finucan took command. He brought out the Strs. Illinois and Missouri on their maiden trips, and later when the company acquired the Str. Manitou, he took command and for the past 15 years has piloted her, safely on her tri-weekly runs between Chicago and Mackinac Island, with the exception of 1918, when she was commandeered by the U. S. government for services during the great world war.

When Capt. Finucan came to Michigan he lived for one year at Manistee, moving from there to Charlevoix 28 years ago the 30th of last May.

Deceased was united in marriage to Miss Mary White at Merricksville, Ontario, January 25th, 1881. To this union were born four sons, William Jr., George, Stanley and Richard, also five daughters, Mary, Mrs. Claire G. Coulter of Detroit, Irene, Eleanor, and Helen, who died in infancy, who survive him, besides two brothers, James of Troopdown, Ont., and Samuel of Rochester, N. Y.; four sisters, Mrs. Wm. Robinson of Prescott, Ont., Mrs. E. J. McMahon of Troopdown, Ont., Mrs. Wm. McIntyre of Ottawa, Can., and Mrs. J. E. Thorpe of Milwaukee, Wis.

Capt. Finucan was a staunch American, essentially loyal and public spirited and interested in all that tends to conserve the civic and material prosperity of his home town and county. He was well known to the hundreds of summer tourists who

LEGISLATOR SEES BUCK LAW FAILURE

State Representative John Holland of Bessemer, who opposed adoption of the "one-buck" law in the last session of the legislature, has not been won over by this year's experiment with the law. He is still staunchly advocating abandonment of the "one-buck" law, which he believes has led to a heavy slaughter of the female deer, and the clamping on of a closed season which will allow the deer to increase in numbers under natural conditions.

In a special article printed over his signature in a local newspaper, Representative Holland quotes from interviews with eighteen deer hunters, whose names are given and who reported having legally killed eight buck deer during the present season, but who claimed to have seen the carcasses of 31 does killed illegally and left in the woods. Portions of the carcasses were removed but others were left to rot or feed predatory animals.

The sportsmen quoted by Representative Holland show sentiment in favor of a closed season and it is probable he will advocate such a law in the next session of the legislature if he is returned to Lansing.

yearly visit northern Michigan and his commanding figure on the bridge of his favorite boat, the Manitou, will be greatly missed by not only those who knew him so well in his home town, but at every port of call. He was a member of K. of C. Council No. 923 and B. P. O. E. Elks Lodge No. 629 of Petokey, who acted as escort from his home to his final resting place.

Funeral services were held from St. Mary's church, Wednesday at 10 a. m., interment in the Catholic cemetery.

Beautiful floral offerings were but mute testimony of the high esteem in which he was held. Charlevoix's business houses were closed between the hours of 9:00 and 11:00, in respect to a citizen beloved by all and one that will be missed by all who knew him.

Friends of long standing who attended the funeral from outside the city were J. C. Connelly, E. J. Kennedy, Richard Donnelly and others from Chicago, officials and employees of the Michigan Transit Co., O. E. Henderson of Milwaukee; Capt. Geo. Johnson of Traverse City, John Seymour and Gus Kitzinger of Manistee, and members of the Manitou's crew who served under Capt. Finucan.

PHONE RATES MAY INCREASE

PROPERTY IN STATE EARNING ONE PER CENT

While Entire Property Including Detroit Shows An Earning of Less Than Six Per Cent

Likelihood that telephone rates in exchanges outside the city of Detroit will be substantially increased is apparent from information placed before the Public Utilities Commission, at Lansing, in the rate controversy between the Michigan State Telephone Co. and the city of Detroit.

The telephone company submitted evidence and testimony to show that, while its Detroit property is earning approximately 7 per cent, its property in the state, outside Detroit, shows earnings of less than 1 per cent and that the entire property is earning under 6 per cent.

In the Detroit case, attorneys for the city demanded a reduction in rates, supporting that demand with figures purporting to show that the Detroit property of the company was earning 9 per cent on its plant value.

The telephone company, on the other hand, introduced evidence to show that the Detroit property was earning only 7 per cent, the deviation from the city's figures being due to differences claimed in the valuation of the property.

On the showing that the telephone property outside Detroit was earning less than 1 per cent, Judge Franz C. Kuhn, president of the telephone company, protested any reduction in the Detroit rates unless rates outside Detroit were increased. He also made it clear that it was his understanding that the Detroit rates were to continue in effect until the entire rate situation, both in city and state could be adjusted, and that the evidence submitted clearly showed the need for substantial rate increases outside Detroit.

The commission was informed that in 1924 the company must refund to the extent of $13,000,000 and that in order to be able to do that, there must first be a reasonable period of satisfactory earnings to build up the company's credit. That will be necessary if the company is to adequately meet the future demand of the people of Michigan for service, it was contended by the company, indicating that the company's inability to give satisfactory service in the future depends largely upon the earning power granted its investment in the meanwhile.

The Utilities Commission gave out the information that its inventory and appraisal of the telephone company's properties outside Detroit will be completed within a few weeks and that hearing in the matter of rates for exchanges outside Detroit will follow immediately.

STATE AGENTS ADOPT POLICY

TO BOOST SEED POTATO CROP IN MICHIGAN

Co-operative Marketing Also to Receive Attention—Would Increase Spud Yield

The farm agents of Michigan have triumphed in a clash of principles with the agents of other states which has been quite marked in the last year.

The matter was discussed informally by the agents of the potato belt at a recent conference at Cadillac, and further steps along the same line were decided upon by the spud specialists.

Michigan's county agents for some time have been directing their labors along lines of co-operative marketing rather than merely increased production. Agents' organizations in other states have declared such activities were improper and the national organization has been of somewhat the same mind at times.

Now, however, the tide seems to have turned and Michigan finds herself out in the van of agricultural activity. President W. G. Harding in his message to Congress recently endorsed co-operative marketing organization for farmers and said every possible effort should be made along this line by the government.

The new president of the Michigan Agricultural college is Prof. David Friday, eminent economist from the University of Michigan. Naturally the new Lansing head will be interested in marketing problems and the farm agents believe he will support their plans of work.

The conference was called to tighten up the farm agent organization, to make the work run more smoothly instead of having varied programs in the different counties, to bring about team work. There are general problems each agent must face, and although local conditions make different factors for each to confront, the main program in Northwestern Michigan is the same, potatoes.

The old war campaign of increased production is past. The farm agents now are seeking to show the farmer how to raise the same amount of crops on a smaller acreage at less cost and more profit.

The agents are to be organized along commodity lines and the Cadillac conference selected L. L. Drake of Bellaire, the agent for Antrim and Kalkaska counties, to be extension specialist in potatoes. He will retain his local duties, but in addition will keep the other agents working on the unified program.

The agents hope to raise the state crop of potatoes from an average of 78 bushels to the acre to from 150 to 200 bushels. Seed potatoes are to be played up as a big money crop.

ANOTHER BANK CASHIER GOES WRONG

Turns Over Real Estate Property to Cover Shortages

John E. Wiggins, former cashier of the Wolverine, Mich. State Savings bank at Wolverine, has been arrested and has pleaded guilty on a charge of having made a false entry on the Customer's U. S. Bond Safe Keeping Register, a book and record of the Wolverine Bank with intent to deceive one Bernie F. Berastein, state bank examiner.

The false entries were said to have covered a period of several years and the shortage to amount to over $3,000. Wiggins has turned over real estate property and the stockholders have made the shortage good to the bank. Wiggins was formerly cashier of a bank at Gaylord.

BASKET BALL GAME THURSDAY NIGHT

Local Independent Team Meet Fast
Mancelona Quintet

The first basket ball game of the season to be played by the Charlevoix Independents is staged to take place at the Charlevoix roller rink on Thursday evening of this week, the game to start at 8:00 p. m.

The local Independents will meet the fast Mancelona Independents, and a fast and snappy game is looked for. As this is the initial game played, it is hoped the rink will be filled by spectators, as the boys need the encouragement. Just a little support may result in Charlevoix producing a good independent team that will meet all comers. Be there when the game starts.

REV. C. W. LONG TAKES UP WORK

CONGREGATIONAL PARISH TO BE CONGRATULATED

Comes to Charlevoix Highly Recommended as Man of Exceptional Ability

Rev. C. W. Long, the recently engaged pastor of the Congregational church of this city, has arrived in the city with his family and will preach his first sermon here next Sunday.

Mr. Long comes to Charlevoix highly recommended by his former fellow townspeople at North Adams, Mich., at which place he was engaged in ministerial work for seven years. The following, taken from the North Adams Advocate, is complimentary of Mr. Long's exceptional ability:

"On Sunday, December 4th, Rev. C. W. Long, pastor of the Congregational church for nearly seven years, tendered his resignation to take effect December 31, 1921.

Mr. Long, as he prefers to be called, with the help of Mrs. Long and the loyal support of the church and society, has succeeded in building one of the finest church buildings to be found in any town of this size in the state. The membership having nearly all been changed by removals during these seven years, he has not only kept the number up by additions, but about 50 per cent larger membership is to his credit.

Mr. Long has been a moving factor in all public work. He aided materially in war work under his leadership the Red Cross nurse was secured and is held on in this district. He is not only district chairman but one of the county board of directors, treasurer of the county tuberculosis society, a member of the county ministerial association and the law and order league, assistant moderator of the southern Michigan association of Congregational churches and ministers, also a member of the advisory board, and he is just completing his term as N. G. of the I. O. O. F.

He is a recognized leader of men, a man of exceptional business ability, a forceful speaker, a talented and able preacher, through life, sermon, and song.

Mrs. Long has been an untiring worker, leading in all social, benevolent and welfare work of the church while doing much for the community at large and serving as district missionary chairman.

We are in hopes that the Charlevoix church to which Mr. Long has been called, will hold up his hands and support him as loyally as this church, society and community has done. We feel that our loss will be Charlevoix's gain.

Mr. Long has worked his own way since 16 years of age. His early life was spent in school and in teaching. His theological training was mainly secured in Chicago. His college work was at the Ohio Normal University.

With his knowledge, experience and successful history his life should prosper in the future even more helpful service.

It is with a general feeling of regret that Mr. and Mrs. Long leave us, but we know that they are worthy of a larger and more promising field of labor which we believe Charlevoix is offering.

PETOSKEY USES HER NEW WELL

Pure Water and Plenty of It is Gift City Makes to Itself

Petoskey's Christmas gift to Petoskey was delivered to every home in the city Friday in the form of pure, quite soft water from the municipal well on the lake shore at the foot of Lagalls avenue. City Manager Quinn reported Saturday morning that after several days' test work and pumping the well in order to clear the pipes and learn the capacity of the well, that everything was shipshape for business.

Many hours of heavy, constant pumping failed to lower the water in the well over a very few inches, giving evidence that the new well now contains a practically inexhaustible supply of pure, soft water.

The old well has been entirely cut off from the city water system and only water from the new supply base is being pumped. The old well will not be used except in case of emergency.—Petoskey Evening News.

CHRISTMAS EVE AT INDIAN MISSION

Church Well Filled and Fine Program Rendered

The entertainment at the Charlevoix Indian Mission on Christmas Eve was well attended, the church being full. Besides the beautiful decorations there was a Christmas tree well laden with gifts.

A splendid program was given by the children in English. Following a talk was given by Mrs. Susan Greensky. Subject: "Honor thy father and thy mother;" Joe Thomas gave an inspiring talk on farming; Mrs. Madavis interested the ladies on the subject of housekeeping; and others gave talks on various subjects. Unexpectedly the pastor was called on to preach. Following the preaching service an altar call was given by Rev. Madavis to which eight responded and bowed at the altar. After the service was dismissed the presents were distributed. During this time Santa Claus made his appearance with a musk-a-moot full of candies and nuts for everyone. After the midnight hour each went to his home wishing all a Merry Christmas.

ARMY SEEKING MICHIGAN MEN

MANY VACANCIES TO BE FILLED IMMEDIATELY

Wolverines are Invited to Join 54th Infantry Now Stationed at Fort Brady, Soo

The following communication from Capt. George H. Rarey, Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., is of interest to young men of this territory who are planning to join the United States Army:

Recruiting Office,
Fort Brady, Mich.
Dec. 23, 1921.

The Editor, Courier,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Dear Sir—We are endeavoring to fill all vacancies in the 54th infantry with men from Michigan, to make this regiment one of the best in the army and we know that it will be if composed entirely of men from our own state.

This duty will enable the soldier to be near his home and friends whom he can visit at little expense. We have over forty men who live within a radius of 150 miles of this post. These men are given short passes and are urged to visit their homes, also it is desired that the parents and friends of the soldiers visit this post and thus become familiar with the conditions under which the soldier lives.

It is obvious that this great country of our needs trained men for protection in times of need. With the training they receive here at this post they would return to civil life better citizens, physically, mentally and morally.

Your co-operation is requested in bringing to the attention of your readers the fact that there are vacancies at this post, that it has been decided to fill all vacancies in the 54th infantry with men from Michigan if possible and the opportunities offered here for schooling, sports, etc.

Thanking you, for this and past favors, I am,

Yours very truly,
George H. Rarey,
Capt. 52nd Infantry,
Recruiting Officer.

MISS MAY STEWART HIGHLY HONORED

Former County School Commissioner
Receives Deserved Honors

The key of Pi Lambda Theta was conferred upon Miss May Stewart of East Jordan at an impressive initiatory ceremony in Lambo Chapter of the University of Chicago, December 15th. The Pi Lambda Theta is a national educational honorary fraternity, the only fraternity on the campus open to women only. Election is made on the basis of character, scholarship and professional attainment. Miss Stewart was also honored by being appointed a member of the social committee of the Educational Club of the university.

Card of Thanks
We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us at the death of our wife and daughter-in-law.

NEW DEPARTMENT IS MAKING GOOD

PUBLIC SAFETY HEAD IS DOING EFFICIENT WORK

State Police Aiding Other Officers in Round-up of Criminals in Many Sections of the State

The new department of public safety, which was created by the 1921 Michigan Legislature, has already proved up on the claims of economy in administration made as a result of combining the state police the fire marshal's department and the state oil inspection together with with some other duties turned over by other departments. For the period since the new department has been in being the total expense has been considerably less than for the departments which it succeeded in the corresponding months of 1920. This is largely because, under the consolidation plan, the members of the state police have been able to carry on inspection work, which formerly required additional forces of inspectors, in connection with their regular duties.

For the month of September alone the saving to the state from the consolidation amounted to more than $12,000. For the three months ending in September the total was $42,995.74.

This saving has not yet been effected by a cutting down of efficiency. The state police have been engaged in establishing a state identification bureau, with finger-print experts in charge, and in perfecting a system of telephonic communication which facilitates the spreading broadcast of an alarm in case of a crime of such nature as to warrant the proceeding. A large number of troopers are being equipped with racing motorcycles for highway patrol work in order to catch bandits and automobile thieves.

Col. Roy C. Vandercreek, commissioner of the department of public safety, has practically completed plans for the establishment of a ring of nine state police posts in southeastern Michigan which cover all the highways leading into or out of Detroit. This is expected to act as a detriment upon the raids which have been made from time to time by armed criminal bandits from the metropolitan city of the state for the purpose of committing robberies in smaller cities and towns within automobile distance of Detroit.

In several states where a state police force exists, schools have been started for teaching local officers the technical things with regard to police work which they might not otherwise have an opportunity to learn. This includes criminal law, securing of evidence, preparation of cases, taking and reading of finger prints and similar matters. These courses covering a period of several weeks, have been very successful in increasing the standard of police efficiency. It is not improbable that the next legislature will be asked to consider authorizing such a school in Michigan, under the direction of the department of public safety.

REMAINS TAKEN HOME FOR BURIAL

Mrs. Edward Krulik Dies After a Week's Illness

Mrs. Florence Krulik, wife of Edward Krulik, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Detroit, died at the home of Mrs. Rudolph Krulik, early Saturday morning, December 24th, after an illness of about a week the direct cause of death being due to ulcers of the stomach.

Deceased was born at Fremont, Michigan, and was 23 years of age. She was married to Edward Krulik, February 21, 1920, and was on a visit with her husband to his home here when her last sickness occurred.

Remains were taken to Fremont, Mich., Monday, for interment. Charlevoix extends sympathy to the bereaved husband and surviving relatives.

Church of God Holds Revival

A revival service is now being held by the Church of God at their Chapel on W. Huribut street which will continue each night for some time. Time for services is 7:30 p. m. each week day and 7:00 p. m. for Sunday evenings. Mrs. Della Fry of Bravo is the evangelist and everybody should hear her speak on the fundamental truths of the Gospel.

Circulation counts—we have it.

CORRESPONDENCE

CLARION

(To late for last week.)

School closes Friday for a week's vacation.

N. C. Griswald is visiting relatives at Pompeii, this week.

Mrs. Stanza Gould of Elkhart, Ind. is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. R. Weaver.

Mrs. Mary Johnson will leave Saturday for Marquette to visit her daughters.

Mr. A. J. Krauss of Grand Rapids, is acting agent here during Mr. Griswald's absence.

Mrs. Kate Flashman left last week for Billings, Montana, to visit her son, Wallace and family.

Mrs. O. C. Johnson leaves Saturday for Escambia, where she will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Donnell.

There will be a community Christmas Tree at the M. E. church on Friday evening. The school will furnish the program.

Mrs. W. J. Wheeler and little son who have been visiting Mrs. Wheeler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Colden, left Wednesday for their home in San Antonio, New Mexico.

BAYSHORE

Mrs. Wm. Harper returned to her home near Mancelona.

The seven Hairs gathered at Geo. Hairs for Christmas dinner and ate rabbit.

The Christmas program at Burgess and Fairgrove were voted a grand success.

Mrs. W. D. Hair is spending a few days at the home of her parents near Central Lake.

Mr. Alexander celebrated Christmas by walking to Alanson after the exercises given in the church Friday. Juen Tillotson of Petoskey is spending the vacation with his grandfather, Oscar Tillotson.

Miss Grace Tillotson is home to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tillotson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanna of Harbor Springs spent Christmas at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rhuel Dickerhoof.

The Sunday school program given in connection with the school Friday evening at the church in Bayshore was enjoyed by a good crowd.

Mrs. A. G. Tillotson received a letter from Blanche Wallace last week saying they like their new home very much.

Farm Bureau meeting of Hayes township unit will meet with Bay township unit January 3rd, 1922, at the Odd Fellows' hall in Horton Bay. A pot luck dinner will be served. Don't forget the date or your basket.

Strenuous times traveling these days! The 4:31 train was about three hours late and snow was about two feet deep on the platform at the Bayshore depot. There were about 15 passengers from Bayshore and no depot.

With the passing of Mrs. Ardene Tillotson the community loses one of the oldest pioneers and a woman of sterling qualities. She was confined to the house one year and about eight months but was a most patient sufferer, never losing her interest in the schools and community and always having a kind word for all. Our loss is her gain.

Mrs. Peter Polson died at the Petoskey hospital December 20th. Mrs. Polson moved with her husband from North Dakota to the Bodka farm one-half mile south of Carpenter's Corners about two years ago. In the short time she has been in this vicinity she has made many friends. She leaves to mourn their loss a husband and two grown children.

EAST MARION

William Guilds is quite ill. Mrs. Gus. Cellner is on the sick list.

George Bennett was on the milk route for Joe Guilds the past few days.

Miss Clare Thorsen took supper with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jensen, Thursday.

Miss Clare Thorsen went to her home in East Jordan Friday to spend the holidays.

Mrs. Sarah Adams and daughter, Edith, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hillman of Rock Elm spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jensen and family.

Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Jay Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jensen spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gus. Cellner.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stoner and daughter spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pensley of Hayes.

Word has been received from M. C. Woodgate of Union, formerly of this place, inquiring about the health and welfare of his many friends in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Guilds and family and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hermsley from Flint and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence French of Elkhart were Christmas guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Guilds.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Einwichter, Mr. and Mrs. Will Fuller and family, Edd Newman, Mrs. M. Lasher, Dick and Matt Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Harper and daughter were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Newman Christmas.

Marion District No. 5 school held their Christmas exercises at their school house Thursday evening, December 22nd. They had a fine program, a Christmas tree which was beautifully decorated and large bags of candy and nuts for all the scholars and smaller ones for everybody. Mr. Sloan sent a large box of oranges as a present to the children. The proceeds of the box social were spent as follows:

Two sheets of cardboard bought at A. B. Herman's $.20
30 lbs. of candy at Martin Block's grocery 6.60
45 lbs. of candy and 50 lbs. of nuts at A. E. Mason's 20.65
2 Victor records at S. M. See & Sons 2.35
Thread and Mosquito Bar at A. E. Mason's 1.90
The remainder of the money was turned over to Miss Clara Thorsen to go into the school fund.

NORWOOD

We wish you a happy and prosperous New Year.

Ice, Dice of Charlevoix is spending a few days in Norwood this week on business.

Russel Pierce is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Empey, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Empey and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Empey and son, Hershel, spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Empey near Atwood.

The Christmas program in charge of Miss Mildred Howe, passed off nicely at the town hall Christmas Eve. Several numbers deserve special mention, but the tableau of Holy Night was probably the best. The tree and hall were prettily decorated by Miss Howe and her assistants who worked very hard to train the young people. We wish to thank her and those who took part for their contributions to our enjoyment.

BARNARD

A Happy New Year to all. School opens again on January 9, after a vacation of two weeks.

Christmas exercises were held at the school house, Thursday night, and everyone had a fine time.

Miss VanWegen, who is teaching at Walker school, is spending her vacation at her home in Evart, Mich.

FARM STOCK

KEEP PRODUCERS INFORMED

Farmers Advised to Study Market Reports In and Out of Season to Keep Posted.

(Prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

How can the farmer and stock raiser turn the live stock reports of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture, into dollars is frequently asked.

The answer is for the farmer to get so much information out of the reports that he can conduct his breeding, feeding and marketing operations a little more intelligently in the future, and therefore more profitably than in the past.

Market reports are history, and the chief value of history is the basis which it provides on which to forecast the future. In other words, what has happened in the past will probably occur again under the same or similar circumstances.

Small benefit is generally derived from reading a single market report or one covering a short period of time. Markets move in cycles, and the man who would keep informed must follow them diligently in season and out. This is a matter of particular importance to the stockman, because his business is, to an unusual degree, a long-time speculation. He must prepare now and lay his plans today in light of what he thinks the market will be anywhere from six months to two years hence. But how will the department's reports assist him in doing this?

First of all, he should take into account potential supplies of the particular class of live stock in which he is interested. Assume that cattle is his line. The monthly report, Stock at Stockyards, gives the number of cattle and calves marketed from month to month through 68 central markets. If such movements are unusually heavy for any considerable time, it may indicate a cattle shortage during the next year or two, and a shortage of any commodity usually means higher prices.

This same report also shows the number of cattle and calves that went back to the country as stockers and feeders. If such movements were exceptionally light, it would help to confirm the belief that a comparative shortage in cattle was impending. On the other hand, heavy stocker and feeder shipments would go a long way toward neutralizing the importance of the heavy receipts, for the stockman would know that most of these cattle going back to the country must be returned to market during the next few weeks or months and enter consumption channels.

Having established in this fashion a broad basis for his operations, let us assume the stockman is feeding a lot of steers for the market. He must now give market reports more careful and persistent attention than before. It is quite important that he know what kind of cattle are in best demand on the principal markets. If there is a steady inquiry for heavy finished cattle, and that kind are selling at a premium over lighter weights, it will probably pay him to "feed his cattle out," unless the cost of feed is exceptionally high.

If, however, consumptive demand seems to be drifting steadily toward lighter retail cuts of meat, or because of general business depression or some other cause, is centering chiefly in the lower and cheaper grades, he may find it more profitable to market his cattle at an earlier age and before they have attained great weight. BREAKERS AHEAD

A Charlevoix Story in Two Parts
W. Gordon Parker

Tallant made Charlevoix a dozen times a year. As representative of a big Detroit concern he could have phoned his customers from Petoskey or other points, for the trade was established. But in summer Charlevoix was a delight to the eye: pretty women, horses, yachting, golf; even in winter it had its attractions, while spring offered trout fishing and autumn a day or two after partridges. So it had become a habit.

It was twilight. Tallant sauntered down to Pine river, walked out on the drawbridge and lit a cigaret. He looked out over the deep green, darkling expanse of Lake Michigan, enjoying the cold wind and roar of the surf. A car stopped on the bridge.

"There's a wreck up the road—no train to-night," the driver informed him. "Going over?"

Tallant replied that he'd think it over, and the taxi drove on. Several people passed to the north side, but Tallant did not turn until a big collie pup began to leap upon him and bark joyously. A young woman spoke to the pup inclined her head slightly, in lieu of apology and passed by. A brown plush sailor sat low on her head, and her blowy hair was a singular bronze. Tallant followed slowly at a respectful distance. Dog and mistress went south on Bridge street, the lady turning into Park. She did not hurry, for the pup soon deserted his mistress and returned to the man who came closer.

"I like dogs," he said easily; "and this one has a fine flut head."

"Scot, come here! He'll ruin your coat," laughed the lady tolerantly, noting the stranger wore a coat fit for a king. She concluded the cloth for "Crombie weave," which she had seen advertised in the Chicago papers.

He was still a few feet behind her.

"A lonely wayfarer strunded between trains seeks adventure," he continued with calm confidence, and added, before she could protest: "Have you ever walked along the shore on a winter night, with the wind driving in from the lake and sending breakers hissing over the pebbles?"

The lady smiled indulgently as she paused before a cottage set back among the trees.

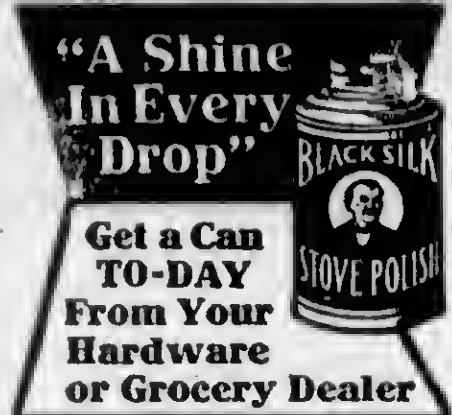

"I shall scorn to reply," she answered in a tone of finality. "I advise you to go back to the hotel and write to your wife. Come, Scot!"

"Married! Not me!" he protested quickly.

"Traveling men never are," she agreed sweetly. "Scot!"

"The moon will be up by eight. I'll be waiting for you," he pleaded.

"Preposterous, Mr. Comber—I presume you're the Beach Comber of romance?"

"Not exactly. I'm a simple hardware man with a decent sense of chivalry—out of Detroit." "It's really quite useless." She spoke over her shoulder as she reached the porch.
"You'll come," he said confidently, and retraced his steps to the street.

The lady entered quietly and without removing coat or hat stood before the blazing maple fire. A flush of indignation deepened the glow of her cheek. She went to the rear of the house and spoke to Norah. Then she snapped on the light in a small bedroom and bent over and kissed a fat little upturned face framed in curly reddish-gold hair.

As Norah was going out for the evening, the lady prepared to spend a quiet evening at home. She got out a book by Crawford, a wonderful novel—Saratoga. She had read it years before, had always admired it. She read a little here and there until Corona and Giovanni began their mad love scene in the conservatory. At this point Norah interrupted to say that her man would have to make a drive to East Jordan—she wouldn't go out. There the telephone rang.

"Mrs. Jerrold?"

"Yes."

"I'm going right over now. I'm an hour late. I walked over to the north side and got lost on the golf links before I found the greenhouse. Had a dickens of a time. It's a wonderful night. I'll—"

Mrs. Jerrold hung up. The brazen effrontery of some men! In a few moments Scot, who had been napping with his nose between paws, run to the front window and began to whine. A man came down the walk, and flinging something against the door, continued toward the luke.

Mrs. Jerrold tiptoed to the hall and opened the door. The cold night air swept in. She went over to the fire. Why not burn the package unwrapped? What would Dan say if he knew?

Creamy-white rosebuds, sparkling and fragrant!

"Some time in the winter, lady, a man—a stranger—comes in your life—on a stormy night."

The words, the picture of that gypsy palmist of the summer gone, came vividly back to her. The wind whined through the beeches. Norah was working out her bread in the kitchen. It was fate!

Mrs. Jerrold donned a toboggan cap, slipped into her coat and pinned on the rosebuds. She closed the door softly behind her, walking quickly to the street and hurried west. In five minutes she looked down upon the shelving moonlit strand. A man was tramping along the beach, now and then glancing toward the bluff.

A still small voice told her to turn and run. But she lingered, among the cedars, enjoying the thrill of growing adventure. Then Scot, who had sneaked along behind, barked a welcome as he bounded down the bluff. Tallant went over to the foot of the bluff and called into the darkness.

"Mrs. Jerrold?"

"I'm afraid, Mr. Comber!"

"I'm afraid of you—in the dark."

Thus assured, Mrs. Jerrold gave him her hand and was helped down the hill.

(To be concluded)

BEST TIME TO PRUNE TREES

There Are Conditions Which Will Help to Determine Question—Many Prefer Spring.

There is difference of opinion as to the proper time for pruning fruit trees. There are conditions which will help to determine the time to prune. Summer pruning is desirable if the vegetation is too heavy and the tree is backward in bearing fruit. Summer pruning checks the vegetative growth and the energy of the tree is diverted to fruit production. Winter pruning has the opposite effect. It encourages branch and leaf production. Many fruit growers prefer spring pruning for the reason that the wounds heal more readily. Others prefer fall pruning for the wounds have ample opportunity to dry out before spring, when they are painted.

For a Church Supper.

When taking out food in dishes or tin to church dinners and suppers or to your neighbors, try writing your name on a piece of adhesive paper and stick it onto the dish or tin, and you will find that you will have no more trouble in locating your dishes, as it will not be washed off easily.

DEPENDABLE SIRES PAY BEST

South Carolina Breeder Gives Methods of Raising Calves That Will Develop Well.

Methods of raising good calves that will develop well and show no signs of rutiness are given by a South Carolina live-stock owner in a statement to the United States Department of Agriculture. The farmer advises:

1. Use purebred sires which have behind them an established record—no guesswork.
2. Use purebred milk cows which are bred for production and which have proper points, such as deep udder, well-spaced teats, broad flanks, deep abdomen, etc.
3. Feed only warm milk while calves are young. Gradually begin feeding proper grain after the second month. Do not allow them too much grass. Give plenty of pure water, and never allow exposure to rain or extreme cold wind.

DAIRY FACTS

RULES FOR FEEDING CALVES

Desired Nutrients Furnished by Giving Young Animal Variety—Avoid Sudden Changes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Feeding is an important factor in developing a good breeding animal, or a favorite in the show ring. There are many points to be remembered. These points may be called rules of feeding, among which specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture give the following:

1. Provide a variety of feeds at all times, if possible. It is easier to supply the proper amounts of the desired nutrients which the calf needs if several different feeds are used. The ration will also be more palatable.
2. Do not make sudden changes in the feeds used or in the amounts given. If it becomes necessary to change feeds from, say, clover to alfalfa hay, feed part clover and part alfalfa for a few days. Gradually reduce the amount of clover and at the same time increase the alfalfa.

Grain in Medium Amount, Fresh Water and Pasture Are Necessary for Success With Calves.

3. Do not overfeed the calf. Feed as much grain as it will clean up to 30 minutes and wish it had just a little more. Feed left in the trough to be trampled over is worse than wasted. If any remains it should be removed and less given the next time. Digestive disorders occur from feeding too much rather than too little.

4. Do not underfeed the calf. It should make a continuous gain. If it does not grow each day the feed given it is about the same as wasted. It never pays to starve a calf. In fact, the calf does not begin to pay for feed until it is given more than enough to make some gain.

5. Do not annoy or disturb the calf unnecessarily. It requires more feed to keep it growing while standing or moving about than while lying down at rest.

6. Do not feed moldy, musty, or spoiled feeds. To do so may cause serious digestive disorders. All hays should be bright, well cured, and free from mustiness, dirt, and coarse weeds. The grain also should be free from dirt, mold, and mustiness. If ground feeds get wet they are likely to mold. This is especially true of cottonseed meal and ground corn.

7. Do not waste time in feeding the calf, or in preparing feed, since wasted time needlessly increases the cost of gains. Grain should be fed whole except when teaching the calf to eat and possibly also near the end of the milking or finishing period. Whole grain as a rule is more palatable than ground feeds. Ear corn may be shelled, broken, or chopped up to the feed box rather than ground. Husks on shelled corn need not be removed for this purpose. It rarely pays to shred stover or to cut or chaff hay for the calf. It need not be fed three times a day when twice a day will do as well, although the former may be practiced when fitting the animal for show or sale. Do not go to the expense of buying prepared "stock feeds" or "remedies." Home-mixed feeds are cheaper and equally, if not more, satisfactory. A healthy calf does not need condition powders.

Peach Stones Good Fuel.

Peach stones, it has been discovered in California, burn as well as wood, and give out more heat in proportion to weight. The stones (taken out of the fruit that is tinned or dried) are collected and sold for this purpose.

FIRST VICTOR RECORD

—BY—

EDWARD A. GUEST

Hear him recite the three of his poems appearing below. Ask to hear Number 45258. They are now in stock with other of the latest Victor productions.

IT COULDN'T BE DONE

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied
That "maybe it couldn't," but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he'd tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done and he did it.

Somebody scoffed: "Oh, you'll never do that;
At least no one ever has done it."
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat
And the first thing we knew he'd begun it.
With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin,
Without any doubting or quiddit,
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done,
There are thousands to prophesy failure;
There are thousands to point out to you one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you.
But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Just take off your coat and go to it;
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That "cannot be done," and you'll do it.

MA AND THE AUTO

Before we take an auto ride Pa says to Ma: "My dear, Now just remember I don't need suggestions from the rear."

If you will just sit still back there and hold in check your fright,

I'll take you where you want to go and get you back all right.

Remember that my hearing's good and also I'm not blind, And I can drive this car without suggestions from behind."

Ma promises that she'll keep still, then off we gayly start, But soon she notices ahead a peddler and his cart.

"You'd better toot your horn," says she, "to let him know we're near;

He might turn out!" and Pa replies: "Just shriek at him my dear."

And then he adds: "Some day, some guy will make a lot of dough

By putting horns on tonneau seats for women folks to blow!"

A little further on Ma cries: "He signaled for a turn!" And Pa says: "Did he?" in a tone that's hot enough to burn.

"Oh, there's a boy on roller skates!" cries Ma. "Now do go slow."

I'm sure he doesn't see our car," And Pa says: I dunno, I think I don't need glasses yet but really it may be.

That I am blind and cannot see what's right in front of me."

If Pa should speed the car a bit some rigs to hurry past Ma whispers: "Do be enfeebled now. You're driving much too fast."

And all the time she's pointing out the dangers of the street

And keeps him posted on the roads where trolley cars he'll meet.

Last night when we got safely home, Pa sighed and said: "My dear,

I'm sure we've all enjoyed the drive you gave us from the rear!"

"WAIT TILL YOUR PA COMES HOME"

"Wait till your Pa comes home!" Oh, dear! What a dreadful threat for a boy to hear. Yet never a boy of three or four But has heard it a thousand times or more. Wait till your Pa comes home, my lad, And see what you'll get for being bad.

"Wait till your Pa comes home, you scamp! You've soiled the walls with your fingers damp, You've tracked the floor with muddy feet And fought with the boy across the street; You've torn your clothes and you look a sight! But wait till your Pa comes home tonight."

Now since I'm the Pa of that daily threat Which paints me as black as a thing of jet, I rise in protest right here to say I won't be used in so fierce a way; No child of mine in the evening gloam Shall be afraid of my coming home.

I want him waiting for me at night With eyes that glisten with real delight; When it's right that punished my boy should be I don't want the job postponed for me I want to come home to a round of joy And not to frighten a little boy.

"Wait till your Pa comes home!" Oh, dear, What a dreadful threat for a boy to hear. Yet that is ever his Mother's way Of saving herself from a bitter day; And well she knows in the evening gloam He won't be hurt when his Pa comes home. This record on sale now. THE JAPS OF THE FAR WEST

Some of the western communities observe the Jap as a foreign monster who has come here to plant his standard of living, his religion, his antiquated social and civic ideals, his arrogant manners, his tricky and deceptive methods, his evasive ways of honor and right doing, and one of the most repellent elements, his racial traits, color and biological characteristics. These same communities say that the Jap cannot be assimilated, mainly because his thoughts, purposes, and aspirations remain Nipponese; and that he cannot be a constructive factor in American life, for his whole mental outlook is imbued with Japanese psychology. On the other hand there are natives living on the Pacific coast who assert that the Jap is peaceable and law-abiding, industrious and willing to work long hours, patient and enduring and thorough while doing his task, and a good producer, especially of agricultural products. Both of these views undoubtedly have their merits; yet neither one will heal the festering sores of California, Oregon, and Washington, where there are about 110,000 Japs. Not until we agree to pass further restrictions upon Oriental immigration, not until we apply effective methods to Americanize the seemingly non-assimilative Asiatics, and not until we practice the ethical principles of tolerance and fair play among all, can we mitigate those irritable spots of racial antagonism.

In California, where there are nearly 90,000 Japs, the problem is largely agricultural, in that one-tenth of all the productive irrigated land of that state is owned and controlled by the Japs. Some of this land has been taken away from the whites by the "freezing process," that is, the Japs, after getting possession of some land, have in many instances made a practice of underselling the white farmers' products thereby forcing the American farmers to move out and look elsewhere for a livelihood. Naturally the people of California have looked askance at the little brown men who have invaded and taken possession of some of the richest farming districts on the Pacific coast.

In Oregon and Washington there is a jealousy of Japanese success. Here the Japs are engaged as merchants, clerks, farmers, farmhands, domestics, railway employees, and as laborers in lumber mills, logging camps, and canneries. In Seattle the Japs are even in the banking business; in fact they are in anything that gives good monetary returns. Here again, the natives of these two states are averse to Japanese competition, more so to the Japs, because they are of a different race and because they are quite unlike the westerners in social thinking.

Added to the foregoing economic friction, is a high birth rate among the Japanese, nearly three times as great as among the whites. 'This, with an illegal entry of about 6,000 Japs and with a Japanese immigration of about 9,000 each year, has alarmed some Americans. These Americans feel that this increasing foreign population will in time alienate their rights and privileges; and as a result the Far West will be an Oriental country instead of a home for the white man. As far as this sentiment is concerned there is little immediate danger, although it is well for the average citizen to take cognizance of such developments.

After reviewing the pros and cons of the Jap problem, we may empathically say that if peace and good will are to reign in the Far West, these Orientals and westerners must practice just, fair and honorable methods toward each other in economic life; more than that, these Orientals must become Americans, not to remain Japanese. Again, to avoid further racial antipathy, we must check, if not stop, Japanese immigration.

Notice of Review of Special Assessment Roll

West Upright avenue Sewer, District No. 27.

To John Zeitler, Robert and Sarah J. Madill, George W. Encot, Eva L. Macey, George W. Lusk, Steven and Abbie Hartwell, William Seymour, Don Stetson, Leo Powers, Henry Black, Charles Bellinger, R. J. Madill, Alice Hines, Lance Neff, Robert J. Madill and all other persons interested;

Take Notice: That the roll of the special assessment, made by the Board of Special Assessors for the purpose of defraying that part of the cost to be borne by special assessment on the lands benefited for the construction of a sewer in that part of West Upright avenue lying between the center line of State street and the center line of Grant street in the city of Charlevoix the same being designated as Sewer district No. 27, said district containing all the lands, lots, or parts of lots described as follows: Lots 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, and lots 137 and 138, except the east 100 feet thereof, all of Upright and Huribut's addition to said city of Charlevoix, is now on file in my office for public examination.

Notice is also hereby given that the Common Council and Board of Special Assessors of the City of Charlevoix will meet in the Council Rooms in said city on Monday, the 16th day of January, 1922, at eight o'clock p. m. to review said assessment, at which time and place opportunity will be given all persons interested to be heard.

Dated December 28th, 1921.
Archie Livingston, City Clerk.

BRING UP CHILDREN TO RESPECT LAW

Too Little Parental Control Says An Atlanta Judge

A grand jury recently called to investigate public morals in the city of Atlanta, Ga., brought in a report which showed they realized that the spirit of obedience to the law is born in the home.

The judge of the criminal court in commenting on the grand jury report said: "Every day that I sit on my bench I am forcibly reminded that if we are to do away with crime and criminals, the parents must bring up their children to respect the law and abide by its tenets. I find in my court that a large percentage of cases are the direct result of too much automobile and too little parental control. It is not too much to ask the parents to throw in the clutch and put on the brakes or our entire civilization will take on last joy ride to destruction."—By request of the W. C. T. U.

PRISONS FULL SAYS GOVERNOR

Asks Judges to Take This Into Consideration When Sentencing

Assistance of the circuit judges throughout the state in relieving crowded conditions at Michigan penal institutions is asked for by Governor Groesbeck in a letter sent to the judges.

The prison problem of the state is very serious, the governor declared. He asked that the judges take this into consideration when dealing out sentences and not keep convicted men in jail for a longer period than necessary and circumstances warrant.

SHOULD MAKE OTHERS HAPPY

Best Way to Celebrate Christmas is to Do Something in Memory of Childhood Days.

IT SEEMS that when one has grown a little old, the best and the happiest way to celebrate Christmas is to do something for remembrance—be it a remembrance of one's own childhood, for Christmas is really for the children, after all.

It is for children more than for others because it is a day that commemorates the birth of a child—that wonderful Christ child that was born in a manger of a stable in the little town of Bethlehem 2,000 years ago.

Now, there will be scarcely a child in all the world who will not await the dawn of Christmas morning with a wondering soul. It is the dawn of that day when the morning stars sang together, and when peace on earth and good will toward men were proclaimed from the high heavens. But, there will be many a child to whom Christmas will not bring its dearly longed-for happiness.

The children of the rich will not be disappointed, nor will the children of the very poor be disappointed. It is the child who has not rich or well-to-do folks, but who, at the same time, is not subject for charity, who will be unhappy when Christmas comes.

And it is this child that you should seek out and make happy—for remembrance.

You see, it is a fact that we can make a happy Christmas for ourselves only by making some one else happy. Do not think that you can make a happy Christmas for yourself any other way, because you cannot do so.

Try the way here pointed out. The child is easily found, and when you have found that one and have made it happy, the very angels of God will envy you the gladness that you will feel.

Somnambulist's Escape. Being a somnambulist, I have had many thrilling experiences, but none more thrilling than when I attempted to secrete some valuable papers my husband had left in my charge while he was away. The first night of his absence I awoke to find myself, papers in hand, in the center of a beam, extending from our third-story window to an adjacent tower, and left there by pointers. A cold perspiration covered me when I realized my peril, but I managed almost miraculously, it seemed to crawl back as I had crawled out.—Chicago Journal.

Word comes from Oteen, North Carolina that Charles Hamlin, formerly of this city, who is located in the U. S. hospital in Oteen, is becoming known as a song bird there as well as in Charlevoix, to quote from the "Oteen Echo." AT THE MOVIES

The most captious critic cannot fail to be delighted with the remarkably beautiful and accurate reproductions of Chinese streets, houses, gardens, and interiors seen in "Dawn of the East," the Realart picture showing at the Palace Theatre Thursday.

Madge Kennedy coming to the Palace Theatre next Wednesday in "The Highest Bidder." You've all fallen victims to Madge Kennedy's charm of personality and distinction of acting. You'll find her at her most beguiling in "The Highest Bidder," a Goldwyn picturization of Maximilian Foster's famous novel, "The Trap," which comes to this theatre on Wednesday. She is seen as a penniless girl who has been taken in hand by a money-hunting elderly woman on condition that she marry money and make a settlement on her "benefactor."

Hoot Gibson and his winning smile come to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday in a new Universal feature, "Sure-Fire," adapted from the novel "Bransford of Rainbow Ridge."

The breezy cowboy saunters from one thrill to another in his inimitably affable manner. Jeff Bransford seems to have been written particularly for Hoot Gibson, so perfectly does Eugene Manlove Rhodes' famous character fit the smiling Western star.

The story produced under the direction of Jack Ford, director of many Harry Carey successes, is jammed and crammed with red-blooded action.

Must Draw a Line

County sheriffs when conducting convicts to the state prisons have sometimes taken along two or three friends to guard a single prisoner and the parties have indulged in tips, long black cigars, meals at $2 each, and other luxuries. The state administrative board says it will put an end to this by setting a limit to the expenses that may be incurred on such a trip. The act is certainly well conceived. The state wants its sheriffs to have jolly good times, and so authorizes them to take their neighbors to jail—but after all, we must draw the line somewhere.—Detroit News.

Both Got 30 Days

Louis Maule and Louis Briggs were arrested on the streets Wednesday evening, charged with being drunk, and were locked up in the city jail. Thursday they appeared before Justice Hammond and pleaded guilty. The officers claim they treated the matter lightly, refusing to tell where they got their liquor, save to say that it was not obtained in the county, and this resulted in a maximum jail sentence being given. They were taken to the county jail at Charlevoix for thirty days.—Boysie Citizen.

USING GUINEA FOWLS AS GAME SUBSTITUTE

Birds Need Large Range for Most Profitable Results.

Pearl is Most Popular of Three Domesticated Varieties—They Will Weigh From 1 to 1½ Pounds When About 2 Months Old.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Guinea fowl are growing in favor as a substitute for game birds, with the result that guinea raising is becoming more profitable. Guinea fowls are raised, usually, in small flocks on general farms, and need a large range for best results.

Domesticated guinea fowl are of three varieties, Pearl, White and Lavender. The Pearl is by far the most popular, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Guinea fowl have a tendency to mate in pairs, but one male may be mated successfully with three or four females. The hens begin to lay, usually, in April or May, and will lay 20 to 30 eggs before becoming broody. If not allowed to set they will continue to lay throughout the summer, laying from 40 to 60 or more eggs. Eggs may be removed from the nest when the guinea hen is not setting, but two or more eggs should be left in the nest.

Ordinary hens are used commonly to hatch and rear guinea chicks, but guinea hens and turkey hens are used successfully, although they are more difficult to manage. Guinea fowls are marketed late in the summer, when they weigh from one to one and one-half pounds, at about two and one-half months old, and also through the fall when the demand is for heavier birds.

GRASS SEASON QUITE SHORT
Seldom Profitable to Pasture Stock Before May 1 and Pastures Are Dry by September.

Few of us realize how short the grass season really is north of the Mason and Dixon line. It is customary to consider it as six months. But this is stretching it pretty far. It is seldom if ever profitable to turn stock on pasture much before May 1, and almost always pastures are about dried up in September. So, actually, there are only about four months that pastures can be depended upon. This is worth keeping in mind when planning the size of the silo or silage field—figure on eight months of feeding. The man whose stock goes through the winter best is the one that doesn't allow them to become thin before frost.

HANDLE CHERRIES CAREFULLY
Growers Should Exercise Caution in Picking and Packing to Prevent Breaking Skin.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Cherries from which the stems have been removed usually begin to decay quickly, as the removal of the stem causes a wound in the flesh of the fruit that allows the entrance of fungi, which causes cherries to mold or decay, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Growers, it is said, should exercise care in picking and packing cherries so that the skin of the fruit will be unbroken, otherwise they will reach the consumer in poor condition.

Cherries that are to be shipped by parcel post should be picked by grasping the stem and not the cherry, and many cherries should not be held in the hand at one time, as this will crush or bruise the fruit and allow the entrance of fungi, causing decay or mold. Empty the cherries carefully into the shipping container from the vessel in which they are picked, so as to avoid injury to the fruit.

For shipping cherries by parcel post, a ventilated crate is recommended. The shipping weight of cherries is about the same as that of strawberries. Experiments have shown that it is practicable, from a physical standpoint, to ship cherries by parcel post if picked in the proper condition, and if care is exercised in picking, packing and mailing. Whether or not it is practicable from an economic standpoint depends upon the particular conditions in each instance. The grower should compare the net returns that can be obtained by shipping cherries by parcel post with the net returns realized by marketing through regular channels.

CULTIVATION IS IMPORTANT

Of Great Benefit to Raspberries and Blackberries at a Time When There Is Drought.

Intensive cultivation of berries will prevent them drying up during the harvest season. This will apply mostly to raspberries and blackberries, which ripen at the time of year when there is often a drought. Commence cultivation early—if it is delayed new rootlets just formed will be broken off, materially injuring the plant. The berry patch should be plowed as soon as the land is dry enough to work. All tillage should be shallow. Continued cultivation will insure large berries even if the season is dry. A cover crop should be sowed to the fall to protect the ground during the winter season. A straw mulch will take the place of cultivation, in conserving moisture.

It's a wicked world, no doubt, and ought to be reformed, but where did you get the idea that you are big enough for the job?

PURCHASE BEST SPRAY PUMP

Kind and Size Will Depend Largely on Size of Orchard—Barrel is Satisfactory.

The very best spray pump that can be purchased is none too good for your orchard. The kind and size of an outfit will depend largely on the size of the orchard, but for the average farm orchard nothing short of a barrel pump will give satisfactory results. These can be purchased of any seed house or nurseryman for from $14 up to $100, depending upon make and quality of construction. A good length of hose or pipe, to enable one to reach the tops of the trees, is necessary.

MOST FAVORED INSECTICIDE

Arsenate of Lead Heads List for Orchard Spraying—Bordeaux Best Fungicide.

Arsenate of lead is now probably the most favored insecticide for orchard spraying, but other good insecticides are Paris green, arsenate of lime, London purple, and the like. Bordeaux mixture is the most favored fungicide but many orchardists have found that a combination of Bordeaux mixture, arsenate of lead and copper sulphate can be made at the same application with excellent results, acting as a combined insecticide and fungicide. In connection with this spray, alternate sprays of lime sulphur is used.

POULTRY FLOCKS

FEEDS FOR PRODUCING EGGS

Poultryman Should Have Full Knowledge of Proper Feed and How to Prepare It.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Everyone in the poultry business hopes to have eggs throughout the year, but of course this is scarcely possible. If the business is gone into on a commercial scale the largest profit should be obtained during the winter. If just two eggs a week extra can be obtained from every hen a good profit will be made, while if one egg a week extra can be recorded in the winter, this one egg will pay for all the feed the hen eats, according to the experience of the poultry specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. "To obtain this greater production not only should the fowls be young and of a good laying breed, but the feeder should have a full knowledge of the proper feed and how to prepare it. And this can be achieved only by study and care."

Nutrition in the feed of laying hens serves a twofold purpose: to repair waste and supply heat to the body and provide the egg-making materials. As only the surplus over what is needed for the body is available for egg production, the proper feeds should be given in sufficient quantities to induce this production.

In feeding poultry a valuable lesson may be learned from nature. In the spring the production of eggs is an easy matter. Fowls at liberty to roam find an abundance of green and unaltered feed on their range, which, with grain, provides a perfect ration for laying hens. In addition to this they get plenty of exercise and fresh air. So far as possible, then, the feeder should try to make these winter conditions springlike.

Two systems are used in feeding fowls—the dry-mash and the moist-mash, although in the dry-mash system a light-moist mash often is fed. By the term "moist" poultrymen mean a mixture of ground feed, either moist or dry. The greatest advantages to be derived from the dry-feed system are the saving of labor and the lessened danger of bowel trouble resulting from sloppy or soured mash. In the dry-feed system for laying hens, as practiced successfully on a New York poultry farm, the grains fed are as follows, in the proportions indicated.

This mixture is scattered in the litter early in the morning, and again at about 11:30 a. m., and this induces abundant exercise. A hopper containing dry mash is hung against the wall. The mash is made of these ingredients in the proportions indicated (by measure):

30 pounds cracked corn, 15 pounds wheat, 15 pounds bran, 15 pounds ground alfalfa, 15 parts middlings, 2 parts oyster shell, 15 parts corn meal, 1 part grit, 1 part charcoal.

The hopper containing this mash is kept before the fowls all of the time. Corn is the most popular of all the grain feeds for farm poultry, probably because of its abundance and comparative cheapness, and because it is rich in starch, and such feeds are rich in protein, and corn is deficient in this constituent. When corn is fed to hens that have plenty of exercise and a chance to get insects and green-feed, more satisfactory results are likely to be recorded than when fed to the same fowls closely confined. It may be fed quite liberally to your poultry during the winter in cold climates, but should be fed sparingly in summer.

When usually is considered the safest grain to feed alone, but is too expensive to be fed much to fowls. This grain should be supplemented with other grains and with some meat feed or skim milk to increase the proportion of protein. Wheat contains more protein than corn, about the same amount of carbohydrates, but less fat, and on the whole is considered not so valuable for fattening, but better for growth. Wheat screenings, if they are of a good grade, frequently can be purchased and fed to advantage. Of course, there is always danger of introducing weed seeds through their use. "Burnt wheat" seldom can be fed advantageously; the difference in price between this and good wheat usually being too slight to warrant one in buying it.

HAULING ON COUNTRY ROADS

Yearly Average From 1915 to 1919 Amounted to 86,500,000 Tons— Illinois in Lead.

Eleven principal crops afforded 80,500,000 tons for hauling on country roads in the yearly average of 1915 to 1919, or 27 tons per 100 acres harvested. Among the results of computations made by the bureau of crop estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, Illinois is far in the lead of states in providing crop haulage, and its fraction of the United States total is one-tenth, or 8,855,000 tons. Iowa has 6,500,000 tons, and Kansas somewhat more than one-half of the Illinois tonnage hauled, with 4,862,000 tons. Following in order are Nebraska, Indiana, Ohio and Texas, with 4,050,000 tons in the last-named state. The difference between high and low costs of hauling due to poor or good condition of roads reaches a large figure in the hauling of this great tonnage, or a large fraction thereof.

Last Toll Road.

The last toll road in New Jersey passed into history when the state highway commission purchased a four and one-half-mile stretch near Camden for $70,000. The road was constructed in 1850.

Motor Trucks Overweight.

During the last year highway inspectors in Pennsylvania weighed 4,076 motor trucks in various sections of the state and found 1,156 to be overweight.

CANDLE AND GRADE ALL EGGS

Department of Agriculture Endeavoring to Teach Women Best Ways of Marketing.

Farm women frequently have entire charge of the marketing of eggs, butter and poultry. In some states they form what are called "egg circles" for marketing their eggs in large quantities. The eggs are collected regularly by one of the members or by some one hired by the circle. Efforts are being made by marketing agents of the United States Department of Agriculture to teach these farm women the value of properly candling and grading the eggs so that only the best are marketed.

GOOD AND POOR PRODUCERS

Owner of Small Flock Can Determine by Observation Which of His Hens Are Layers.

In any flock some hens will be found to be much better producers than others. Often there are a few hens that are such poor layers that it doesn't pay to keep them. Where the flock is small the owner can determine by observation which hens are merely boarders; and these are the ones to eat.

IDEAL CONDITIONS FOR HENS

Egg Production Is Encouraged by Sunshine, Fresh Air, Green Feed and Comfort.

Hens lay best in the spring of the year. It would be reasonable to suppose that the nearer to spring conditions the henhouse and its occupants can be kept the better will be the egg production. Sunshine, fresh air, green feed and comfortable temperature are the ideal conditions.

Invaluable Coating for Tubes.
In the process of J. Marcellus, a resinous coating is given tubes or hollow bodies of cement, concrete or mortar by action of formaldehyde on phenols or other like compounds. The coating gradually becomes insoluble on exposure to air, and is thus given resistance to the action of mineral or fatty oils.

YULETIDE IN THE COUNTRY

Christmas Day in the Old Farm Home Recalls Fond and Pleasant Recollections.

CHRISTMAS in the country. Christmas day in the old farm home. What pleasant memories it recalls to some of us, and what good times it will mean for many of us this year. There is really no place like the farm home for Christmas good times and good cheer. Here, if anywhere, prosperity and plenty abound, and in family gatherings and in neighborhood reunions, with an abundance of the fruits of our labor with which to spread our bountiful boards, old friendships may be renewed, new ones made, and even the stranger within our gates may be added to the list.

At Christmas time we may put into practice the real principles of neighborliness. Living close together does not always make neighbors. Speaking acquaintances are not always neighbors. To be real neighbors we must have the spirit of neighborliness in our hearts which prompts us to get together once in a while, to gather around a well-laden table and feast, and visit, and laugh and joke and have a rousing good time. To love our neighbor as we do ourselves, we have to know him pretty well, and there is nothing like these neighborly reunions as a means of getting acquainted.

It may be that some of us will have to do a little mental and spiritual housecleaning before Christmas day dawns. We shall have to rid ourselves of all the old rubbish of grudges, dislikes, jealousies and ill feelings which we will find pigeon-holed away when we begin to overhaul the accumulation of the years. You will have to throw all this into the discard before you can get into the real Christmas spirit, because the two will not mix. If you have wronged your neighbor in any way, Christmas is a good time to make reparation. And if you feel that you have been wronged, why, just forget it, and the Christmas spirit and the Christmas "get-together" will do the rest. Christmas should be a time of peace and good will to all mankind, and not to a few favored friends. It should be a time of reviving old associations, of renewing old friendships, and of making new friends, and the peace and good will, the neighborliness and good fellowship, thus revived should not be allowed to die out as the yule fires cease to burn, but should flow out in a plentiful stream to enrich our lives through all the days of the coming year.

CHEAP NESTS FOR CHICKENS

Take an Orange Box, Removing Top and Fasten to Wall—Keep Straw Fresh and Clean.

An orange box makes a good nest. Remove the top, put the box on its side, and nail a strip about three inches wide along the bottom in front. It is preferable to fasten this box to the wall, as it takes too much room on the floor. Each box, the middle piece being left intact, makes two nests. There ought to be one nest for every four or five hens, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Straw or other material used for nests should be kept clean and fresh. Be sure to keep enough straw in the box to prevent eggs striking the floor. If an egg breaks, the hen may learn to eat it, and this is a difficult habit to break.

FARMING FOR LIVING URGED

If More Farmers Would Produce What They Need for Home Use Markets Would Be Better.

More farming for a living should be done and there will be less risk of poor markets. If most farmers would produce what they could for home use the markets would be required to take less and as a result there would be less strain on them. The way to have markets is to have and conserve what you have. Use your markets only when it is necessary to sell the surplus you cannot eat or feed.

PAINTS INJURE WOOD SILOS

Use of Preservatives for Coating Not as Much in Favor as Formerly—They Do No Good.

When wood silos were first being introduced great pains were taken in coating them with tar paint, or something of that sort to preserve the wood, but this practically has gone out of use. Experiments show that these paints do but little good, and again, they are somewhat injurious to the silage, says the Michigan Farmer. Without paint a wood silo will last for a great many years.

Nicest "Taxi" in Town

By MARY MORISON

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The starter who stood in front of the old fireproof house was busy that afternoon. At his sharp whistle taxis came and went, one succeeding another, a continuous wave of them joining the ever-moving stream of traffic that poured up the avenue. And amid it all, stationary, a shadow of the past, stood a hansom cab, its old driver perched atop, his ancient high hat over his eyes, his reins lying slack and listless over his patient horse's back.

For twenty years Pat had stood in that same place. The time had been when it was he who had dashed up to collect his fare and had trotted off merrily to join the gay procession of shiny, black cabs going to many a gay rendezvous farther uptown. For a while it had seemed to Pat that the whole fashionable world was waiting for him and his sleek brown horse to whirl it away. But he was living to see his world a little thing at best and his golden place in it usurped by dago taxi drivers and their villainous, reeking cars.

The starter, with a minute or two to spare, roused Pat from his dreary reverie with:

"Well, Pat, no business this afternoon—eh?"

Pat shook his head in a weary negative. "Our day's over—the nag's and mine," he answered slowly. "Tomorrow it's the auction room for me and the country for the nag and me. I guess. The city has no use for the likes of us any more; we're done for, shure enough."

"Too bad, Pat, old boy; too bad," sympathized the starter. "It's a long time you've had your stand here and I'll miss you. But everybody's for hurrying nowadays; it's catchin' a train with five minutes to spare, or it's ten at the Ritz in another five minutes, or the Ritz—Well, good-bye! I must be off. Here comes a young fellow who'll want a taxi in a hurry, I'll bet."

Pat leaned back again, beset with gloomy thoughts of the future, taking a farewell glance at his daily beloved New York that was treating him so badly.

The young man's voice, raised in dispute with the starter, brought him back to the present.

"No, no," he was saying. "I don't want any of your old taxis. They're too damned quick and cheerful. A horse would be just about killed to see me in one of those. Hey! that hansom cab! That driver looks almost as gloomy as anything around. He'll do." And like an angry wildcat the young gentleman entered the hansom, calling to Pat.

"Drive me to hell, Sunny Jim," "All right, son," says Pat. "But without intrudin', son, which one is it you're wantin'?"

"Oh, any place—East End avenue and Eighty-sixth street—that'll do," snapped the young gentleman, banging the little half doors together.

"We're off," says Pat, and they joined the upward stream.

"Shure, it's a terrible way he's in," he mused. "I wonder what's aillin' him now."

BACKACHE IS DISCOURAGING But Not So Bad If You Know How to Reach the Cause.

Nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. Lame when you awaken, pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to work or to rest. Backache often indicates bad kidneys. Charlevoix people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this case:

Mrs. W. L. Cowan, 210 Antrim St. says: "I was subject to severe backaches and pains through my kidneys. I was also greatly annoyed by the irregular action of my kidneys. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they brought me much relief."

Get at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

He looked back over his shoulder at the hotel to see if an answer to the young man's desperate mood could be found there. And on the steps looking after the retreating cab, was one of the prettiest ladies Pat had ever seen in all his days of close association with the very best New York had to offer. She was speaking hurriedly to the starter, and they both looked after the hansom. Then the starter's sharp whistle recalled Pat's car, a taxi dashed up and the lady entered it.

"That's the answer, shure enough," said Pat to himself, and he chuckled for the first time in many a long day.

The taxi, with the lady in it, rushed by them. Out of the little window in the back Pat saw her looking intently at his fare below until she disappeared from sight up the avenue.

Pat knew every landmark on Fifth avenue, but on this last ride of his he gazed at each familiar thing as if seeing it for the first time, engraving it on his city-loving heart forever. The huge library at Forty-second street, with its gaudy lions on each side—"Regul' how I love them lions!" groined Pat. The Plaza hotel, which he had seen being built and rush comet-like into first place in the fashionable world. The park, with its mysterious distances of green—he remembered how it looked at dusk, when the green turned to a soft lavender and myriads of little lights, like stars, twinkled through it for miles upon miles.

At Eighty-sixth street he turned east, leaving behind him the modern palaces and the park. He crossed Lexington avenue, then Third, then Second, Avenue A—until it seemed as if the street was leading them right into the East river.

In front of a little row of ivy-covered red brick houses stood a familiar taxicab, and at their approach out of it stepped the same pretty lady. She paid her driver hurriedly and sent him back toward the rushing world of Fifth avenue as Pat drew up.

Pat's fare first caught sight of the lady as he was in the act of descending from the cab. He stood stark still, half in and half out of the cab, motionless, as if turned to stone.

"Phillip," said the girl, laying her hand on the gloomy young man's arm.

Pat was a gentleman. His association with the beaux monde in those splendid old days stood him in good stead now—for he sat on top of his ancient vehicle looking neither to the right nor to the left; as if he heard and saw nothing. Nobody stirred on the quiet street. Pat, the young lady, and the angry-eyed gentleman were alone on the brink of the East river.

"Phillip," continued the lady, breathlessly; "when I saw you drive off with that desperate look on your face—I just couldn't stand it, and when the starter at the hotel told me you had given orders to drive here—to the river—all sorts of horrid things came into my mind. I could have bitten my tongue out for the things I had said to you. I—why did you come to this jumping-off place, Phillip?"

The young man's face twisted into a smile. "I live here, that's all," he said, pointing to the last of the little houses in the row. You would have thought you were miles and miles away from the theaters and the ships. It was so quiet and still on East End avenue. The little red house gleamed warm and snug in the fading sunlight; the only moving thing to be seen was a big four-masted schooner (like Pat and his cab, one of the last of its kind) moving majestically up the river in front of them—silent and swift as the wind caught its broad white sails.

Perhaps it was the unexpected beauty of the scene that made the girl's eyes fill with tears and turn her head away. Or perhaps it was because she realized the tragedy of Pat and his old hansom, or the four-masted schooner on what might be his last voyage, or the passing of love—who knows? But whatever it was, it was enough for Phillip. He leaped out of the cab and lifted her in, as if she had been a feather. His erstwhile gloomy face was bright, his voice vital and ringing as he called to Pat:

"Hey, there, old sober-sided; drive on. It doesn't matter where—just drive on!" and he jumped back into the cab beside the girl.

"Yes, son," said Pat, who made for Central park, where he saw the green distances beginning to turn to a dainty lavender and the little lights sparkling through the dusk.

"And some folks say the country hents New York," he mused, fortantly—"St. Patrick! Have we'll hate it, the oug and me!"

Three hours later he opened the little trap door in the roof. "Shure, it's not lookin' I am, son," he called, "but how much longer do you want 'nt? It's a hard day I have ahead of me tomorrow and it's no dinner I've had, son."

He heard a laugh below and—"Dinner! the poor old thing wants dinner!" came up through the trap door. Then the young man got out and came up close to Pat.

"Say, driver," he said, smiling at the girl who was leaning around the side, "we both think this is the nicest taxi in town. We've our own special reasons for liking this old bus. What would you say to encasing yourself to us as our own and particular driver at the rate of eighty dollars a month? Would that cover things for you?"

There was a silence, through which Pat looked at all the little blinking lights of Central park and the brilliant length of Fifth avenue beyond. The young man, not understanding, continued:

"We're going to be married next week—and—well—we like your style, that's all. What do you say?"

"Good God, son—I, well, make it eighty-five and I'm with you," said Pat huskily.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

VOLUME 30, NUMBER 1.

EIGHT PAGES

COURIER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1922

PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

CONDITION OF MICHIGAN CROPS

AS PREPARED BY STATE AGRICULTURAL STATISTICIAN

Average Prices Paid for Farm Produce Lower in 1921 Than During Year 1920

An increase of nearly one million acres of rye sown in the United States, and a condition of wheat in Michigan seventeen per cent better than the average for United States are the predominating features of the December crop report issued last Thursday by Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician, U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates and Herman H. Halladay, state commissioner of agriculture. The report was delayed in order that the revision of crop acreages for 1919, 1920, and 1921, in accordance with the information furnished in the 1919 census could be completed by the United States Crop Reporting Board. The average farm price of leading crops and the average wages paid, in comparison with one year ago, are included in the report.

Winter Wheat: The acreage is five per cent greater than that sown last year, and amounts to 923,000. The weather has been generally favorable throughout the fall and early winter, and while much of the crop was sown later than usual, it has made a normal growth. The condition is rated at 93 per cent, three per cent above the ten-year average and four per cent better than on the same date one year ago. Hessian fly is reported from a number of counties but is not as widely distributed as last year. The United States acreage is 44,293,000 which is slightly under the revised estimate for last year. The condition for the country as a whole is only 76 per cent, due to the extremely poor outlook in portions of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and other western states.

Rye: The acreage sown this year is estimated to be 653,000, or the same as that of last year. While some counties report an increased acreage others show a corresponding decrease. The outlook is generally good throughout the state, and the average of reports received from correspondents is 94 per cent, one per cent better than last year and two points above the ten-year average for December 1.

There is a marked increase in the acreage for the country as a whole, the gain being estimated at 22.6 per cent. This unusual change is due to heavy plantings in the northwest, or spring wheat states. The condition for the United States is 92.2 per cent.

Fall Plowing: The percentage of fall plowing is 34 as compared with 27 of last year, weather conditions

ONE IN TEN WRITE IT "JANUARY 1921"

January is the month of mistakes as well as resolutions. At least 10 per cent of the physicians of Michigan during January, 1922, will continue to date birth certificates "January, 1921"—unless they make special resolutions not to—assert vital statistics of the state department of health basing their estimate upon the mistakes made in other years.

Such incorrect dating of birth certificates, they point out, is an infraction of the law it adds a year to the age of the child; it may make the child appear to be born out of wedlock; or it may permit the parents to force the child to leave school a year too early, to get working papers illegally and make boys liable to military service before their time. An incorrect birth certificate may prove a source of entangling inconvenience throughout life, statisticians say.

Whenever a certificate is found that is obviously incorrect attempts are made by the state department of health to correct it. This requires considerable clerical help, as affidavits must be secured and is an expense to the individual and to the taxpayers of the state.

Explaining the psychology of the physicians' January mistakes, one of the workers defined memory as "the mental revival of conscious experience," adding that "automatic action such as writing and speaking may be at first, conscious and ultimately become sub-conscious, yet form the basis of special memories." When a physician continues during 1922 to date birth certificates a year back it is simply because the writing of "1921" has simply become a sub-conscious memory.

being favorable for that work up to and even after December 1st, except for brief intervals.

Wages of Male Farm Labor: Wages paid to men hired by the month including board, average $34 as compared with $53 in 1920. Without board, they were $51 and $75 respectively. Harvest labor, by the day, with board, dropped from $4.10 in 1920 to $2.60 in 1921; and from $4.95 to $3.30 where board was not included. Common day labor dropped from $3.30 with board to $2.00 and from $4.15 without board to $2.60.

Average Farm Prices: The following were the average prices paid for leading crops on December 1st, 1921, and December 1st, 1920, in Michigan:

Crop	Dec. '21	Dec. '20
Beans	2.40	2.50

CONTROL OF AUTO FUND CHANGED

COUNTY'S SHARE OF TAX IN HANDS OF COMMISSIONERS

Attorney General Wiley Issues Interpretation of Law Governing Case

A copy of an opinion handed down by Attorney General Merwin Wiley relative to the disposal of funds collected from the automobile license tax, has been mailed from Lansing to the Charlevoix county road commission and was delivered last week.

It is the attorney general's opinion that the disposal of this fund rests entirely with the county road commission.

There has been a long standing dispute as to what constitutes proper disposal of the county's share of the tax. The law reads that 50 per cent of the total shall go to the county "for construction and maintenance of highways."

Finally the road commissioners of Barry county appealed to Attorney General Wiley to secure a ruling on the question of whether a strict interpretation, which would make the funds available only for actual wages paid out shoveling, grading, etc., on new or old roads, should be put upon the law or whether a liberal reading that would permit the use of tax funds for all legitimate expenses of county road commissions.

Assistant Attorney General Harry M. Patrow, to whom the question was referred, has decided that the road commissions may use their share of automobile tax revenue "for any legitimate expense in the office in actual construction work or in any allied field covered by the commission's work."

A further point which has caused much recrimination between boards of supervisors and county road commissions is settled by the opinion. The board of supervisors in many counties has held that it has authority to direct the disbursement of this fund. That function is denied to them by the Barry county ruling, which places the fund completely at the disposal of the commissioners to do with as they think best for a business-like administration of their duties.

LEAVES SATURDAY FOR CHICAGO

Local Shoeman to Attend National Shoe Retailers' Convention

P. D. Campbell of the Campbell Boot Shop, will leave on Saturday of this week to attend the National Shoe Retailers' convention to be held at the Coliseum in Chicago next week.

Some 1,500 retail shoemen from all parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico, will be in attendance, and it is the largest convention of its kind in the world.

The knowledge and new ideas in the retailing of shoes that will be gained by these shoemen will be of great benefit to the public at large.

VETERANS MAY GET INSURANCE

TIME FOR REINSTATEMENT IS PROLONGED TILL MARCH

Former Service Men Asked to Get in Touch With Veterans' Bureau District Office

Regulations of the United States Veterans' bureau limiting the time for reinstatement of war risk insurance for ex-service men to December 31, 1921, have been amended so that men who have allowed their policies to lapse may reinstate them at any time before March 4, 1922, according to an amendment of Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the bureau.

It has come to the attention of the bureau that a great number of men have allowed their insurance to lapse because they do not realize their rights both to reinstate and convert their insurance into one of the permanent forms offered by the government.

Briefly, the requirements for reinstatement will be as follows:

1. If the ex-service man's insurance has lapsed for less than three months, and if he is in as good health as at the due date of the premium in default, he can reinstate by so stating in his written application, and by paying two months' premiums on the amount of insurance he wishes to reinstate.

2. If the insurance has lapsed for more than three months, it will be necessary for him to submit the report of a full medical examination in addition to his statement testifying to his good health, and to pay two months' premiums on the amount of insurance he wishes to reinstate.

3. Where a medical examination is required for reinstatement of lapsed insurance, such examination, at the request of the applicant may be made by authorized medical officers or examiners of the U. S. Veterans' bureau or the U. S. Public Health service detailed to the U. S. Veterans' bureau, and shall be made by such officers when in the discretion of the director or district manager such procedure is deemed necessary without expense to the applicant.

4. Notwithstanding the above stated requirements, an ex-service man who has allowed his policy to lapse may reinstate his insurance at any time prior to March 4, 1922, under the following regulations:

If the ex-service man is disabled as a result of any injury or disease contracted in or aggravated by his military or naval service during the world war, but is not totally and permanently disabled, he may reinstate his lapsed or cancelled renewable term insurance by submitting a report of a complete medical examination to show that he is not suffering from any disability other than that contracted in the service. He also will be required to pay all past due monthly premiums which would have become payable if the insurance had not lapsed, together with interest at a rate of five per cent per annum, compounded annually, on each premium from the due date thereof.

Any ex-service man who is interested in reinstating his insurance may secure reinstatement blanks or further information, by applying to the Veterans' bureau district office or sub-office in his territory.

CHARLEVOIX GRANGE INSTALLS OFFICERS

Open Meeting and Six O'clock Supper Monday Evening

Charlevoix Grangers and their families met at the I. O. O. F. hall Monday evening for the installation of officers and a six o'clock pot luck supper.

Past Master William Withers installed the officers following the supper, after which the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and having a social time.

The attendance was very gratifying to the officers, and the meeting was a most profitable one.

Revival Meetings Continue

DIPHTHERIA ERADICATION YEAR

STATE TO DISTRIBUTE ANTITOXIN FREE

No Existing Reason for Any Child to Die From Diphtheria Says Dr. R. M. Olin

This is diphtheria eradication year. During its 365 days the state will distribute antitoxin free in each of the 83 counties. By establishing general use of antitoxin it will be possible to save the lives of hundreds of children and cut the diphtheria death rate from 23.6 per 100,000 population to 10.0 per 100,000, according to the Michigan department of health.

"No more need exists for any child dying from diphtheria today than for a person to get killed in a duel," says Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of health. "Negligence in calling a physician in case of children's sicknesses, and delay, or failure to use antitoxin when the throat is suspiciously sore, are the only reasons the death rate remains high. If the reduction from 23.6 to 10.0 is realized in 1922, however, it will mean the saving of at least 563 lives."

Assurance is given by Dr. Olin that it is absolutely safe to use antitoxin, that there are never any ill effects, and that antitoxin will prevent death in every case of diphtheria if administered in sufficient quantities early in the course of the sickness.

Antitoxin is necessary, science proves, because the diphtheria bacilli multiply on the membrane of the throat, throwing off poison or toxin which soaks into the blood and produces all the symptoms of the disease, and—unless neutralized—"kills" this poison and saves the patient, working in harmony with the natural forces of the body.

The following distributing stations have been established in the county by the state department of health: Charlevoix, Frank N. Metcalf; East Jordan, Gidley & Mac; and Boyne City, William A. Hyslop.

POMONA MEETS WITH MAPLE GROVE

Program Will Be of Unusual Interest to Agriculturists

Charlevoix Pomona Grange will meet with Maple Grove Grange on Saturday, January 14th. The usual program has been prepared and if the roads are passable, a good attendance is anticipated.

Following is the program as prepared by Pomona Lecturer Mrs. Olive Webster:

Roll Call: What I enjoy in the Grange.

"Does the Sugar Beet Business Benefit the Farmer or the Beet Sugar Trust?" Walter Black.

"The Value of a Grange in a Community," E. B. Ward.

Question Box, Lee Barnum.

"Farm Fences: What are Most Durable; Most Economical; Most Satisfactory?" E. E. Stroud.

"What Will Best Increase Profits in Potato Growing?" Lee Sneathen.

COOPER OPENS REPAIR SHOP

Local Mechanic Opens Shop on Newman Street

Harry K. Cooper, a well known local mechanic, has opened up an auto repair shop in the buildings owned by O. D. Hammond on Newman street, four doors west of Hooker's Livery Stable, and will do a general auto repair business.

Mr. Cooper will not confine himself entirely to auto work, but contemplates equipping his shop in a manner to be able to do repair work of all kinds. Harry is a good mechanic and will without doubt work up a good business.

GOOD LUCK TO BABIES OF 1922

Campbell Boot Shop Will Present Each Arrival With Footwear

The Campbell Boot Shop wishes to announce that as in the past, it will again this year present to each new born infant of 1922 their first pair of shoes.

During the past year the Campbell Boot Shop has given away some 75 pairs of shoes to the babies. The names and dates are taken from the columns of the Courier.

STATE FIGHTS TO SAVE BEET INDUSTRY

Preferential Tariff on Cuban Sugar Would be Injurious

Michigan will lose one of its best paying industries, if the preferential tariff on Cuban sugar is allowed, according to John A. Doelle, of the state agricultural department. Doelle in a warning to Michigan farmers and the public, issued last week, pointed out that if a preferential tariff on Cuban sugar is allowed, it will be produced with cheap Cuban labor to compete with the Michigan farmer.

As a result of this, the price of sugar will not be cheaper to the consumer, Doelle says, but Michigan will lose an industry which it has nurtured and developed from experiment a half century ago to an industry which paid growers close to $16,000,000 in 1920.

Doelle believes there are influential interests who plan to take advantage of Michigan beet farmers and factories in their present financial condition to bolster the inflated Cuban industry. "It will be a calamity to the central states and to Michigan if the tariff is not retained on Cuban sugar," he says.

STORMS GREATLY HINDER TRAFFIC

TRAINS HAVE DIFFICULT TIME ON NORTHERN LINES

Saturday Afternoon's P. M. Train North Bound Over Ten Hours Late

While Charlevoix and the northern region was not so hard hit by the storm of last Friday night and Saturday morning, the region around Thompsonville, Elk Rapids and Elmira received the full force of the wind and snow. Roads and railroads were drifted full, delaying trains and road travel for many hours.

The Pere Marquette train north bound, due in Charlevoix at 4:06 p. m., was fast in the snow below Thompsonville, and after being shovelled out there again experienced the same difficulty near Rapid City, was over ten hours late, arriving in Charlevoix between two and three o'clock Sunday morning.

Train No. 1 north bound on the Pennsylvania lines was stalled near Elmira, arriving in Petoskey hours late. On the Michigan Central lines trains north bound were hours late on account of the huge drifts encountered on the northern end of the route.

Freight trains Saturday and Monday were almost discontinued because of the storm.

Locally the storm was about as bad as experienced in years. Lake Michigan was hoisting all day Saturday, the waves striking the piers and going clear over them. Roads in and around Charlevoix were badly filled, especially those running east and west.

ENTERTAINS ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Bowdish Home the Scene of Happy Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bowdish entertained at their home, 310 W. Huribut avenue, New Year's Day with a mid-day dinner, covers being laid for fifteen. The guests included: Mrs. M. Bowdish and daughter, Neva, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bowdish and son, Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. James Cook and son, Albert, Mr. and Mrs. John Bentie and Messrs. Olson, Olin, and Carlton.

After dinner the afternoon and evening was spent in talking and lighting of the Christmas tree. A good time was enjoyed by all.

Monthly Meeting Postponed

The regular monthly meeting of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce has been postponed from Friday evening of this week to Friday evening, January 13th. This was decided upon on account of the numerous holidays of the past two weeks, and the many social functions taking place. The meeting will be held a week from Friday night at the Masonic Temple.

As a special inducement to get you to try our hair nets we will have a special sale next Friday and Saturday. Single or double mesh for 10c. Take advantage of this offer at the Metcalf Drug Store either Friday or Saturday.

Oyster shells at S. Orlovski & Son's. We pay 60c for eggs.

EVERYONE SHOULD DO THEIR PART

TO ASSIST IN THE DELIVERY OF MAIL

Bad Approach to Mail Box Greatly Hinders Efficiency of R. F. D. Carriers

What is the condition of the approach to your mail box? Is it in good shape for the winter? Section 827 of the postal laws and regulations says "that each mail box shall be erected in such a position that it is easily and safely accessible for the delivery and collection of mail by the carrier without leaving his conveyance and that patrons shall keep clear the approaches to their boxes by promptly removing obstructions which may render difficult or impossible the delivery of mail by the carrier."

from the reading of this section it is plain that the Department does not intend that there should be drifted snow, a rut or a mudhole in front of the box. Patrons sometimes wonder why the rural carrier doesn't seem to have the smooth even temper that it is expected he should have. A glance at the approach to the mail box will in many cases solve the mystery. If there is a rut or a mudhole, he can't be happy, as he sees the life ground out of a nice new set of tires or the last bit of energy taken from his already tired horse.

Once in a while you will meet a patron who puts up the argument that the carrier is paid for his work and that he should get out of his conveyance where the approach is not in good condition and thus avoid cutting a rut. This is not expected by the department and causes great delay to the mail to say nothing of the unnecessary physical exertion.

Did you ever stop to think that you are entitled to your mail just as soon as the carrier can get it to you? So is your neighbor who lives beyond you on the route. You want your mail quickly. So does he. A little delay because of a poor approach makes the service just that much poorer to every patron who lives beyond that place on the route.

You can help the service and put joy in the heart of the carrier if you will see to it that the approach to your mail box (also the box) is in good condition at all times. It is really an inexpensive proposition and will add many times its cost to the appearance of your property.

Stamps kept on hand are a great convenience and time saver too. You can't lose on them. They are safer than government bonds because they never sell below par.

Think this over Mr. Patron. Apply the Golden Rule and watch the service improve. If it doesn't improve you can at least have the supreme satisfaction of knowing that you have done your part.

INDEPENDENTS WIN OPENING GAME

Defeat East Mancelona Team by a Score of 26 to 13

Charlevoix's Independent basketball team won their first game on Thursday evening last, when they defeated the Mancelona Independent team in a hard fought battle at the roller rink.

At the end of the first half the score stood 10 to 8 in favor of Mancelona, but by fast playing and good team work, the local boys were soon in the lead and when the final whistle blew, the score was 23 to 10 in their favor.

Halverson for the locals seemed to have the edge for individual playing, although every man on the team put a fine exhibition game.

Members of the local team were as follows: Marshall Ackert, center; Ned Durance, right forward; Martin Halverson, left forward; Richard Hammett, Jr., right guard; "Whitie" Wilson, left guard.

ESSAYS MUST BE IN NEXT WEEK

In Contest Inaugurated by Good Roads Association

All those desiring to take part in the good roads prize essay contest must have their essays in by Saturday of next week, as the contest closes on that date.

Liberal cash prizes were offered to those writing the best essay on the topic: "Why Charlevoix County Should Build Concrete Roads," mention of which was made in a previous issue of the Courier.

GOOD FENCES ARE REQUIRED

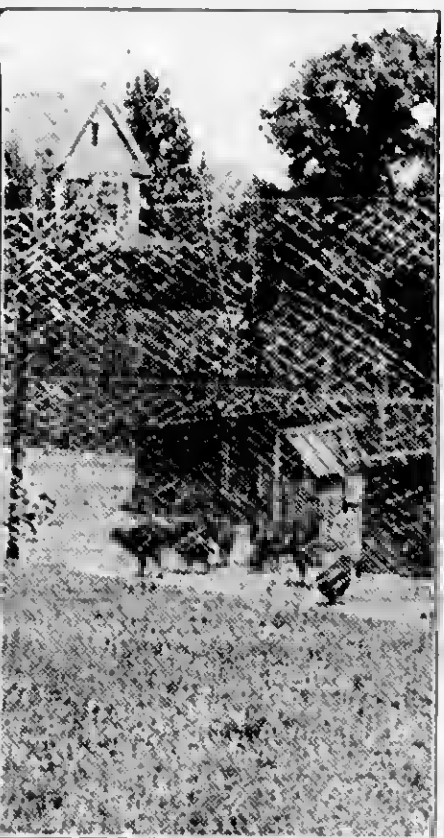

Fowls Running at Large Destroy Gardens and Flower Beds—Confine Them in Yards.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Confine the back-yard flock; otherwise the hens will stray into neighbors' yards and gardens, where they may cause damage and are almost sure to cause ill feeling. The yard should be enclosed by a board or wire fence. Wire fencing is preferable, as it is cheaper and the hens are less likely to fly over it, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. If cats prove troublesome where one is raising chickens, it may be necessary to cover the top of the yard with wire also. A board should not be used at the top of a wire fence, as this gives the hens a visible place to alight and tends to teach them to fly over.

A 5-foot fence is high enough for most conditions, but if the hens show a tendency to fly over such a fence the flight feathers of one wing should be clipped. Leghorns need a 6-foot fence. The larger the yard which can be provided the better the hens will do, as it not only gives them greater opportunity to exercise, but also makes it possible to maintain a sod on the yard. In most cases not enough land will be available so that a sod can be maintained.

If the yard is fairly large, it can be divided into two parts and green crops, such as oats, wheat, rye, or Dwarf Essex rape allowed to start in one yard while the hens are confined to the other. The green crops should be sown very thick, and the following quantities will be found satisfactory for a yard 25 by 30 feet: Wheat, 2½ pounds; oats, 1½ pounds; rye, 3¼ pounds; rape, 5 ounces. When the growing stuff reaches a height of 3 to 4 inches the hens can be turned upon it and the other yard be similarly sown.

Where it is inadvisable to divide the yard it is possible to keep a supply of green stuff growing by using a wooden frame 2 or 3 inches high covered with 1-inch mesh wire. A frame made of 1 by 2-inch lumber, 6 feet long and 3 feet wide, with an additional piece across the center to support the wire when the hens stand on it, will be found desirable for a small yard. A part of the yard as large as this frame is spaded up and sown, the frame placed over it, and the material allowed to grow. As soon as the green sprouts reach the wire the hens will begin to pick them off, but since they cannot get them down to the roots the sprouts will continue to grow and supply green material. This frame can be moved from place to place in the yard, and in this way different parts cultivated.

The yard should be stirred or spaded up frequently, if not in sod, in order to keep it in the best condition. This will not only tend to keep down any weeds which might arise, but also allow the droppings to be absorbed into the soil more readily, and, therefore, keep the yard in better condition for the hens.

Although it is necessary to keep the hens confined to their yard most of the time, it is sometimes possible to let them out where they may range upon the lawn for an hour or so in the evening when some one can be at hand to watch them or at certain seasons of the year to allow them to run in the garden plot. This will be enjoyed greatly by the hens and will be very beneficial to them.

FOXES, DON'T YOU EVER SLEEP

It was in the bleak December and the ground was covered o'er With a white hoar frosted covering where the waves broke with a roar.

On these shores there stalked a hunter, stalking with a noiseless tread,

Whose name brings terror to the foxes—fills their hearts with a sudden dread.

Suddenly before the huntsman's lynx-like vision there appeared a spot of red.

After long and careful observation of this mysterious spot of red, Behold, says he, or am I dreaming of a fox sleeping there upon an icy bed?

With his finger on the trigger and with murder in his heart, Varied are the crimes and many in which humans take part.

A roar, whose echo broke the silence of the shores far and wide

And the hunter viewing his carnage, swelled with pride he viewed the hide.

Shot while sleeping was the verdict whispered through the wooded dell,

But the foxes with their shrewdness thought he'd never dare to tell.

The world has known its Cain and Abel and their tragedies of home,

But to murder sleeping foxes parallels the days of Rome.

BREAKERS AHEAD A Charlevoix Story In Two Parts W. Gordon Parker

I
(Mrs. Jerrold passes a stranger, a traveling man named Tallant, on the Pine river drawbridge. He follows and suggests a walk by moonlight along the beach. She goes to the bluff at 9 o'clock and Tallant meets her.)

II
"It's a love of a night, Mr. Comber," said Mrs. Jerrold, clapping her white gauntleted hands as she looked up at silver-fringed, sooty clouds racing by. "And please don't tell me your name." With hands plunged into pockets she regarded him intently. "Are you on good behavior?"

"Good behavior and I ore first cousins," he answered with nice candor. "And I think myself, that Beach Comber does very well."

"It's to be a great adventure for me—predicted, if you please, by a Gypsy in August."

"Gracious! Have you been waiting for the 'right mon' since dog days?"

"No, indeed. I'd forgotten all about it until I saw that wonderful coat on the bridge."

Tallant laughed.

"Are you doing all this for the coat? Unhappily, it's not paid for."

"You don't understand, Mr. Comer; and please don't pretend, you didn't know Dan was away."

"A mon who sella nalla for a living can't know a great deal," he parried.

They were walking south along the curving beach and after a little silence Mrs. Jerrold continued.

"Dan is the best husband in the world, but he has one fault: he's in a groove or rather, he's been in a groove all his life. What do you think of a man who puts in coal every first of June and orders canning berries a year ahead—like a piece of machinery?"

"What do I think of him I think he ought to receive a decoration from the Order of Good Providers, that's what I think of him!"

"Please understand," pleaded Mrs. Jerrold. "Dan has his suits—all blue serge—made from one model."

"A sign of greatness—witness Herbert Hoover."

"You don't see the point—won't see it. We lost a good cook—because Dan scolded her for not hanging the broom on a nail at the head of the stairs."

"Right again. And if you ever slide down the cellar stairs on a broom handle, you'll agree."

"You're not a bit funny, and I'm in earnest. I'm going to tell Dan all about you and your wonderful coat."

"I'm getting jealous of this coat. You make me feel like one of those idiots in the clothing advertisements."

BELL AND CALORIC FURNACES

She paused abruptly and appraised him.

"You're the handsomest ever, and you know it. Let's not quarrel. There's a bench among those cedars where we can sit and talk. Beat you there!"

She and Scot hurried up the incline and Tallant followed. He found her quite out of breath, seated in a narrow band of moonlight. Her hazel eyes were brighter, her cheeks glowing.

"Now tell me how pretty I am," she said.

"Good enough to eat."

"Not with all these freckles."

He stepped closer and pretending to examine them, looked into her eyes.

"An archipelago of spicy charms, and not a tiny island to spare."

"Mr. Comber!"

Fifty yards away a motor car filled with a high school crowd swept past. Boys and girls were singing merrily.

"Moonlight is bright, Kiss me to-night."

Mrs. Jerrold rose and led the way back to the beach. Scot was racing in sheer joy through the icy water, and as Tallant paused Mrs. Jerrold stepped up to him and with one hand took hold of a pearl button of his coat. With the other she pointed southward.

"I want to walk and walk," she said, "over there."

The wind was rising and as a wave washed the dune beyond he said simply:

"Breakers ahead. You'll get your feet wet."

"Corry me, then," she whispered. Tallant looked at his watch.

"Nine-thirty, little lady."

She clung to the button.

"I want you to—dreadfully. That's why it seems so wrong, I suppose."

"We'll go back on top of the bluff," he said quickly. "Isn't there a path there?"

But Mrs. Jerrold held to the button, and as Tallant's arm went round her shoulder he bent over her. He was the first to sense the sound of voices from the bluff. Then a young fellow called out:

"Look who's here! Scot Jerrold!"

"Quick, get behind these cedars," ordered Tallant. "Some young people are gathering Christmas greens."

Tallant tore off some nearby limbs. "Go right on home with these," he directed, adding pine to the sprays of cedar.

She took the armful and went on up the bluff, hurried down the Mason street incline and was soon back home.

Norah was beginning to worry. Mr. Jerrold had been calling from Grand Rapids, but the greens explained everything!

But Mrs. Jerrold's "great adventure" was not ended. By midnight she had made up the greens into wreaths and was beginning to think about that novel when the 'phone rattled. It was Mrs. Chilton.

"My dear, it's all over town! Just make a clean breast of it and let it die out," advised that lady not unkindly.

Mrs. Jerrold reeled as the blood leaped to her temples.

"Julia," she cried in a voice that choked her, "it's all a lie—an awful lie, I tell you."

"Wingate pride, Lucy. I see you've developed a sliding scale of morals for anything that hits home. Forgive me."

It was a much distressed Norah who finally got Mrs. Jerrold upstairs and to bed. Those awful tale-bearing high school students had ruined her in her home town! Dan would forgive, but he was not one to forget. And yet she yearned to see him, to have her cry out on his broad shoulder of blue serge!

At last the taxi arrived. It was past 8 o'clock and sunshine flooded the pretty room. The familiar step of precision sounded on the porch. The lock turned.

"Oh, Lucy!" came cheerily from below. She began to cry again in to her pillow as Norah began to speak. Then Dan Jerrold bounded upstairs.

"Everything's all right, honey," he told her. "Ted was short but it didn't amount to—"

"Oh, that's what Julia meant," thought Mrs. Jerrold, turning a tear-stained face to her husband. "How's that Dan?" she asked, still somewhat bewildered.

"I said your brother was short at the bank, but everything's fixed up and all right now. I got him a job in Detroit, and he's gone to work. I couldn't leave too many breakers ahead of Ted."

"Breakers ahead! Am I hearing right, Dan darling?"

"Course you are, honey. And you're all worn out. Lie down and sleep."

"Not much! I want to have breakfast with you and Baby Nan. Will you come up in 10 minutes and carry me down?"

"Will I?"

As Dan left the room Mrs. Jerrold threw back the covers and ran to her dresser. Her face, radiantly happy, suddenly became grave.

Pointing an accusing finger at the reflection there, she looked into steady eyes and exclaimed aloud:

"Lucy Jerrold, no more nonsense."

EXPERIENCE NEEDED WITH ALFALFA CROP

Farmer Soon Learns Best Time for Cutting Plant.

Government Experts Lean Strongly Toward Fewer Crops During Year, Holding That Larger Tonnage Can Be Secured.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Just when to cut alfalfa and how many times to harvest a crop in one season are questions which have received studied attention from experts in the United States Department of Agriculture and the various experiment stations in alfalfa-producing states. Ordinarily it is a good time to cut alfalfa for hay when the new shoots have started from the crown, and from one-tenth to one-fifth of the plants are in flower. But these two conditions do not always occur at the same time. However, the former with a little experience, and keeping in mind the lower and new shoots, soon is able to tell when his alfalfa crop should be cut. The former's best judgment will be called into play, with preference given to the welfare of the plant rather than the size of the crop.

Experiments on government plots seem to prove that cutting is not essential to the welfare of the plant, but is only a means of getting hay. Plots of alfalfa that have not been cut

An Excellent Stand of Alfalfa.

In six years are in better physical condition today than those that have been cut regularly. Government agricultural experts lean strongly toward fewer crops of alfalfa a year, holding that as large tonnage can be secured, for example, with three as with four cuttings, and with less labor. Emphasis is laid on the necessity of leaving time enough after the last harvest to permit the plants to get a healthy growth, approximately four inches, before frost.

CULL POOR PRODUCING HENS

Work Should Be Started in Summer and During Early Fall Months—Comb Is Indicator.

The hens should be culled out during the summer and early fall months, beginning to cull out the poor producers just as soon as they stop laying, which is usually in July and August. When a hen is laying her comb will be large, full of blood, and bright red in color. As she stops laying, the comb becomes small and shrunken, pale or dull in color, and is usually rather hard. Another good indication to use in selecting those hens which stop laying early is molting, as the hens that start to molt early—that is, in July and August—are usually the poorest producers.

While a hen which has molted most of her feathers is very easy to pick out by sight without examination, the only way to ascertain accurately when the hens begin to molt is to handle them. Before the body and wing feathers are molted in any great number you will find short pin feathers growing thickly on the back and in the feather tracts running back from the breast, indicating that these hens have started to molt and probably have stopped laying if their combs and general appearance indicate non-production. The pelvic bones are also helpful in making this test as these two bones tend to close up when the hen stops laying. If the spread between these bones measures two fingers or less the probability is that the hen is not laying, while if the spread is greater, together with other indications mentioned, she is probably laying.

FIRST VICTOR RECORD

EDWARD A. GUEST

Hear him recite the three of his poems appearing below. Ask to hear Number 45258. They are now in stock with other of the latest Victor productions.

IT COULDN'T BE DONE

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied
That "maybe it couldn't," but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he'd tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done and he did it.

Somebody scoffed: "Oh, you'll never do that;
At least no one ever has done it;"
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat
And the first thing we knew he'd begun it.
With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin,
Without any doubting or quiddit,
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done,
There are thousands to prophesy failure;
There are thousands to point out to you one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you.
But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Just take off your coat and go to it;
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That "cannot be done," and you'll do it.

MA AND THE AUTO

Before we take an auto ride Pa says to Ma: "My dear, Now just remember I don't need suggestions from the rear."

If you will just sit still back there and hold in check your fright,
I'll take you where you want to go and get you back all right.

Remember that my hearing's good and also I'm not blind,
And I can drive this car without suggestions from behind."

Ma promises that she'll keep still, then off we gayly start.
But soon she notices ahead a peddler and his cart.
"You'd better toot your horn," says she, "to let him know we're near;

He might turn out!" and Pa replies: "Just shriek at him my dear."

And then he adds: "Some day, some guy will make a lot of dough

By putting horns on tonneau seats for women folks to blow!"

A little farther on Ma cries: "He signaled for a turn!"
And Pa says: "Did he?" in a tone that's hot enough to burn.

"Oh, there's a boy on roller skates!" cries Ma. "Now do go slow.

I'm sure he doesn't see our car." And Pa says: I dunno, I think I don't need glasses yet but really it may be That I am blind and cannot see what's right in front of me."

If Pa should speed the car a bit some rigs to hurry past Ma whispers: "Do be careful now. You're driving much too fast."

And all the time she's pointing out the dangers of the street

And keeps him posted on the roads where trolley cars he'll meet.

Last night when we got safely home, Pa sighed and said:

"My dear,
I'm sure we've all enjoyed the drive you gave us from the rear!"

"WAIT TILL YOUR PA COMES HOME"

"Wait till your Pa comes home!" Oh, dear!
What a dreadful threat for a boy to hear.

Yet never a boy of three or four
But has heard it a thousand times or more.

Wait till your Pa comes home, my lad,
And see what you'll get for being bad.

"Wait till your Pa comes home, you scamp!
You've soiled the walls with your fingers damp.
You've tracked the floor with muddy feet
And fought with the boy across the street;
You've torn your clothes and you look a sight!
But wait till your Pa comes home tonight."

Now since I'm the Pa of that daily threat
Which paints me as black as a thing of jet,
I rise in protest right here to
I won't be used in so fierce a way;
No child of mine in the evening gloam
Shall be afraid of my coming home.

I want him waiting for me at night
With eyes that glisten with real delight;
When it's right that punished my boy should be
I don't want the job postponed for me
I want to come home to a round of joy
And not to frighten a little boy.

"Wait till your Pa comes home!" Oh, dear,
What a dreadful threat for a boy to hear.
Yet that is ever his Mother's way
Of saving herself from a bitter day;
And well she knows in the evening gloam
He won't be hurt when his Pa comes home.

"THE MAN WE WANT"

Advertisements which include these words are appearing frequently in the papers. They are widely distributed, throwing open the avenues of opportunity to the "right man" wherever he may be. Usually they are addressed to young men, but as ability is sought it is reasonable to conclude that fellows turned 50 who have not lost ambition and possess brains, energy, enthusiasm, ideas and adaptability would not be barred from consideration on account of age. The advertisers seem to want supermen. At any rate they have important work to be done and then announce their readiness to pay generously for the services of those who can qualify.

The significance of these quests for high class men by large business organizations goes far beyond their affirming the truth that there "Always is room at the top." Not only is there room, but there does not appear to be anyone capable of filling the vacancies and getting the big money. Not only are there highly desirable places "going begging" in this time of general business depression but the managers of big business envisage the approach of better times and are making preparations to meet increased demands, enlarge their scales and improve their service.

Verily, these are golden days for courageous youth of America who have also the ability of which business is so much in want. Golden days notwithstanding the dark background which has so many scared into activity. "The man we want" exists of course. But it is for him to reveal himself and go after the big job at the beckon. It is for the men who know themselves, have confidence in themselves, possess the courage to attempt new things, to come forth and pick up jobs worth while.

THE ILLS OF HAITI

Why this social and political turmoil on Haiti, a rugged island east of Cuba, about 400 miles long and from 24 to 165 miles wide, with a population of over 2,500,000, nine-tenths of them negroes and the remaining one-tenth, Mulattoes and a few whites? Only recently, since the publication of a series of dispatches which were transmitted by between Mr. Daniels, Secretary of Navy at the time of the intervention, and Admiral Caperton, in command of the American forces in Haitian waters, have we learned the part our military authorities had in subjecting the people of Haiti. Witnesses have testified to the reign of terror—the burning of villages, illegal imprisonment, and torture. Even Brigadier Commander Butler stated that upon one occasion he dissolved the National Assembly by using his armed Marines. Is it any wonder that the natives of Haiti resent alien rule?

Some of this trouble was created when our officials intervened to gain control of Haiti's revenues and to force the ratification of a treaty made by the last Administration. Some of this trouble is inherent in the Haitian people themselves, for the mulattoes and negroes have a mutual feeling of hatred and contempt for each other. This antagonism may be partly due to the marked difference between the social and vocational status of the two classes. The mulattoes, who form the aristocracy of the blacks, occupy prominent positions in state affairs as well as in the professions. The negroes, who form the lower stratum of society, are ignorant, superstitious, and in many cases, unwilling to adhere to fair and honorable methods in maintaining peace. Yet, whatever may be the internal disturbance of the Haitian people, we have no moral right to take advantage of their weaknesses. They, like most republics, can best solve their own problems.

Haiti, then, ought to be free to develop her own soul. That means the return of independence, a legality, of recognition, of good will to the Haitian people. By doing that we are not only vindicating ourselves but shall have cured some of the ills of the island blacks.

Moved by Ald. Hamilton seconded by Ald. Levinson the adoption of the following resolution. Motion carried.

Resolved, by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix, that, Whereas, William Finucan, a former member of this body, and a well-loved and respected citizen of Charlevoix, departed this life on Sunday, the twenty-fifth day of December, nineteen hundred twenty-one, and

Whereas, Mr. Finucan, during a long residence in this city had become intimately associated with its interests and welfare. He was intensely loyal to his home community and its people, and at no time permitted his zeal to be chilled or overcome. More than this, he was truly American in his ideals, and his patriotic devotion to country was an inspiration. In him, the love of home, the steadfast fidelity to family, and the affectionate watchfulness over his loved ones stood forth as an enduring example. Of him, unnumbered friends speak words of thoughtful tribute.

"Here was a friend whose heart was good. Who walked with men and understood. His was a voice that spoke to cheer, And fell like music on the ear. His was a smile men loved to see, His was a hand that asked no fee. For friendliness, or kindness done. And now that he has journeyed on, His is a fame that never ends. He leaves behind uncounted friends."

Therefore Be It Resolved, That this body convey to the family of the deceased an expression of its sincere and profound sympathy in their hour of sorrow, and commend to them the comforting consolation to be found in the memory of a life well lived.

Resolved Further, That this resolution be spread at length on the records of the Council, and that a copy, suitably inscribed, be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

Adopted by unanimous vote of the Common Council at a regular meeting held in the Council Rooms, Tuesday, the third day of January, A. D., nineteen hundred twenty-two.

Grover C. Genett, Mayor pro tem.
Archie Livingston, City Clerk.

Moved by Ald. Hamilton seconded by Ald. Miller the Council adjourn. Motion carried.

INVITATIONS WERE UNIQUE AND PRETTY

Forty-four guests entertained at Young Bungalow

The lights showed bright in welcome and a fire burned on the hearth for the 44 guests who were bidden to the festivities at the Young bungalow on Park avenue last Thursday night.

The very unique invitations to the affair consisted in a colored photo showing the big stone bungalow at night with the lights beaming cheerfully through the doors and windows. On the edge of the photo an inscription extended the hospitality of the host and hostess to the fortunate recipients.

The home, which was tastefully decorated received a great deal of praise from the guests.

After a warm reception, cards were played till ten-thirty at which time refreshments were served. Then followed an hour of dancing out of which all the guests derived a vast amount of exhilaration and real fun.

All had a jolly good time and the evening will long be remembered.

Mr. and Mrs. Young are to be congratulated on both the excellent and the beautiful home.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Mr. Long was snowbound in Petoskey and unable to get here for New Years' but will preach next Sunday morning and evening from the texts announced last week.

Sunday school at 12 o'clock. The lesson is I Kings 17:1-16.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6 o'clock will be led by Miss Mad-daugh. Topic: "Utilizing Opportunities."

The every member canvass is to be made Sunday afternoon, January 8th.

The annual meeting is to be held Tuesday, January 10th at 7:30 p. m. The Y. P. S. C. E. is planning a young peoples' banquet for January 17th, Tuesday.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The White Gift offering of Christmas Sunday was $79.89. The Sunday school has adopted a plan to do special evangelistic work for the time between and leading up to Easter.

The subject this Sunday morning is "Getting" and the pastor will take the theme, "The Tenth for God." Opportunity will be given the audience to ask questions. We pay the merchant his money for groceries, we pay the government its taxes, we pay the physician for his services and so we pay the tenth to God.

The Sunday school lessons are now in the old testament. They are the same lessons that were studied 31 years ago. This Sunday's topic is "Trusting the Word of Jehovah."

We have heard it said that the Sunday schools' attendance does not equal the day school attendance of our city and that too when the Sunday school counts adults in its number. Is it more important to train the mental faculties than the spiritual?

Epworth League shows new life with the new year. A good corps of department heads will give a leadership equal to our needs. We call upon all young people to rally round the standard.

The Sunday evening service takes an evangelistic trend. If you are honestly inquiring the way to God and want any help in being directed correctly call on us or come to the services and we will be glad to assist you.

Our church's slogan is "At your service; anytime, anywhere." We will be glad to respond to your call.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. We will talk on "What prayer can do in my life." Will you come and tell us what prayer has done for you?

At Barnard Sunday there will be Sunday school at one o'clock and preaching at two. Kindly remember we have services. The pastor will be present even though it storms.

At the convention gathering in Charlevoix January 25th, in our church, the speakers will be: Dr. Gilbert, traveler in New Mexico, and Dr. Willis S. Rowe of Africa. These are both world famed missionaries. The group attending will be laymen and members from Ellsworth, Atwood, Norwood, Barnard, East Jordan and Charlevoix.

First Church of Christ, Scientist Sunday service at 10:45 a. m. subject, "Sacrament."

Sunday school at 12 o'clock. Wednesday evening service at 7:45.

"Hands up!" It was the speed cop speaking! And there wasn't any argument. Because the speedometer read 90 miles! And though she tried to tell him that she had to get there, and though she used her eyes for all they were worth, there was no use. Ha wasn't human! For no human could resist Bebe Daniels in "The Speed Girl" at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

Maurice Tourneur, who was so successful recently in his picture of "Treasure Island," has taken another Robert Louis Stevenson story as the basis of his latest production, "The White Circle," coming to the Palace Theatre next Wednesday. The picture was adapted from "The Pavilion on the Links." "The White Circle" abounds in spectacular effects and artistic backgrounds which are always associated with Maurice Tourneur's name. Janice Wilson, Spottiswoode Aitken, and Jack Gilbert have the leading roles. It is a Paramount Artcraft picture.

NEW PALACE THEATRE

Especially Good Attractions For This Week

THURSDAY, JANUARY 5—Paramount Artcraft presents Ethel Clayton in "Crooked Streets," supported by Jack Holt and Clyde Fillmore. Where East meets west and both tumble their rascals into the dens of Shanghai. See a moving picture that moves actually taken in the Paris of the Orient. Also a one-reel Rolin comedy.

NEXT SATURDAY and SUNDAY—Big double program. Realart presents Bebe Daniels in her very latest production, "The Speed Girl." The story of a girl who loved speed. To whom any thing under fifty miles an hour was like standing still. That's Bebe Daniels in "Speed Girl." A speedy, dashing roaring, six-cylinder, hundred and twenty fun power, record beating comedy with Bebe Daniels at the wheel. Also a two reel Charlie Chaplin comedy, "One A. M."

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11th—Paramount presents a Maurice Tourneur picture "The White Circle." Another mighty thriller by the screen's master of sweeping melodrama. Also the 14th chapter of "The King of the Circus."

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Many Sign Contracts

It is reported that out of 242 cherry growers on the peninsula, 233 have signed contracts to deliver their 1922 crop to the Grand Traverse Packing Co. and have bought stock in the corporation. The crop will total about 2,500,000 pounds. The 1921 crop netted the growers in this deal approximately eleven cents per pound for cherries delivered and seven per cent on the money invested.—Traverse City Record-Eagle.

Said to Have Confessed

Frank Boursall, whose home is said to be at Trout Lake, Mich., is being held in the Emmet county jail in Emmet county circuit court on a grand larceny charge. It is alleged that Boursall stole a valuable watch and chain from his room-mate, Joe Cutler. Boursall is said to have confessed. The watch was recovered from its hiding place in a bank of snow.—Petoskey Evening News.

Ill From Alcoholic Poisoning

Mrs. Louis Gasco, wanted in Emmet county in connection with the Gasco burglary case, remains in a critical condition at Charlevoix. She has been ill for several weeks from alcoholic poisoning. Her husband was one of the Gasco party recently sentenced to terms in state prison for burglary. He has not yet been taken to prison.—Petoskey Evening News.

Some Dog for Fox

Henry Keeler's dog started a fox last Thursday about 8 a. m., out near white sands, north of Lake Mitchell. Mr. Keeler waited until 5 p. m., but the dog did not return. He gave up and came home. Two days later a call came from a Mr. Reed at Mackinaw City, who stated he had shot a fox ahead of a dog whose collar bore a plate inscribed with name and telephone number of Mr. Keeler. The Cadillac man went to Mackinaw City and found his dog and also that the fox which had been killed appeared to be the same red fox which his dog had started on Thursday. Mr. Reed gave the fox to Mr. Keeler as a souvenir of the dog's long jaunt.—Cadillac Evening News.

Alanson Postmaster Named

M. S. Markham, former Emmet county treasurer, has been confirmed by the United States Senate for postmaster at the village of Alanson, Mr. Markham's home for a great many years.

Mr. Markham was one of those who took the examination for this office in Petoskey some weeks ago and was recommended to the president for the appointment by Congressman Frank D. Scott.

Friends of the former Emmet county official are offering congratulations, and, coming as it did, at the Christmas season, the appointment was a most acceptable holiday greeting.

During his years in the county treasurer's office Mr. Markham conducted the affairs of the county in a business-like manner and made a great many friends who feel confident he will make a splendid record at the Alanson postoffice.—Petoskey Evening News.

Dr. Parks No. 41144 Victim

Dr. W. H. Parks received one holiday remembrance Christmas Eve which was unappreciated.

While attempting to crank a cranky Ford, the old story again happened, and he received a badly smashed right hand, one of the bones being broken and the hand badly smashed. While suffering from the injury, he is about his professional duties as usual with the hand in a splint. It is hoped that nothing serious will develop from the injury.—East Jordan Herald.

LIVE STOCK

NOT WISE TO OVERLOAD CARS

Death or Injury of Animals Means Heavy Loss to Shipper—Temptation to Crowd Is Great.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It makes quite a difference in the profits of the farmer stock raiser whether he obtains 8½ cents per pound for his hogs as meat or from ¼ to ¾ cent per pound for them as dead hogs and soap-grease material. Which of these prices he obtains depends upon how the animals are loaded in the cars. Many shippers, either through ignorance or in an effort to save a small amount of freight, overload or improperly load their live stock when sending it to market, and thereby run great risks of sustaining serious losses through crippled or dead animals, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture.

With freight rates at their present levels there is a strong temptation to economize on this item of expense by crowding a few more animals into an already well-filled car. Representatives of the department, however, who see thousands of carloads of live stock unloaded at the great central markets, are of the opinion that if farmers and stockmen could see the condition in which much of the live stock reaches the stockyards they would be impressed not only with the folly of overloading, but also with the absolute necessity of taking every precaution against injury and death of the animals while in transit.

Overloading is one of the commonest, and at the same time most serious, mistakes made by the inexperienced or careless shipper. It seems such an easy matter to crowd just a few more animals into a car, and the fact that once in a great while an overloaded car will go through without serious mishap seems to urge the shipper on to tempt fate just once more. This wise shipper, however, will have nothing to do with this false economy, say specialists of the department. He will lay down a hard and fast rule to load only as many animals in the car as can ride comfortably, and from this rule he will not deviate.

The chances of loss through overloading are greater in warm weather than in cold. Temperatures may be such at the time of loading that the animals are fairly comfortable, but before they reach market the weather turns suddenly hot, with the result that anywhere from one to 12 animals suffocate. This is particularly true of hogs. The shipper should remember that stock cars frequently stand in freight yards completely hemmed in by trains of box cars. Under such circumstances, if the animals are crowded in the car and the weather is hot, overheated and dead animals are almost certain to result.

Another mistake frequently made is to load mixed stock without proper partitions. When two or more species of live stock are shipped in the same car they should generally be kept separate by building strong partitions. This is particularly important when large animals are shipped with smaller ones.

It has been found that shipping live animals any considerable distance is an undertaking always fraught with some risk. This risk, however, may be materially reduced, in the opinion of department specialists.

The exact number of animals that should be shipped in a car, naturally, varies with the size of the car, the size and kind of animals, the length of haul, the season of the year, and weather conditions. There can be no variation, however, in the general rule that the animals should have sufficient room to be reasonably comfortable, and that the car should be so partitioned that large animals cannot trample the smaller ones, and that aggressive and quarrelsome animals cannot injure those with a more quiet and timid disposition.

Even at the present comparatively low price of live stock a single dead or crippled animal invariably represents a substantial loss, and in many instances wipes out the profit on the entire shipment.

Only Difficulty He Found.

Her chief object was to make a fool of the latest fashionable philosopher. "Tell me," she cooed, "don't you find it a little difficult sometimes to write all those hard things about women?" The philosopher regarded her with impartial eyes. "There is a certain difficulty, madam," he replied; "but it is purely one of selection."

ELLSWORTH WINS SNAPPY CONTEST

Defeat East Jordan Basketeers 15 to 14 in Hard-Fought Game

The local independent basket ball team won their first game of the season on Monday night when they scored a 15-14 victory over the East Jordan independents in the snappiest and hardest fought game ever pulled on the Ellsworth floor.

The playing of Kaiser at center for the winners was a shining spot in the game, the "Duke" playing a bang-up game at center as well as scoring ten of the total points. The work of the East Jordan guards, Donaldson and Muelstine was as good as the best, our forwards being covered every minute of the game. Parsons and Lloyd Yettaw forming the guard defense for Ellsworth were also on the job every minute but the former displayed a little too much enthusiasm on a few occasions and had two personals chalked against him.

The independents expect to stage several games here during the winter and if they keep up the good work of the first game deserve and will no doubt receive good support from the local fans.

ANTRIM COUNTY'S FARMING INTERESTS

Frank Sparks in Grand Rapids Herald on Local Agriculture

Sparks of the Grand Rapids Herald, assistant editor of that excellent paper, has been writing up the varied farming interests of Western Michigan. In an issue the latter part of last week he has a lengthy article in which he claims this county leads the state in certified seed potatoes, and it's a big paying crop. We quote a couple of paragraphs from his article:

"Another industry, one which is bringing many thousands of dollars to Antrim county, is the producing of honey. A considerable number of bee-keepers are making a most interesting success of that branch of farming. The great growth of wild raspberries, sweet clover, milk weed and golden rod is doing much to make this honey almost as well known as are seed potatoes. Moreover, the bees in Antrim county up to this time have been singularly free from disease.

"Fruit growing is another very important industry in Antrim, more particularly on the west side of the county centering around Elk Rapids. Some vast orchards are bringing wealth and fame to their owners all through there.

"These are some of the things they do in Antrim county, but what is really accomplished is best shown by the fact that T. E. Niles took Antrim county's exhibit to the Columbus, O., fair last year and there in competition with the favored farmers of Ohio showed every single product that they showed except tobacco, and could have shown some of that grown in Antrim but didn't think of it, and also showed several products which Ohio exhibitors could not show."

He also speaks at length of our dairying interests which have grown to considerable magnitude. We believe the townships of Milton and Torch Lake are the only towns in the county having a cow-testing association although other townships are moving toward such organizations.

CONTROL OF CODLING MOTH

Entomologists Find That Arsenate of Lead is More Effective Than Nicotine Sulphate.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Nicotine sulphate is not as efficient in the control of the codling moth as powdered arsenate of lead. It has been shown in experiments conducted by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. For several years nicotine and its compounds have been used against certain soft-bodied insects as contact insecticides, and within the past few years the question has been raised concerning the effects of nicotine sulphate upon the eggs and early instars of other insects which are commonly controlled by other means. To obtain reliable information on this subject the department entomologists conducted a series of experiments both in the laboratory and field, a report of which has just been published in Department Bulletin 938.

In the laboratory tests it was found that nicotine sulphate, with one exception, was inefficient against the eggs of the silkworm moth, codling moth, tussock moth and potato beetle. The eggs sprayed with it were variously affected depending upon the strength of the spray solution used, on the age of the eggs tested, and whether or not the solution contained soap. Upon the eggs of three of the species of insects used there was practically no difference in the effects between solutions containing soap and those without soap, although those with soap were much more effective upon the eggs of the tussock moth.

Comparing the effects of the spray solution, 1:800, the strongest of the economic solutions used, the percentages of eggs sprayed with it that failed to hatch are as follows: Ninety-nine per cent of the freshly laid eggs of the silkworm moth, but only 75 per cent of the older eggs of the same insect; about 20 per cent of the codling moth eggs on apple tree foliage; 75 per cent of the tussock moth eggs (one the mountainous region of Grand Junction, Colo., and the semiarid region at Roswell, N. M. The experiments show that nicotine sulphate 1:800 with soap gave a fair degree of control for the codling moth at Benton Harbor and Roswell, but that it was not as effective as one pound of powdered arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. It was found also that there was no practical advantage in combining arsenate of lead and nicotine sulphate in sprays designed to control the codling moth. At Grand Junction, where the infestation was much heavier, nicotine sulphate 1:800 without soap was inefficient against the codling moth.

NEGLECT LAYS ORCHARD LOW

One Tree Properly Cared For Is Better Than Dozen Allowed to Shift for Themselves.

It is neglect that lays the orchard low and deprives the farm income of its just contribution; neglect that fails to prime at least once each season; neglect that fails to combat insect pests, that fails to remove dead growth promptly and destroy it. One tree that is properly pruned and sprayed will earn you more profit than a dozen that are allowed to shift for themselves. And a dozen berry bushes properly handled will outrank a hundred that have to fight their own battle for existence.

MARRIES PROMINENT NEWSPAPER MAN

Mrs. Mary Alma Shilton was a Former Charlevoix Girl

The Courier has received from Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien of this city, the announcement of the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Mary Alma Shilton, to Mr. Edward Cutler Easton, a prominent newspaper man of Washington, D. C., on November 23rd, 1921. Mrs. Shilton has been located in the national capital for several years.

Mr. Easton is one of the Washington correspondents now covering the activities of the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments. He is the head of the Washington bureau of the Philadelphia Enquirer, and has a wide journalistic experience. He also covers special economic features for the Wall Street Journal, and is the Washington representative of the Fourth Estate, a publication devoted exclusively to the interests of newspaper publishers and advertisers. His past services include extensive editorial work on Washington Post and Cincinnati Enquirer, as well as special articles for the Manufacturer's Record, Leslie's, the American Economist and other notable publications.

Mr. and Mrs. Easton will take an active part in the social life of Washington, having already attended some notable gatherings including dinners and receptions to the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, the Rt. Hon. Lord Lee of Fareham, England's representatives to the conference, and receptions to the French, the Japanese, the Netherlands, and the Chinese delegations.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien have just returned from a visit to their daughter.

DAIRY FACTS

SUCCULENT FEED FOR COWS

Dried Apple Pomace Does Not Cause Decrease in Milk Flow Nor Yield of Butterfat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dried or "evaporated" apple pomace is a succulent feed for the dairy cow. It is the subject of a preliminary report from the bureau of chemistry and animal industry of the United States Department of Agriculture based on an experiment to determine the feeding value of dried apple pomace, especially its suitability as food for cows in lactation. Preliminary results are reported because of a large number of inquiries on the subject.

The text of the report follows: It appears there is a belief among dairymen that the dried product has a tendency to cut down the milk flow, or even cause cows to go dry, although apple pomace fresh from the cider press is generally recognized as being a good succulent feed for milk cows. To test the soundness of this belief a feeding trial has been carried out by the department. Only one cow was used in this test, and the total quantity of dried pomace fed was less than 400 pounds; therefore it must be borne in mind that the results obtained, while indicative, cannot be accepted as conclusive.

In this feeding trial the dried apple pomace was fed wet and its feeding value compared with that of corn silage, since it is intended to be a succulent feed. The pomace was prepared by adding to the dry material three times its weight of water several hours before feeding, thus producing a feed similar in water content to that of corn silage.

For a period of 30 days the cow received a balanced ration consisting of grain, hay, and corn silage. The silage was then replaced by the apple pomace for a similar length of time following a ten-day transition period for the change in diet, and after a like transition period at the end of 30 days the original ration containing silage was resumed and continued for a third 30-day period.

The quantity fed—36 pounds of wet pomace per day—was such that the total dry matter in the pomace equaled the weight of dry matter in the silage replaced. The quantities of grain and hay fed remained practically constant throughout the whole experiment.

While the data obtained are not sufficient to warrant the drawing of final and definite conclusions, the indications are that no bad effects follow the feeding of dried apple pomace. There was no decrease in the milk flow nor in the yield of butterfat.

When fed as described the dried pomace appeared to be equal, pound for pound of dry matter, to good corn silage as a succulent feed for this dairy cow. Owing to the property which it possesses of absorbing large quantities of water and swelling, it should never be fed dry, but should be allowed to soak in water for an hour or so before feeding. The pomace appears to be a palatable feeding stuff.

Caution is advised in feeding dried apple pomace, as there is a possibility that the feeding of large quantities, or

TO PREVENT DREAD DISEASE

Foot-and-Mouth Ailment Need Not Be Feared If French Serum Proves Reliable.

The dread foot-and-mouth disease will no longer be feared by cattlemen if the announcement of the discovery of a serum for the prevention of this disease by a group of French scientists, proves reliable and if this serum can be manufactured in sufficient quantities. Several outbreaks of the disease have occurred in the United States, the last of them several years ago, causing a great loss. The only effective method of stamping out the disease heretofore has been to slaughter all cattle affected and thoroughly disinfect the premises.

EXERCISE QUITE IMPORTANT

Close Confinement During Winter Months Is Not Conducive to Profitable Results.

During the spring season fowls having free range get abundant exercise, but during the cold months many hens suffer from lack of exercise. Close confinement without exercise is not conducive to getting the best results from a flock, although the feed provided may be the best, for idle hens soon grow too fat to lay. It is almost impossible to give laying hens that are confined too much exercise.

The fowls may be encouraged to exercise in various ways, such as suspending cabbage heads, beets, etc., so that the birds have to jump for them, and scattering grain in the litter. The litter should be from four to eight inches deep and may consist of straw (either cut or whole), hay, leaves, buckwheat hulls, shredded corn fodder, or any like convenient material. The hens should be kept hungry enough so that they will work diligently all day for the corn scattered in this litter, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Whenever the litter becomes damp or soiled it must be removed and fresh put in.

GREEN FEEDS FOR CHICKENS

Sprouted Oats, Alfalfa Meal, Chopped Alfalfa, Clover Hay and Beets Are Recommended.

Good kinds of green feeds for hens in winter, recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture, are sprouted oats, alfalfa meal, chopped alfalfa and clover hay, cabbages and mangel beets. Cabbages may be hung up in the poultry house; the beets are usually split and stuck on a nail on the side wall of the pen about a foot above the floor to keep the feed clean. Keep oyster shells, grit, charcoal, and plenty of clean drinking water before the hens all the time.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHARLEVOIX

THE FINEST RESORT ON GREAT LAKES ITS FUTURE

If Proper Methods are Utilized for Development of City—Faces Many Vexing Problems

After seeing the famous resort towns in America and in Europe, I firmly believe that Charlevoix possesses the natural advantages to make it not only the finest resort on the Great Lakes, but literally one of the loveliest of its kind in the world. And so far, these natural advantages have been developed in such a way that the future of Charlevoix need not be seriously hampered, as many ambitious towns are, by the mistakes of the past. The future possibilities of the city lie ready to the hands of the men with the foresight to realize them. But two decisions are necessary before these possibilities can even be stated clearly. First of all we must decide just what we want Charlevoix to become. What type of resort do we want the town to be ten years from now? I believe this question could be easily decided. Probably we want the best of each type of resort development, and it may be wisdom to encourage and protect the growth of each type in particular sections of the city, adjoining or dovetailing each other but limiting each to its specified zones for its own protection and development. In the same way the industrial possibilities of Charlevoix may be examined, means devised to encourage new industries, and plans made for giving them the best transportation facilities, the best water and power service, and for limiting them to certain districts in such a way that they will not damage resort or residence property by noise or smoke.

Then, having determined in a general way what the people of Charlevoix, both permanent and summer residents wish to make of the town, the most economical and orderly way to attain this objective is to decide upon and follow far-sighted, comprehensive plans for that future. These plans should consider the city as a whole, but they should include each factor in municipal development: water supply, light and power, streets, pavements, and traffic control, drainage, and sewage disposal, parks and drives, industrial development, and city beautification. To follow such comprehensive, inter-related plans for ten years, in place of the piece-meal growth of most towns would, I feel sure, take Charlevoix a long way toward her finest destiny.

Such planning for the future is now being done in hundreds of American and European cities. It is, I think, the most significant tendency in municipal development in this generation. The idea is spreading fast, and in a few years towns which have not produced an all around plan for their growth will be left as far behind as towns without paved streets are now; those cities, the resort towns for example, which complete their town plans first, are certain to forge ahead of the others.

One most important aspect of such comprehensive planning is that it is, in a sense, done by the people themselves. Men trained in this work should of course direct the planning, but the wishes and ambitions of the citizens must be interpreted and expressed in the plans. All factions must be consulted and all real opinions heard. Public hearings on planning problems are often held, especially in the case of the city of Charlevoix. (Continued from page eight)

"PEACE DOLLAR" JUST PLACED IN CIRCULATION

The new silver dollar, the "peace dollar," has just been placed in circulation. Several hundred thousand having been shipped to the Federal Reserve banks by the federal mint at Philadelphia. The new coin was made in commemoration of the Arms Conference at Washington. It is designed with the head of Liberty on one side and on the other a dove upon a mountain top, clutching an olive branch, struck by the rays of the sun, with the word "Peace" beneath it. This is the first time the silver dollar has been changed since 1878. The coinage laws forbid any change in the design more often than once in 25 years except by special legislation. There will be 180,000,000 of the new coins issued, one-half of which will be dated 1921. The first dollar was sent by special messenger to President Harding.

GET LICENSE BEFORE DRIVING

Such is Warning to Autoists by County Officials

Charlevoix automobile and truck owners must have their 1922 license plates on their cars when they take them out or they will be prosecuted for the violation of the act regulating the operation of vehicles of this kind.

Both Sheriff Wenver and Chief of Police Welkel when interviewed by a Courier representative were both emphatic in their statements in regard to the use of license numbers of last year on automobiles now. Both pointed out that the law says that the new licenses must be on the automobiles after January 1st, and that they have no other course open to them than to see that the law is obeyed by one and all.

Sheriff Wenver stated that the law provided that the licenses must be obtained and be on automobiles and trucks when they are put in use this year, and that he has no power to alter or change the law or to make any rulings in favor of anyone who has not yet procured a license. He made it plain that the letter of the law will be followed by the sheriff's department of the county, and that the first of the week he had received a telegram from state officials directing him to do so.

Neither Sheriff Wenver or Chief Welkel believe that anyone can find fault with their departments if the officers follow the letter of the law, as the public is well aware of what the law has to say in regard to automobile licenses.

TAKE TAX OFF EXPRESS SHIPMENTS

PUBLIC TO SAVE AROUND $1,500,000 MONTHLY

War Tax of One Cent on Every 20 Cents in Transportation Charge as To Be Taken Off

The public will save approximately $1,500,000 a month as a result of the elimination of the war tax on express shipments, according to Geo. C. Taylor, president of the American Railway Express company. An announcement to this effect was made by R. A. Emrey, the local express agent.

The "Revenue Act of 1921" eliminates the war tax of one cent on every twenty cents and fractions thereof in transportation charges on all express shipments. This tax during the year of 1920 amounted to $17,502,918. The average transportation charge for each express shipment was approximately $1.50 and the average war tax for each shipment was eight cents. The elimination of the tax, therefore, amounted to a decrease in rates of a little over five per cent. Mr. Emrey believes that this should have a tendency to stimulate business and thereby accelerate the rapidly improving conditions throughout the entire country.

"The American Railway Express company handles approximately one million shipments a day or nearly four hundred million shipments a year," Mr. Emrey goes on to say. "The elimination of the tax will relieve the American Express company of an immense amount of labor which has been involved in calculating, entering on waybills, and collection of tax, not to mention the expense of checking and accounting entailed."

"The treasury department has requested express carriers to advise all claimants who have claims pending for overcharges, or who file such claims after December 31st 1921, that claims for refund of tax should be filed separately on treasury department form No. 46, with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue within four years from the time the tax was paid, claim being barred by statute of limitations if received after such time."

DEFEATED BY CATHOLIC HIGH

SCORE AT END CLOSE GAME IS FOURTEEN TO TEN

Local Team Puts Up Excellent Exhibition of Basketball Against Team of Veterans

The Charlevoix high school basketball team was beaten in a close game Friday night, by the Catholic high of Traverse City. The Catholics are a veteran team so that the score of 14 to 10 speaks well for the local team, with only one regular from last year to strengthen them.

The game was snappy, and featured by the excellent team work of the visitors, as well as by the poor passing and poorer shooting of the locals. These defects, however, are such that they can be remedied by practice, and when the team again appears at home it is hoped they will have been so remedied.

The boys are considerably handicapped in their efforts by having to play in a gym which is nearly impossible to maintain at a comfortable temperature.

Several of the team are or have been suffering from colds developed by exposure during practice. Even with the utmost care it is impossible to prevent all colds from this source. Moral: Charlevoix should have a gymnasium.

Next Friday the team goes to Harbor Springs. This team defeated Petoskey on Petoskey's floor by a score of 17 to 16, and the coming game should be full of thrills whoever wins. The team gives assurance that they will be on the long end of the score when time is called.

The line-up follows:

Charlevoix: T. C. Catholics Marshall, I. F. Horton, Capt. Mayne, R. F. Zeits, Ackert, Capt. C. Denoyer Jones, I. C. Wooda Todd, R. G. Mobio Field Goals: Harton 3, Mable 3, Ackert 2 in 3, Marshall 0 in 2, Horton 0 in 1. Substitutions: Traverse City, Pauls for Denoyer, Charlevoix Nordrum for Mayne. Referee, H. Craig.

This work has all been done by Mr. Priest, and while most of the reproductions are of local residents, some is work done for surrounding towns.

It is needless to say Charlevoix is fortunate in having a studio of this class and Mr. Priest is to be congratulated upon the success of his work.

NEW INCOME TAX LAW TO SAVE MUCH

BUT STILL HEAVY ON SMALL CORPORATIONS

Many Changes in Internal Revenue Act of Interest to Those Subject to It

The new revenue law as signed by the President makes many changes of benefit to the taxpayers and equalizes the tax burden.

The bill retains the 4 per cent normal tax upon the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal credits and the 8 per cent rate upon the remainder of the net income, the same as under existing law.

The surtax rates are readjusted so that the maximum rate after January 1, 1922, shall be 50 per cent instead of 65 per cent as under existing law. The loss of revenue from this change as compared with the receipts under existing law for the year 1922 is estimated at $55,000,000.

The bill increases the personal credit from $2,000 to $2,500 in the case of married persons and heads of families having incomes not in excess of $5,000.

It increases the exemption for dependents from $200 to $400.

The loss in revenue as compared with the receipts under existing law, due to the increase in the personal credit and the credit for dependents is estimated at $70,000,000.

The excess-profits tax is repealed as of January 1, 1922, and a 5 per cent corporation income tax is substituted therefor. The loss in revenue from the repeal of the excess-profits tax is estimated at $400,000,000 and the gain in revenue from the 5 per cent income tax is estimated at $262,000,000.

The $2,000 exemption is limited to corporations having incomes of $25,000 or less. The gain in revenue from this amendment is estimated at $30,000,000.

The estate tax rates upon the amount of estate over $15,000,000 are increased as follows:

30 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $15,000,000 and does not exceed $25,000,000.

30 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $25,000,000 and does not exceed $50,000,000.

40 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $50,000,000 and does not exceed $100,000,000.

50 per centum of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $100,000,000.

Under existing law the rate upon the amount of the net estate in excess of $10,000,000 is 25 per cent.

The passenger, freight, express, pullman and oil pipe line transportation taxes are repealed as of January 1, 1922.

Under existing law the annual revenue yield from the transportation taxes, is about $290,000,000 and from parcel post packages about $20,000,000.

The bill imposes the following taxes upon beer, wine and whiskey:

A tax upon medicinal beer of 60 cents a gallon. The rate under existing law is $6 per barrel. A tax upon medicinal wine at $1.20 a gallon. The rates under existing law vary according to the alcoholic content.

An additional tax upon whiskey withdrawn for medicinal purposes of $4.20 per gallon.

It is estimated that the additional revenue from the taxes on beer, wine, and whiskey will amount to about $52,000,000.

PRESCRIPTION NOT 'GOOD IF KEPT LONG BEFORE USING'

Dean Bosworth, of Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., offers the following prescription for health and happiness: A friendly thought for everyone you meet. A friendly smile wherever you think it would not be misunderstood. A friendly word for every acquaintance. A friendly act wherever you can get it in. To be applied with a liberal use of the lubricating of humor—the thing that makes us human. This prescription is recommended for all patients and im-patients, especially for those who suffer, or make other suffer from a sour spirit. In a postscript Dean Bosworth adds, the prescription will not be good if kept too long before using.

The bill imposes the following taxes upon soft drinks:

A tax of 2 cents per gallon upon cereal beverages, carbonated beverages and still drinks. The existing law imposes a 5 per cent manufacturers' sales tax upon cereal beverages and 10 per cent upon all other beverages.

A tax of 2 cents per gallon upon mineral waters selling at over 10 cents per gallon are taxed at 2 cents per gallon and artificial mineral waters at 10 per cent of the manufacturers' selling price.

A tax upon finished or fountain syrups of 7 1-2 cents per gallon, and upon carbonic acid gas of 3 cents per pound.

A tax upon finished syrups sold to bottles of 5 cents per gallon. The tax imposed upon soft drinks and syrups and carbonic acid gas are intended to place the taxes upon all forms of beverages upon an equal basis.

The bill exempts free admissions and admissions of 10 cents or less from the admissions tax.

The excise taxes are on the following articles repealed as of January 1, 1922.

Musical instruments, sporting goods, chewing gum, portable electric fans, thermos bottles, articles made of fur, toilet soaps, petroleum jellies, tooth and mouth washes, dentifrices, tooth pastes and toilet powders.

The tax on candy is reduced from 5 to 3 per cent.

A manufacturers' sales tax of 4 per cent is imposed upon perfumes, essences, extracts, toilet waters, cosmetics, etc.

PAY IN ADVANCE FOR ROAD WORK

NEW RULING BY STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

All Counties in Future Must Put Up Share of Truck Line Cost Before State Moves

The highway department will build no more trunk lines hereafter until the counties through which they are to run have advanced the county's share of the cost of construction, according to announcement made last week by Frank F. Rogers, highway commissioner.

The department finished the year 1921 owing approximately $2,000,000 to contractors and not having the money with which to pay it while the counties owe the department $2,400,000. If the money had been paid in advance, as the new ruling contemplates, the department would be able to pay all contractors immediately instead of waiting until federal aid state tax money and other funds are received.

Many of the contractors are in debt to private concerns for materials and to their workers for labor, and are in urgent need of the money that the state is not able to pay. By extending temporary aid to the highway department on the more urgent contracts, O. B. Fuller, auditor general has been able to prevent some of the contractors from very serious difficulties due to the state's failure to pay immediately.

The state, in its turn, owes the counties and townships upwards of $4,000,000 as rewards on roads built by them. This money, however, is not due the counties since it is intended primarily for maintenance and the law says it shall be paid only when there is sufficient money in the road fund to pay it.

Only $400,000 of this sum has been certified for payment. Some of it cannot be paid for more than a year in all probability. This is due to the unprecedented programs of road building undertaken by the counties during the past year.

In the future this over-expansion of local highway programs will be prevented by the new law which requires that counties obtain approval of the highway department before they commence construction of roads on which they intend to ask state aid.

Pleasant Surprise Party

Miss Alice Schweitzer was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening of last week, when six girl friends gathered at the A. MacNeill home on Antrim street to remind her of her birthday anniversary. Guests were the Misses Mary Newton, Vivian Ball, Ruth Chelles, Wilma Stevenson, Leone MacNeill, Lillian MacNeill, and the guest of honor, Miss Schweitzer.

LEGION PLANS WAR MEMORIAL

SUBMIT PROPOSITION TO COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

Plan to Erect a Gymnasium and Auditorium at Bridge Street and Belvedere Avenue

Citizens of Charlevoix! How would a community building erected on the city owned property at Belvedere avenue and Bridge street look to you? A building put up without bonding and its subsequent tax burden.

The Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, have taken hold of this project and are going to put it across. They are agreed that the most suitable war memorial that could be built; a memorial that would best typify the ideals for which men fought and many died; would be the building of a gymnasium and auditorium something of which Charlevoix has a most pressing need.

This property is ideally located and has a ninety foot frontage on Bridge street and 124 feet on Belvedere avenue with excellent light on four sides. Who can estimate the value of such a building in Charlevoix? A place where our citizens could go, and in comfort watch athletic contests; where, even to the smallest, our school children could go and lay the foundation for physical betterment which goes hand in hand with sound mentality and clean morals; physical culture classes for working girls and other women who cared to join; indoor baseball contests between a league of the lodges; an admirable place for the holding of high school lecture courses; dances, essential things to the community; in fact a place where the entire community, knowing it was their own, could meet on a common footing, bury old grievances, and depart with a spirit of co-operation, a well defined desire to pull together—all essential things to the community that is going to keep its growing talent at home and prosper.

What does the American Legion expect to get out of this? Nothing more than any citizen of Charlevoix with the exception of permanent club rooms. But Leslie T. Shapton post believes they can put this thing across and are already at work.

The proposition was placed before the city council Monday evening by a committee of representative members of the Legion. From their plans little trouble should be experienced in making the project a reality. At this early date definite plans are impossible, although the kind of building, method of financing and other details were explained. The matter will be taken up jointly by a committee from the council and Legion, who will decide upon the methods of procedure.

Such a project should have the backing of every man, woman and child who have a heart interest in Charlevoix's future. Let's go!

EDWARD STINSON BURIED TUESDAY

Death Takes Another of Charlevoix's Pioneer Settlers

Edward Stinson was born in Ontario, Can., January 8th, 1847, and died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Susan O'Neill in Charlevoix, January 5th, 1922, from heart disease.

Mr. Stinson came to Charlevoix 35 years ago, and had since made his home in this vicinity. Three years later he was married and to this union two sons, William and Edward, and three daughters, Ida, now Mrs. Clathorn of Grand Rapids, Nellie now Mrs. Kent and Mary, both of Charlevoix, were born, who survive him, besides his sister, Mrs. Susan O'Neill and a brother, William, of Canada.

The funeral was held from the O'Neill home on Sherman street, Tuesday afternoon, Rev. H. R. E. Quant officiating. Interment in Brookside.

FARM POULTRYSUCCESSFUL SQUAB RAISING

Birds Must Be Kept Free From Disease and Insect Parasites—Keep House Clean.

There is very little chance of making money from squabs, unless the pigeons can be kept comparatively free from disease and insect parasites, pigeon specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture point out. If healthy breeding stock is obtained, the houses and yards kept clean, and careful attention given to the birds, diseases and parasites should not be a troublesome factor in squab raising.

The stock should be carefully watched and any sick birds removed from the breeding pens. The house should be kept dry, clean, well ventilated, and free from drafts. Have the floor covered with 1 inch of fine gravel and rake off frequently the manure which collects on the top. Keep the yards clean either by scraping the surface and adding fresh sand or gravel, or by digging over the land and, if possible, planting it to grain.

The nests, nest boxes, and pens should be kept clean, but it is not advisable to disturb more than necessary the nests that contain eggs or squabs. Spray the pens frequently with white-wash containing a little crude carbolic acid, or with a coal-tar disinfectant; examine the birds for feather lice, which are troublesome, especially in hot weather. Birds having many lice should be treated with sodium fluorid, either dusting by the pinch method or dipping in a solution, the latter method being preferable. The nests or nest pans should be cleaned out and the nesting material removed whenever dirty, care being taken not to disturb the squabs any more than is absolutely necessary.

SHARKS TAKEN OFF NEW YORK

Their Capture Said to Have Been a Regular Thing Prior to and During Year 1915.

A shark nowadays even on the most exposed benches of New York and the metropolitan area is a rarity and a curiosity, but there was a time when these fish used to be caught off Cuthbert slip, says the New York Sun. This was about 1915, when the fishing smacks and fish cars used to unload and load off this wharf in the East river and the dead fish thrown out into the water used to attract the sharks.

An old man, Sam Way, a porter in the old Cuthbert market, earned a reputation as a master shark catcher. "Shark around the slip," was the cry that was raised when a shark was sighted off the pier and then Sam would drop his brown and put out his chain hook and soon would have the giant fish straggling on the dock. He is said to have hauled in as many as seven in one day, some of them fourteen feet long.

Devoe, the historian, tells an incident which is passed on herewith without contradiction:

"One day Sam hooked a big one and he climbed into a skiff which lay tied to the end of the slip; the shark took to pulling and broke loose the skiff with Sam in, and away he went down the river at race-horse speed, nearly as far as Red Hook before he tired out, or Sam could hold him up. He, however, mustered him and brought him back, and Sam after that concluded not to be run away with again. So he stuck to the raft or dock when he fished for 'shark' thereafter."

White Men in South Africa Hardly Recognized by Appellation of Brave and Noble Indians.

Their adventure in Swaziland is told by a doctor who just returned from a ten years' sojourn there and who, with two other white men, was made sub-chief in the Swazi tribe of South African negroes. The white men were not eager for the experience, and the initiation was far from an inducement, the rule requiring that they should spend ten days of purgatory exile from human society, in native dress, with only native weapons, depending upon their skill in the use of these for food. The doctor told with considerable feeling how they were stripped by the leading medicine man of every shred of clothing, given Swazi warrior costumes and conducted into the hills. They were bitten by insects, scratched by thorns, frozen at night, scorched by day, their bare feet bruised and abraded until they were in agony, kept in constant fear of the many poisonous snakes

TRAFFIC CENSUS FOR ROADS

Motorists on Connecticut-Massachusetts State Line Contribute Much Information.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thirty thousand motorists who were stopped on the Springfield-Hartford road at the Connecticut-Massachusetts state line, have contributed valuable information to the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, which, when analyzed, will assist the department to determine more rational methods of road design to meet varying traffic needs.

The motorists were counted in the first traffic census to give complete information ever undertaken by the bureau. The work was done in co-operation with state highway departments of Massachusetts and Connecticut, and will be duplicated in the near future elsewhere. It was taken between August 16 and 20, covered 146 day hours and 26 night hours, and resulted in accurate records concerning 30,851 vehicles. For passenger cars this information covers type, make, number of passengers, time, direction, starting point and destination. The state authorities recorded, in addition, license numbers and engine information. The work was handled so expeditiously that the average stop lasted only 15 seconds.

Trucks were stopped somewhat longer—100 seconds for south-bound and 37 seconds for north-bound vehicles being the average. Truck drivers were asked to give, in addition to the information obtained in the case of passenger cars, capacity, driver's estimate of length and frequency of trip, kinds of loads carried, location of consignee and consignee. Roadside scales specially placed, took required weight data, and observers ascertained the speed of trucks.

Motorcycles and horse-drawn vehicles also were included in the census. The data thus obtained are being analyzed, and will be used, in connection with information obtained from experiments on impact of trucks and effect of impact on pavement, to design better roads.

GOOD ROADS ARE EXPENSIVE

Projects Costing an Aggregate of $7,693,778 Were Approved During Month of July.

Road projects in 18 states, totaling more than 265 miles and costing an aggregate of $7,693,778, or an average of over $29,000 per mile, were approved during July by the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, for federal aid, according to the bureau's publication, "Public Roads," just off the press. The total federal aid approved for these projects is placed at $3,023,152, the remainder of the cost being borne by the states.

All told, there were 53 such projects approved during the month. New York led with 20, Pennsylvania came second with seven, and Kentucky and South Carolina tied for third with five projects each. Four Texas projects were approved; New Mexico, Washington and Wisconsin had two each, and Arizona, Arkansas, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Virginia each had one project approved during the month.

Wide variation was shown in the character of materials to be used in building the approved roads, but concrete, bituminous macadam and gravel were the chief materials.

THE
CABINET

The winds rage and howl my cabin about,
With ghoulish glee they clamor and shout.
They roar down the chimney and shake the walls,
They try to appall me with shrieking calls.
But serene, in warmth and peace I hurt
Defiance to their deafening whirl.
To anchorage firm, my house and I
Pierce storms and threats forever defy.
For my house and I are types of thought
To which earth's shocks become as naught.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

An attractive variety of cookies may be made from one recipe, using different flavorings, animal shapes and letters, all kinds of dried fruits, nuts, and colored sugar if desired. The following is a good foundation recipe:

pe: Take one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of sugar, two eggs, one-quarter of a cupful of milk, two cupfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix and chill the batter well before rolling, adding any flavor or nuts and fruit which appeal to the taste.

The above mixture, flavored with rose and baked in a sheet, may be cut in fancy shapes, decorated with pluk frosting and pistachio nuts in the form of a rose, with green stem and leaves.

Spice Nuts.—To one cupful of sugar add two teaspoonfuls of butter and, when well mixed, add two well beaten eggs, one cupful of flour, one-quarter of a cupful of finely shredded citron, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-quarter of a cupful of almonds, one-quarter teaspoonful each of allspice and cloves. Mix in the usual order and add flour enough to make the balls the size of hickory nuts. Place on buttered tin in a layer and bake until a light brown. They may be dipped in chocolate or any fondant, if desired.

Coffee Caramels.—Put one pound of brown sugar into a saucepan; add one cupful of clear, strong coffee infusion, one-half cupful of cream and one tablespoonful of butter. Boil slowly until it will snap when tested in cold water. Pour into greased pans and mark off into squares as it cools.

PULLETS MAKE BEST LAYERS

Feeding Stimulants or Highly Concentrated Food Is Most Injurious Practice.

When pullets are forced to lay early, by stimulants or highly concentrated food, it is an injury, as it taxes their vitality. A pullet that is forced will lay very small eggs for a while, and when she ceases, in order to rest, she will not begin again as soon as an ordinary hen. She becomes prematurely old, and, on the average, does not prove as profitable as when she is given time to mature before beginning to lay.

GIVING YOUNG CALVES MILK

Care Should Be Taken That Temperature Is Uniform—When Paired in Quality, Give Less.

Care should be taken to see that any milk fed to the young calves is of uniform temperature of about 90 degrees Fahrenheit. Many feeders attempt to overcome poor quality in the feed by increasing the quantity. This is radically wrong. When on account of age, souring, dirt, etc., the quality of the milk is poor, the quantity should be reduced rather than increased.

In Honor of a Dance.

Our biggest spider is the Texas Tarantula; and unless one has especially looked the matter up, says the American Forestry Magazine, few there are that could guess how the spiders called tarantulas ever had had such a name bestowed upon them; least of all would it be suspected that the name was derived from a dance.

Purses, pocket books, shopping and hand bags, on the amount in excess of $5 each.

Portable lighting fixtures, including lamps of all kinds and lamp shades, on the amount in excess of $10 each.

Fans on the amount in excess of $1 each.

These taxes are imposed in lieu of the like taxes imposed by section 904 of existing law upon the retail selling price of such articles.

The bill exempts eyeglasses and spectacles from the 5 per cent retail selling price of articles made of, mounted or, fitted or ornamented with precious metals or imitations thereof.

The 5 per cent tax imposed upon the lease or license for exhibition of positive motion-picture films containing pictures ready for projection is repealed as of January 1, 1922.

The capital stock tax is retained.

The bill changes the system of insurance taxes. It repeals the premium taxes and the stamp taxes upon indemnity and surety bonds, and exempts insurance companies from the capital stock taxes and imposes a 15 per cent tax in lieu of all other taxes in the following manner:

In the case of life insurance companies, upon their investment income from interest, dividends, and rents.

In the case of insurance companies other than life and mutual, upon the net income of such companies from investment income and from underwriting income computed on the basis of the underwriting and investment exhibit of the annual statement approved by the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners.

In the case of mutual insurance companies other than life, upon the net income of such companies computed in the same manner as under existing law.

The following taxes imposed under existing law are retained:

The tax on telegraph and telephone messages.

The taxes on tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and snuff.

The admission and dues taxes.

The excise taxes on automobile trucks, and wagons, other automobiles, and motorcycles, and parts and accessories thereof, cameras, photographic films and plates (other than moving picture films), firearms, shells and cartridges, hunting and bowie knives, dirk knives, daggers, sword canes, stilettos, and brass or metallic knuckles, smoking articles, and automatic slot device vending machines and weighing machines.

The tax on jewelry and articles made of precious metal and imitation thereof.

The retention of the special taxes imposed upon brokers, pawn brokers, proprietors of theatres, museums, concert halls, proprietors of bowling alleys and billiard rooms, proprietors of shooting galleries, proprietors of riding academies, persons renting automobiles for hire, manufacturers of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, and on the use of boats.

The stamp taxes on bonds of indebtedness; capital stock issues; capital stock, sales or transfers; produce, sales of, on exchange drafts or checks (payable otherwise than at sight or demand); promissory notes, conveyances; entry goods at the customs house; entry for the withdrawal of goods from the customs house; passage tickets; proxies; powers of attorney; playing cards and foreign insurance policies.

The tax on the employment of child labor.

The so-called nuisance taxes, imposed under section 630 of the revenue Act of 1918 upon ice cream and other articles at soda fountains and by section 907 of the revenue Act of 1918 upon the retail selling price of perfumery, cosmetics, toothpaste, and patent medicines, are repealed.

The so-called luxury taxes imposed by section 904 of the Revenue Act of 1918, upon articles selling at retail in excess of fixed prices, is also repealed.

HINTS TO THOSE WHO ARE SUBJECT TO INCOME TAX

With the approach of the period for filing income tax returns, January 1st to March 15th, 1922, taxpayers are advised to lose no time in the compilation of their accounts for the year 1921. A new and important provision of the revenue act of 1921 is that every person whose gross income for 1921 was $5,000 or over shall file a return, regardless of the amount of net income which the tax is assessed. Returns are required of every single person whose net income was $1,000 or over, and every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $2,000 or over. Widows and widowers and persons separated or divorced from husband or wife, are regarded as single persons.

Net income is gross income, less certain deductions for business expenses, losses, taxes, etc. Gross income includes practically all income received by the taxpayer during the year; in the case of the wage earner, salaries, wages, bonuses and commissions; in the case of professional men, all amounts received for professional services; in the cases of farmers all profits from the sale of farm products, and rental or sale of land.

In the making of an income tax return for the year 1921, every taxpayer should present to himself the following questions:

What were your profits from your business, trade, profession or vocation?

Did you receive any interest on bank deposits?

Have you any property from which you receive rent?

Did you receive any income in the form of dividend or interest from stocks or bonds?

Did you receive any bonuses during the year?

Did you make any profit on the sale of stocks, bonds, or other property, real or personal?

erty, real or personal?

Did you act as a broker in any transactions?

Are you interested in any partnership or other firm from which you received any income?

Have you any income from royalties or patents?

Have you any minor children who are working?

Do you appropriate or have right to appropriate, the earnings of such children? If so, the amount of such must be included in the return of income.

Has your wife any income from any source whatsoever? If so, it must be included in your return or reported in a separate return of income.

Did you receive any director's fees or trustees' fees in the course of the year?

Do you hold any office in a benefit society from which you receive income?

Answers to all of these questions are necessary to determine whether a person has an income sufficiently large to require that a return be filed, and may be the means of avoiding the heavy penalties imposed for failing to do so within the time prescribed.

Monday Night of Each Month in I. O. O. F. Hall
at 8:00 p. m.
Visitors Always Welcome

Every World War soldier and especially the boys who got across should read "The Three Soldiers." It is a stinging indictment of the army and its management, but withal it will serve a good purpose in the future. The author, John Dos Passos, has done for the American private what Rudyard Kipling did for the British Tommy when he wrote: "For it's Tommy this, and Tommy that, an' 'Chuck him out, the brute!' But it's 'Savior of 'is country,' when the guns begin to shoot; Yea it's Tommy this, an' Tommy that, an' anything you please; But Tommy ain't a bloomin' fool—you bet that Tommy sees."

Will the people who are so loud in their demands for capital punishment in this state just study over these lines by Edgar A. Guest: Choking rabbi and priest mutter fear-stifled prayers To the great God of mercy above As the ominous footfalls are heard on the stairs, And ask him for mercy and love. Oh, mockery! Asking the Master to show Compassion when ye of the state Stand up and insist on a blow for a blow, And murder in legalized hate.

AT THE MOVIES

Betty Compson is coming. Betty Compson, now a star at the head of her own producing company, comes to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday in "Prisoners of Love," her first starring vehicle, which was taken from the story by Catherine Henry. You will recall Miss Compson's wonderful portrayal of the role of the girl in the George Loane Tucker production of "The Miracle Man." In "Prisoners of Love" you will readily discover that the scope of her dramatic power and understanding has widened considerably, and that greater things may be expected of her than when you marvelled at her compelling portrayal of "Miracle Maid."

Man Trackers coming to Palace Theatre tomorrow, Thursday. A trip through the Canadian woods with thrilling adventures at every turn of the road awaits playgoers at the Palace Theatre where "Man Trackers," Universal's vigorous screen drama of the north will be shown tomorrow, Thursday.

The high spots of "The Fighting Chance" are the following: It is a Robert W. Chambers story. It was directed by Charles Maigne, who did "The Firing Line" and "The Copperhead," and other notable photoplays.

The scenario was written by Will M. Ritchey, who did the photoplay versions of "The Sea Wolf" and "Everywoman."

The leading man is Conrad Nagel and the leading woman is Anna Q. Nilsson. Dorothy Davenport, Clarence Burton, Bertram Grassby and others appear in the cast, which is virtually all-star.

The production is elaborate with wonderful outdoor scenes. It is a beautiful love story with a wealth of romantic detail and delectable comedy.

It is a Paramount Artercraft picture of the finest type. It gives an inside view of the smart set life in Manhattan and Westchester county. It is the society drama of the year.

At the Palace Theatre next Wednesday.

THE LEGAL STATUS OF WOMEN

Subject to Be Discussed at W. C. T. U. Meeting

The next regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Baptist church.

At four o'clock Judge Correll will give an address on the "Legal Status of Women." This will certainly be worth hearing and every one who can should be present.

At 5:30 o'clock a hot supper will be served the members and their families and friends.

This is a Victory Supper. Come and enjoy a good supper and Rev. Rice will tell you how the supper received its name.

MEET AT CONGREGATIONAL PARLORS

Paper, Mrs. John McCann. "Relative Influence of Hereditary and Environment Upon Crime and Delinquency."

Paper, Mrs. George Holecbeck. "Alarming Increase of Inferior Stock over Superior."

Phelps Holiness Church Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Preaching at 11:00.

Prayer meetings on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 local time. You are cordially invited to attend.

L. W. Sturk, Pastor.

You watch your step. The rest of the world will watch your misstep.

MARRIED EARLY TUESDAY MORNING

Phillip Lemieur and Mrs. Mary Williams Quietly Wed

A quiet wedding took place Tuesday morning at St. Mary's church, when Phillip Lemieur and Mrs. Mary Williams were united in marriage at 7 o'clock, low mass, Rev. Father Wegemar officiating.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Lemieur home on Mason street, only the immediate members of the families being present. Mr. and Mrs. Lemieur will make their home in Charlevoix.

Friday and Saturday we will again give with each dollar purchase, a 25c bottle of Metcalf's fine hand lotion. Metcalf's Drug Store. 211pd

MERCER COMPANY NEXT NUMBER

Well Known Company Appears Here On Lyceum Program

Harry Yeazle Mercer, well known tenor, who appears here on the Lyceum course Thursday evening, January 19th, has endeared himself to his audiences everywhere by his adherence to songs in English.

The program of the Mercer company is announced to include a number of the favorite ballads that have been a factor in building up Mr. Mercer's genuine popularity with American audiences.

Associated with Mr. Mercer in the company are Gretchen Cox, violinist, and Fredda Hlatt, piano soloist and accompanist, both artists of distinction.

The Mercer company is announced by the local Lyceum committee to be one of the leading attractions of the season and of especial interest to the music lovers of the community.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Maddaugh's pupils, in the 6th grade, saved five dollars from their Christmas money and sent this amount to the United States Food Administration, to be used for the Russian Relief.

The plans for the high school annual were put in operation Monday with the appointment of the following staff: Business Manager Franklin Lewis, Editor in Chief Edward Shanahan, Associate Editor Eleanor Finucan, other staff members, Jean Swinton, Kay Gaskin, Albert Widfield, Richard Saltonstall. Faculty advisers, Miss Catton and Mr. Hatch.

Mrs. Irvine Hallett took charge of the kindergarten last Friday during the absence of Miss Harrington.

Miss Oliver has resumed her duties in the music department after a week's absence because of the mumps.

The English IV class has begun the construction of a miniature theatre, modeled after the theatre of Shakespeare's time. Lillis Flanders has special charge of the work.

Two essays are claiming the attention of Sophomores and Juniors. All members of these classes are taking part in one of the contests, both of which will close this week. The subject, "Concrete Roads for Charlevoix County," is being handled by all the high schools of the county, the contest having been arranged for by Mr. VanPelt. "Law Enforcement" is the subject for the contest managed by the local W. C. T. U.

First Church of Christ, Scientist Sunday service at 10:45 a. m. subject, "Life."

Sunday school at 12 o'clock.

Wednesday evening service at 7:45.

Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m. The public is cordially invited to visit our reading room and attend our church service.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Methodism is working a crusade of stewardship. This year will finish the work of Christ in appeals of progress. We will stress the stewardship of time, a holy Sabbath and a wholly Sabbath the year round; the stewardship of prayer, definite portions of time set apart to pray, the stewardship of service, young people consecrated to the work of the ministry, discourses and missionary and the stewardship of money, the tenth of one's income brought into the storehouse.

We are thankful for the large attendance at church and the interest manifested. Increased attendance in Sunday school and Epworth League are healthy signs. The spiritual need of one's life is the highest need and only God can supply it. "God's call to the lost man." Text: "A certain Samaritan as he journeyed came where that one was." The work of rescue means a righteous desire to do the will of God. Social service is only unsuccessful when not inspired of God.

Special Reductions —ON— LADIES' COATS

In order to close out the balance of Ladies Coats which we have in stock we will make SPECIAL PRICES.

M. A. Levinson & Co.

The Christmas task must be divinely appointed. It must be in the line of present duties. It must be performed without partiality and it must be a service of actual manifestation. Think on these things and come and hear the sermon.

The Sunday school lesson is entitled "Modern Evils and How to Fight Them."

This Sunday is known as Victory Day and commemorates the date of the states ratifying the Volstead amendment. The Sunday school lesson is well timed for we have still to fight modern evils.

It was splendid to see that fine bunch of young people in Epworth League last Sunday and more splendid to see them all remain for the evening worship. What a field of usefulness here! This is the church's greatest opportunity.

The theme of the evening is "Peace Through the Blood." The world will never have peace until men cease to war with God. Your consecration to Him will surely "beat your swords into plowshares and your spears into pruning hooks." Hear about it at the church Sunday night.

Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Pray for conviction of sin to come upon the people. Pray for those who said: "Pray for me."

Barnard services begin with Sunday school at 1 p. m. Frank Matchett is the efficient leader. At 2 o'clock the pastor will preach. Come out and take part in the school and hear the sermon.

The paying of tithes was recognized and honored by Jesus Christ when He said: "These ought ye to have done."

Remember February 6th. This is the date to mark on your calendar. "Albion College Glee Club." Watch for the window cards.

Monday next at 7:30 p. m. occurs our second quarterly conference. Dr. Slee of Traverse City will preside. Reports from all departments will be presented and all officers are urged to be present.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday 10:30 a. m., call to worship. Sermon by Mr. Long. Theme: "He saved others, himself he cannot save."

12 m. The church school with study classes for all ages, and a corps of earnest teachers and leaders. You are urged to share in this beneficial service.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meets for fellowship and devotion at 6 o'clock to which meeting all young people are invited.

At 7 o'clock there will be an hour given to congregational gospel singing aided by the young people's choir, interspersed with responsive readings followed by a 15-minute address by the pastor.

Mid-week meeting for Bible study prayer and fellowship Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational are planning a young peoples' Friendship banquet for next Tuesday evening.

The public is cordially invited.

NEW PALACE THEATRE

Especially Good Attractions For This Week

THURSDAY, JANUARY 12th—Garl Laemmle presents an all star cast with G. Larkin and Josephine Hill in a rousing story of two human men, one splendid woman, the great white wilderness, love, jealousy, red-courage. A crashing end, a great picture. "The Man Trackers." A story of the Northwest Mounted Police. Also a Rolin comedy "Gone To the Country."

NEXT SATURDAY AND SUNDAY—Goldwyn presents Betty Compson in her first starring production, "Prisoners of Love." You saw her in the Geo. Loane Tucker production of "The Miracle Man." Everybody marveled at her tremendous dramatic achievement. Mr. Tucker, who produced "The Miracle Man" has made the written assertion that in "Prisoners of Love" Miss Compson has fairly outshone her work in his "Miracle Man." Also Pathe presents Harold Lloyd in a three-reel laughter special comedy, "Now or Never." Laugh for laugh, reel for reel, there is more joy in "Now or Never" than any comedy that we have ever shown.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18th—Paramount Artcraft presents Robert W. Chambers greatest novel, "The Fighting Chance." A high life romance of New York's World of Pleasure set in the lap of luxury. Brilliant with fashion and beautiful women, with Anna Q. Nilsson, Conrad Nagel and Dorothy Davenport. See the sensational under-water kiss. Also the 15 Chapter of "The King of the Circus."

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Send Him to County Jail

Ingham county authorities have decided that husbands and fathers who will not work shall be committed to the Detroit House of Correction. Ordinarily, refusal to accept remunerative employment when it is offered is looked upon as a personal peculiarity, mildly amusing and possibly admirable in a degree, since it is what the rest of us would be tempted to do at times if we had the nerve, and so, even though the family of the slothful ones has to be supported on public funds, the worst we do to him is the thing that pleases him best—send him to the county jail, where certain of provisions, he can loaf at his ease. This winter there will be quite enough drain on the funds of public charity for the support of those who have no supporter. For supporters who will not support the House of Correction is about the right idea.—Detroit News.

Find Evidence of Deer Violations

Game wardens in the northern districts report the finding of evidence of deer being trapped, snared and otherwise taken in defiance of the law.

On almost every trip into sections where deer are found they come across traps or dead-falls. Several kinds of contrivances are used. Some of the snares are made of tangled wire, placed on deer runways and arranged so that when animals step into them their legs are caught in wire nooses, which tighten when the deer try to free themselves. Some snares are set by placing a rope or wire noose on the runway and tying the end of it to a small tree or sapling which is bent to the ground with a trap arrangement so that the tree springs back when the noose is pulled, leaving the deer caught in the noose and tied to the tree.

Several cleverly arranged dead-falls have been found. In some of them hay scythes were placed so that the deer's body would land on the blades.

May Return His "Five"

Alvin Bennett, Traverse City farmer, reports having been held up and robbed by three men, recently, while on his way to his farm from Traverse City. He told Cadillac police the men took only $5 from his purse, took down his name and address. Mr. Bennett does not know whether they robbers plan to come back for the remainder of his money or plan to some day return his "five".

How To Meet Present Crisis

Specialists from M. A. C. are instructing the farmers that the way to meet the present crisis—when they got such low prices for their products—is to lower the cost of production. Pay less for their clothes, for example, and less for machinery, and building materials and hired help. This is so simple that we can only wonder that the farmers haven't thought of it themselves.

Truth Told for Once

Copper country sportsmen indignantly deny the assertion that half the population of the upper peninsula hunt throughout the year in defiance of the deer law. Obviously many of them could hunt 20 days at least in accordance with the law.

Petoskey Men Buy At Lansing

John L. A. Galster and Henry Galster, of Petoskey, and J. B. Huyck, of Detroit, have just purchased the W. H. Brown insurance agency at Lansing, and have organized the Galster-Huyck Insurance Agency. John L. A. Galster, mayor of Petoskey, will be president; Henry Galster, secretary, and J. B. Huyck, treasurer, vice-president and general manager. Mr. Huyck, who lives in Detroit, will move to Lansing.

Postmasters Will Attend School

Beginning with the new year under orders issued by Postmaster General Hays, newly appointed postmasters will be required to attend school, where they will be taught among other things how to meet the public, their places in the community, how through publicity to educate the public in the use of the mails, how to handle complaints, guard the mails and maintain proper relationship with the department.

Central accounting postoffices will be designated in each state as schools for the instruction of postmasters of the second and third class.

No More Partridge Hunting

John B. Olney, the traveling salesman for the American Type Founders Co., whom every printer admires, was recently relating his experience while hunting partridges a few weeks ago. He had just bagged two birds and broken the wing of a third one and his dog had ruffled up the bird's feathers and was standing near it, when Mr. Olney approached. The bird looked at the dog and then at Mr. Olney, then ran to him for protection. This act touched his big heart. He picked the bird up and put it out of its misery and concluded that he had hunted birds long enough.

Plan Large Extensions

The Chamber of Commerce of Cadillac predicts that before midsummer there will be more men employed in Cadillac than at any previous time. This prediction is based on a review of the industrial plants of the city and contemplated extensions and improvements. Both railroads have promised new freight depots there and a large sewage disposal plant is to be erected. The new malleable iron foundry is being pushed ahead rapidly, and other building is promised.

Thankful for Something

Jimmy had long wanted a brother, so when twins, a boy and a girl, arrived at his home and he was told a baby sister and brother had come, he heaved a deep sigh and said "Gee, I'm glad it wasn't all sister."

Keep a Scrapbook

The habit of reading with a pair of scissors close at hand is an invaluable one to the busy housewife. So often there are recipes, household hints and other odd bits of information that would prove useful, but we have lost account of what or where they are. In every kitchen there should be a scrapbook for such items as these and the more methodically they are arranged the more useful they will be.

Few Gas Blowers Now

A great many glass articles and particularly the finer grade commodities are blown by hand. In the past the glass blower was an essential and an indispensable employee in the glass plant, but today he has lost a great deal of his importance. The lung power of the blower is being replaced more and more by compressed air in the glass-blowing machine.

Art Note

X-ray examinations show that a lot of the supposed works of old masters are fakes. We might add that a majority of the real works of the old masters are fakes, also.

H. S. WINS A DOUBLE HEADER

BOTH BOYS' AND GIRLS' TEAMS DEFEAT OPPONENTS

Home Teams to Meet Elk Rapids Boys' and Girls' Teams at Local Gym Jan. 13th

The Ellsworth high school basketball team went to Alden Friday and played their second games of the season.

The girls' game was called at 7:30 and a lively time ensued. The score at the end of the first half was 10 to 4 in favor of Ellsworth and at the end of the last half 14 to 6 in favor of Ellsworth. Supt. Cooper of Alden refereed the girls' game and Miss Smith of Ellsworth umpired. There was no fault whatever to be found with the referee.

The line-up follows:

Ellsworth: Evelyn Ruis, Gladys Hawley, Emily Johnstone, F. B. Comstock, Jane Groenink, J. C. Moore, Sarah Klooster, S. C. F. Hawley, Pearl Johnstone, G. M. Best, Cornelia Elzinga, G. C. Leonard. Fouls made on Ellsworth, Jane Groenink, 1; Sarah Klooster, 1; Cornelia Elzinga, 4; Pearl Johnstone, 2; On Alden, 1; Moore, 2; M. Best, 2; C. Leonard, 2. All of these fouls were technical. Points made by Ellsworth, Evelyn Ruis 2 field baskets; Emily Johnstone, 3 field baskets and 4 free throws. By Alden, G. Hawley, 1 field basket; B. Comstock, 1 field basket and 2 free throws.

The boys game followed with the score 9 to 3 in favor of Ellsworth the first half and 19 to 8 in favor of Ellsworth at the end of the game.

Fred Angell of Alden refereed the boys' game and was certainly a fine referee as he gave them a good square deal to both teams. Any team playing at Alden will be sure of a square deal if he referees their game.

The line-up follows:

Ellsworth: H. Elzinga, R. F. A. Hawley, D. Yettaw, L. F. Perkins, H. Griffin, C. Keller, J. Chelles, R. G. K. Comstock, J. Peebles, L. G. Best. Ellsworth substituted Beuker for Griffin for a few minutes. Alden substituted Aidsbaugh for Hawley and then Hawley for Perkins and R. Comstock for Best.

Fouls made on Ellsworth: Griffin, 1 personal; Chelles, 1 personal; and Peebles 1 technical.

Fouls on Alden: Perkins 1 technical; Keller, 3 personals, K. Comstock, 1 technical; and Best, 1 personal.

Points made by Ellsworth: Elzinga 1 field basket, 3 free throws, total 5 points. Yettaw 4 field baskets, total 8 points. Griffin 2 field baskets, total 4 points. Peebles 1 field basket, total 2 points.

Points made by Alden: Aidsbaugh, 2 field baskets, total 4 points. Perkins 1 field basket, 2 free throws, total 4 points.

Much of the success of the Ellsworth boys was due to the defense put up by the guards who prevented the Alden forwards getting possession of the ball.

"We can say, however, that it is a pleasure to play at Alden as both the boys' and girls' teams are good teams and we were treated nicely. Don't forget the game next Friday night."

day night January 13th, at the high school gymnasium. When Ellsworth meets the Elk Rapids boys' and girls' teams. As the expenses are very large to bring two visiting teams we have found it necessary to charge 20c and 30c admission. This is for both games though and only makes it 10c and 15c per game. And it is only an increase of 5c over the old price. We found as we were running behind it was necessary to do this.

LOCALS LOSE A HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

Bellaire Ballists Defeat Home Team by Score of 13 to 12

The Ellsworth Independent basketball team lost a hard fought battle on the local floor last Friday night when the Bellaire team won a 13-12 verdict. The Ellsworth team although out-weighted were neither outplayed nor out-fought, each team scoring six field baskets, and the fact that Ellsworth missed both of their chances on free throws while Holden of the visitors rang the bell on the only chance given Bellaire on a foul was the reason for the result. The Ellsworth bunch are developing into a fast playing machine and with a little more accuracy on throwing from the foul line will rank with the best in this part of the country. Their defense can hardly be improved and although there still exists a trifle too much tendency towards individual play which in itself is detrimental to the success of the team, it is being rapidly eliminated and the five are gradually beginning to work as one.

The next game will probably be played with East Jordan at East Jordan some time this week and games are being arranged with Alden, Elk Rapids and Mancelona. Watch the Courier for announcements of games, both independent and high school and then turn out and boost for your town.

It may be said here that the gymnasium built in the Ellsworth school at a cost of between four and five hundred dollars is being paid for exclusively by the proceeds of these games a fact which should more than all others cause the residents of Ellsworth and vicinity to turn out and help the boys and girls, not only to win their games but also to raise the necessary money to reimburse those who willingly advanced the necessary money to complete the gymnasium.

The Ellsworth high school teams meet Elk Rapids here on Friday night of this week in both girls' and boys' games. Don't miss it!

JANUARY 18th IS THE NEXT SHOOT

Hour at Traps to Be Followed by Meeting and Lunch

Wednesday afternoon, January 18th, is the date of the next shoot by the Ellsworth Gun Club and all members are urged to be present. A general business meeting will be held in the evening followed by initiation of new members and a light lunch.

The Ellsworth Rod and Gun Club although something new here is similar to organizations being formed in all parts of this and other states, as the people begin to realize that only by organization can game and fish be preserved for the coming generation. Religious or political beliefs have no bearing on membership, the object being to promote bait casting, trap shooting, good fellowship, and the same protection of fish and game.

The membership is open to any person over sixteen years of age who is in sympathy with the idea of protection of birds, fish and animals and the small membership fee of $1.50 per year is surely within the reach of all.

Visitors are welcome at the club grounds at any regular meet and will be shown every courtesy by members of the organization. Dr. B. J. Beuker is president of the club and he as well as any member will be glad at any time to receive applications for membership and to explain the intent and object of the club. Communication by mail should be addressed to Secretary Ellsworth Rod and Gun Club, Ellsworth, Mich.

Light Affects Wood.

There is a figure which may be brought out prominently in certain kinds of woods, mostly those of tropical origin, says the American Forestry Magazine. This is variously known as roe, ribbon grain, feather grain, etc., and appears as narrow to broad longitudinal stripes, alternating light and dark. This is due, not to actual differences in color, but to the way in which the light is reflected by the different layers.

Motion Pictures.

The first motion picture machine was patented in 1897, but nothing practical resulted from it until 1898, when the cinematograph was produced by Lumier. This was the first machine to project on a screen a picture from a film. Edison improved on the idea in 1898 when he produced the Kinetograph. These machines provided the models for the improved types in use today.

Mercerized Goods.

Mercerized cotton is obtained by subjecting a cotton yarn or cloth under tension to a bath of strong caustic soda. The fiber gains in strength and loses its twist, becoming highly lustrous. It takes the dye more easily than ordinary cotton, and the colors produced are better and more permanent. The process of mercerization increases the cost of manufacture, but produces a beautiful, lustrous and more durable fabric, which is often used as a substitute for linen or silk.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHARLEVOIX

ially on the zoning or division of the town into districts. In the case of Charlevoix this phase of city planning seems to me to offer special advantages because it would make available the opinions and ideas of both the townspeople and the summer residents. Moreover, with definite plans to visualize the best ideas for Charlevoix's orderly, economical development, I feel sure that, as the improvement projects came up for construction, the summer people who are interested in the best progress for Charlevoix would encourage and very likely help financially in the accomplishment of definite improvements. As it is now men would like to help by contributing to the improvement funds, have no definite projects to help with except haphazard and sometimes uneconomical schemes which are all that the city can propose so long as they most get along as best they can without comprehensive plans for the future. The first opportunity for such assistance may be in giving encouragement to the planning itself.

The future of Charlevoix, then depends, I believe, upon comprehensive planning for its growth and beautification. But the present life of the city is dependent on the immediate solution of several very urgent problems. A pure water supply, for example, is of vital importance to a successful season this very year. Everyone is interested in this question but there seems to be a great deal of confusion about it. There is apt to be some objection to chlorination, the process of purification now in use here but when people find that most of the important towns in America now use chlorinated water and that only about one two-thousandth part of an ounce of chlorine is used in a gallon of water to insure the necessary purification, the objections become less emphatic or disappear altogether. Nevertheless, Charlevoix wants a supply that is pure without chlorination, even if a negligible amount of chlorine is used as emergency protection. To secure such a supply a thorough engineering investigation would be fully justified. Records of the comparative water level in the well and in the river should be taken, the relation between the draft on the well and the analysis findings should be determined, a chemical test of the ground-water flow at the well and several other tests and calculations should be made to decide the questions now in doubt. Then plans should be made for improvements. In the meantime I think Charlevoix is to be congratulated on its vigorous steps to insure an absolutely safe treated water, and especially on the installation of a laboratory to control the purity of the water every day. But the fundamental problem of securing an uncontaminated source of supply remains to be solved as soon as possible.

The problem of sewage disposal also looms in the foreground here in Charlevoix. Bathing beaches must be protected, nuisances eliminated, and extensions to the sewer system built as the city grows. The problem of the best plan for a complete sewer system and for the safe disposal of the sewage is important and urgent. A related problem is that of protecting fish life from injury. Tannery waste, for example, in large enough quantities, will drive the fish out of rivers or lakes. The questions of whether this is actually being done and of how to prevent it may be readily decided by competent engineering investigation.

Likewise traffic control, especially on Bridge street, the development of parks, the extension of the town along Lake Michigan and around Pine Lake, the platting for economy and attractiveness of the new areas added to the city, the elimination of poles from the streets, above all the improvement of the city's financial standing, perhaps by taking the bond issues for self-supporting utilities out from under the state limitation, and many other questions are current at this moment.

Many of these questions can be taken up individually, and because they are so urgent, the water supply problem especially and perhaps the sewage disposal question also, might well be taken up immediately, since the very life of the town depends on them. But the eventual solution of all these inter-related problems can be best accomplished by comprehensive planning right now for the future of the city as a whole. For this city-planning enterprise the civic ambition and the faith in Charlevoix are already here. Recent state laws help by granting new powers to municipalities for this very work. The money will be forthcoming if the development into which the money is going has been planned for the best that can be made of Charlevoix.

In the matter of financing civic development I should like to make a special point. The planning work itself costs comparatively little. But to execute the plans may cost a great deal. However, in carrying out expensive projects the cities where good planning has been done find the larger tax income resulting from increased property values, where improvements have been made, help to pay the costs. Likewise the special assessment method, well known in Charlevoix, and the method of excess condemnation, utilized in the North Michigan avenue extension in Chicago, will assist in finance projects where they are properly applied. But in any case the great economic value of municipal development planning is that the city improvements, as they are carried out, step by step, a little at a time, may be completed in every case in accordance with the comprehensive plan. In this way sewers that are too small, or too high in the ground, useless duplication in water works or power equipment, to site examples common in other towns and needless list of replacements and wasteful expenditures may be avoided. In this way the funds which are available will go much farther than in the old planless way, and the new funds will become available in the process of orderly growth and from the loyalty and assistance inspired by it. The progress of the town toward its goal will be faster and cheaper than would otherwise be possible.

With the natural convenience, beauty and picturesqueness of the site preserved, the residence sections already far above the average, improved under the protection of zoning and by stimulus of an ideal future, new sections planned on economical but artistic lines, with curving shady streets, commercial development in selected places and parks and drives along the lake shores, for example a park between Bridge street and Round Lake, Bridge street improved by more uniform architecture, adequate water works, and sewage disposal system, and numerous lesser improvements, Charlevoix may become, by following a comprehensive Charlevoix Plan, one of the most prosperous and at the same time the most beautiful resort of its kind in America.

ROAD WORK FOR 1922 PLANNED

Emmet County to Spend $52,000 on Her Highways

Robert Tripp, county road engineer, recently made a trip to the district office at Cadillac of the state road department, reports that Emmet county will spend about $52,000 this year in road maintenance work. Of this sum the state will pay 65 per cent and the county 35 per cent.

On the mainline construction work the state will pay 82 1-2 per cent and the county will pay 17 1-2 per cent. The total amount to be spent for highway construction has not yet been decided upon.

It is believed the contracts for the construction of the paved way from the Menominee Beach curve on the Petoskey-Harbor Springs road to the village of Harbor Springs will be let some time next month, and that the work on this road will be undertaken early next spring as weather conditions will allow.—Petoskey Evening News.

BUSY RECORDING MONSTER MORTGAGE

Register of Deeds MacDonald Has a Big Job On His Hands

A ten year, eight per cent, gold bond mortgage of four million dollars, covering 156 pages, for the Charcoal Iron company of America, is being recorded at the office of the Charlevoix county register of deeds this week and in other counties.

M. A. MacDonald of this office, says the mortgage is the largest ever recorded in Charlevoix county, a tax of $20,000 having been paid before recording took place.

Card party and box social will be given at the home of Mrs. R. C. Korth, 801 State street, Friday evening, January 13th. Everybody welcome. 211

CHARLEVOIX LOSER IN SPEEDY CONTEST

Defeated Last Wednesday by Petoskey Legion Team

The Charlevoix Independent basketball team was defeated by the Petoskey American Legion team at Petoskey last Wednesday evening in a hard fought game, the score being 27 to 15.

The first half started with a rush and was hotly contested, neither team being able to locate the hoop until after five minutes of play. Petoskey's best scoring was in the final minute of play when 12 points were counted.

"Fish" Halverson was the point-maker for Charlevoix. He caged four baskets of the long shot kind. Tallies were made by Westfall, Krulik and Hallett. Durance, guard was one of Charlevoix's strongest players.

FIRE DESTROYS WHITELY HOME

Family Left Almost Destitute and Need Assistance

The fire department was called out Wednesday forenoon to the Ray Whitely home, known as the Bush property south of the stone foundation on the Lake Shore Drive, by a small blaze which had caught in the roof from a defective chimney. The fire engine had some trouble in reaching the place, becoming stuck in the snow at the top of the Antrim street grade, so that the building was nearly destroyed when the department arrived. They could have done very little however, as the building was outside of the city limits and beyond the city's water supply.

A little furniture was saved and very little clothing. Mr. Whitely is out of work and there are three small children, Rachel aged 5 years, Jimmie 4, and a small baby.

The family had been living in the old George Lamphear house on Antrim street, but this house was sold last fall and they were forced to move into the Bush property as it was the only house available at this time.

At the present time members of the family are being cared for by friends, and are greatly in need of immediate assistance. Articles of clothing for children, mother and father, furniture, foodstuffs of all kinds. The family are worthy of all assistance that can be given them and the case calls for immediate action on the part of our citizens.

People wishing to donate to their assistance can do so direct or call any member of the Committee of Nine, who will look after the matter. Do this at once.

The Lady Maccabees will hold a baked goods sale and serve hot lunches at the Charlevoix Hardware Co.'s store on Saturday, January 21. 211

FISH DISHES

As canned fish is available in any market, these dishes are seasonable at any time. Salt codfish is in the market, put up in boxes and a most satisfying dish of this is easy to prepare.

Salt Cod on Casserole.—Wash and soak one pound of salt codfish in water to cover for several hours. Drain and flake in small pieces. Cover with boiling water and simmer before flaking. Melt three tablespoonsful of butter, add one small onion cut in slices and cook slowly for five minutes. Add the fish which has simmered ten minutes, one cupful of boiled rice and two cupfuls of canned tomatoes. Pour into a casserole, cook for thirty minutes. Season well before serving.

Fish Cutlets.—Melt three tablespoonsful of butter, add one-half tablespoonful of finely chopped onion and two tablespoonsful of chopped pineapple. Cook slowly for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add one-third of a cupful of flour and when well mixed stir in one-half cupful of milk and the same amount of cream or condensed milk. Cook until smooth and thick, add two ruffs of flaked fish, salt and paprika to taste. Shape into small cutlets, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Drain on soft paper and serve with a good sauce.

Molded Fish Salad.—Flake one-half pound of tuna fish or salmon. Mix with one cupful of diced celery, one tablespoonful of chopped green pepper, two tablespoonsful of chopped olives and three-fourths of a cupful of salad dressing. Add two tablespoonsful of vinegar and season with salt and pepper. Soak two tablespoonsful of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water for five minutes, dissolve by placing over hot water, then stir into the mixture of fish. Turn into small molds rinsed with cold water and set away to chill. Serve on lettuce or water cress and garnish with celery, strips of green pepper or parsley.

Not Mountain Animal. Antelope is purely an animal of the plains and open, rolling country never being found in the timber, much less in the mountains. Says the American Forestry Magazine. We have no history of its ever having been found east of the Mississippi river, and we possess no evidence of this kind through the discovery of fossil or sub-fossil remains in this region, nor in Indian monuments and tradition.

Circulation counts—we have it.

Made Right—Laid Right

Your shingle roof is a constant drain on your purse. Leaks are frequent and repairs always necessary. The Art Craft Roof Material is absolutely guaranteed. Is fire-resisting and far more beautiful than any shingled roof, and costs only one half as much.

Art Craft Roof

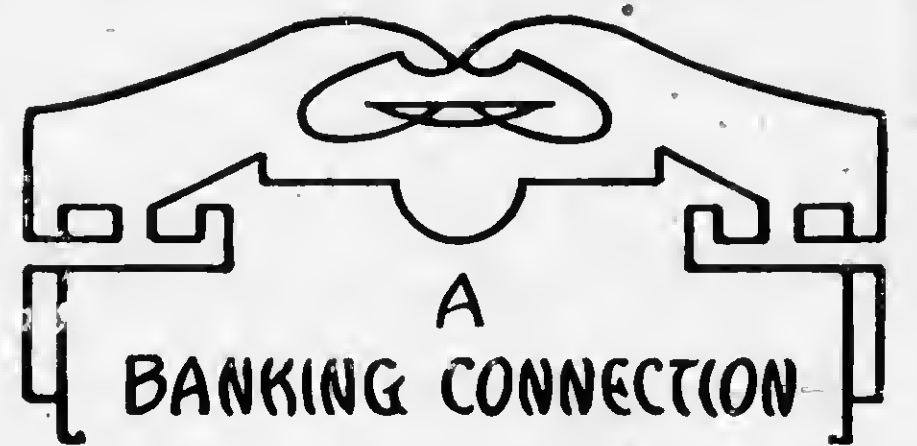

Red—Green

Do not tear off the old shingle roof. Have an Art Craft Roof applied right over the shingles. This gives you a dust-proof attic, a much warmer house in the winter and cooler in the summer.

We will tell you the exact cost of an Art Craft Roof for your home or other buildings, including the necessary labor of application. Careful, conscientious workmanship.
